It may be remembered that once on a time Mrs. Upton issued some statements far from friendly or faltering to the lady from Oklahoma. Whereupon Miss Alice wrote Mrs. Upton and asked if she had been correctly quoted in the supposed interview, "Did you say I am not qualified to represent the women of the country and that you do approve my achievements in congress?" queried Miss Alice. To which Mrs. Upton promptly replied, "I did say you do not represent the women of the country but I did not say I disapproved your achievements in congress because you have achieved nothing so there is nothing of that sort to disapprove." There the correspondence ended.

The United States civil service commission and the national vigilance committee of the associated advertising clubs of the world have issued a joint warning against misleading advertising of many so-called coaching schools.

Hundreds of persons of limited means are enrolled each year in so-called civil service schools, it is pointed out and the impression is given them that they will receive lucrative positions in the government service upon the completion of a course, the success of which is guaranteed. The commission receives numerous letters from disappointed "students" who demand of the commission the return of money paid for "tuition." The following points are emphasized in the interest of the public.

(1) No "school of this kind has any connection whatever with the civil service commission or with any other branch of the government.

(2) No school can give advance information regarding examination questions.

(3) No school can furnish civil-service information of value which can not be obtained without cost from the civil service commission at Washington or its representative at the post office or custom house in any of approximately 3,500 cities.

(4) No school can "guarantee" appointment in the classified service. Appointment can be secured only through open competitive examination under the civil service rules. No school can cause a competitor to be certified for appointment out of the regular order, as determined by his examination rating.

Summing up the convention at Cleveland and commenting on the clergy representing various and wide apart religious organizations who opened the four days sessions some one here remarked "The Christian Scientists asked for two minutes silent prayer—and immediately produced Hell and Maria Dawes", as the vice presidential candidate.

ARE YOU DISCOURAGED?
Masaryk Condemned to Death

Thomas Garrique Masaryk, the poor peasant boy in an oppressed province of Austria-Hungary, had the seemingly hopeless ambition to be a school master. When he had climbed the long road to that position, he longed to free his country, suffered many persecutions and was condemned to death.

Born in Moravia in 1850, he had but two years' schooling, when, at 14, he apprenticed himself to a locksmith in Vienna to earn bed and board while studying. A task of countless repetitions at a single machine was maddening, and he ran away. Back home he was in disgrace, and was glad to accept the village blacksmith's old offer of a job.

Chided by a school master, who asked him what had become of his ambition to be a teacher, he welcomed the chance to attend a school conducted by the instructor's father and to work for his tuition.

At the University of Vienna and later at Leipsic he was a brilliant scholar. Becoming a professor at Prague, he defended a Jew accused of "ritual murder," and was snubbed by his students, who tried to silence him. Persisting, he freed the prisoner and was subjected to petty persecution.

When 41 he was elected to the Austrian parliament, became an author and founded monthly, weekly and daily publications. Chosen to parliament again in 1907, he kept up his fight for his enslaved people. His fame became continental, then international. Always loyal to truth, he brought down on himself a storm of scorn and fury by proving certain papers reversed an ancient Bohemian historical documents to be forgeries. His university lectures in the United States attracted much attention.

At the outbreak of the World War he was imprisoned by the Vienna government, but escaped, made his way to the United States and engaged in active propaganda for the Allies. Austria-Hungary condemned him to death and imprisoned his daughter. After the war his influence at the peace conference brought Czechoslovakia into being, and he was made its first president.

WINNING HER HEART BY MAIL

"Miss Bennett, I am leaving tomorrow on a vacation."

Miss Bennett looked up from her typewriter to meet the eyes of her employer.

"Going to Winston Bluff as usual?" she asked.

"Winston Bluff," he echoed. "And I wonder if you'd be so good as to drop me a line every other day, letting me know how things are coming on."

As soon as she expressed a readiness to keep him informed he walked out of the room and she could hear him talking on the extension 'phone. It has to do with a reservation for the trip to—Miss Bennett suddenly went cold. Certainly Mr. Everett was not going to Winston Bluff by way of Appleton.

It was none of her business whether her employer spent a vacation at one place or the other, but he had said distinctly he was going to Winston Bluff. Suddenly Miss Bennett recalled some letters that had come recently from Appleton. That was where this Miss Westland lived. Mr. Everett had never said so, but it had been implied by some of the members of the office force that Billie Everett was engaged to a very rich girl in Appleton.

The mailing of a small registered package to Miss Westland of Appleton had been the duty of Miss Bennett some weeks ago and she had had a distinctly unpleasant feeling at the time that the package contained a ring.

Just before leaving, Everett came down to the office. His step was lagging and his brow was puzzled.

"Goodbye, Miss Bennett. I'm going to miss you. May not be gone long."

"Did you say write to Winston Bluff?" asked the girl with less vim than was customary.

"Y-es. I'll arrive there in a few days."

He shook hands and hoped she would not work too hard and again seemed on the verge of saying something further.

The next day Miss Bennett wrote a businesslike letter and ended, 'Everything is fine here. We all hope you will have a pleasant vacation. Very truly, yours"——

The answer that came was very disconcerting to the peace of mind of a girl who had come to look upon a man as her ideal. The letter was not from Billy Everett but it was from Miss Westland, who was evidently at his country home with him.

"My dear Miss Bennett: Mr. Everett wishes me to thank you for keeping him informed in regard to the office. He is quite ill—nothing serious, I hope, but any illness is greatly to be lamented in this out-of-the-way spot. The servants have gone on strike and I am housekeeper, cook and nurse. A doctor came out from the city last night and gave him something for the fever, so I hope we will pull through with no further difficulty. Please continue to write as news of the office is imperative to Mr. Everett's peace of mind. Sincerely, Naida Westland."

Miss Bennett continued to write every other day for a week and then something happened that caused her to stop in the middle of a letter. Nick, the office boy, came bounding in with a newspaper in his hand.

"Look!" he cried, "the boss got the air with that rich dame in Appleton. Listen: This is what it says: "Appleton society has been rather startled by the sudden change of plans that made Miss Aline Crosby, the bride of Nelson Durr. Miss Crosby's engagement to William Everett of Chicago, was broken less than a week ago."

"But—who is Miss Westland?" gasped Alice Bennett.

"Search me."

Miss Bennett returned to her typewriter. She trusted, in the crispest language and the blackest of type, that Mr. Everett was better. Everything was in shipshape and she was very truly"——

The answer came back: "Dear Miss Bennett: I was engaged to Miss Crosby as you have heard, but certainly I can't be expected to feel any deep grief over losing what was never mine. This fever made me restless and I was walking up the avenue in Appleton two hours after I left Miss Crosby, and I distinctly saw with my own eyes a scene between the lady and Mr. Durr. I am quite relieved by the turn of affairs. Can't you sign a letter in any other way than 'Yours very truly?'" and it was signed with his initials.

It was easily enough understood. Mr. Everett was in love with Naida Westland and was probably satisfied with the breaking of his engagement.

Miss Bennett wrote: "Your explanations should be made to the person interested. The office is doing as nicely as can be expected. Very truly yours"——

Billy Everett wrote again. "Dear Miss Bennett: How can a girl get so dumb in twenty-four hours. Miss Westland just celebrated her sixty-first birthday. Incidentally, she is my aunt. She has nursed me through a sickness that might have been very serious. You don't seem to realize that you are a very adorable girl and that I have been in love with you for more than six months. If you sign another one 'Yours very truly' I shall hold you for breach of promise. I love you. Wire me if there is anything requiring my attention."

The wire that went back read: "A little thing in the office, with auburn hair and brown eyes, needs your personal attention. Yours very truly, Alice."—Ottawa Citizen.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

General Jan Christian Smuts, prime minister of the South African Union and central figure in the general elections to be held in that country today, rank among the foremost statesmen of the British Empire. In the South African war he fought against the British, rising to the supreme command of the Boer forces in Cape Colony. After the conclusion of peace he played an equally important part in the work of reconstruction and later rendered most valuable services to the Empire, first as Gen. Botha's able second in command in the campaign in German Southwest Africa, and later as one of the ablest members of the Imperial War Cabinet in London. In the present political campaign he is opposed by the Nationalist party and other factions which desire a republic. General Smuts is a native of Cape Colony. He was educated at Victoria College, Stellenbosch, and later went to England, where he greatly distinguished himself at Cambridge university.

Mrs. Bradford Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Phoebus, Virginia.—"Having this opportunity I just cannot refrain from saying a word of praise for the Lydia E. Pinkham medicines. I have used them as occasion required for twenty years, and my three sisters have also used them, and always with the most gratifying results. During the Change of Life I had the usual distressing symptoms,—hot flashes, insomnia, etc.,—and I am pleased to testify to the wonderful results I obtained from the Vegetable Compound. I heartily recommend it to any woman and I will be pleased to answer any inquiries that might be sent to me through the publication of my testimonial."—Mrs. H. L. BRADFORD, 109 Armstead St., Phoebus, Va.

Consider carefully Mrs. Bradford's letter. Her experience ought to help you. She mentions the trials of middle age and the wonderful results she obtained from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Finds Kellogg's Bran "Easy way to avoid constipation" after suffering for years

Constipation is a dangerous disease. It can lead to many others. Twenty years' suffering with constipation undermined this man's health. Kellogg's Bran restored it—as it has done for thousands. This is what he says:

"Gentlemen:

After eating Kellogg's Bran twice a day for one month I find it not only an 'Easy Way to Avoid Constipation,' but an easy and most pleasant way to cure it. I have been troubled with constipation . . . for more than twenty years . . . after adopting the milk and bran diet I find my stomach greatly improved, and find it a specific for constipation. . . . I deem it only justice that you should know what your product has done for me, and what it is capable of doing for others."

Kellogg's Bran relieves mild and chronic constipation because it is ALL bran. It brings sure results. It sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine in nature's own way. Don't experiment. Only ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is guaranteed to bring permanent relief—or your grocer returns your money. You should eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

The flavor is delicious—nut-like—cooked and krumbled. Enjoy it with milk or cream, sprinkled on other cereals, cooked with hot cereals, or in the delightful recipes on every package. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by grocers everywhere.

Love and Time

Across the gardens of Life they go.
A strange, ill-mated pair;
By paths where naught but blossoms blow,
By paths neglected where gaunt weeds grow,
But hand in hand, through joy, through care,
Across the gardens of Life they go.

The one is old, and grim, and gray;
His eyes stare off, like one in dreams;
Across his breast his white locks stray;
The sands in his glass fall day by day;
Over his shoulder his scythe-blade gleams—
And he is old, and grim, and gray.

And one is young, and bright and fair;
The golden curls about his head
Shine as a halo; his red lips dare
The birds in song; he knows no care,
Joy in his heart is never dead—
He lives to love and his is fair.

Hoar-headed Time was never young.
And Love on earth can not grow old;
And yet since first to that hand clung—
Since first his tender song he sung,
Since first his love-tale had its told.
And to a dart his bow had strung—

Together, through ways of joy, of woe,
Though one is old and one is fair,
By paths where naught but blossoms blow,
By paths neglected where gaunt weeds grow,
Together, a strange, ill-mated pair,
Across the gardens of Life they go.
—Beatrice Demarest Lloyd in Indianapolis News.

An Old Man's Song

Why do ye haunt mine eyes,
Ye amber gleams from youth's far skies
And days that laugh no more—
Why come in dreams your olden light
Lovelier as it find the night
On youth's far, golden shore?

Your loss I still lament,
Ye faded flowers; for your sweet scent,
Long vanished, yet I yearn;
Why kiss, ye lovely wraiths, mine eyes
In slumber? Vain my waking sighs;
Ye never can return.

Why will mine ears recall
How sang the wind in old trees—all
I loved—and could not keep?
Alas, when Life is nearly told,
By memory, or in dreams are doled
The joys we wake to weep.
—Samuel Minturn Peck in Boston Transcript.

REPORT $708.91 IN FIRST DAY OF SALVATION ARMY APPEAL

The Salvation Army appeal for $5,000 for its annual budget went off to a good start Monday when a total of $708.91 raised on the first day was made at the meeting following a supper at 6.15 o'clock at the Central Baptist church. The workers on the teams will continue the campaign for the rest of this week and will make their reports Thursday evening at a meeting at 6 o'clock at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church where supper will be served by the women of the church.

A notable entertainment feature of the evening was the presence of Mrs. Westell Gordon of England, her son, Westell, a noted singer, cellist and composer, and her daughter, Miss Nina Gordon, world famous mimic and impersonator who is just completing a world tour. After the business of the evening was over they entertained the company of sixty workers for an hour in a delightfully informal way as one after the other contributed a part to the pleasing programme.

After Westell Gordon had given a fine rendering of Wondering, and the blessing had been asked by Rev. Dr. David A. Pitt, pastor of the church, supper was served by the social committee under the direction of Mrs. Henrietta Tefft, chairman. Seated at the head table with George A. Finn, campaign chairman, were Mayor Milo [illegible] Waters, Rev. Dr. Pitt, Campaign Director A. W. Nicol of Boston, Commandant E. W. Wilbur of the local corps of the Army, the members of the Gordon family and the team captains.

After Rev. R. B. Day had discharged the duty to which he was delegated, expressing the thanks to the ladies for the fine supper, Chairman Finn called for reports on the first day's work in the campaign. These were received with enthusiastic applause as the captains told of what their teams had done, although there were several who are still to make a report, but they have promised to swing into their stride from now on.

The reports were given as follows: Team 1, Capt. G. A. Finn, $86; Team 2, Capts. Abner Schwartz, $74; Team 3, Capt. E. O. Rodier, $128; Team 4, Capt. L. M. Crandall, $157; Team 8, Capt. H. B. Cary, $131; Salvation Army $83.41; Woman's Christian Temperance Union $49.50; total $708.91.

Max Hanover spoke in enthusiastic eulogy of the work of the Salvation Army and of the spirit and zeal of the team captains and members in this campaign to help the Salvation Army in its charitable and social work which is of a type that is known the world over and in which all are willing to give aid. He pledged the fullest co-operation of the Norwich Lions and of all the workers to bring the campaign to complete success.

Campaign Chairman Nicol handed Chairman Finn a compliment as a great chairman for this campaign and extolled Norwich for a city with a spirit that is unequalled and declared that his week here will furnish him inspiration for a campaign that he is to engage in at Boston for $170,000.

For the rest of the evening the members of the Gordon family entertained the team members who applauded them generously and were reluctant to allow them to stop.

Mr. Gordon and Mrs. Gordon were heard in a duet, Swing High, Swing Low, and Mr. Gordon followed this with a solo, The Lenten Time of Love, for which he played the accompaniment on the cello with Miss Gordon at the piano.

Miss Gordon's part came with two cleverly rendered songs, Just a Touch of Paris and Jest Her Way, followed most realistic imitations of Harry Lauder, giving the Sailor song and I Love a Lassie.

With her brother playing the cello, she gave a piano number, The Land of Hope and Glory, and this was followed by Mr. Gordon rendering his latest song hit, One Little Dream of Love, for which he played the cello as he sang and his sister played the piano and sang with him. The programme closed with Miss Gordon singing Home Sweet Home, after which Mr. Hanover expressed the gratitude which the audience felt for the privilege they had enjoyed in listening to the Gordon family.

JORDAN AUTO CO. BUYS NORWICH REAL ESTATE

What is known as the Potter property at 412 Main street, East Side, has been purchased by the Jordan Auto [illegible] of Willimantic. The property consists of a plot with about 160 feet frontage on Main street, which is covered by a building occupied by stores and tenements.

Included in the purchase is an adjoining piece of property containing a building, the plot having a depth of 200 feet. An official of the Willimantic company stated Monday evening that they should hold the property for possible future use and developments.

NAMES STONINGTON MAN FOR DEPUTY SHERIFF

Sheriff Sidney A. Brown has appointed Thomas C. O'Connell of Stonington a deputy sheriff for New London county. Mr. O'Connell has lived in Stonington since 1880 when he entered the employ of the Atwood Machine Co. as a moulder, and he is now employed in the stock room of the American Velvet Co.

The new deputy sheriff has been a constable for the past 19 years and has been patrolman of the first district of the town of Stonington, comprising the borough, for 11 years.

Slight Fracture of Skull

An x-ray taken by Dr. John J. Donohue of Montville of the little Polish girl who was struck Sunday by an automobile driven by John Awezac of that town reveals symptoms of a fractured skull. She has been sent to the Lawrence hospital in New London for care. There is a fracture at the occipital protuberance around the left side of the head about an inch above the ear, ending near the left ear.

Win Trip to Yale

Five young people of the Central Baptist church, who had averages of 90 per cent. during all or part of this last year at the Norwich Free Academy are to enjoy a trip to Yale, promised by Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D. The young people are Clara Palmer, first term; Courtnay Pitt, second term; Helen Denison, Elsie Schelin and Dorothy Spencer, entire year.

Reported Milwaukee Convention

Rev. Horace B. Sloat, Baptist promotion secretary, spoke Sunday morning at the First Baptist church on Echoes From the Milwaukee Convention. In the evening he gave the same address before the congregation of the Baptist church at Quaker Hill.

Rev. Mr. Sloat and family are now at their cottage on the Bluff, Gales Ferry.

TOWN TAXES MEET MOST SCHOOL EXPENSES

A pamphlet issued by the Connecticut state board of education from figures compiled under the direction of Alfred D. Simpson, director of the division of research and surveys, shows that the expenditures for the support of schools in 1922, 1923, was something over $19,000,000, indicating an increase of about 185 per cent. in the cost of education in the past five years, but showing also the interesting fact that town taxes pay the great bulk—or slightly over $16,000,000 of this expense. The largest single item in outlay is teachers' salaries which totals $12,115,736.

The tables show receipts of $19,137,223.96 for current expenses, but in the last pages of the pamphlet revised figures show that the total of current expenses for schools in all the towns was $19,166,000. The source of the receipts, however, is dealt with on the basis of $19,137,223 and shows that the state grants were only 7.36 per cent. of the amount, while town taxation furnished 83.7 per cent., district taxation 4.23 per cent., income from town deposit funds 12 per cent., local funds 25 per cent. and miscellaneous sources including tuition fees and voluntary contributions 4.31 per cent.

For the year which is covered by the pamphlet the capital outlays were as follows: New grounds and buildings, $4,776,886.58; new equipment $355,579.78. Interest on loans amounted to $632,612.53. The total expenditures from these sources amounted to $5,965,077.69.

The figures showing this amount of money raised in local taxation by towns and school districts for school purposes are especially interesting. The total amount is $16,830,444.82. The amount from district taxation in the sixteen towns in the state where the schools are maintained under the district system was $611,377.74. The districts in Hartford raised more than one-half of that sum, or $421,748.24. The district system exists in only nine towns at present.

PRETTY SHOWER GIVEN FOR MISS MINNIE HAZLER

A pretty shower was given Saturday evening by Mrs. Oscar H. Main and Mrs. Charles Weeks, at the latter's residence in Poquetanuck, in honor of the approaching marriage of Miss Minnie Hazler of Poquetanuck, and Harry S. Welsh of Marcellus, N. Y.

Guests were present from Norwich, Gardiner, Mass., Westerly, Ledyard and Poquetanuck.

Beautiful gifts of linen, silver, cut glass, china, pictures and miscellaneous articles testified to the esteem in which Miss Hazler is held by her neighbors and friends. A buffet lunch was served and the color scheme which was blue and gold was effectively carried out throughout the evening in the games which afforded amusement to the guests. Those winning prizes were Mrs. Julian L. Williams, Miss Jane Mitchell, Mrs. Fred Miller and Mrs. George Murphy.

The Bridal Party, an impromptu sketch, was cleverly portrayed by Mrs. Charles Harkness, Mrs. S. Crawford Anaya of Havana, Mrs. William B. Mitchell, Mrs. Arthur Smith, Miss Marguerite Miller and the Misses Claire Weeks and Clara Bogue. It added much to the enjoyment of the evening. Miss Hazler has been bookkeeper at Hall's woolen mills, Trading Cove, for a number of years, but recently resigned her position, owing to her approaching marriage.

Mr. Welsh served in the world war and for the past three years has been designer in the same plant as Miss Hazler.

GIVES INSTRUCTIVE LECTURE ON EUROPEAN POLITICS

The second lecture in a series by Mrs. Morrill Hamlin of Greenwich, Conn., was given Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Community house upon the topic Political Europe, which Mrs. Morrill treated in an especially instructive way that showed her acquaintance with important national developments there.

Two revolutions, she said had recently taken place in Europe which were of the greatest significance. Five years ago it would have been said that it was absurd to expect that a labor government ever could come into power in England. But now there is a labor cabinet of 20 members and a labor premier in the person of Ramsay MacDonald. They are all uncultured and uneducated men, the products of the schools of hard manual daily labor and they are holding their power just so long as they travel in a path that is approved by the liberals and the conservatives. This is the British revolution.

One of the interesting developments in the relations between France and England through the premiership of Mr. MacDonald was pointed out by Mrs. Hamlin. During the war MacDonald had been the foremost pacifist in England and had consistently opposed every measure to prosecute the war. France feared when he became the British premier that she would be left alone to face the question of German reparations, but MacDonald has done just the opposite thing from what France expected and has marked himself as a great diplomat by restoring again the cordial relations between France and England, and France knows that back of her and Belgium will stand Great Britain. MacDonald has also supported the allied commission to determine whether Germany has disarmed or not. Against the German opposition to allowing the commission to ascertain the facts, MacDonald has put the situation to them in the logical and unanswerable statement that if Germany is really disarmed as she claims, she should have no hesitation in proving it to the world, and if she is not disarmed the Allied Powers have a right under the treaty of Versailles, to know it.

Stanley Baldwin, said Mrs. Hamlin, would probably have been British premier yet if he had been satisfied with the majority of 80 which he had but he went before the country on the question of a preferential tariff, against which Lloyd George raised the slogan of the full market basket as he spoke in every part of England and Baldwin was defeated.

Mrs. Hamlin referred to the friendly attitude of British labor towards soviet Russia, and she praised the frank report that the labor committee from Britain made after viewing soviet conditions in Russia. Before sending its committee to investigate Russia, British labor had even hoped to have Russian conditions introduced in England, but the committee report as that if that were ever to occur conditions in England would become as frightful as they were in Russia.

The second revolution Mrs. Hamlin referred to was the revolution in Italy when Mussolini came forth as a dictator. Italy needed just this and his appearance seems to be another evidence of the truth of the saying that whenever the occasion arises the man is there to meet it. Mussolini's hold upon the people is marvelous. They look upon him because the nation was threatened by the red terror, the people were not obeying the laws, parliament was not representing the people any more than the United States senate is representing the people, and strikes were paralyzing industry. Powerful and fierce as he is, Mussolini respects the people and his diplomatic triumphs, said Mrs. Hamlin, have been in the settlement of the Fiume question with Jugo-Slavia and the part he has played in building up the Balkan states into nationhood.

In the latter part of her lecture Mrs. Hamlin discussed the league of nations which she declared was not a political organization, a super-state, nor yet a dead issue. The old balance of power in Europe has been wiped out but the league holds the balance of power for the peace of the world. It has averted war in the last few years between Italy and Greece, between Jugo-Slavia and Albania, between Poland and Lithuania. No world war can come if this league continues, but we, as the most peaceful nation on the earth, are preventing further disarmament on the part of the nation because we are not in the league. Mrs. Hamlin predicted that the United States will go into the world court and from that it will be but a step into the league, and in the end our children's children will see war disappear from among the nations of the earth.

NORWICH TOWN

Rev. O. D. Fisher of North Stonington, preached at the First Congregational church Sunday morning, in exchange with the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey. In his very interesting sermon, Rev. Mr. Fisher, who read a beautiful original poem, used for his text, Job 23-10. "But He knoweth the way that I take; when He hath tried me, I shall come forth as gold." The theme was "Refining Fires."

A special feature of the service was the chorus of male voices, which gave the following numbers during the hour for worship: Nearer, My God to Thee, Memories of Galilee and Go Gather Them In, under direction of Organst H. L. Yerrington. Those in the chorus were, Rev. Henry I. Pettis, Frank E. Sterry, Clyde M. Beebe, Leonard Lovett, and Harold Bailey, the latter of Hartford.

The Young People's Christian Endeavor society of the Congregational church, had for its leader on Sunday, Miss Margaret Chapin. The topic assigned to this date was Memories: A Blessing or a Curse, with several Scripture references.

This was followed by a union service at 6.30 (standard time) in the church auditorium, with the First Methodist Episcopal church uniting. Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey presided over the meeting reading the Scripture lesson from the seventeenth chapter of St. John, also offered prayer. The address of the evening was by the visiting pastor, Rev. James B. Aldrich, who in an interesting way gave extracts from the Methodist General (World) conference, held recently for a month in Springfield, Mass., and was attended by more than 3,000, people all over the world, there being 800 of this number sent as delegates. Rev. Mr. Aldrich in his introductory remarks said in part: To attempt to tell you the work of that great body in a short time, to condense the thoughts in my mind and to tell of the business of one month, in one evening, would seem a large task to me; yet I will cover briefly some of the things which impressed me most.

You probably know that the general conference is a delegated body, the election of the delegates coming from the annual conference. Every conference from home and abroad has at least one delegate to every 46 members, one lay delegate being appointed with every ministerial delegate. The New England conference had a delegation of 4 ministers and 4 laymen.

This was one of the largest meetings ever held in New England. I was moved by this company of men bound together for work of the Lord, being as I looked around and saw others I thought all people had not lost interest in the Lord.

It was necessary to get to the conference as early as 8 o'clock in the morning to get a seat. Some of the seats in the first gallery sold as high as $10. When the great organ played for the opening service and that mighty body poured out their hearts in song and praise, it was well worth the time spent, as I had never before in my life heard such a volume of song. This was followed by an address of one half hour, then business. As soon as this commenced, presided over by one of the bishops, resolutions were brought forth, reports submitted, etc. The general report was followed by the minority report, then discussions by several speakers. The presiding officers saw to it that the men for majority and the men for minority had their turns. Sometimes 15 or 20 wanted to speak at the same time, but only five minutes was allowed for each speaker. There was not difficulty in hearing each one.

One of the things accomplished at the conference was to change the time limit of the district superintendents, making their term of office not to exceed six years. A motion was made that this apply to districts as well as the one he had been serving.

A friendly spirit prevailed throughout the conference. Rev. Mr. Aldrich was much impressed by the men he met from the different parts of the world, working for the Lord. A general invitation was extended by one of the Chinamen present, to hold the next conference in Peking, China. It is the belief of the Methodists that they should not take any diversion from the Lord, Jesus Christ. The conference 30 years ago made some changes as to what sort of places its people should go and what places of amusement they should attend. At this last conference it was left with the individual. If a person is a Christian they can carry their Christianity into any place. Immoral pictures and immoral places are no place for the young or old, and when we see things that would harm us, it is our duty as ministers and laymen to make a strong appeal to the weak to let such things alone. The majority of the delegates felt that Christianity should not be governed by law. Another thing accomplished was giving women the right to praise. It was voted to make women eligible, ordained ministers. A movement was made to change the Apostle's Creed, so that it would read the same with the word Catholic thrown out. This however, was voted down as Catholic means universal, including a great body of Christians that are serving Jesus Christ, in the universal church of God.

In closing, the speaker said: One could have heard a pin drop when the conference was introduced to Miss Evangeline Booth, daughter of the late General William Booth, and administrative leader of the Salvation Army work in the United States. Her words as she began to speak must have had magic to move that great body to sing, and melt that congregation of 3,000, delegates and others. Miss Booth related the purpose and passion of the Salvation Army, and after referring pathetically to her late father she declared in the evangelistic passion for which the Salvation Army is known throughout the world. "Christ is the One and Only Hope for the world, the only solace for the grief of the world, the only pardon for the sins of the world. Miss Booth withdrew with the prayers of the conference following her train. The half hour spent with this militant, fearless disciple of Jesus to a sin-cursed world, had proved to be the richest spiritual triumph of the entire month's programme.

At the conclusion of the talk, Rev. Mr. Bailey expressed the thought that the conference was to be congratulated for its many achievements. The chorus of male voices again sang at this service. The songs given were—Jesus Saviour Pilot Me, Nearer, My God to Thee, Day is Dying in the West, Tenting Tonight on the Old Camp Ground, (by special request in memory of Flag day), and Now the Day is Over Rev. Mr. Aldrich pronounced the benediction.

At the First Methodist Episcopal church Sunday morning, Rev. Mr. Aldrich preached from Mark 1:1. The beginning of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, the Son of God.

Rev. Mr. Aldrich left Monday morning on a several days' business trip to Massachusetts.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Ex-Congressman and Mrs. Edwin W. Higgins and daughters have opened their summer home at Massapeag for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick G. MacMahon of Massachusetts are spending several days in town, staying at the Wauregan hotel.

MANSFIELD CENTER

The schools of the town closed last week for the summer vacation. At the Center school on Friday there was a picnic and a "hot dog roast" on the hillside near the home of Dr. W. E. Cramm. The Hollow school closed with a picnic earlier in the week and the teacher, Miss Helen Brewer, returned to her home in Upton, Mass. There were five graduates from the Center school, Donald Hawkins, Harold Hawkins, Dorothy Aitken, Esther Curgenveven and Oliver Wood. Donald Hawkins was one of the essayists at the graduation exercises of the schools of the town held at the armory at Storrs.

Mansfield Center is planning a Fourth of July carnival, to be an all day celebration, held on the grounds near the church. Mrs. T. Hawthorne Jones is the chairman and elaborate plans are being made for the day. Committees are being appointed and are arranging for music, sports, games of many kinds, a fancy dress parade, a woman with a thousand pockets, a fortuneteller, lunch, soft drinks and ice cream, as a part of the attractions of the day.

Rev. Mrs. Jones has organized a class in basketry which will meet at the parsonage on Thursday afternoon, this being the second meeting of the class.

The Ladies' Aid society will hold an afternoon picnic Wednesday at the home of Mrs. A. E. Anthony.

The Christian Endeavor society is planning for a concert to be given at the church next week. The program will include solos, duets and trios, both vocal and instrumental. People from out of town will assist in the program.

The Christian Endeavor society has elected its officers for the next six months: President, Willard J. Stearns; vice president, Miss Amy K. Hawkins; corresponding secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Raymond Olds; recording secretary, Miss Frances Crane.

The Washington horse chestnut tree near Bath, Pa., measures twenty-seven feet seven inches at the base and is believed to be the largest horse chestnut tree in North America. According to legend, it was presented to General Brown, of revolutionary fame, by George Washington, in the form of a sapling from his home at Mt. Vernon.

A check for 1 cent, drawn by John H. Talmadge, borough clerk of Madison, N. J., was mailed to George W. Downs, treasurer of Morris county. The check balances the account of the borough with the county on the 1924 tax levy.

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch
Fordham, New York Giants

There is a runner on third base. A hit is made to center field.

What is the proper position of the infielders on such a play

The position of the fielders on such a play depends on how far the ball has been batted. If it is a short fly and the center fielder is a good thrower it would almost be folly to try to intercept a throw that was intended for the plate as that would consume so much time that the runner going home from third would be almost sure to score. On the other hand, if the ball is batted far into the field that makes it almost impossible for the center fielder to throw the runner out at home so a relay would be essential although the chances of catching a runner from third to home on a relay are relatively poor. The man to receive the ball from the center fielder on his throw should be the best thrower of the infield. As the game is played these days, it doesn't make much difference whether he is the first baseman or the third baseman. This man would run to the outfield and get in a direct line with the plate so that he could take the relay on this line and then whip the ball home. If the shortstop or second baseman have good arms they are the logical men to handle this ball and they more quickly can get into a position. The pitcher should back up such throws to the man who receives the relay. One other point. On such a play, someone should cover third base as there is always a chance that the runner may try to return to third in case he can't score.

FOURTEEN BULKELEY PLAYERS ARE AWARDED THEIR LETTERS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 16.—The Bulkeley High school baseball season was officially closed Saturday, June 14, against Springfield Technical High of Massachusetts at the Hotel Griswold grounds, so it was announced by Headmaster Homer K. Underwood in the auditorium, where the last assembly of the season was held this forenoon. The game that was to wind up the Bulkeley season was with Plainfield High at that city on June 18. But by mutual agreement between the managers of the two teams this game was called off.

Today's assembly, the last of the year, was an enthusiastic one indeed. Four beautiful silver loving cups were formally presented and the letter "B" was awarded to thirteen players who participated in more than 18 innings of play. Manager William G. Reeves Jr., was the 14th to receive his letter.

The assembly opened with a singing program and then Mr. Rice, director of physical instruction at the local grammar schools, formally presented the three silver loving cups to the two grammar schools—Nathan Hale and Harbour—and the St. Mary's parochial school. The captains of the winning teams received the cups which were donated by the junior class of Bulkeley school for annual interclass competition. Besides these three cups, the senior class was presented with the Homer K. Underwood trophy for winning out in the interclass games held at Bulkeley this season.

After the awarding of the silver cups to the winning teams, the awarding of the letter "B" to the baseball players who participated in 18 or more innings took place and before Headmaster Underwood announced the 14 men who were to receive their letter for play on the diamond this season he reviewed the season briefly and said that it was the most successful season ever enjoyed by a Bulkeley team. And with another year of experience added to their baseball knowledge he expected to see the Orange and Black nine improve in their play next season, for he said the majority of this year's team will be on deck again once more under the Bulkeley uniform. Headmaster Underwood then read off the names of those who received their letters. These were as follows: Captain Walter Ryan c, George Sheffott c, Tilton, Dupre p, Joseph Parasi p, Geno Montanaro 1b, Sanford Tuttle 1b, Walter J. Reeves 2b, Harold Hutchison 3b, Joseph Gaetano ss, William Booth centerfield, Arthur Shurtz, utility fielder, Edward Mansfield rightfield, and Manager William G. Reeves Jr. The letters will be formally presented at a team banquet which will be held at the Hotel Mohican some time this week.

Several other important announcements affecting the students and the [illegible] were present at the occasion. A baseball manager was elected for next year. Martin Harris, a junior, was the successful candidate who was chosen from a field of nearly twenty other assistant managers. An election of captain for next year's nine will not be made until the night of the team banquet. Track it was announced by Headmaster Underwood would occupy the limelight during the dull winter season and because of good work as assistant manager in both baseball and football, Lorenzo Bellinger, a junior, was chosen to the capacity of manager. Dual track meets are expected to result from the election of Bellinger to the manager's position. It is expected to revive basketball at Bulkeley during the coming season.

BALTIC A. A. WINS FAST GAME FROM ASHLAND A. A.

The Baltic baseball team defeated the Ashland club of Jewett City Sunday afternoon at Sayles field, 9 to 8 in what proved to be a fast and interesting game. The features of the game were the hitting of Peloquin, Massey and Leo Jarvis. Seward's work in centerfield was of the spectacular variety. The score:

AMERICA'S ATHLETES IN BEST OF SHAPE AS THEY SAIL FOR OLYMPICS

New York, June 16.—Accompanied by blasts of farewell from river craft and the shouts of hundreds the United States liner America, carrying the main division of the American Olympic team, steamed for France today in quest of international athletic supremacy against competition from virtually every civilized nation in the world.

Three hundred and twenty stars, selected from a field of 10,000 contestants, members of the American Olympic committee and friends, lined the decks of the America as she sailed.

Track and field men, boxers, swimmers, wrestlers, fencers, gymnasts and a complete staff of American coaches composed the unit on the America today. Colonel Robert I. M. Thompson, president, Frederick W. Rubien, secretary and John T. McGovern, counsellor of the American Olympic committee were in charge.

On the top deck a boxing ring and mat were installed for training the boxers and wrestlers. A cork linoleum track stretched from stem to stern on the starboard side of the promenade deck and a heavy mat decorated the bow.

Lawson Robertson, head coach was jubilant over what he called the most representative team ever to compete under the Stars and Stripes for international athletic fame.

"In the sprints," said Robertson "We are better fortified than ever before. We should take at least three and possibly four places in the 100-metre and the 200-metre dashes. In the 400-metre we are in better shape than in 1920 but in the 800-metre we are not as good as we were in 1912 when we had Ted Meredith, "Mel" Sheppard and Davenport.

"If Joe Ray shapes up well we will start him in the 1,5,000-metre against the crack Finn, Paavo Nurmi, instead of the 3,000-metre as is the present intention. Sparrow is our hope in the pole vault while our shot putters and broad jumpers are good for at least two and possibly three out of the five places.

"The team as a whole is better than the 1920 aggregation but we all feel this year that the opposition will be stiffer and the competition more keen than ever before. France, England and Finland are better equipped than in previous years and I look to these three nations to give us bitter strife in every event."

One hour before sailing Colonel Henry Breckinridge, former assistant secretary of war and captain of the American Olympic fencing team, announced he could not leave on the America but would go on the Majestic June 28.

Changes in the personnal were announced on board by Frederick W. W. Ruben, secretary of the American Olympic committee. Charles West, Washington and Jefferson, former intercollegiate pentathlon champion, was put on the team as an alternate. Commander S. Cochran of the Olympic club of San Francisco, Calif., joined the team at the last minute as an alternate for the 400-metre race.

Miss Ethel McGary of the Woman's Swimming Association of New York. Miss Florence Chambers of San Diego, Calif., and Miss Ida McCleary, of Baltimore, were added to the women swimmers.

Basil Irwin of the Newark A. C. was added to the list of starters in the 3,000-metre steeplechase.

The America is due at Cherbourg France June 24.

JOHNNY DWYER GETS CHANCE TO WORK OUT WITH GIANTS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 16.—All predictions for a brilliant future for Johnny Dwyer, the leading Fordham university twirler during the past season and former Chapman Technical high artist, are bearing fruit. Immediately after winding up his college season with Fordham with a victory over Boston College, Dwyer was a guest of no other a personage than the famous strategist, John Joseph McGraw, manager of the New York Giants. MR. AND MRS. BENJAMIN H. LEE OBSERVED 50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY MONDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Conn., June 16.—Frederick Burnham, 366 Park street, Westerly, complained to the police Sunday that he had been robbed of $320 while he slept at the home of Joseph Richards, 163 Huntington street, Sunday morning. So far as the police could ascertain, there was little or no evidence that the robbery had occurred, but more likely that if Burnham had any such amount of money as he represented to have stolen, that it was lost during a drinking affair the night before. Following Burnham lodging complaint with the police, Richards appeared at the police station this morning and declared that the two had drank considerably Saturday night and that Richards had paid for the liquor. The two went to Richards' home about midnight and Burnham slept in a bed with Richards and the latter's little son as the occupants. During the night Richards awoke and not finding Burnham in bed, an investigation revealed Burnham asleep on the bathroom floor. Burnham was placed in bed where he was left by Richards when the latter awoke in the forenoon. Richards declared that the only money he saw in Burnham's possession was about $30. Burnham declared that when he retired he placed the money, which was in bills of the denomination of $20, beneath his pillow, but when he awoke he found both the money and Richards missing.

Tony Caldrelo, a public service automobile driver, residing at 26 Truman street, lodged complaint with the police early this morning, alleging his wife had attacked him with a dangerous weapon and requesting Mrs. Caldrelo's arrest. The woman was not found. It is understood that Mrs. Caldrelo and her husband engaged in a vigorous quarrel at their home about 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon and during a harsh exchange of words Caldrelo alleges that his wife attacked him with a knife. Later Mrs. Caldrelo and her two children left the house and have not been seen since by the husband. When the woman and children failed to appear home at 1.30 o'clock Caldrelo entered complaint with the police against his wife.

John T. Quinn, until Saturday a practicing attorney of this city, this morning received the appointment of deputy customs inspector for this port, with office at the customs house. Mr. Quinn was employed by the government in Washington three years as assistant auditor in the revenue department. He returned to this city several months ago and began the practice of law.

John F. Onadunk of Graniteville, who was fined $50 and sentenced to 90 days in jail at the last term of the superior court by Judge John Peaseley for chicken thieving in Graniteville, was released from the county jail Sunday night upon an order to that effect signed by Judge Peaseley. The order was made after friends of Onadunk had paid his fine.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Lee observed the 50th anniversay of their marriage today, at their home in the Mullin Hill section of Waterford. Mr. and Mrs. Lee, who have two children, Dr. Harry M. Lee and Mrs. Harwood, the latter wife of P. LeRoy Harwood, treasurer of the Mariners' Savings bank, were married by the late Rev. T. C. Field, at that time pastor of the First Church of Christ.

Dallas T. Cate of New York, but employed in New London several weeks on construction work by the Standard Oil company, was arrested this afternoon by Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy, charged with reckless driving. Cates could not furnish a surety on his bond of $100 for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning, so his automobile was accepted as surety. Cates operated his machine on Main street, the auto struck a team, owned by the B B Gardner Storage company and driven by Bert Loomis. The pole of the horse-drawn vehicle was smashed.

Mrs. Frederick H. Davis, operated upon at Lawrence hospital several weeks ago for appendicitis, was able to return to her abode today. Other patients discharged were Miss Theresa Cook, Warren street, Henry School, Stonington, Mrs. Frank Mix, Ocean avenue, Mrs. Max Underhill, Rosemary street, and Miss Theresa Ragdale, Mohe[illegible] avenue.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today caused to be operator's license of William Carpenter, 11 West Pleasant street, to be suspended. The license of Joseph Demlicky, 18 Front street, suspended several weeks ago following the automobile he was operating being in collision with another machine on State street, was returned to the owner.

An automobile owned and driven by E. L. Streeter, 588 Ocean avenue, in passing through Thames street Sunday afternoon, struck and injured a dog owned by A. F. Fargo of 109 Thames street.

The New London police have been requested to be on the lookout for five money order blanks which were stolen from the post office at Moosup last Friday night. The orders are numbered 136077-136081, inclusive.

The police received information this morning at 1.45 o'clock that several shots had been fired in the vicinity of the New London Marine Iron Works, a section of Fort Neck, which is infested with bootleggers. Sergeant John Cavanaugh and four policemen were hustled to the scene where the shooting was alleged to have occurred, but they could not find anyone there. The only person who was located who claimed to have heard the shots fired was Watchman White, employed by the Raymond & Alexander Lumber company of Howard street. No one appeared at the offices of physicians or at the hospitals for treatment of bullet wounds today, so it is believed that the shots did not find [illegible] mark.

Parking ordinances brought several parties to the police court this morning, but they escaped serious penalty as their offenses were not of serious consequence. Carleton Havens presented a new phase of the ordinance, for when he was accused of having parked his car on State street more than thirty minutes, he pleaded not guilty. The defense was that Mr. Havens parked at one point for a quarter hour or so and then, when his business called him elsewhere he went there, but in neither place did he allow his car to remain thirty minutes. The court did not regard this as a violation and did not consider that the ordinance covered that particular alleged violation so the complaint was nolled. Mrs. H. [illegible] of Pearl street, Norwich, was charged with stopping her car more than a foot away from the curbing on State street. She said she supposed she was guilty, but when was explained that she halted to take her daughter into the car judgment was suspended. Ben Krassoff of Oakdale sought to get the best of the motor vehicle department by learning to operate a car without having registration for the machine he was driving. He said he was with a man who had a license to drive and that he did not suppose registration was necessary till he had secured an operator's license. Ben was fined $3. Harry Goodman of Blydenburgh avenue stopped his car on the left side of the street just because he lived on that side. Officer Babcock realized that he was violating the parking ordinance and ordered him to court. Then Harry explained the situation and the court suspended judgment.

There were three drunks before the court this morning. Two of them were on Green street where they were creating a disturbance Sunday evening, Officer John P. Sullivan put a stop to their antics and then they became offensive in their resistence, but the officer locked them up. The men are Dennis O'Connor and Fred Quinlan. Judge Prince imposed a fine of $10 on each and then suspended the execution of the judgment for six months. Fred J. Martin, claiming to have employment at Fort Wright, said he came over here to get some medicine. He evidently got "medicine" that made him drunk for he was found unable to take care of himself on Bank street. Judge Prince allowed him to go back to his work on suspension of judgment.

Cases against C. Silva and Norman Wilcox were nolled, they having been hanging over in court some time.

Ira Brown, Waterford, Charles Olea, Noank and Baby Helen Keeney Floyd, Williams street, were patients discharged today at Home Memorial hospital.

The drive to obtain $8,000 for the Boy Scouts, which began a week ago, and which is drawing to an end, has so far realized contributions and assurance to an amount of $6,716. It is believed that within a day or two the remaining sum sought will have been realized, either by contribution or promise. The money will go towards defraying the cost of providing equipment and outings for the scouts during the present fiscal year.

Miss Alice Hunt, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. David J. Hunt, 8 Thames street, has returned to her home after having spent a week with friends in Worcester.

Mr. Harold Havens, Evergreen avenue, has returned Miss Eleanor Larson, Worcester, Mass., over Sunday.

Miss Dorothy P. Silver, teacher at the Robert Bartlett school, spent the week end with her mother Mrs. Mary Silver, of Boston.

Earl Fremont Smith and Leroy Buddington, both of Mystic, were arraigned before Judge Cornelius C. Costello in the Groton town court this morning on two counts, stealing fish and fishing without a license. The accused were arrested several days ago by Deputy Fish and Game Warden Christopher Culver. Buddington pleaded guilty to the second count and was fined $5. Smith pleaded guilty to both counts and his case was nolled because of insufficient evidence.

The charge of violation of the automobile law against Roy Thomas [illegible] was also nolled. It was alleged that Johnson's car was parked after breakdown alongside the highway near Poquonoc and without lights showing.

Andrew M. Main, agent for property owned by Mrs. Frances Warren, of Thames street, was arraigned on complaint of Health Officer Frank W. Hewes, who charged that Main, as agent for the property, allowed refuse water to flow from the Gentile barbership to a basement in the building where it collected and caused a condition such as to produce illness. The case was continued a week in order to permit Main to cause repairs to be made satisfactory to Health Officer Hewes.

Three cases of failure to pay personal tax were to have come before the court, but two of the delinquents had paid and the third had made arrangements to do so.

William A. Bateman, residing north of the submarine base, died at the Submarine Base hospital late Sunday of a fractured skull, sustained several days ago and since which time the victim had been under treatment at the hospital. Bateman was employed on the state road and was riding in an automobile, owned and driven by Edward McDonald the day that the fatal accident occurred. When a short distance south of the base, McDonald alleges that a machine collided with McDonald's car from the rear, causing the latter machine to be overturned. Both McDonald and Bateman were hurled to the highway, Bateman receiving the injuries which resulted in his death.

The New Haven police late this afternoon requested the New London police to be on the lookout for two automobiles that were stolen from that city. One is a Cadillac and the other is a Chevrolet coupe.

Robert Arundel, a lodger at the rooming house of Mrs. Emily D. Montague, 16 Golden street, was arrested this afternoon by Motorcycle Officer William Babcock, upon complaint of Mrs. Montague and B. W. McIntyre, who alleges that Arundal stole clothing belonging to them. Arundal, it is alleged, had gathered a coat and skirt belonging to Mrs. Montague and a shirt belonging to McIntyre when he was detected with the clothing in his possession. The clothing was taken to the police station as evidence against Arundal when he will be arraigned in the police court tomorrow morning.

Alma Belucci, aged 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norberto Belucci, 55 Sherman street, who disappeared from her home Sunday and for whom the police instituted a search throughout the day, was taken into custody late this afternoon at Norwich and later returned to her parents. When the girl was arrested at Norwich the New London police were notified and Acting Sergeant Edward Daniels and Policewoman Jane Cassidy went to that city in the police car and brought the girl back to this city. The Belucci girl disappeared during the absence of her parents from home yesterday afternoon. Before she departed she left a note on a table stating that she intended to leave home.

The New Haven fishing sloop Rosalind, which was captured off New Haven last week with 70 cases of alcohol, by the New York patrol Liberty, was taken to New York Sunday by Deputy Collector of Customs Jeremiah Dillon and Louis Ross, a member of the crew of one of the rum chasers. The two men apprehended aboard the Rosalind and who were taken to New York Saturday for hearing declare that they are Joseph Pettee and Alphonse DeRossier, both of New London. The names, it is believed are either fictitious or else they reside in New Haven, for neither is known in New London, nor do their names appear in the city directory. Both Pettee and DeRossier are being held in bonds of $1,000 for trial before the New York District court.

CABINET MEMBERS GIVE MUSSOLINI A FREE HAND

Rome, June 16.(By The A. P.)—A special edition of the Giornale D'Italia this afternoon states that the members of the Italian cabinet have placed their portfolios at the disposal of Premier Mussolini in order to leave him free to either present the resignation of the cabinet for its reconstruction or maintain it as at present.

YOUNY WOMAN SUES 60-YEAR-OLD MILLIONAIRE

White Plains, N. Y., June 16.—Jefferson Livingston sixty years old millionaire and owner of a large Kentucky breeding stable for racing horses, has been sued by Miss Muriel Buell, 28, for failure to live up to an alleged agreement to pay her $1,750 a month for the rest of her life.

Knowledge of the action became known today when attorneys for Livingston argued in supreme courts motion for his examination before trial. The decision was reserved.

Miss Buell charged that early last year Livingston entered into the agreement for the monthly payments in consideration for her promise to withhold a threatened damage suit for alleged breach of promise to marry.

In answer, Livingston said he had broken with Miss Buell because of her extravagance saying he had made gifts to her totalling $8,000 a month.

Miss Buell is a resident of Mamaroneck, N. Y.

LIQUID PROPELLENT FORCE FOR THE GODDARD ROCKET

Worcester, Mass., June 16.—President Wallace W. Atwood, of Clark university at commencement exercises this afternoon announced the solving of the problem of an explosive for the Goddard Rocket, using a liquid to give propellent force without overheating the projectile, a model of which is completed, and will be sent up this summer near this city. This is the rocket which it is claimed, built on a large scale, could reach the moon. He also announced establishment of a course of lectures on psychology at Clark through the generosity of Dr. E. E. Powell, of Miami university, Oxford, Ohio. Three of the lecturers will be Dr. Knight Dunlap, of Johns Hopkins, Dr. E. B. Titchener, of Cornell and Dr. John B. Watson, of New York.

Household experts tell us that the average housewife walks miles and spends years in preparing the meals for the family. It is an everyday task, year in and year out, and its effect upon the health and attractiveness of women is only too well-known.

Coal stoves and wood stoves are insistent in their demands for fuel and attention. Hard to keep going and messy to clean.

The New Perfection Oil Cook-stove burns kerosene — clean and odorless. It is practically automatic in its operation, and delivers a wide range of heat—bakes, broils, boils, roasts and toasts. It eliminates coal, dirt and ashes. It adds immeasurably to personal comfort because it keeps the kitchen cool

Ask your dealer to demonstrate the particular model which you like best, and which you will find in his store. Remember that each New Perfection model, whether it be the famous Blue Chimney or the fast-as-gas Superfex, represents the utmost in cooking satisfaction at its price.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

HIGH RECORDS FOR STOCKS

New York, June 16—The upward movement of stock prices entered upon its second week today with new [illegible] the year were established by nearly two score stocks, the largest number [illegible] in order to stabilize the market. Better weather with a resultant increase in gasoline consumption also was a factor. Net gains of a point or more were registered by the Pan-American [illegible] Union Pacific to spend nearly $50,000,000 for maintenance this year was widely regarded as a constructive factor. The Rock Island issues and Lackawanna lost ground on realizing sales. Call money remained at two per cent. The time money market was quiet with rates ranging from 3 to 3 3-4 per cent., depending upon maturity. Commercial Paper was fairly active for some of the best names discounted at 3 3-4 per cent.

Strength of French francs, which again advanced above 5 1-2 cents, was a feature of the firm foreign exchange market. Demand sterling ruled slightly above $4.32. Italian lire softened slightly in reflection of disturbing political developments, but other quotes showed only nominal changes.

BOND MARKET

New York, June 16—Foreign obligations assumed leadership of the bond market today as a flurry of profit-taking interrupted the advance of Liberty Bonds. New 1924 high records were established by a half dozen or more issues in the foreign list, including the French republic and Belgian liens, Denmark 6s and Rio de Janeiro 8s.

The impressive demonstration of strength given by the French issues was attributed to confidence in the new government and prospects that its establishment would facilitate application of the Dawes plan. The rise of about a point in both 7 1-2s and 8s was accompanied by improvement in the French franc.

An explanation offered for the reaction of U. S. government bonds was that institutional funds were being shifted into the higher yielding federal land bank liens which were offered today. The issue, bearing 4 3-4 per cent. interest and priced at 101, was quickly subscribed and soon sold at a premium in the open market. Bond circles were interested in the announcement that the state of Pennsylvania would sell $15,000,000 highway bonds and the state of New Jersey a $11,000,000 issue.

Demand for high grade railway mortgages continued unabated today. Denver & Rio Grande issues turned upward in response to the announcement this the reorganization plan would be declared operative within a few days.

Rubber Company bonds, which recently sold around the year's lowest level, commanded unusual interest today as Kelly-Springfield 8s rebounded 4 3-8 points, carrying Fiske and Goodyear 8s into higher ground.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, June 16—All deliveries of wheat rose today to a new high price record for the season, with trading on the largest scale seen yet in 1924. Unexpected strength of Liverpool quotations emphasizing talk of world shortage of supplies was largely responsible. Closing prices for wheat were unsettled, 1 1-8 to 3c net higher, July 1.14 1-2 to 1.14 5-8 and September 1.15 3-8 to 1.15 3-4, with corn 3-4 to 1 3-8c up, oats at 1-8c decline to 1-8c gain, and provisions showing 5 to 15c advance.

Today's advance lifted wheat prices to 11c a bushel above where they were a week ago, and if maintained would broadly imply at this season of the year just that much advantage to the grower, whatever the profit to wheat traders in general. The reason is that the harvest will require sometime before getting into full swing, although more or less wheat is already being cut in the southwest. At today's top figures, December delivery commanded 1.19 a bushel as against 1.12 a year ago. However, profit-taking sales today were of huge volume, and the market acted a little top-heavy at the last.

Premature ripening of wheat was reported from parts of Kansas, but fears of damage by the heat wave were otherwise unconfirmed. On the other hand, wheat crop shortage reports came today from export countries as widely apart as widely apart as New Zealand and Roumania. Meanwhile, world shipments were more than 1,000,000 bushels less than last week, [illegible] to the surplus of ocean passage was reduced 1,456,000 bushels.

Corn as well as wheat touched new high prices for the season. Too much rain in some sections was reported, and country offerings were small. Realizing sales by holders held back bats.

Provisions worked upward with grain.

CURB MARKET

New York, June 16—Heavy buying of the oil shares on reports that Oklahoma producers had decided to restrict production impacted a firm tone to prices in today's active curb market. Prairie Oil and Gas led the advance with a gain of 5 1-2 points while Standard Oils of Indiana, Ohio and New York, Mountain Producers, Vacuum, Ohio Oil, Imperial and South Pennsylvania moved up a point or more. Revival of activity in Woodley Petroleum following the declaration of an extra dividend of twenty cents in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 30 cents.

Good buying also developed in the public utility group, American Gas & Electric jumping nearly 2 1-2 points to 71 3-8 while Hudson and Manhattan moved up one. Many industrials moved forward in early trading but realizing sales resulted in erratic fluctuations. Gillette Razor was firm, gaining a point on the day. Motor Shares were fairly active but eased fractionally at the close. Lehigh Valley Coal certificates were strong, transactions exceeding 46,000 with an advance of about 1 1-2 points. Capital stocks of New England Telephone and Telegraph and Southern New England Telegraph and Telephone were admitted to trading.

LEDYARD

Lawson; Ambassador with silver shield and Bible, Miss Edna Chapman; Glistening White robe, children, Helen L. Colver, Myrtice Coman, Marjorie Gates, Eleanor Smith, Matilda Harold, Ethel Main, Margaret Parker, Margaret Colver.

The chancel and rail were beautifully decorated, with a profusion of field daisies and dentzia, with maiden hair ferns. In the background was mountain laurel. The offering was to assist in the education of students of the M. E. church.

The June meeting of the Queen Esther circle of girls, with their superintendent, Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, was held at the home of one of the members, Miss Laura McGuire, in the Lester district Friday afternoon. The annual election of officers was held, resulting as follows: President, Myrtice Coman; vice president, Helen L. Colver; secretary, Gertrude Allen; treasurer, Marjorie Gates. After the usual routine work a social hour followed and Miss McGuire served refreshments of cake, cocoa and candy.

The Long Cove school, with Miss Evelyn Whipple, teacher, held closing exercises last Tuesday, with songs, recitations and folk games, by the children of the first and second grades. Refreshments were served at the [illegible] program. The children [illegible] were [illegible] per cent. members [illegible] school savings [illegible] and have been awarded the banner, which the bank gives each of its schools having this membership.

There are two early gardens in the village, the one of Minor Moxley has green peas set on the vines, three inches long, with the tops of [illegible] sets two feet tall. The one of Harmon L. Perkins has potato vines in blossom, and lettuce fit to pull, grown in the open.

Rev. Horace B. Sloat of the Baptist Board of Promotion of Hartford, with [illegible] have opened their summer cottage on the Bluff for the season.

Mrs. W. M. B. Du Mont and son [illegible] ...ler, Jean, of Montclair, N. J., motored here last week and opened the summer home of the family on the Bluff, leaving Thursday to attend the graduation of her sons, Allen and Donald, at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy. Mrs. DuMont was joined there by Mr. DuMont and other members of the family.

Mrs. J. Otis Winchester of Norwich was a recent caller at her summer home here.

Committees appointed for a supper, [illegible] the Ladies [illegible] ...sets, Miss Susan Matheson; decorations, Mrs. R. L. Hurlbutt; coffee, Mrs. E. H. Latimer; kitchen department, those not otherwise engaged.

A. C. Risdon of New York city arrived Saturday at the summer home of the family, in the village for the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jamieson and daughter, Miss Louise Coats of [illegible] who have been at the Nurse House, Hour, on the Bluff, have closed owing to the illness of Mr. Jennis and have returned home.

HOPKINTON

The post office, which is located in the house of Walter F. Mills, closed for several weeks, on account of scarlet fever in his family, has been reopened, the house having been properly fumigated.

A well attended and interesting session of the Seventh Day Baptist Eastern Association, held since last Thursday evening, came to a close Sunday evening in the First Seventh Day Baptist church of Hopkinton Ashaway.

Mrs. Elizabeth E. Oakes, wife of Thomas G. Oakes, aged 61, died at Ashaway, Saturday morning.

Mrs. R. Tirzah Cook, of Danville, Va., a former resident here, attended the association meeting and visited old [illegible]

Edw. A. Kenyon and family have moved into [illegible] Main [illegible] H. [illegible] Wilcox.

JEWETT CITY

Anne Brewster Fanning chapter, D. A. R., observed Flag day by holding their annual meeting Saturday, the 14th, at the home of the regent, Mrs. Henry E. Olsen. A large number of members were present, when the meeting opened, with the salute to the flag, the singing of America, repeating the Lord's prayer, and with the regent presiding. The members responded to the roll call by giving quotations from the flag. The regular and annual reports of the officers were heard and approved.

The entire official board were re-elected for another year as follows: Regent, Mrs. Henry E. Olsen; vice regent, Mrs. Benj. C. Bliss; secretary, Mrs. Frank C. Whiting; treasurer, Mrs. John P. Post; registrar, Miss Alice A. Brown; librarian, Miss M. A. Burdick; historian, Mrs. James E. Crary; chaplain, Miss Ida I. Foster; flower committee, Mrs. John H. Tracy.

The pleasing program which followed the election of the officers began with the singing of The Star Spangled Banner, Mrs. George H. Jennings read a story about the flag, after which Miss M. A. Burdick gave an interesting history relative to the "Pledge;" Miss Mabel Kanahan delighted the daughters with a whistling solo, and the program ended with the singing of Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean. Miss Brown was the accompanist.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Tracy in serving a delightful anniversary luncheon.

A number of the friends of Miss Yvonne Hourigan recently gave her a shower in honor of her approaching marriage. Mrs. Helena Medick and Mrs. Aldea Pepin were in charge of the arrangements and the party proved to be an enjoyable affair. The shower was of a miscellaneous sort and included all sorts of household utensils and family needs, from silver and dishes down to rolling pins. Besides enjoyable games, there was a musical program. Those favoring with violin and piano solos were the Misses Rose St. John, Marjorie Leyden, Vivian McLaughlin and Estelle Jodoin. During the evening Miss Agnes Franklin sang that pleasing old time, yet still popular, ballad, I'll Take You to Your Home, Kathleen. Miss Hourigan, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Hourigan, is to marry Francis Herbert Driscoll on Wednesday. The guests present at the party included Mrs. Lena Medick, Mrs. William Watson, Marjorie Leyden, Lena Griffin, Vivian McLaughlin, Agnes Franklin, Freda Sholes, Mrs. Florence Barber, Mildred Olson, Estelle Jodoin, Blanche Jodoin, Alice Jodoin, Nellie Miss, Grace Sullivan, Claire Sullivan, Mrs. Rose Driscoll, Margaret Driscoll, Annie Driscoll, Nora Driscoll, Mary Driscoll, May Driscoll, Alice Barnett, Amelia Morancy, Mrs. George Rocheleau, Mrs. Edward Rousseau, Diana Pepin, Mrs. Elizabeth Flinn, Lillian Pepin, Ella Oakes, Doris Burr, Rose St. John, Grace Hartfree, Mrs. Florence LaBarge, Mrs. Flora Benjamin.

The automobile parties, members of the A. A. Young Jr., Hose and Ladder Co. No. 1, were in Plainfield Saturday for the muster.

Considerable interest is being shown locally in the Jewett City Savings Bank Vacation club, a popular feature of the local bank, as well as other banks in the country.

Mrs. W. A. Richardson has added whorled pogonia to her list of rare flowers. The stranger, never found in Griswold, was located by the roadside, down below the "Long Woods," east of Voluntown, near Rockville, R. I.

Henry H. Huston, and his family are moving to Concord, Mass., where at present he is interested in building operations. Mr. Huston has completed four years in going through the Ashland Cotton company's mills in Jewett City. He has made a thorough study of this branch of the textile industry and has made himself acquainted with every detail of the manufacture of cotton cloth, from the picker to the loom. His study has been thorough, with the resultant knowledge that equips him to superintend any branch of cotton mill work.

Charles F. Gardner and Samuel Cathcart Jr., are the committee from the Baptist Sunday schol on time and place for their picnic. Mr. Gardiner's class has charge of the arrangements for the Methodist church picnic, and will appoint the committees.

Officer Henry Viegard says that a bad accident is sure to result here some time, which will be caused by the earsplitting whistles and calls by young men on the streets to passing automobiles. Involuntarily, the driver turns his head, and partly stops his machine, which will yet result disastrously.

The chair committee of Pachaug grange report receipts of over $70 at the dance given in the town hall under their auspices on Saturday evening.

The Congregational church will hold its annual picnic on Saturday afternoon at Pachaug Grange fair grounds.

The sports committee met at the parsonage Monday evening.

The 1924 graduating class of Riverside Grammar school held a reception in Rioux hall Friday evening. The grand march was led by Supt. Clement and Miss Frances Sweet. During the evening, both Mr. Clement and Mrs. Nettie Johnson, the assistant principal, were presented $5 gold pieces by the class. Punch was served and at intermission the class enjoyed ice cream.

Mrs. E. H. Wilcox has been substituting for Miss Mabel Wilcox at Slater Library since Friday during Miss Burleson's absence in New York.

Mrs. Edmond Jodoin and daughter Catherine are in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Miss Helen Hull has gone to Camp Big Pine, Fairlee, Vt., where she is to be the dietitian this summer.

Mrs. Walter Marshall and daughter, Christine, are at their cottage at Groton Long Point.

Mrs. Minnie Johnson entertains the Ladies' society of the Congregational church at her home on Thursday afternoon.

Supt. and Mrs. F. H. P. Clement and children and Mrs. Lucetta Whipple, are at Hampton Beach, N. H., for a few weeks.

Jewett City friends will be interested to learn that David Hewitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hewitt of Hartford, took the part of Stephen Brice in the presentation of The Crisis, taken from Winston Churchill's book. The play was given at the West Hartford High school.

NIANTIC

The first native strawberries produced by a local grower, have been in the local market for the past week and were grown by Lawrence Curry. While the berries are not of the huge size he has raised in previous years, due to the cold, rainy season, they are delicious berries, sweet and mellow.

Felix Malunus, who has been a patient at the W. W. Backus hospital for the past three weeks with a serious case of appendicitis, is making a rapid recovery and is soon expected at his home on Oakland avenue.

Three Colchester young ladies hiked to Norwich Sunday and returned the same way later in the day.

Myron Ladd, for many years an expert machinist in the local mill, has left that line of work and has erected a gasoline station at his home, Elmwood.

Timothy Coughlin and Frank Hanson are among the local young men to purchase automobiles during the past month.

Andrew Warner, who has been substituting at the granery crossing during the absence of the afternoon crossing tender, M. R. Cheeney, of Willimantic, has finished substitutive on account of Mr. Cheeney's return and left town Monday for New York where he will stay for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lyons, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick McGuire and children, William and Dorothy, of Bridgeport, were guests Sunday of Mr. Lyons sister, Mrs. F. H. Tracy.

H. J. Gibbs has been spending the past few days in Montreal.

Mrs. Harry Fishbone and children, Jacob and Augustus, have been spending a few days in New York.

Miss Maud Lamoine was a recent visitor in Hartford.

Miss Anita Comeau, of Norwich, has been spending a few days at Pine Tree cottage.

Captain Stanton and daughters, of Stonington, were recent guests at the home of Mrs. E. Stocker.

Mrs. Rowland Hewitt and niece, Miss Estelle Eldridge, of Stonington, were recent guests of local relatives.

Miss Jane Reid, of Hartford, spent the week end at her home here.

I. T. U. ELECTED LYNCH BY 2,029 OUT OF 50,000 VOTES CAST

Indianapolis, June 16.—James M. Lynch, of Syracuse, N. Y., has been elected president of the International Typographical Union to succeed Charles P. Howard, of Denver, according to an unofficial count of the election board made public today. Lynch's majority was given as 2,029 out of approximately 50,000 votes cast.

The official report of the canvassing board will not be made public pending a re-check of the votes tabulated and consideration of protests filed against counting the votes cast by some local organizations, which probably will require several days. The votes in dispute, however, are not sufficient to change the results of the official count, it was said at the union international headquarters. Other officers elected and their majorities, according to the unofficial count are:

Seth Brown, Los Angeles, defeated George F. Beach, New York, for first vice president by 1,658; Austin Hewson, New York, defeated William R. Trotter, Vancouver, B. C., for second vice president, by 3,630 and J. W. Hays, Minneapolis, was re-elected secretary-treasurer over William A. Aldrich, Chicago, by 5,995.

GUY B. DOLBEARE

POULTNEY BIGELOW

POULTNEY BIGELOW ADDRESSES ACADEMY ALUMNI AT REUNION

At the annual meeting of the Norwich Free Academy Alumni Association held Monday evening at Slater hall, Guy B. Dolbeare was elected president for the coming year. There was a large attendance of graduates, including members of the class of 1924, who will be graduated this (Tuesday) afternoon.

For a half hour preceding the business meeting the Academy orchestra, Frederick Cranston, leader, gave a concert program. The meeting opened with the singing of the Alma Mater. President Grosvenor Ely called on Secretary Lee Roy Robbins for his annual report which was accepted as read. Treasurer Raymond V. Congdon reported a balance on hand last year of $530.78, with receipts of $272 and interest of $17.43, making a total of $820.21. Expenses amounted to $306.49, leaving a balance on hand June 13th of $513.72. These figures do not include the dues received since the books were closed for the year. Already over $225 has been received in dues by the treasurer making the actual cash balance on hand something over $700. The report was accepted as read. As there were no committee reports the meeting proceeded to unfinished business.

The proposed amendment to the constitution by which all graduates and teachers of the Academy become members of the Alumni Association with voluntary dues of 50 cents or one dollar a year, was unanimously adopted. The amendment was proposed at the annual meeting last year and at that time was referred to the executive committee for recommendation. The committee recommended its adoption.

Officers Elected

The report of the nominating committee was read by Prof. Henry A. Tirrell as follows:

President, Guy B. Dolbeare; vice president, Joseph C. Worth; treasurer, Raymond V. Congdon; secretary, Lee Roy Robbins; assistant secretary, Bruce Rogers; members of executive committee for four years, Mrs. Harold Hull and Harrison C. Noyes.

The report was accepted and the secretary was instructed to cast one ballot in favor of the entire ticket.

Memorial Gymnasium Building

Mrs. Bessie Brewster Davis, class of 1883, which observed its 40th anniversary a year ago, announced that as a result of the reunion, a movement has been started to erect a modern gymnasium building for the Academy. It was proposed a year ago that some sort of a memorial be erected to the late Prof. William Hutchison, principal of the Academy during the school years of the class of 1883. Many letters were received from members of the class with regard to the proposed memorial. Mrs. Davis stated that Elderdge C. Cook, now of Minneapolis, and a teacher at the Academy while Prof. Hutchison was the principal, has placed in his will a paragraph which bequeaths $10,000 to be applied towards the erection of a Hutchison memorial gymnasium. Mrs. Davis said there are about 200 living graduates of Prof. Hutchison's day and all are interested in the memorial. Something over $1,000 in contributions and pledges has been received towards the fund and by the terms of another will, recently made by a resident of Norwich, the fund will be increased by $20,000. The project has now reached the point where we ask your cooperation, said Mrs. Davis. We would like to have the alumni name a working committee to take up the matter of erecting the memorial as soon as possible.

The meeting voted that the committee asked for be appointed by the executive committee.

President Ely than presented Miss Dorothy Lord, president of the class of 1924, which will be graduated this (Tuesday) afternoon. We have learned to love our school and our teachers, said Miss Lord. We have made many dear friends from whom we are loath to part. It is pleasing to know that we shall always have the opportunity of meeting them each year on Alumni day.

Faculty Changes Announced

Principal Henry A. Tirrell spoke briefly of changes at the Academy the past year and of changes in the faculty for next year. Speaking of the addition to the school Mr. Tirrell said, "We expected to spend $50,000 but have succeeded in spending $90,000. He said the school roll at the opening of the school last fall contained 800 names.

Mr. Tirrell announced that Miss Smith who has been teaching senior French is leaving to take up a French course at Smith. Miss McGarry who has been teaching in the commercial department is leaving this year and Miss Crosby who has been teaching French is leaving to accept a position on the faculty of the high school in her native town. Miss Gregson who had charge of the library left about Christmas time and was succeeded by Miss Dorothy Wulf.

Miss Faith Bonfoey who taught very successfully at the Academy for several years will return to the faculty next fall. Other new teachers for the coming school year will include Miss Helen Avery, a graduate of the Academy, class of 1918, Miss Anna Holmes, Miss Kelly who graduates this year from Brown and Mr. Atkins who is a member of the class of 1924, Wesleyan university. Miss Moxley who has taken a library course at Simmons will have charge of the library next year.

Poultney Bigelow Speaks

Judge Gardiner Greene, a member of the class of 1868, then presented as the speaker of the evening Poultney Bigelow, a member of the class of 1873, a member of the New York state bar, traveler and author who is well known in Norwich. Mr. Bigelow spoke on Japan as he saw it in the half a dozen visits he has made to that far away country of the east. Mr. Bigelow paid tribute to the memory of Prof. Hutchins and said that the spirit of Prof. Hutchison is well embodied in Prof. Tirrell who now rules the destiny of "Our Alma Mater."

Mr. Bigelow spoke of the first time he ever saw a Japanese which he said was at a gathering at the late Senator Foster's residence in Norwich years ago. A Japanese at that time was something of a curiosity, he said. Sometime afterward while Mr. Bigelow was on an extended sailing trip the vessel was wrecked on the coast of Japan. After being "fished ashore" as he put it, Mr. Bigelow made inquiries for the young Japanese he had met in Norwich and who was in the service of the Japanese government. He located him and was "received like a long lost brother." Mr. Bigelow said his friendship with the Japanese continued until death claimed the Japanese several years ago. They corresponded regularly and Mr. Bigelow always visited him during his visits to Japan. The speaker said he had been to Japan five times in the last fifty years. His last visit was two years ago at which time he toured the Japanese colonies.

Mr. Bigelow spoke highly of the morals of the Japanese people as a whole. I don't know of any country where the position of woman is so respected as in Japan, he said.

With reference to the immigration law recently passed by congress, Mr. Bigelow said: "We are doing the one thing we can do to Japan if we want war." He said he has been in every part of the Japanese dependencies and that wherever the Japanese flag has gone barbarism has disappeared and civilization has taken its place. They have first class hospitals and schools and are rapidly taking up the dress and customs of Europe and America. In the next century the old Japanese dress will be seen only in the museums. Mr. Bigelow was given a rising vote of thanks for his very interesting talk, after which the meeting adjourned to the Academy gymnasium where dancing and a social hour were enjoyed.

Among those present were five members of the class of 1874. These graduates of a half century ago were George S. Palmer of New London, Mrs. Frank A. Mitchell, Miss Florence H. Fellows, Mrs. H. L. Yerrington and Mrs. Amos A. Browning. Out of a class of 23 graduated by the Academy fifty years ago, eleven are now living.

CELEBRATED THEIR FIRST WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brickman celebrated their first wedding anniversary Sunday evening at their home on Pearl street. The dining room, where supper was served, was beautifully decorated with flowers presented by Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Antakol. Mr. and Mrs. Brickman received many gifts.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Julius Hendel, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Butleman, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Silverman, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hertz, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Rosen, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Elsenstein, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Daren, Mr. and Mrs. Nat Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Goldfarb, Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Antakol, Mrs. Tishkoff, J. Solotare of New York, and Mrs. Schwartz of New London.

JEREMIAH RYAN ON N. Y. INDUSTRIAL COUNCIL

Gov. Smith of New York state has appointed Jeremiah Ryan of Binghamton, N. Y., a member of the industrial council of the state labor department, which was created by the legislature of 1924. The council is composed of representatives of employers and labor, and Mr. Ryan will represent labor. A number of years ago Mr. Ryan worked as a compositor in this city.

PROBLEM OF SUFFERING DISCUSSED BY PASTOR

The Problem of Suffering as Revealed in the Book of Job, was the topic presented at the Richmond Radiator Co., at the noon hour Monday, by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

The following is a condensed report of the address: There are wide differences of opinion in regard to the Book of Job, fully as much as about any other portion of the Scriptures. The discussion seems to cluster around the following points: When was this book written? Who was its author? Is it actual history or a parable? While this discussion is both interesting and earnest, it does not in the least affect the great intrinsic value of the book itself. That it is one of the most majestic pieces of writing that can be found in any literature is the general opinion of all competent authority.

I quote from a great Biblical scholar, who says: "The argument in the Book of Job is one of the most profound that can engage the human intellect—viz., that of God's moral government of the world." The writer here treats with fullness what is only touched upon in Genesis, the Psalms and Jeremiah. By presenting the problem of suffering this moral rulership is brought out.

God wants man to trust him under all of life's conditions. Of course this is quite easy when the sky is clear, and the sea is calm. But how is it in darkness and tempest? Suppose you wake up some morning to find stocks and bonds stolen, or the concern in which you had invested failed, or, your little one swept away by diphtheria—would you still be trusting Him? Suppose that calamity should still continue. If, under a mild irritation, you would be able to say, "the Lord gave, the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord," but when everything earthly had gone, flocks, buildings, children, yourself diseased, and your wife alienated, could you rise to such heights of sublimity as to say, "Though He slay me, yet will I trust in Him!"

This is all beautifully expressed in one verse, "when He hath tried me, I shall come forth as gold," refined, purified and stamped with the divine image.

MENTIONING G. F. PIERCE, JR., FOR SENATORIAL NOMINATION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Oneco, Conn., June 16.—Hon. George F. Pierce, Jr., of North Sterling, the efficient second selectman, is now being mentioned as a candidate for state senator in the 29th senatorial district that has not given Sterling a place on the ticket since the late Hon. Clarinton Hunt was triumphantly elected in 1894. Mr. Pierce is a man big enough for the position being a successful farmer, a successful business man, an uncompromising republican and has proven himself to be a "vote getter" on several occasions. He has been one of the best selectmen the town ever had. He was one year accidentally left off the ticket only to be renominated the following year by more than five to one and triumphantly elected. It is figured in political circles this year that none but genuine "vote getters" should be nominated by the republican party and the fact of Selectman Pierce's success in that direction, added to the fact that the nomination belongs to Sterling makes him a candidate that must be considered in all parts of the 29th district.

ALICE NIELSEN OFFERS OPPORTUNITY FOR SINGERS

Miss Alice Nielson, famous prima donna, has offered an opportunity for some Norwich young man or woman to become a great singer. "It is my greatest dream," she declared, "to help someone on the road to fame in this country that has been so wonderful to me in my career." That is the reason she has established a scholarship providing two lessons weekly for one year with Dr. Daniel Sullivan, New York voice teacher.

"In establishing the scholarship, Miss Nielsen said: "My ambition is to see produced an American-born singer who will lead the world, an American trained in America by an American teacher. It can be done. It will be done. It may be that the potential star cannot afford to pay for the musical education necessary for the attainment of this great position. That lack of funds may not interfere with that person's career. I have established this scholarship."

CHICKEN THIEF CASE GOES OVER TO SATURDAY

In the city court Monday morning Walter Butzcavich, charged with the theft of poultry at a place on Roosevelt avenue Saturday night had his case continued [illegible] morning. His bond was fixed at $300. Two men were fined for intoxication. Two cases of violation of the pure food law were disposed of. One man was fined $25 and costs for selling to an agent of the pure food law adulterated hamburg steak. The second case was continued for three months.

In the case of Gus Ericson, charged with intoxication, a bond of $25 was forfeited as the accused failed to appear. Andus Christian of Groton, was fined $15 and costs for driving an automobile without a license. He ran into another car Sunday afternoon when signalled to stop in traffic.

James Wilbur, colored, was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to jail for ten days on a charge of keeping liquor with intent to sell at his place at the corner of Falls avenue and West Main street. He paid the fine and went to jail for the ten day sentence period. A charge of keeping a disorderly house was nolled. In the cases of the 11 frequenters arrested all but three were discharged, the cases against William Mooney, Benjamin Hunt and Charles Roderick being continued for three months.

The automobile accident case of Michael D'Atri and John Hesler of New London went over to next Monday.

ORGANIZED YOUNG LADIES' POLISH ALLIANCE HERE

A leader in work among the Polish girls of Norwich, Miss Blanche Plopa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Plopa of No. 268 Prospect street, has organized a society called the Young Ladies Polish Alliance. The membership consists of Polish girls from 14 to 20 years of age. They have found the society beneficial in many ways.

In connection with the society is a gymnasium class with a membership of about 30. The class meets each Monday night at Pulaski hall where the members are instructed by a well known gymnasium teacher.

FLORENCE CARPENTER IN WELLESLEY PLAY

Connecticut was well represented in the June play recently given at Wellesley college as part of the commencement exercise there. This year the college presented "Romeo and Juliet" in two performances on the 13th and 14th of June. That Connecticut girls stand high in the dramatic work of the college is evidenced by a glance at the program which reveals as prominent members of the cast Florence Carpenter of Norwich, Conn., who played the part of Escalus, Charlotte Banta of New Haven, who played the part of Paris and Mary Mallory of New Milford, who acted the part of Gregory.

The performance was given in the evening at Tupelo Point, which is one of the loveliest spots of the Wellesley campus, commanding a view of the college buildings and also of Lake Waban.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE TO CONDUCT G. O. P. CAMPAIGN

But Actual Direction Will Remain in the Hands of the National Chairman, William M. Butler, and the National, State and Local Committees—The Advisory Committee Will Consist of Republicans Representative of All Sections and Interests—General Dawes Has Declared for a Common Sense Campaign.

Washington, June 17.—Prominent [illegible] representative of all nations and interests will be asked to serve as advisers in the republican presidential campaign but President Coolidge wants the actual direction to be in the hands of the national chairman, and the national and local committees.

Coolidge let it be known today that the advisory committee would not [illegible] such the same capacity in the campaign as in the past. Its membership will include leading republicans with experience in the conduct of campaigns but so far as individuals are concerned at the White House it will be a super body issuing orders to the campaign managers. Its duty in connection with Mr. Coolidge will be that of advising on general policies, as to methods of campaigning as well as to defensive tactics of the national chairman, who is William M. Butler of Massachusetts, whose pre-convention campaign [illegible] and the national committee [illegible] now is constituted of [illegible] and one woman from each state selected by Mr. Coolidge to [illegible] offensive and defensive campaigns as a unit and working through the locally selected [illegible]

The views of Mr. Coolidge with regard to conduct of the campaign as [illegible] today were taken as indicating the intention to get the republican forces into action at an early date. Mr. Coolidge [illegible] has conferred with several of the leaders who returned to Washington after the Cleveland convention, including Charles G. Dawes, his running mate, who came to Washington for a conference within a week or ten days, when he will meet Mr. Butler the first time.

Campaign plans, however, have not progressed to the point of announcement. Neither the ceremonies attending the formal notifications of Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Dawes of their nominations were arranged and convention to be the one that will be presided over by [illegible] Senator Wyoming, permanent chairman of the convention. Mr. Dawes led by Representative Burton of Ohio, the convention's temporary chairman.

The ceremonies for Mr. Coolidge will probably be held in Washington in all probability about July 25, dedicated today at the time the president [illegible] establishment of Washington for a week to escape the extreme heat [illegible]

Coolidge will be notified [illegible] at his home in Vermont a week after [illegible] formally inaugurate [illegible] Mr. Coolidge's notification [illegible] one of a series [illegible] expects to [illegible] His [illegible] about the [illegible] as president [illegible] have made [illegible] This would mean a [illegible] speeches between late [illegible] November.

[illegible] Slemp, who was among [illegible] left Cleveland somewhat [illegible] the management of [illegible] Mr. Butler and those [illegible] associated with him, has [illegible] Mr. Coolidge to sit on [illegible] committee and it was [illegible] today that Mr. Slemp before [illegible] here yesterday for a ten days' [illegible] trip to Cincinnati and [illegible] in all probability, he [illegible] be on "the advisory committee" [illegible] republican national committee [illegible] will have the real management [illegible] campaign."

EN. DAWES TO CONDUCT COMMON SENSE CAMPAIGN

[illegible] June 17.—(By The A. P.)—[illegible] sense campaign with strict [illegible] the truth and no quarter [illegible] demagogue and no quarter [illegible] will be conducted by General [illegible] James G. Dawes, republican vice presidential nominee, he told his friends and neighbors gathered today on the Dawes lawn on the shores [illegible] Lake Michigan.

[illegible] banker and soldier of [illegible] Dawes reparation report, left no [illegible] that he will be seen and heard [illegible] speaking tour of the nation, calling [illegible] conferences of people [illegible] and passion. [illegible] that extended utterances [illegible] nomination at Cleveland as [illegible] Coolidge's running mate [illegible] exception attended by William [illegible] new chairman of the republican committee, amounting [illegible] notification of his [illegible] tion. The official notification [illegible] expected to come next month, also [illegible] Dawes home.

James A. Patten, businessman and philanthropist, in words of neighborliness and pride, tendered to General Dawes the felicitations of his friends and neighbors.

The general in response, speaking [illegible] members of all parties and avoiding [illegible] utterances, said:

"I know you want me to say something and yet upon such an occasion as this it would be unseemly in me to speak in a partisan manner. It seems to me that there is one issue upon which all good citizens, and yet is thoroughly non-partisan—a subject upon which all agod citizens, whatever their party, must agree—and that is the curse of damagoguery in our public discussions in this country. To such an extent has grown this evil among the politicians of both parties that the great facts and the economic principles involved in questions of national policy are continually obscured by a dense and putrid fog bank of demagogic argument, designed simply for the purpose of forwarding selfish personal political and group interests.

"I have recently returned from Europe where I have seen in prostrated industry the human suffering the effects of five years of demagogic political appeals to the passions and prejudices of the different peoples as distinguished from appeals to their reason and common sense. To the very brink of the abyss has Europe been brought by this method of treating serious questions, involving great elemental and economic principles. To save herself she has abandoned the demagogues and returned to common sense.

"An orgy of demagogism has been running rife in the world and we, here in the United States, are feeling its devastating effects. All good republicans and all good democrats who put their country above their party demand the beginning of an era of common sense in public discussions.

"As human beings whatever may be our party, we are bound to differ on many subjects, but as good citizens we can unite to demand from those who represent us in political debate that they present our differences honestly and from the sandpoint of truth—not from the standpoint of passion and prejudice. The man who distorts facts—the man who preaches pleasant doctrines to one portion of our people and another pleasantly but absolutely inconsistant doctrine to another portion, is a menace to the safety of our fundamental institutions. As good citizens, irrespective of party, we must demand from our political leaders a strict adherence to the truth, including disagreeable truth.

"In the campaign which is before me, and as a duty which I owe not simply to a party, but to the citizens of the United States, I pledge myself to adhere to the truth and to common sense conclusions to be drawn therefrom. As to the demagogue on the stump, whatever may be his party I want it distinctly understood that in the coming campaign I ask no quarter and will give none. In this at least, I know that I will have the sympathy of all good citizens irrespective of party and I hope our political opponents will follow the same course. Le common sense reign.

"When this campaign is over, whatever may be the result, I want to come back to my home town still holding the respect of my neighbors."

ALLEGED CONSPIRACY TO SELLING WHISKEY IN BOND

New York, June 17.—An alleged conspiracy to sell whiskey in bond in the interest of an election fund for the republican party was described by Charles W. Johnson, first witness for the state at the opening of the trial today of Gaston B. Means, former special agent for the department of justice, and his secretary, Emil W. Jarvis, in the department for prohibition enforcement.

Johnson also claimed that Means claimed he had been selected to crush the Ford presidential boom. The witness asserted Means had told him he had received orders to "get something" on Ford and his publicity representative, William Scaise.

The names of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, former Attorney General Daugherty and Commissioner Blair of the department of internal revenue were mentioned in connection with the alleged plot to withdraw liquor from government warehouses.

Means had told him, Johnson testified, that Secretary Mellon had given about $1,000,000 to the republican party and that there was a scheme afoot to get it back. This would be done by charging $200 a barrel for withdrawing whiskey from bond, the witness said. Enough would be withdrawn, it was planned, to make the republican campaign fund as large as needed, he said.

The name "Blair" which appeared several times in the witness' testimony was definitely identified by Johnson as Commissioner Blair of the department of internal revenue. He testified to hearing telephone conversation about the Bryan-Means withdrawals between Means and Blair.

Before the testimony of the witness had been completed the case was adjourned until tomorrow when Johnson will continue his story.

SENATE COMMITTEE TO PROBE CAMPAIGN FUNDS

Washington, June 17.—The senate committee which will investigate campaign contributions and expenditures this year plans to establish headquarters at Chicago and to meet upon request of any member, it was announced today after the organization session.

Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, was selected chairman of the committee, which decided to call on political campaign managers for reports every ten days.

Other members of the committee are Senators Jones, republican, Washington; Shipstead, farmer labor, Minnesota, and Bayard, Delaware, and Caraway, Arkansas, democrats.

In addition to calling upon the party managers for reports of expenditures and sources of funds including the names of contributors, the committee also will ask for the plans for raising money and the names of those expected to contribute. This information, however, Chairman Borah pointed out, must come to the committee voluntarily because the committee is without authority to compel such reports.

While investigation, whether it is a political committee, a volunteer committee, or individuals, we will make a thorough inquiry," Chairman Borah said. This will apply to all organizations, including churches if they utilize money for campaign purposes as well as to those who are interested in any phase of the prohibition question."

A maximum sentence of 15 years in prison for robbery was imposed upon Henry B. Crtis, who was convicted of stealing $60 in Brooklyn.

Cape Town, Union of South Africa, June 17. (By the A. P.)—In the general elections throughout South Africa today, Premier [illegible] Christian Smuts was defeated in Pretoria, West.

TRIBUTE TO VICTIMS OF MISSISSIPPI EXPLOSION

San Pedro, [illegible] June 17.—(By the A. P.)—The Pacific fleet today paid homage to [illegible] three officers and 45 men who died in line of duty Thursday in No. 2 turret of the battleship Mississippi.

"You died at your posts of duty," said Rear Admiral W. V. Pratt as he faced the long rows of coffins in the last ceremonies.

In hollow square their comrades of the fleet stood at attention in the final salute; thousands of civilians about Trona field which has witnessed the athletic prowess of some of those who lay still, arose, bareheaded. The marine guard of honor pointed their rifles skyward, three farewell volleys flashed and Bugler "Pop" Dalaghan, the oldest trumpeter in the navy, sounded "the last post."

Early in the morning 47 caskets were borne to the field and arranged in the form of a cross. The forty-eighth, that of Lieut. Thomas E. Zellars, yesterday was started for Georgia.

Over each coffin lay the flag and banked about them were thousands of flowers. Every ship in the Pacific fleet had its mourners in the living square about the still centerpiece 4,000 of them, officers and men. As the band marched on to the field an airplane dropped flowers.

Vice Admiral Henry A. Wiley said that "we come here in sorrow to mourn the loss of our comrades and join in the last services over them. The accident found them at their posts, putting forth the best that was in them. Their last moments gave the most positive proof of their courage and devotion. They died in line of duty."

As the chaplain's words ended the band played, "Lead, Kindly Light," and the blessings on the caskets were pronounced by Chaplain R. B. Patrick read the benediction. With the last words spoke, the final naval tribute of three sharp volleys was given and the bugle sounded "taps."

The band played "Nearer, My God, to Thee," as the 47 caskets were carried from the center of the field to a nearby temporary chapel. The soft strains of the hymn died away and the notes "Promise in earth hath no sorrows that heaven cannot heal," followed.

Echoing the sentiment for which more than two score had died, "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," swelled out and the dead were left to their reward.

DECLARATION MADE BY NEW PREMIER OF FRANCE

Paris, June 17.—(By The A. P.)—The integral application of the Dawes plan, with continued occupation of the Ruhr until other guarantees are furnished the Germany will carry out the plan of international accord for mutual guarantees and security under control of the league of nations; recognition of the soviet government on condition that French interests in Russia are protected, and the strengthening of the ties between the Allies are the main points in the foreign policy of the new French government as set forth by Premier Herriot today in the chamber of deputies.

The ministerial program was silent on the nation's war debts.

The declaration obviously was prepared chiefly for interior consumption. The tactics of the opposition, was to keep uppermost the question that divide the two chief parties of the coalition—the radicals and the socialists. The communists have no more confidence in Premier Herriot than in former Premier Poincare. Deputy Cachin, their spokesman, made a savage attack on the Dawes report, declaring it was prepared with the view of enabling Anglo-Saxon financiers to lay hands first on Germany and then on France.

Premier Herriot received a warm welcome when he appeared before the chamber today, but the ministerial declaration failed to arouse the expected enthusiasm.

"HIGH JINKS" CUT UP BY OLD YALE GRADUATES

New Haven, Conn., June 17.—No damage was done to public property in a jollification outside Woolsey Hall early today Chief of Police Philip T. Smith said this noon after he had looked into the affair. Yale graduates, back for reunions with classmates, gathered outside the hall in which the senior promenade was being held, cut up "high jinks" for a while and a large number of officers were hurriedly rushed to that neighborhood, the chief said, but he was convinced that there was no damage to public property, no interference with citizens and aside from the breaking of a few windshields on automobiles no loss to any one. The chief said that neighbors had telephoned that there was a "disturbance" and so each police precinct was ordered to send men to reinforce the 23 supernumeraries on special duty in the college's section during the commencement season.

The incident was provided by exuberant graduates who were enjoying themselves among themselves and the officers were dismissed in a short time, the telephone alarms from neighbors proving needless, according to the chief. The senior promenade in Woolsey Hall had been preceded by the annual concert of the student organizations and that immediate vicinity was the gathering place of students and alumni which accounted for the size of the throng at the time the police coats were rushed there. Among Yale men today the incident was scarcely referred to.

OFFICERS OF THIRD PARTY CONVENTION

St. Paul, June 17.—Charles E. Taylor of Montana was elected permanent chairman of the farmer-labor progressive convention here today receiving 718 votes. William Mahoney of St. Paul, the temporary chairman, received 116 votes and A. L. Putnam of South Dakota, 14 votes.

Duncan McDonald of Illinois, was elected vice chairman of the convention by acclamation.

Additional permanent officers elected were: Alice Lorraine Daly, Mitchell, S. D., secreary, and Otto Wangerin, St. Paul, and Mrs. Jessie Bullock Kestner, South Tacoma, Wash., assistant secretaries.

A sub-committee of the executive committee of the trolleymen's union had a conference with General Manager Punderford of the Connecticut Company in New Haven in another effort to adjust the age differences.

Presidential Boom Opened For J. M. Cox

Headquarters Have Been Opened at the Waldorf Astoria in New York—Preliminaries to Dem. Convention.

New York, June 17.—A staff of boomers for the candidacy of James M. Cox of Ohio for president set up headquarters in New York today.

The sight of their campaign tent, the third in a camp of aspirants that is expected to number more than a score before the democratic national convention begins its nominations, temporarily relegated to the background the talk of a struggle between Gov. Smith and W. G. McAdoo as to whether two-third or majority rule shall govern the convention.

Joel Shaup, a veteran political manager of Dayton, Ohio, is generalissimo of the Cox forces, and Charles E. Norris, Washington representative of the Cox newspapers, is chief of staff. Accompanied by a corps of enthusiastic aides, they pitched camp at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, which is also headquarters for the national democratic committee.

That the convention would prove popular and that Madison Square Garden's 14,000 seats would be filled to overflowing today in the arrival of an avalanche of demand for accommodations, which temporarily disrupted the business of the national committee's committee on arrangements, Cordell Hull, chairman of that body, finally shut himself and his workers away from telegrams and long distance telephone calls, barred the doors to all callers, and declared they would remain in executive session until disposition had been made of last minute details of pre-convention arrangements. They were still [illegible]

In the meantime, the last of 3,500 flags was unfurled in Madison Square Garden, the last row of seats was [illegible] in place, and the last [illegible] pinned to the acre-and-a-half red, white and sky-blue background under which the gavel opening the convention will sound next Tuesday.

Herbert C. Pell, chairman of the democratic state committee announced that the New York delegation, which will be the largest in the convention, would elect a chairman at the Hotel Commodore next Saturday.

It was also announced that the democratic national committee would hold its first preconvention session Saturday morning. Leaders around the headquarters made it clear that the candidate his attitude toward the prospect of a fight on the convention floor over the proposed inauguration of a dry rule. They pointed out that the committee could, as it did at San Francisco four years ago, recommend to the committee on rules whether or not the question should be submitted to the convention for decision.

Although early comers favored the [illegible] McAdoo supporters on the majority-rule issue, campaigners at this candidate's headquarters asserted that the question would come to a vote, and that, basing on the precedent set at the San Francisco convention, the majority rule, although they discussed the question, Mr. Smith [illegible] proposal [illegible] interested many [illegible] talk. They declared that Cordell Hull, the McAdoo [illegible] building himself a little [illegible]

Thus far there has been [illegible] discussions of potential candidates for the vice-presidential [illegible] party leaders [illegible] express a belief that [illegible] post will [illegible] of the [illegible] ticket [illegible] to the White House have been eliminated.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS ARE TO FORM NATIONAL LEAGUE

New York, June 17.—The National League of Young Democrats in a statement [illegible] announced today the formal inauguration of the league as a campaign unit would be undertaken at Madison Square Garden at the close of regular business next Wednesday, the second day of the national convention.

The meeting [illegible] Gen. H. Woodward, president of the league will serve to acquaint delegates and convention visitors with the organization's aim to stimulate the interest of young men and women in [illegible] sues of the coming campaign.

DEMOCRATIC WORKERS ARRIVING IN NEW YORK

New York, June 17.—Democratic women delegates and workers from [illegible] of the country began to arrive today for the national convention next week.

Among the vanguard of women were seasoned workers like Mrs. Anna Olesen of Clouquet, Minn., democratic candidate for United States senator in 1922, and a committeewoman; Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, Washington, D. C., vice chairman of the national committee and Mrs. Kathryn Van Leuven, assistant district attorney of Chicago, said to be the only woman to hold such a position in any state.

There were civic workers like Mrs. D. A. McDougal, committeewoman of Sapulpa, Okla.; Dr. Jennie Califas of Lincoln, Neb., who practices medicine with her husband; Mrs. Gertrude Bowler of Sheboygan, Wis., who calls herself the youngest grandmother to attend the convention; Mrs. Robert Jackson of Concord, N. H., who came with her husband, the state chairman; Mrs. Charles F. Donohue of Oakland, Cal., Mrs. Bernice Pike of Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. Gertrude M. Pattangall of Augusta, Me.; Mrs. Lee Springs of Lancaster, S. C.; and Mrs. Weston Vernon of Logan, Utah.

Friends of Miss Mary Archer of Reading, Pa., claim she is the champion housekeeper and farmerette; while to Mrs. Florence G. Farley of Wichita, Kans., goes the honor of being the youngest woman on the national committee.

DEMOCRATS TO CONDUCT CONEY ISLAND FROLIC

New York, June 17.—A week of continuous festivities at Coney Island has been undertaken by the National Democratic Club of this city, as its contribution to the entertainment of convention delegates and visitors, their families and friends.

The names of an honorary Coney Island frolic committee, announced today, reads like a list of candidates and "dark horses" for the democratic presidential nomination. Headed by Governor Alfred E. Smith, it includes United States Senator Copeland, W. [illegible] Gibbs McAdoo, John W. Davis, [illegible] Cummings, Gov. George S. Silzer of New Jersey, James M. Cox, James W. Gerard, William Jennings Bryan, D. Phelan United States Senator Edwards, Henry Morgenthau, Norman E. Mack, [illegible] Kremer, Edward M House and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Labor night will be Tuesday Lodge night on Wednesday, Veterans' night on Thursday, Friday will be Little Old New York night to be followed on Saturday by the crowning of "Miss Democracy" from among bathing beauties representing the 48 states and territories who shall have survived daily elimination contests over which noted artists and sculptors will preside.

Belgian Balloon Wins Bennett Cup

Has Been Sighted Over Ireland — American Balloon Goodyear Landed Southwest of Amsterdam.

Brussels, June 17 (By the A. P.)—It is reported that the Belgian balloon Belgica, piloted by Lieutenant Ernest De Muyter, has been sighted over Ireland. If this is correct, the Belgian entry in the Gordon Bennett Cup international race, which started last Sunday, is the winner.

The balloon Goodyear, an American entry in the Gordon Bennett cup race with William Van Orman as pilot, landed safely five miles southwest of Amsterdam at 4.30 o'clock this afternoon.

De Muyter may still be in the air, but the other sixteen contestants which took off from Solbosch plain Sunday have come safely to the earth again. Owing to the curious atmospheric conditions, the distances allotted to the aeronauts, which comprise merely the distances between the starting point and the landing point in a straight line, will not be great, although the balloons in some instances traversed many miles in circuitous voyages. Some of them were recalled for hours, while the sailing direction of others was completely reversed at times.

The greatest distance recorded to-night by the Aero club, and that only an estimate, was allotted to the Ville De Bourdeaux, piloted by Le Porte, of France—320 kilometres (about 215 miles.) Captain Honeywell, commanding the Uncle Sam, covered, according to the same authority, 290 kilometres.

JEWETT CITY

After several weeks of hard work the Rifle club has finished the target pit on their outdoor range. This pit was dug nine feet deep and 33 feet long, the walls are of solid masonry, 12 inches thick. This pit is used by the men who are to mark the targets, to keep them safe from any wild shots. The targets arise from six to eight feet over the top of the target pit, and slide in a frame. When one target is pulled down into the pit, the other target is raised into position automatically. As soon as a shot is fired, the scorer, who is stationed at the firing line, presses a button which in turn rings an electric buzzer on the target which has been used. The tender then examines the target, and upon locating the bullet hole, he covers the mark with a small disk, on the end of a short pole. This is called a spotter. For a shot in the bullseye a while spotter is used, for a shot out of the black a red spotter is used. The scorer back on the firing line takes down the value of each shot made by the shooter as signalled to him by the target tender in the pit. This method of shooting will appeal to many of the local shooters who are not interested in indoor shooting. Each member of the Rifle club is furnished with 120 rounds of 30 cal. ammunition each year by the government. The rifles are also furnished by the government being the 30 cal. Model 1903.

Several members of the local club are going to Camp Perry, Ohio, where the big national matches are held. Half fare has been granted them by the war department, and while there will spend two weeks in military camp on the big government rifle range which is the largest in the world and covers several thousand acres of land, bordering on the Great Lakes and is one of the most beautiful places in the country.

The Men's class of the Methodist church held their meeting for the month of June at the home of Irving M. Thornton on Ashland street, Friday evening.

The usual business was transacted and was followed by a social hour.

During the business session the new pastor of the church, Rev. Mr. Carter, was welcomed into the class. During the social hour several interesting talks were enjoyed. Refreshments of sandwiches, pickles, olives, cake, coffee and nut fudge were served by Mrs. Irving M. Thornton, assisted by Mrs. George H. Thornton, Mrs. Thomas E. Gray, Miss Martha L. Davis. The meeting for July is in charge of the social committee of the class.

C. E. Gorham, superintendent of the New England Fire Insurance Exchange made a visit to the borough Tuesday, and thoroughly checked up every angle of local protection. Hydrants were tested to ascertain the nozzle pressure at different parts of the borough. Rules governing the management of the electric lighting plant were looked over.

The matter of police protection and number on force was considered. The Gamewell fire alarm system came in for investigation and report, relative to its value and efficiency.

Ex-Postmaster Daniel F. Finn was the guest of honor Tuesday evening at a dinner given at the Mohican hotel in New London.

Those who gave the parting reception were the present office force, Postmaster William T. Crumb, clerks, Thomas Harrett and Gilbert Miner and William Watson, the R. F. D. man. The retiring chief was presented a purse of gold.

Mr. Finn will again take over the management of Finn Bros. store.

The Slater Mohawks defeated the Young Giants in an exciting game on Tuesday. The score was 14 to 16.

Since the middle of May two operatives are on duty all day, excepting from one to four in the afternoon, at the Jewett City telephone exchange. And three are in the office from nine to eleven in the morning. Bessie McCluggage and Elizabeth McCluggage are the steady operators, Mrs. Henry Olsen and Mildred McCluggage part time operators, Ethel Fiske and Bernice Wolf call operators and Rosanna Desjardines night operator. There are nearly five hundred telephones in the exchange, and an average of one hundred and fifty calls an hour during the day.

A lawn social was held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. A. Faust, president of the Congregational Ladies' society. Aprons and fancy articles were on sale, also cake, ice cream and tea. Twenty dollars was realized.

Battery A, 103rd Field Artillery, of Providence, composed of 130 men and 90 horses, with all necessary equipment were in camp on Palmer Brothers farm Tuesday night and Wednesday. They traveled through Voluntown and Pachaug from Rhode Island and are on their way to Charleston Beach, R. I., for target practice. Wednesday afternoon they expected many maneuvers. Of particular interest to Jewett City people is that David Ballou, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Ballou is with the battery.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

While attempting to pass an automobile on West Main street Sunday evening, an auto operated by Andrew Gregori of Stafford Hollow crashed into a machine coming from the opposite direction. Both machines were badly damaged. Gregori was proceeding toward West Stafford and the other machine was coming to the Springs. It was operated by Richard N. Westcott and his wife who was riding with him received a number of cuts and bruises. A child riding in the Gregori machine was cut about the head. Mr. Westcott came here from Wethersfield, where he resides, Tuesday morning, to appear at the trial of Gregori on a charge of reckless driving. Gregori pleaded guilty and Deputy Judge Taft imposed a fine of $20 and costs, amounting in all to $41.23, which was paid. Gregori said that he had only recently received his operator's license and he probably misjudged the distance between his car and the one operated by Mr. Westcott.

Tony Consantine pleaded guilty to the charge of allowing his dog to run about the borough without a collar and tag. Dog Warden Eldredge brought Constantine into court and he was fined $1 and costs amounting to $11.23.

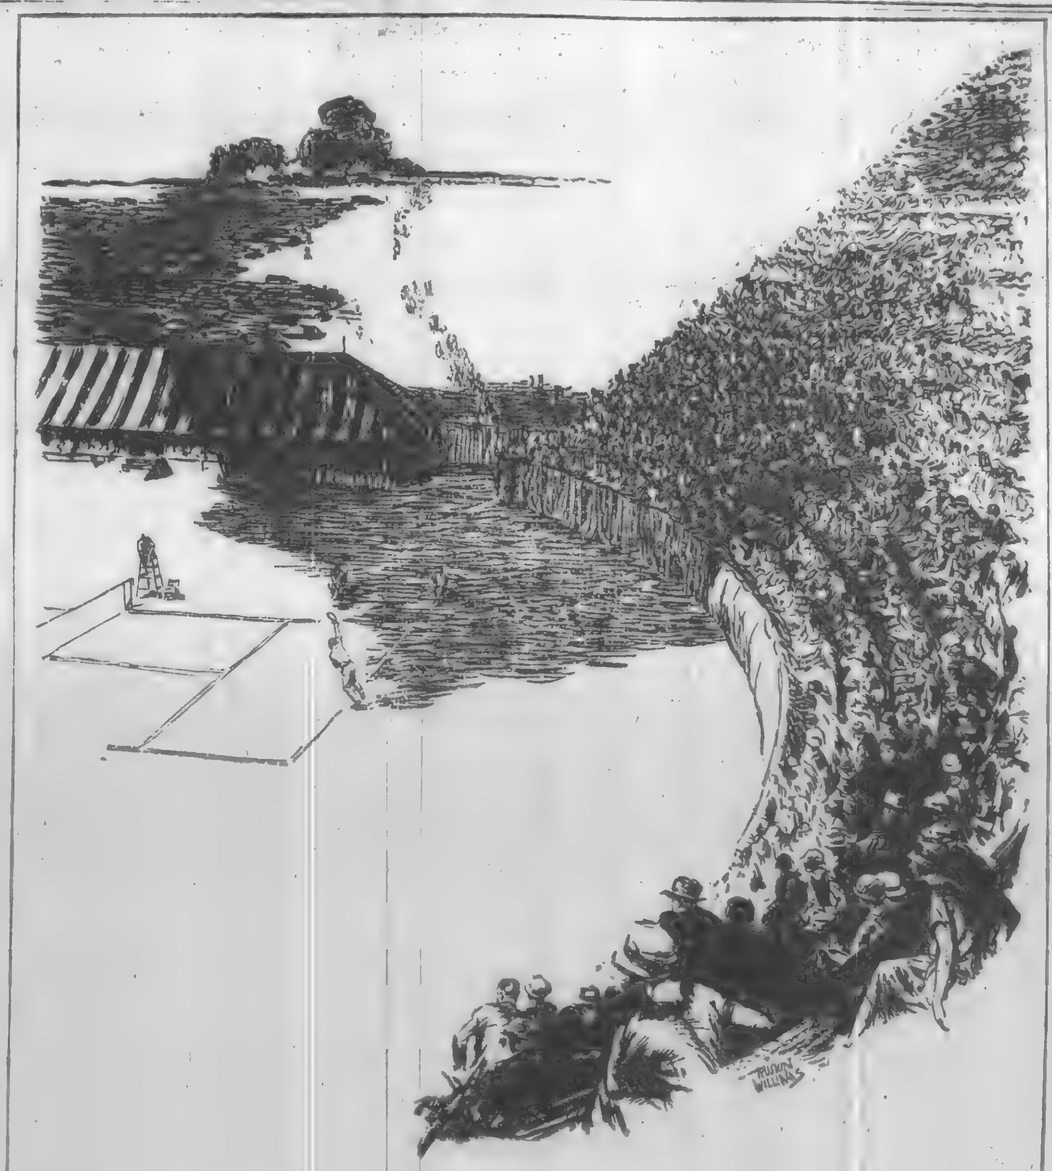
John P. Cummiskey of Penn State college is at his home in Forestville for the summer vacation.

The little school will close on Friday for the summer vacation.

Visited On Scotland Road.

Mrs. A. E. Geer was a caller at her home on Scotland road Monday, which was her husband's birthday. Her many friends are pleased to know that her four little boys who have been ill are recovering and are able to be out again, but very weak yet. They are at Pleasant View Farm, Scotland.

Representative Dallinger republican, Massachusetts, filed a petition with the national forest reservation commission asking the establishment in the Cape Cod area of an eastern national forest.



Such popularity must be deserved

WHETHER it's tennis or cigarettes or anything else, popularity is no stroke of luck.

No champion ever held his laurels except by making good. No cigarette ever held popular favor except by deserving it.

The popularity of Chesterfields is an outstanding example. For months now they have been drawing over 1000 smokers a day away from other cigarettes.

Surely this is proof of their quality and good taste.

POETRY

Wild Roses

On long, serene midsummer days
Of ripening fruit and yellow grain,
How sweetly, by dim woodland ways,
In tangled hedge or leafy lane,
Fair wild-rose thickets, you unfold
Those pale pink stars with hearts of gold!

Your sleek patrician sisters dwell
On lawns where gleams the shrub's trim bask,
In terraced gardens, tended well,
Near pebbled walk and quaint kiosk,
In mottleat urns their colors greet;
They beam on beauty's fragrant breast!

But you in lowly calm abide,
Scarce heeded save by breeze or bee;
You know what splendor, pomp and pride
Fall oft your brilliant sisters see;
What sorrow, too, and bitter tears;
What mad farewells and hopeless fears.

How some are kept in old, dear books,
That once in bridal wreaths were worn!
How some are kissed, with tender looks,
And later tossed aside with scorn,
How some their tasteless petals lay
On icy forehead, pale as they!

So while these truths you vaguely guess
A-bloom in many a lonesome spot,
Shy roadside roses, may you bless
The fate that rules your modest lot,
Like rustic maids that meekly stand
Below the ladies of their land!
—Edgar Fawcett in Indianapolis News.

Grass

The vague immutable contour of the world
This substantial phantom of green hills
Which ever falling away forever stand,
Perpetual mirage hung beyond Time's reach.
Is grass, which sets the round world in our sight.
Grass standing thick and still in soundless ease
No eye has seen, or straggling into existence,
Beat down, but spared by winds which tear up oaks.
Green in the sun, and beneath smothering mists,
Where each moist blade sweats one clear glistening drop,
Grass growing below huge rocks and around long graves!
Climbing, a tiny host, up mountain-sides
Hanging on mist-locked crags above dun lakes;
Teasing on low small islets on the tide,
Soft meadows 'mid the currents of the sea,
Where the green glossy blades drink the blue wave.
Grass waiting in dark 'neath table-lands of snow,
O'er new riven chasms weaving its light veil,
And quiet fields o'er fallen and jagged peaks:
The unbearable gesture of the world.
—Edwin Muir in The Observer (London)

RAILROAD CROSSING EDUCATION

It may seem surprising in this day and generation that more education is needed by the American people concerning the dangers of the railroad crossings, and yet it is only necessary to study the statistics of deaths and accidents at such points in order to have it quickly established.

Charge it up to recklessness, criminal carelessness or a disregard for personal safety, the fact remains that there are too many deaths at grade crossings. There is no good excuse for such a large number. Let it be admitted that grade crossings should go, but that does not overcome the potential danger that exists as long as there are any crossings.

The removal of the crossings will eliminate much responsibility that now rests on the shoulders of the highway users, but until that time comes, and it is not likely to be within the next few years, there must be full recognition of the peril at crossings.

Probably there is not one in a hundred cases where coming to a halt to give way to the locomotive would interfere whatsoever with the mission of the motorist. It is true that he might have to apply his brakes and change gears a couple of times, but that is far preferable to taking a chance that may mean a number of funerals.

In the effort which is being made by the American Railway association, with the cooperation of a number of other organizations, to carry on an extensive campaign of education throughout the country during the next 15 weeks or so there is much to be commended. It is well that the obvious danger should be sent home to that large number of highway users whose attention seems not to be turned in that direction except that they experience narrow escapes or witness others being sent into eternity. Till the time comes that railroad crossings are eliminated there must be persistent efforts to convince the motorists that their protection lies chiefly in their own hands. It is one place where education is needed.

VICE PRESIDENTIAL DECLINATIONS.

When Frank O. Lowden refused the nomination as vice president on the republican ticket from the Cleveland convention it was freely claimed that it was an unprecedented act. It is true that it is unusual and the instances where such an honor has been refused are not numerous, but it was not the first time such a thing was ever done. It is not to be supposed that Mr. Lowden declined because others have, or that he would have accepted rather than establish a precedent, but political history reveals that Mr. Lowden has done only what others did, though the reason may have been different.

Back in 1812, according to the American Historical Review, John Langdon was named by a congressional caucus to be vice president on the ticket with James Madison, named for his second term. Mr. Langdon being over 70 declined and Elbridge Gerry of Massachusetts was named.

In 1839 Thomas Earl of Pennsylvania declined the vice presidential nomination on the abolition party's ticket and Francis Lemoyne of the same state was substituted.

In 1844 because Van Buren was not nominated for president, Silas Wright of New York declined second place with J. K. Polk and G. M. Dallas of Pennsylvania was substituted.

In 1848 when the freesoilers named General Henry Dodge of Wisconsin as vice president to run with Martin Van Buren he declined and Charles Francis Adams of Massachusetts was selected in his place.

In 1860 when Benjamin Fitzpatrick of Alabama was named with Stephen A. Douglas he declined and his place was taken by H. V. Johnson of Georgia.

These instances were so long ago that the memory of political leaders did not recall them, if in fact they knew about them. In the past 60 years the honor of a vice presidential nomination has been considered sufficient to make an effort for rather than displaying an unwillingness to accept it. Probably there are few, even among the oldest inhabitants, who recalled such declinations without searching the records therefore.

NO TIME FOR LENIENCY.

What problems are faced by the authorities engaged in the enforcement of the narcotic laws of the country is well illustrated by the disclosure which has just been made in New York city where large quantities of habit forming drugs were seized after they had been brought into the country concealed with merchandise which was marked for transshipment to another country. How much has been brought in in this manner there is no way of telling but the scheme had been so well worked out that this was undoubtedly the method used in getting much dope for illegal use in this country.

This country permits goods in bond to be transferred in this country from one ship to another. A ship from Germany or any other country, can bring goods destined for the Barbados and have them transferred in New York to a ship leaving for the Barbados provided they are not opened here. The drug ring was operating under that privilege but in the transfer substituted identical boxes filled with stones, while the original packages were opened and the drugs located therein were removed and sold here. All went well until the scheme was detected. The seizure was not difficult, the puzzle being to learn that such an advantage was being taken of the transfer privilege.

This is only one of the many instances which go to show that no sooner is a law enacted than there are those with an ulterior purpose who sit down and study out how it can be beaten. Evasion of the law when respect for the law is being displayed on the surface presents serious obstacles for those who are engaged in the enforcement of laws. Where there is such a deliberateness in the breaking of laws, and where there is such a determination to get rich off of the demoralization of humanity in spite of laws to prevent it there is reason for the application of the full penalty of the law upon those who are caught. Certainly there is no ground for leniency in the case of those involved in the New York disclosure.

NEW YORK'S WISE MOVE.

In view of its appalling list of auto fatalities and the even greater number of accidents, New York had excellent ground for its action in adopting a new automobile law that would place a restriction upon those who drive machines. It will not be until the first of October that its new law goes into effect but when it does it will be necessary for all to obtain a license which will not be issued until it has been determined they are physically and mentally competent to handle a car. It is also provided that fines and jail sentences will be imposed for drunken drivers and chronic speeders, while those who allow their cars to be used for crime will lose their license and no criminals can obtain licenses. Those who drive away from accidents will face the loss of their licenses while those who dodge the certificate of title requirement will likewise put themselves in the way of losing their license.

Incompetency has been one of the outstanding features of automobile driving in New York state. Efforts to bring about a change have been underway for a long time and it required persistent effort to bring the Empire state into line with others in this part of the country, which though they have had smaller problems have proceeded more speedily to deal with them.

New York has been dilatory in facing a situation that has been steadily growing worse. It will find that the provisions of the new law will not overcome all its troubles but they will be of much help and will do much to increase the safety on its highways. It will not overcome the effects of speeding or of the failure to assume the responsibilities involved in respecting the rights of others.

EVACUATING THE RUHR.

From the statements which have been made by President Doumergue and Premier Herriot of France it becomes evident that France has not had its confidence in Germany restored just because it is inclined to accept the recommendations in the Dawes report. It is willing to give Germany a chance to demonstrate its good faith but in doing so it insists upon being safeguarded.

Under the provisions of the Dawes report, it is set forth that France should withdraw from the Ruhr and in consideration of such action there must be certain guarantees which Germany must provide.

France went into the Ruhr to bring about the enforcement of certain provisions of the Versailles treaty which could be obtained in no other way. It has insisted upon remaining there until it can be assured that Germany will pay. Germany's approval of the Dawes report is not regarded as sufficient to cause France to rely upon it. It is willing to leave the Ruhr but it requires that the guarantees to be provided to protect the evacuation be complied with before any move is made. It is simply a case where France insists upon being protected, and upon having that protection furnished before it puts itself in a position to release the advantages which it already holds.

The insistence by France develops from its experience with Germany. It is no longer willing to accept promises, and if Germany is willing to provide the guarantees it must appreciate the chance that is before it to accomplish the evacuation of the Ruhr by doing so before it is started. France in view of its experience takes no unreasonable attitude.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: June knows how to bring all the winter hats off.

It requires an unusual convention to cause interest in the next pennant winner to lapse.

Those drivers killed at railroad crossings must have forgotten that there were brakes on their cars.

In these days those who want to know what the wild waves are saying invariably listen in at the radio.

It is well to remember that the auto traffic on boat race day will call for close observance of rules of safety.

Is this going to be another summer when one will be as satisfied to stay at home as to go away for a vacation?

Can it be possible that the democratic convention will furnish the necessary heat to make this June the hottest on record?

From the arguments about the proper way to display the flag one might suppose the flag was something entirely new.

With Liberty bonds well over par many will wish they had bought when they were down around 85 and many people were selling.

The impression is gained that had the Cleveland convention acceded to the Wisconsin demands the delegation from that state would have opposed favorable action just to be on the other side.

WHAT UNCLE DID

"The next time we have an uncle here from out of town," cried Loretta, as she dropped into an easy chair with a tired sigh; "I'm going to watch the way the well-known cat watches the notorious mouse. It isn't safe to have things like that loose around the house."

"Dear me!" exclaimed her brother. "I supposed that Uncle John's visit was a great success. What has caused you to change in the last twenty-four hours?"

"The first thing that happened," explained Loretta, "was that I was unable to get a letter written in time to give it to the postman to take for me. He came unusually early, it seemed to me, and I had to go out myself to post the letter."

"Poor postman."

"Now, don't go and get me all worked up about the postman," Loretta protested. "I have only just recovered from my anxiety over the firemen. I suppose I have no particular interest in firemen, though, for I used to hope when I was a child that I'd either marry one or have one for a brother."

"Since I have so greatly disappointed you," her brother suggested cheerfully, "suppose you get up at 3 o'clock some of these coldest mornings and serve coffee to some shivering firemen at a fire. Then, of course, according to the novels, his gratitude will make him adore you, and well—there you are! You see, I have your welfare at heart, not wishing you to wither on the parent stem."

"We don't wither nowadays," said Loretta scornfully. "We go into charity work or run a tearoom and join a club and read papers telling how terribly the men are doing things."

"All interesting, but it doesn't tell me what deed you are laying up against Uncle John," said her brother.

"I didn't know anything about it at first," said Loretta. "In fact, not until I got downtown with what I thought was quite a lot of time to reach the alumnae luncheon. I stopped to do an errand at a department store and left just time enough to get to the hotel."

"And you were ever so astonished to find yourself late," put in her brother.

"If you have finished, I'll go on," said Loretta crushingly. "I stopped just one second at the glove counter and ordered a pair of gloves and then hurried on. I forgot to look at any of the store clocks but I set my watch yesterday by the one in this room, you said that it was such a good timekeeper that you never bothered with chronometers."

"I should say it is, a regular peach at keeping time," said her brother proudly. "However, I notice that this one is a little out of gear this evening, though I can't understand it exactly."

"I set it when I got home this afternoon," confessed Loretta. "And I got the time from the drug store clock, so it probably wasn't exactly right. Well, let's go back to the lunch. When I got there they were through with two courses and the girls weren't any too well pleased with me for not getting there in time to help with the arrangements, as I had promised. From there I went to a tea at the College club and found that the musical program was over, though I was in time to get some ice, which I didn't want. The literary light had gone home.

"Small loss," said her brother comfortingly. "Literary lights just raise a lorgnette and smile and anyhow you would be scared to death if the conversation turned on her works. I know."

"On my way I went up to the library, where Louise said she was going to be until half past 5, and she had been gone, the girl said, more than half an hour," Loretta continued. "I asked her the time and she told me, and I decided the clock was wrong, since you had told me that this one is always right."

"Good for you, sticking up for me!"

"But," said Loretta, "when I glanced in the drug store at the corner I saw that the library clock must have been right, after all, and I understood what had happened."

"Aha, Watson, I have it!"

"Uncle John had set the clocks in the house by his watch just before he left," laughed Loretta. "But he forgot that his watch still showed western time, so I owe it to him that I lost out everywhere today by being late."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

The ninth World's Sunday School Convention, which will open in Glasgow today with an attendance of 5000 delegates from many countries, has selected for its chairman Lord Pentland, a Scottish peer who has had a brilliant career as soldier, statesman and colonial administrator. To Canadians Captain Sinclair, as he then was, will be remembered as a resident of Ottawa during the governor-generalship of Lord Aberdeen, whose private secretary he was, and whose daughter he married. In 1897, after leaving Ottawa, Lord Pentland became private secretary to the late Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, then leader of the Liberal Opposition and afterwards premier. In 1905 Lord Pentland was named Secretary of State for Scotland, which post he continued to fill until 1912, when he became Governor of Madras. His services were recognized in 1909 by his elevation to the peerage.

Willard Cleaned Railroad Coaches

Daniel Willard's boyhood ambition was to be a locomotive engineer. He achieved that ambition sooner than he expected—only to find that he had worked himself into a rut.

Born on a farm near little North Hartland, Vt., he was graduated from high school when 17. He decided to go to Dartmouth, but he had no money, and had to go to Massachusetts Agricultural College where tuition was free. He studied law, then medicine, but his eyesight failed from too much study, and he had to go back to the farm.

He got work as track laborer on the Vermont Central railroad, with pay 96 cents a day. At 20 he was made an engineer. The wages were sufficient to live on, his home and friends were near, so the future looked pleasing. But time proved it all would not suffice, and he drifted. An engineer on the Lake Shore & Michigan Central Railroad, with a run out of Elkhart, Ind., he received $100 a month. Then the road retrenched and he was out of a job.

Road after road told him he was "too green" or "too young." His savings dwindled and he lived frugally. He became "brakeman" on a line two miles long, and he cleaned coaches and did other odd jobs. Today the road is known as the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie. The railroad grew, he became general foreman and later assistant superintendent, in which position he stuck eight years.

Then, at 38, he became assistant to the general manager of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. Two years later he was general manager of the Erie, where he remained three years, until James J. Hill made him vice president in charge of operations, of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy road.

At 49 he was elected president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, which position he still holds. After the United States entered the World War he was appointed by President Wilson to run the railroads under government control.

Today, at 63, he has a large income and is respected as one of the best railroad men in the country.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Up the Shady Forest Trail
Hops a little bunny.
Knapsack full of lollypops
And a jar of honey.

"Dear me," thought the little rabbit, as a big cloud hid Mr. Merry Sun from sight, "I hope it isn't going to rain."

The next minute he heard a sound like thunder.

"Dear me, oh dear," sighed the bunny boy, "Now I know it will rain," and he opened his knapsack and took out his nice toadstool umbrella. Just then from behind the cloud came Mr. Merry Sun. The next minute the sound of thunder came again.

They made a noise just like thunder.

"Whatever is the matter," sighed the bunny boy. "I'm so perplexed. I don't know whether or not to put my toadstool umbrella in my knapsack."

Just then he spied Mr. Grouse on a big, mossy, hollow log, his tail spread like an open fan above his back. Suddenly he dropped his tail and began to beat his wings up and down, faster and faster. They made a noise just like thunder—such loud thunder that the little rabbit held his paws to his ears.

Pretty soon Mr. Grouse settled down to rest, folding up his reddish brown wings about him. Then, turning his head, he looked at the bunny boy over the wonderful black feather ruff he wears around his neck.

"Good morning, Little Jack Rabbit. Did you polish the front door knob and feed the canary this morning?"

"Oh yes, oh yes," answered the little bunny. "And I brought in the kindling wood for mother."

"That's a good boy," said Mr. Grouse, "but what makes you look so troubled?"

"I thought it was going to rain," replied the little rabbit.

"Ha, ha," laughed Mr. Grouse. "Did you think because I made it thunder that I could make it rain, too?"

"No-o-o," hesitated the bunny boy. "First a big cloud hid Mr. Merry Sun; then when he was shining again I heard thunder. I don't know what to think."

"Don't worry. It won't rain," answered Mr. Grouse.

"How is Mrs. Grouse?" asked the little rabbit, strapping up his knapsack.

"At home, sitting on twelve eggs in her nest," answered Mr. Grouse. "We'll soon have a large family."

"Well goodbye," said the bunny boy, "I must be going," and away he hopped lipperty lip, clipperty clip, his little knapsack bouncing up and down on his back and his red striped candy cane swinging from his left paw. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that. For something will happen, little reader as sure as sunshine follows rain and little buttercups grow on the meadow and lollypops on the lollypop tree near the Big Brown Bear's Cosy Cave in the Shady Forest.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

SAN MARINO.

Photographs are just reaching this country of the world's quaintest inauguration—the investiture of the regents of San Marino.

The tiny republic, oldest state in Europe, has 38 square miles and 13,000 people. It is governed by regents who change every six months. The National Geographic society quotes a communication from Alice Rohe describing their election and inauguration as follows:

"On the 15th of September and the 15th of March, at the hour of Ave Maria, the bells of the government palace and the fortress announce the hour of electing the new regents. San Marino flocks to the Piazza della Liberta. Within, the council is in session, the regents having been escorted from their homes in picturesque cortege to the palace.

"The ceremony of choosing the new regents is an ancient one. First of all, by extracting names, 12 nominators are chosen. Each of these must name a candidate, one in whom he has full faith and also one who has not for three years held that office. The 12 names are then voted upon by the white and black ball system, the six receiving the highest number of votes being the candidates. These six names are then coupled in three pairs, the arrangement being amicably made by the candidates.

"The cortege then issues from the palace—the regents, in their medieval state costumes, accompanied by attendants, in livery, bearing torches. Up the steep street to the nearby cathedral, the cortege goes. At the door of the church the regents are met by the archpriest, who awaits them with holy water and blesses them.

"The regents take their post of honor on the canopied throne beside the high altar. Guards, carabinieri, the entire cortege, stand at attention in the long nave. The archpriest offers a prayer to San Marino; then he reads the six names and puts the three couplets in three little silver balls. They are placed in a silver urn, shaken about, and a child is called to draw out one of them. The little one holds it up before the breathless congregation. It is then given to the regents, who open it and read the names. They in turn go to the high altar and give the paper to the priest, who reads aloud the names of the new heads of the government. Instantly the band sounds the national hymn and the cortege with flaming torches winds its way back to the palace. The newly elected regents are officially notified with medieval ceremony.

"The inauguration is the big event of the republic, when the tradespeople, a number of whom are souvenir-sellers, look forward to their chief profits from visitors. The simplicity of life here is such that 20 or 25 strangers are regarded as a great invasion.

"The important occasion is announced the night before by the ringing of the fortress bell. On the morning of the inauguration a series of parades begins. The noble guards, resplendent in beplumed hats and gold-braided uniforms, preceded by the band, first march to the homes of the regents to escort them to the palace in Via Giosue Carducci, where they clothe themselves in the state garments.

"At 10 the gorgeous procession moves through the narrow streets to the government palace. The regents having entered, the populace, with all the cortege, stands at attention for the moment when the flag is unfurled from an upper balcony. As the banner, blue and white, with the coat of arms of the republic—the three-plumed towers encircled in a laurel and oak wreath tied with a ribbon bearing the motto 'Libertas'—is raised, the band strikes up the national hymn, a quaint, unmartial air, founded on an ancient theme of Guido Monaco.

"The spectacular moment which the populace awaits is when the regents leave the palace to attend mass in the church where lie the relics of the republic's saintly founder. Following mass, at which the regents assist in their official posts beside the altar, the retiring regents on the canopied throne, the new ones in a simple pew, the cortege goes back to the palace, where the inauguration ceremony takes place.

"An address by a former regent is always delivered. Then the new regents take the oath of office and the old ones, removing their insignia of power, place them upon the future heads of government, bestowing upon them the seals and keys of state. The ex-regents step down from their seats of authority and the new ones take their place. Then the ceremony is over and the cortege accompanies the regents to their homes."

Stories That Recall Others

Smoked Out

A young married woman whose greatest fear was rats, was sitting in the dining room one morning after her husband had left for the office. She heard a scraping in the cold air duct and immediately drew the conclusion that a rat had found its way in there and would soon be in the house to pester her. All during the day she was afraid to go near the dining room. So early in the afternoon she called her husband and he agreed to come home and bring a man to catch the large rat. They arrived and after much poking about they conceived the idea of starting a fire in the furnace. A brown haired, burnt smelling animal made a scramble and finally was caught in a bag. They took it into the yard to [illegible] and opened the sack. A badly scared squirrel rolled out and raced to the nearby woods.

Derned Poor Management

An old man approached the ticket wagon on the circus grounds and asked for three seats for the afternoon performance.

"Sorry, but we're all sold out," the ticket seller told him.

"You mean to tell me that you haven't even three seats you can sell me?"

"That's about the situation."

"Well," opined the old man with acerbity, "I call that derned poor management!"

Your Child's Health and Happiness

One of the most annoying and general complaints children suffer from is worms. You know the signs—constipation, deranged stomach, offensive breath, eyes heavy and dull, coated tongue, grinding of the teeth. Don't let the child suffer. Promptly give him

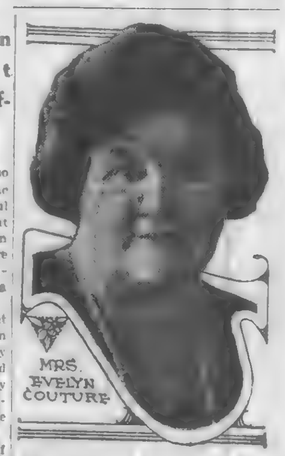
FOUR YEARS' SUFFERING GONE, SAYS MRS. COUTURE

Hartford Lady Says Even Simplest Diet Brought Agony — Tanlac Was Effective.

"That I got to feeling right so quickly after I began taking Tanlac convinces me that it is a wonderful medicine," is the concise statement of Mrs. Evelyn L. Couture, 99 Hudson Street, Hartford, Conn. Mrs. Couture is prominently identified with fraternal order work in Hartford and has a wide circle of friends.

"The pain and distress I went through for three or four years from indigestion simply could not be fully described. At times even milk and coffee gave me a world of trouble. My nerves were unstrung, my sleep unsound and I was subject to severe headaches and dizzy spells.

"It was on the recommendation of Mrs. Yockell, one of my neighbors, that I took Tanlac and now I am enjoying the best of health. It gives me genuine pleasure to praise Tanlac."



Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

BUY DEWOLFE FARM IN TOWN OF SALEM

Mr. and Mrs. W. Kyle Sheffield of the Pequot have purchased the Henry Dewolfe farm in Salem, located on the Hamburg road, four miles south of the New London-Hartford turnpike. In addition to the old homestead they have acquired 100 acres of land bordering on the old eight-mile river road. The property is within a short distance of the Mitchell estate and the summer home on Woodbridge hill of Lieut. Gov. Hiram Bingham of New Haven, whose wife was formerly Miss Mitchel, the daughter of the late Alfred Mitchell, and a granddaughter of the late Donald G. Mitchell, known in the world of letters as Ik Marvel the author of The Reveries of a Bachelor.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheffield intend using the Dewolfe property as a country place and will occupy it during the summer months.

FOUR OF YALE'S "BIG MEN" ABSENT FROM EXERCISES

New Haven, June 17.—A score of reunions of Yale graduates of former years this evening proved a fitting climax to alumni day, always one of the bright spots in Yale commencement programs. With the colorful and picturesque march of returning Yale men to Yale field, a victory over Harvard on the diamond and the get-together meetings tonight, the day proved one of the most successful in Yale's history.

There was but one dark side to the success of the day and that was the absence of four of Yale's "big men." President James R. Angell is ill in a Baltimore hospital. President Emeritus Arthur Twining Hadley is in Europe. William Howard Taft is ill in Washington and Professor Clarence Mendell, who always has figured prominently in commencement programs, is in the New Haven hospital.

One of the prominent visitors in New Haven today was Governor Gifford Pinchot, '89, who was recognized by the paraders at Yale field this afternoon and given an ovation.

HEARING ON ASSAULT ON GLENN YOUNG

Carlyle, Ills., June 17.—The preliminary hearing of Carl and Earl Shelton, charged with assault with intent to kill Glenn Young, the famous klan raider, and his wife, Maude Young, called for today before Justice C. H. Wrigley, was continued to June 26. Young is under treatment in a Belleville hospital. He started for Carlyle but fainted en route and was taken back. This was the reason for the postponement.

Klansmen friends of Young came from Williamson county and his enemies were here. The Shelton brothers had an armed guard with them on their trip from East St. Louis. Some weapons were visible and others not carrying revolvers wore stars of some kind.

Sheriff Ragen swore in a number of special deputies and announced that every man not an officer would be searched for arms and be divested of them before entering the court room. The proposed armistice was agreeable to both sides.

UNUSUAL NUMBER OF CHINESE IN SYRACUSE

WEDDINGS

Sweeney—Twomey

In St. Patrick's church Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock, Rev. Michael H. May, the rector, united in marriage, Jeremiah Edward Sweeney of Fitchville and Miss Madeline Loretta Twomey, daughter of Police Captain and Mrs. Dennis J. Twomey. As the bridal party entered the church the Wedding March from Lohengrin was played by Prof. Frank L. Farrell organist. Mrs. Farrell sang Ave Maria during the ceremony.

The bride was charmingly gowned in white Molly O crepe, wore a lace corset of lace and orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and sweet peas. Her bridesmaid was Miss Helen A. Twomey, her sister, and the best man was Thomas P. Sweeney, brother of the groom. The bridesmaid wore blue georgette with pearl trimmings and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses and sweet peas. Only immediate relatives and a few intimate friends were present.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Captain and Mrs. Twomey, at No. 20 Grove street. The bride's gift to her maid was a pearl rosary and the groom's gift to the best man was a diamond stick pin. During the day Mr. and Mrs. Sweeney left for a wedding tour to Boston and points in Maine. The bride's traveling gown was of blue satin crepe with gray trimmings and hat to match.

On their return to Norwich Mr. and Mrs. Sweeney will reside in a newly furnished apartment at No. 20 1-2 Grove street. Mr. Sweeney is the son of Mrs. Margaret Sweeney of Fitchville and is employed by Palmer Bros. He is an ex-service man having served overseas with the First Division during the World war, and is a constable of the town of Bozrah. The bride is a graduate of the Norwich Commercial school and has been employed as bookkeeper for the American Thermos Bottle Co. She received many beautiful and useful wedding gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Sweeney have the best wishes of a host of admiring friends for a long and happy married life.

TAFTVILLE WOMAN LOSES SUIT AGAINST TOWN OF NORWICH

A verdict for the defendant, the Town of Norwich, was returned by the jury in the superior court here Tuesday afternoon in the suit of Thomas and Marie Lambert of Taftville, husband and wife, for $3,000 damages for an injured ankle which Mrs. Lambert sustained in a fall on Providence St., while she was on her way to mass about 5:30 on the morning of Dec. 8, 1920. She alleged that the fall was due to a hole in the sidewalk. Most of the plaintiff's case was put in last Thursday, and Tuesday morning was occupied largely with the defendant's evidence.

The argument for the plaintiff was made by Attorney J. J. Desmond and for the defendant by Attorney M. H. Pettis, counsel for the town. Judge John R. Booth charged the jury after the noon recess and the verdict was returned through Foreman A. D. Zabriskie about 4 o'clock after the jury had been out about an hour.

Testimony for the town was given by Dr. R. R. Agnew, B. H. Palmer, Jr., civil engineer, Casper K. Bailey, who was first selectman in 1920, Constable Louis A. Paquette of Taftville, Eugene Frechette of Taftville, who was employed to look after the streets and sewers there, and Walter Grant of Taftville.

EAST GREAT PLAIN TO CELEBRATE FOURTH

40 yard dash (younger boys) final and semi final; 60 yard dash (older boys) final and semi final; same events for girls; 60 yard potato race (several classes); obstacle race; running broad jump; hop, skip and jump; 220 yard relay race (younger boys); 440 yard relay race (older boys) 3 legged race (men); shot put (several classes); horse shoe game (older men) tug of war (married versus single men) tug of war (married versus single women) baseball game (married versus single men).

Other events will occupy the remainder of the afternoon and evening such as children's games, community singing, fireworks, etc. A basket lunch will replace the usual evening dinner.

The place where the celebration will be held is uncertain but will be announced within a few days.

MOVE AGAINST SIGNS ALONG HIGHWAY BORDERS

The rapid increase within the last few weeks in the erection of signs along borders of highways in Connecticut has caused the state highway department to notify its field forces to take steps towards their removal. Contrary to law a number of various types of signs have been placed within the legal limits of the highways on trees, poles and other structures, with the result that those responsible have made themselves liable to prosecution.

To curb this activity, the highway department has instructed its district supervisors and foremen that signs, so placed in violation of the law, shall be removed. At the same time, the state police department has been notified, and flagrant cases will be referred to that department for investigation.

Similar instructions have been made necessary in previous years due to the activity annually, at this season, of organizations, businesses and individuals who aim to take advantage of the free advertising that such signs, placed conveniently, afford. Experience has proven however, that the signs in many cases are a menace to the safety of highway travel, and offer an unnecessary hazard for motorists.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Waldo Tillinghast.

Mary C. Tillinghast, wife of the late Judge Waldo Tillinghast, died at her home in Plainfield, Friday afternoon, June 13th, in her 87th year, after a long illness. She was the daughter of Charles Crary and Anne Borden and was born in Smithfield, R. I., on June 22, 1833, and was educated at Plainfield Academy. She was married to Waldo Tillinghast Oct. 13, 1859 and lived most of her married life in the home in which she died, and was one of the old residents of the village. Mrs. Tillinghast was a member of the Mayflower Society of Connecticut and also of Deborah Avery Putnam Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Tillinghast had been a very active woman and closely associated with the best interests of the community. She is survived by two sons, Fred W. Tillinghast of Central Village, Arthur C. Tillinghast of Plainfield, one daughter, Miss Annie L. Tillinghast, and a sister, Miss Susan Cramer of LaCrosse, Wis., who is in her 91st year.

Irving A. Cutler, who died at East Greenwich, R. I., June 17, was born at West Gloucester, R. I., March 22, 1890, and was the son of Edward R. and the late Lillie Day Cutler. He was married December 21, 1919, to Dorah Louise Greene, daughter of Turner E. Greene of Plainfield, who survives him. Mr. Cutler was a member of Israel Putnam lodge of Odd Fellows, Putnam lodge of Elks, Hose Company No. 1, Putnam, and a cornet player in the Manhasset band of Putnam. He had lived there many years, working 13 years for William Mansfield & Co., but for the past year and a half has lived at Plainfield on account of failing health. He was a man beloved by all he came in contact with him, being of a kind and genial nature, making many friends who deeply regret the loss of a good man.

Leaves Sister in Norwich

The body of Ernest Veloge LaVigeur, 57, was found Sunday morning in the second level canal about 10.30, near the rear of the office building of the Hadley division of the American Thread Company at Holyoke.

He had been missing since Friday and is believed to have fallen into the canal some way Saturday night. He leaves three sisters, Mrs. Louis Peltier of Canada, Mrs. Frank Buphili of Norwich, Ct., and Miss Hermiule LaVigeur of Holyoke.

Minor Automobile Accidents

Two minor automobile accidents in the Franklin square neighborhood were reported Tuesday to the police. George Sullivan of Baltic bumped in Rhode Island car near the Wauregan house, doing slight damage to a mudguard, and Albertus Kinney, a milkman, hit another car while turning around near Rose Place. As he was without his operator's license he was summoned to court Wednesday morning.

Residing at Norwich Town.

Rev. and Mrs. Alexander H. Abbott and family, recently moved from Union street to their newly purchased home at West Town street, Norwich Town. Since purchasing this property, formerly the Sterry-Park residence, several attractive improvements have been made, including an addition on one side of the house.

Every girl has her own exclusive idea of what a perfect man should be.

MEAT MARKET FIRE IS THOUGHT INCENDIARY

About 3.15 o'clock Tuesday morning a bad fire was discovered in the one-story frame building on West Main street, opposite the Max Gordon building, and owned by Alec M. Pasnik. Two Willimantic men passing by in an automobile, discovered the fire and at the same moment it was noticed by Frank Tuttle, night watchman at the Max Gordon building, who pulled in box 116, Washington square. The fire was in the meat market conducted by Peter Ducharme and Eugene Monast. The market was badly cutted, the damage being estimated at about $5,000. Upon investigation the fire was found to have started in the cellar and is thought by the fire department authorities to have been of an incendiary nature.

The building was of frame construction and the walls were lined with sawdust for insulation purposes. It was necessary to chop into the walls in order to reach the fire in the sawdust filling. At one time it looked as though the fire might spread to the Venice hall, adjoining, and Chief Howard L. Stanton called out Engine No. 6, Thamesville, in addition to the companies which responded to the alarm.

The owner of the building, Alec M. Pasnik, returned to Norwich from New Jersey Tuesday afternoon. He stated that the insurance on the building amounted to $2,500. He said that at the present time he could not state just what his loss is.

The building was erected about 50 years ago by Capt. William Whaley for a meat market for his son and for years was occupied as a tinshop by John Troland. The recall was sounded about 4.30 o'clock. Engineer Garmen of the New England Insurance Exchange, who is in town, was present at the fire and witnessed the efficient work of the department in preventing the flames from spreading to adjoining property.

MORE PROOF THAT LIGHTED MATCH PLUS GAS IS FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Danielson, June 17.—They're still doing it. At about 11.15 Tuesday evening Emile Bissonette of South Lancashershire, Mass., driving a nifty little touring car hauled up to a filling station near the railroad station and put in an order for some gasoline. One of the attendants drew the hose from the tank of the car. Emile lighted a match. The usual result followed, there was a puff, a flash of flame and the automobile was afire. Someone pulled in an alarm from Box 23, the most dreaded number in the borough, and in a jiffy the fire department was out. In the meantime Lionel Bousque, attendant at the filling station, had used up the contents of two fire extinguishers and squelched the flames. The car was scorched on the rear end of the tonneau and the back of the top burned out, but was otherwise unharmed. Bissonette was not proud of the disturbance created.

CALL FOR $350,000 FOR NEW SCHOOL BUILDINGS

The Norwich selectmen have issued the call for a special town meeting for next Tuesday evening to vote on the appropriation of $350,000 to provide new school buildings at Norwich Town and on the East Side.

Of this amount $250,000 is called for to buy land, erect and equip the building at Norwich Town and $100,000 is for building and equipping the building on the East Side on land already owned by the town.

At Norwich town, the school committee is recommending that a new site should be secured upon which a building could be erected as it is considered that none of the present school sites, Town street, West Town street of Yantic, are suitable for the building the board recommends which would probably house all the school children in the Norwich Town district. Whether all three of the present school buildings would be abandoned is still an open question.

On the East Side the proposition involves re-building on the present school site there.

SOME REVENUE TAXES DROP OFF ON JULY 2

Repeal of various miscellaneous taxes as provided in the new revenue act, effective at midnight on July 2, is announced by the internal revenue department. The telegraph and telephone tax and the stamp tax of 2 cents for each $100 on checks, drafts and promissory notes will cease on that date. The tax on theatre admissions changes so as to apply only to admissions in excess of 50 cents. The stamp tax on sales of produce on exchanges, boards of trade, is reduced from 2 cents to 1 cent on each $100 or part thereof. The tax on playing cards is increased from 8 to 10 cents.

Effective July 2, the 5 per cent jewelry tax does not apply to sales or leases of musical instruments, silver plated flat tableware or articles used for religious purposes or to articles sold or leased for not more than $30 or watches for not more than $60.

The automobile tax alterations become effective at midnight, July 2. The repeal of the taxes on carpets, rugs, trunks, valises, purses, pocketbooks, handbags, portable lamps and fans becomes effective at 4.01 p. m. July 2.

AUTOMOBILE STRUCK CHILD ON NORTH MAIN STREET

While driving on North Main street about 6.40 o'clock Tuesday evening Walter S. Cripinski of No. 178 Cliff street struck and knocked down Irene Sullivan, aged four years of age. The child was somewhat bruised but otherwise was not hurt. Dr. Edward J. Brophy was called to attend her. The accident happened between Fifth and Sixth streets.

Mr. Cripinski made a report of the accident at police headquarters. He stated that he was going about ten miles an hour and that the child ran out from behind another machine and directly in front of his machine.

No Business for Common Pleas

When the common pleas court came here Tuesday morning the cases that had been assigned failed to furnish business for the court, so that the jury was excused and court adjourned until Thursday morning at 9 o'clock, standard time.

WOMAN DESCRIBES ATTACK IN SLANDER SUIT

Giving testimony in the superior court here Tuesday afternoon before Judge John R. Booth and a jury in her suit for $5,000 for assault and slander, Mrs. Adreana B. Percy of New London declared that she was set upon by three women at once, her $35 dress was torn, her $5 hat trampled upon, her purse torn, her hair pulled down, and she was scratched around the left shoulder and neck. Mrs. Percy, who lives at 78 Goshen street, is suing Mrs. Clara Occhialini of Chelsea street and Mrs. Cesarini Olivieri of Smith street, who is Mrs. Occhialini's mother.

The alleged attack took place, Mrs. Percy said, on August 17, 1923, just as she was passing Mrs. Olivieri's store, down the steps of which the two women came running at her while Mrs. Occhialini shouted, "I have you at last. Are you satisfied? You've broken up my home." With that the attack began in which the mother and daughter were assisted by Frances Olivieri. All the time the two women, Mrs. Percy testified, were screaming an approbrious epitet at her, in English and Italian. She was rescued by the arrival of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Menghi.

Mrs. Mary Epolito, a cousin, who was walking with Mrs. Percy at the time of the attack, gave testimony as to the assault and court adjourned at 5 o'clock to continue the trial the next day.

Mrs. Clara Occhialini makes a counter claim for $1,000 damages for slander, alleging that Mrs. Percy applied to her the same term that figures in Mrs. Percy's suit.

Attorney T. A. Troland represents the plaintiff and Attorney D. J. Cronin the defendant.

The jury in the case is Arthur C. Bownton, Joseph G. Rainey, John R. Bowman, Jr., Charles W. Dow, all of Norwich; Jesse O. Crary and William A. Bennett of Preston; Dwight C. Gillette, of Colchester; Fred H. Fanning, of Griswold; William A. Kilroy of Bozrah; John Quinn of Sprague; Chas. F. Johnson of Lisbon and William R. Darling of Salem.

BELIEVE STONINGTON MAN DROWNED IN SANDY POINT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Stonington, June 17.—Frank Miller, 23, son of Charles Miller, is missing and is believed to have been drowned this afternoon at Sandy Point while swimming after a boat that had gone adrift. His clothes were found on the beach and the empty boat with the oar attached to it was found tonight about 9 o'clock on Elihu Island by a searching party.

Miller and a young woman school teacher, whose name was not learned, left Stonington about 5 o'clock this afternoon in a row boat to go to Sandy Point for a picnic. They left the boat on the bay side of the point while they went over to the ocean side. Miller later went back to look after the boat and it is believed he found it had gone adrift and tried to swim out to it. When he did not return after a time, the school teacher went to look for him and found his clothes on the beach, but neither he nor the boat were anywhere in sight. She made her way back to Stonington where she gave the alarm and a searching party in a motor boat found the rowboat on the island.

Captain Broadmeadow of the Watch Hill coast guard sent out a crew about 8.15 tonight, but they returned after about an hour and a half of searching with the report that they had seen nothing of the missing man. The coast guard crew consisted of Hartley, Bromley, Baton, Vannard and McCoy.

CELEBRATED ANNIVERSARY OF 40 YEARS A PRIEST

Father Michael A. Sullivan, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Hartford, observed the fortieth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood.

Father Sullivan was born in Middlefield on September 16, 1859. He received his early education at Bacon Academy, Colchester, and later attended St. Bonaventure's College, Allegheny, N. Y., from which he was graduated in 1884. He was ordained the same year by Bishop Ryan of Buffalo. The first pastorate to which he was assigned was at St. Mary's at Windsor Locks, where he remained until 1887, when he was transferred to St. John's Church, New Haven. He was appointed pastor of St. Paul's Church, Kensington, in 1894 and in 1902 became pastor of the Immaculate Conception parish. He was formerly president of the Hartford park board.

FINED IN COLCHESTER FOR LIQUOR VIOLATION

Pleading guilty to manufacture of liquor, Stanislaus Schmal of Colchester drew a fine of $200 and costs when arraigned Monday afternoon before Justice of the Peace Fred Baker of that place.

Schmal's place was raided Sunday night by a squad of federal men under Constable John M. Riley, and entrance into the man's home revealed a large-sized still in operation and 10 gallons of the still's product.

Arraigned Monday Schmal was charged with manufacturing and keeping liquor with intent to sell. In view of his plea of guilty on the first count the other charge was continued 30 days. The aggregate sum of the court's assessment, including the cost, amounted to more than $200.

CUMMINGS TO ENTERTAIN CONNECTICUT DELEGATES

If a majority of the members of the Connecticut delegation to the democratic convention render any vocal selection in New York next week, it appears that their choice will be "The Sidewalks of New York," Governor Alfred Smith's campaign song. Committeeman Frank P. Fenton of Willimantic said Tuesday that the delegation is "up in the air" but that he believes all but four or five votes will be for Smith. The four or five will be for Meadoo.

The festivities for the delegation from this state will get under way Sunday night when most of the delegates and alternates, their wives and husbands and the attaches of the delegation attend a dinner which National Committeeman Homer S. Cummings of Stamford will give at the Waldorf-Astoria. Alderman Fred P. Holt, treasurer of the delegation; Alexander S. Lynch of New Haven, secretary, and Ozrah Hanks of Tolland county, sergeant-at-arms will be present.

The delegation will be quartered at the Hotel McAlpin and most of the members plan to attend as many of the extra-curricular functions as they can without missing any of the important transactions of the convention.

All will attend the dinner which Mayor John F. Hylan will give Monday evening and the women's national committee has planned a round of pleasure for women members of the convention.

Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welch of Columbia and most of the women members of the Connecticut delegation will leave by train Sunday morning for New York, arriving there at about 3.30 in the afternoon. They will attend Mr. Cummings' and Mayor Hylan's dinner, a fashion show Monday afternoon, a garden party arranged by Mrs. Hylan for Thursday afternoon and various other affairs.

James J. Walsh of Meriden is chairman of the delegation and Mrs. Josepha Whitney of New Haven is vice-chairman.

The men delegates will not go to New York together, some planning to leave Sunday and others at a later date. Mr. Cummings, as Connecticut member of the national committee, is already there.

Although the delegation is for Smith early in the sessions these will probably be a complimentary vote for Mr. Cummings.

TAFTVILLE, CONN.

ST. LOUIS RAISES $3,000,000 FOR Y. M. C. A. BUILDINGS

General Secretary Edwin Hill of the local Y. M. C. A. has just received a report of the success of a great undertaking on the part of the St. Louis Y. M. C. A. and churches of that city. This was the raising of $3,000,000 for a development program planned for the entire community, with modern "Y" buildings in each important and representative section. This means five entirely new buildings and enlargement of three others.

"Christianity was on trial in no uncertain way in this campaign," said Edwin Hill of the local Y. M. C. A., in describing the effort. "In the face of extraordinary difficulties Christianity has proved its vitality in no uncertain terms."

The Central Y. M. C. A. building in St. Louis, Mr. Hill states was burned in 1921. While an opportune time for acquiring a more advantageous site for the general headquarters was awaited, comprehensive plans were made, in consultation with religious and civic bodies, looking not merely to expansion of facilities but to placing Y. M. C. A. work in the city on a plane of usefulness far advanced as compared with anything attained in the past.

With ample evidence of confidence on the part of the community in the character and need of Y. M. C. A. service, but with many warnings that the proposed goal was impossible, 1300 men of various group and creeds set out to enlist the active interest of thousands of the citizens.

Thirteen days, running into early June, were devoted to the actual campaign. It was preceeded with what was observed as "Young Men's Sunday" in churches, synagogues and Y. M. C. A.'s. One hundred professional and lay leaders from all parts of the country were the speakers. Throughout the campaign, ministers and laymen representing some 200 churches of St. Louis actively cooperated.

"The success of the effort," said Mr. Hill, "was a triumph, not only for the spiritual forces represented in the churches and the Y. M. C. A.; it was a triumph of youth. The leadership and the largest responsibility throughout was in the hands of young men. Byron W. Moser, president of the St. Louis Y. M. C. A., who is also president of the Security National Bank, was the chairman of the steering committee. He gave his entire vacation of three weeks to the campaign. Lester C. Hayworth, general secretary of the St. Louis association, was of course a central figure. Both of these men are under forty years of age. This would be found true of most of the active participants. Citizens of many classes and creeds contributed. The colored group, too, will have an additional building, as well as an enlargement of their present building, subscribed $125,000. This included the largest single gift ever made by a colored man or woman, $25,000 given by Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Malone. They asserted that the returns in character-building among colored boys and men growing out of a gift of $5,000 made by them some years ago, convinced them of the value of a larger investment. The amount subscribed by the colored group made available a conditional gift of $25,000 by Julius Rosenwald, head of Sears, Roebuck & Co., of Chicago, who has now made like contributions toward fourteen of the buildings used in various parts of the country in Y. M. C. A. service for colored men and boys.

HARDIGS TAKE LEAD IN TWILIGHT LEAGUE BY TROUNCING BATTERY B

The hard-hitting Hardigs took the lead in the Norwich Twilight league Tuesday evening when they fell on three pitchers of Battery B and pounded them to all corners of the lot, swamping the soldiers, 16 to 2. The Battery team was completely at sea as to how baseball should be played, making a total of 14 errors which proved costly in practically every inning, especially the first, fourth and fifth.

Berberick started the pitching for the soldiers but when the Hardigs scored five runs on hits and errors he was relieved by Donah who fared as poorly as his predecessor. He gave way to Roberston whose fate was little better. While all three pitchers were touched up, it was largely through errors that such a big score was piled up.

The Hardigs played a good game in the field in back of Rankin, who pitched good ball and allowed only six hits. The score:

Echoes From the Grand Stand.

(By Matt.)

The Battery boys gave an awful exhibition of baseball, and I do not blame Manager Bissell one bit when he split his finger trying to show O'Brien how he umpire on balls and strikes. Coleman called the balls and strikes and did excellent work.

The Hardigs played a snappy game batting and fielding in good shape. They played circles around the Battery boys, made by both the Hardigs was among the leaders and it was a pleasure to see him home with a couple of runs to his credit trying to get some practice.

Manager Barry was in charge of the Hardigs playing squad and sure did make a good showing.

Danny Dougalis, who replaced Tombari, caught a very good game.

GOODFELLOWSHIP IS ROTARY'S DESTINY

Toronto, June 17 (By the A. P.)—"Rotary's destiny is the establishment of a world fellowship of business and professional men, united in the Rotary idea of service," said President Guy Gudaker opening the 15th annual Rotary convention here today.

"A world fellowship, while necessarily contingent on the extent and successful establishment of Rotary in all the nations of the world, is likewise contingent on the correctness of the standards of business practice of the men privileged to enter that fellowship," he continued.

Until men meet on the common ground of correct business methods, there can be no world fellowship of business men. The major Rotary activities for the immediate future will be an increasing and unceasing activity for better business methods and more standardization in codes of ethics in countries where crafts are organized, with great national associations, the greatest opportunity for advancement will be found in Rotary's campaign for written codes of correct standards of business practice.

"In my opinion, Rotary's most lasting contribution to the world will be found in the realm of business, in the making of a better, more contented, more loyal, more cooperative, and more honorable business world. In the achievement of a more honorable business world you have the solution to [illegible] international misunderstandings, [illegible] business methods are the business men of all nations meeting on this common ground, to establish great international friendships and good will—friendships which will harbinger lasting peace.

The June monthly social of the Westerly Masonic club, with its usual accompaniment of strawberry shortcake, will be held in the rooms of the club on High street Thursday evening of this week. Cards, billiards and pool matches will feature the evening. The annual klam dinner of the Masonic club will be held next month.

The Little Narragansett bay, at Watch Hill, is the brand new power boat "Rosananta," which arrived at the Hill last week, from New York city. The boat which is the property of Mrs. G. T. Vail and equipped with every modern convenience, the last word in marine construction, was purchased at the Motor Boat show at the Grand Central Palace, in New York city last winter.

Miss Louise Champlin of Mystic after visiting friends in Westerly returned to her home Monday night.

Samuel Stralsin, 54, who resided at 37 Stillman avenue, Pawcatuck, and was the proprietor of the Brockton Shoe Store at 11 Broad street, died at Pleasant View Beach Tuesday morning at 3 o'clock. Mr. Stralsin, who is associated in the management of the shoe store with his son, Morris Stralsin, was taken ill at the store on Tuesday morning and Dr. M. H. Smith was called. Having been a sufferer from kidney trouble for some time it was thought best to remove him to his summer place at Pleasant View Beach. There was no improvement in his condition and death followed early in the afternoon.

Arriving in Westerly Tuesday night on the Colonial express for a visit with their father, Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, were his three daughters, Miss Frances L. Burdick, who has taught school the past year at Aztec, New Mexico, Mrs. John Bergin, also of Aztec, and Mrs. Charles Dilke and Mrs. Haze, Elaine, of Swedesboro, N. J.

MYSTIC

Mystic Methodists found reason for encouragement in the reports presented in their quarterly conference Monday evening and, responding to the challenge of opportunities presenting themselves, they proceeded to outline a definite advance program for the present conference year. Full reports were presented by the executives of the Sunday school, Epworth League missionary society, Ladies' Aid, communion steward, world service committee, finance committee and church improvement committee, and other departments were represented in informal discussion. Pastor J. Garfield Sallis, in opening his report, said, "My re-appointment by Bishop Hughes to the pastorate in Mystic for a second year is a matter of great satisfaction to me, and I find every reason to be encouraged with the opening weeks of the year." After reviewing the life and activities of the church from the pastoral standpoint, in the course of which he referred with satisfaction to the growing spirit of co-operation between the several churches in the community, Mr. Sallis set before the conference three definite objectives for the present year; an evangelistic campaign under the leadership of Dr. H. Earle Kernahan in September; special emphasis upon Mystic's share in the World Service program of Methodism at the Christmas season; and the culmination and completion of the church improvement enterprise during the Lenten and Easter season next spring. The program was enthusiastically adopted. Rev. Myron H. Gentes of New London who presided as special appointment of the district superintendent who was unable to be present, warmly congratulated the church upon its forward-looking spirit and was in turn thanked by rising vote of the conference for his services as presiding officer. After adjournment a social hour was spent, some of the ladies serving tasteful refreshments.

Miss Louise Paige, who is a special teacher in the Milford school, is to sail on July 5th on the Leviathan for a stay of two months abroad during which time she will study in the schools adjacent to Manchester and London, England, along the lines of the work she is now doing, and will spend a short time on the continent before returning home in September. Her place as organist of the Mystic Bridge Congregational church will be taken by Mrs. Elwood Lathrop during her absence.

Mrs. William Wells and Miss Phoebe Wilcox were recent caller in Point Judith, R. I.

Phoebe Packer Rathbun Tent, Daughters of Veterans, meets this evening in G. A. R. hall.

John W. McDonald and daughter, Miss Barbara McDonald, have returned from a trip to East Killingly.

Mrs. Warren Packer of Sag Harbor, and Mrs. John Colegrove of New London, have returned to their respective homes after a visit with their aunt, Mrs. E. W. Whiting.

Judge Frank H. Hinckley has been a recent visitor in New York.

At the semi-monthly meeting of the Mystic Country club Thursday evening, the following committee will be in charge: Mrs. Annie B. Greenman, Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. George, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Reynolds, Mrs. William D. Breaker, Miss Edna Wheeler and Clarence O. Reynolds.

Among those from this section who attended the funeral of Mrs. Frank E. Wilcox at Anguilla, Pawcatuck, Monday afternoon, were: Capt. and Mrs. Elias F. Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thorpe, Mrs. Hollis H. Price, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Denison, Mrs. Frances M. Aiken, Miss Phoebe Wilcox, Mrs. Martha B. Stinson, Miss Annie Noyes, Miss Fannie Palmer, Paul Palmer, Mrs. Harriet Park, Harry Gleason, Miss Jane Wilcox, Fred Wilcox, Nelson Wilcox, Henry Townsend and Mrs. Eunice Baldwin.

In connection with the republican national convention, held in Cleveland last week, it is interesting to local people to know that William M. Butler, national chairman, is an uncle of Ebenezer Morgan of this place, being his mother's brother.

Theodore Anderson of this place was appointed on the committee which is to investigate the advisability of establishing a voiture or chapter of the Forty and Eight in New London County, said appointment having been made at the county meeting of the American Legion, held in Baltic Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard K. Preston of Providence, R. I., arrived in the village Monday.

Announcing

The Easiest Car in the World to Take Care of Preliminary notice of this announcement was given last week by the advertisement reproduced at the right.

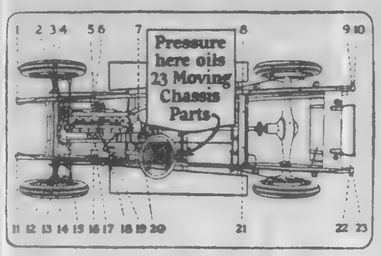
A New Type of Low Price Car is Ready to be Announced
"One Shot"

1925 CLEVELAND SIX

One-Shot Lubricating System



Step On the Plunger

GOODBYE grease gun! Goodbye oil can! No more greasy, grimy hands! No more squeaks and rattles!

Step on the plunger near your heel and all parts of the car except the crank case are supplied with the proper amount of lubricant. Two seconds is all it takes!

This exclusive, patented Cleveland Six feature makes neglected lubrication almost humanly impossible.

It eliminates worn parts, prevents costly repairs, increases the life of the car and enhances its resale value.

See it! See how it works!

HERE is a car that is entirely new! A larger, more powerful Cleveland Six with so many marvelous features that it is destined to sweep the nation.

Because it is the only car in the world containing the One-Shot Lubrication System, it ranks as the easiest car in the world to take care of.

By stepping on a plunger near his heel, the driver lubricates in two seconds all those parts which in other cars require an hour's grimy work with grease gun and oil can.

No greater convenience feature was ever offered to the motorist.

Mileage Motor

PERFORMANCE to be proud of—that's what the owner of a 1925 Cleveland Six has in store.

Under the hood of his car is one of the truly great power plants—the new Mileage Motor.

He can pace any stock car in the world on hills—exceed 60 miles an hour when the road is clear—leap from 5 to 25 miles an hour in less than seven seconds!

Yet he revels in flawlessly smooth and silent operation at all speeds—gets well over 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline—and carbon troubles are unknown.

Balloon Tires

All models come equipped with genuine supersize balloon tires at no extra cost.

With the longer wheel base, the scientific spring suspension, and the accurate distribution of weight, the last word in even, jarless riding comfort is achieved.

The closed bodies are by Fisher—with all the beauty, refinement, and lasting qualities that Fisher construction guarantees.

The chassis is longer and stronger—the transmission is new—the rear axle indestructible.

4-Wheel Brakes

Four-wheel brakes of proven design and construction are offered as optional equipment.

Due to their extreme simplicity, their operation is sure—their maintenance easy—and the charge for them is unusually low.

See this truly marvelous new car! Test it for power, for speed, for smoothness, for flashing get-away.

We guarantee you an experience the like of which you have never had before in any car!

Prices:

Touring Car $1095 — 4-Door Sedan $1495

NEW LONDON POLICE BELIEVE THEY HAVE SOLVED SHOOTING MYSTERY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 17.—The police believe that they have ferreted out the perpetrators of the shooting that occurred in the vicinity of Fort Neck early Sunday morning when it was believed that a series of shots that were heard was the result of a bootleggers' feud for during last night Sergeant John Cavanaugh obtained information which gives rise to the theory that the shots were fired within the United States Coast Guard reservation. Following the firing of the shots, which were heard by Sergeant Cavanaugh and other officers on Bank street about 2 o'clock, the officers commandeered an automobile and hastened to the vicinity where the shots were fired. A search of that section did not reveal anyone moving about and a visit was then made to the academy. There a sentry was found who declared that he had not heard the shots nor had he any knowledge of where the firing occurred. Sergeant Cavanaugh is inclined to the belief that the sentry did not tell the truth of the matter for the officer has learned upon reliable information, which is from no other souce than sailors stationed on the reservation, that the firing was done by a sailor, who had obtained a 45-calibre revolver and who was showing some of his buddies how he would manipulate that weapon if an attempt was made to hold him up or way-lay him on the Fort Neck railroad bridge, which has been the fate of two sailors from the reservation within a few weeks. It is probable that the incident will be called to the attention of the military authorities.

An automobile owned by Charles J. Ducy, Washington street, in backing to a place of parking on Bank street this morning struck a horse owned by Archangelo DiMaggio, which was parked alongside the curb, causing the animal to be knocked down. The horse landed upon the sidewalk and sustained slight injuries.

At a meeting of the directors of the New London City National bank, held in the banking rooms of the institution this noon, Ira S. Avery and Alfred D. Forbes, senior and junior cashier, respectively, of the institution, were promoted. Mr. Avery was elected vice president and Mr. Forbes was elected cashier. The promotions were made possible through the death last week of John R. Latham, cashier of the bank many years. Both Mr. Avery and Mr. Forbes have been employees of the institution a long time.

The condition of Police Sergeant Frank Howard, who has been confined to his home on Walker street a fortnight by a severe attack of grip has so far improved as to permit the patient to enjoy sitting on the veranda of his home a brief time today.

City Manager William A. Holt late this afternoon instructed Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney to cause any and all digging operations in the streets throughout the city where work is in progress to be stopped unless the employer has obtained a permit to excavate the highway. The order is the result of several contractors having caused workmen to excavate highways without first applying for permission to do so from the city manager.

Carol Barnes, aged 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Barnes, Waterford, ran away from home this afternoon and a short time after the disappearance of the girl became known, the father appeared at the police station and requested assistance in locating the runaway. Acting Sergeant Edward Daniels and Policewoman Jane Cassidy were assigned to the case, while the father maintained a watch for the girl on the city's principal streets. About 6 o'clock Barnes located the girl on State street and notifying Sergeant Daniels, the girl was taken into custody, but was subsequently turned over to the care of her father when the girl promised to return home.

Mrs. Sallee, 45 Orchard street, reported to the police this evening that her little son, 6 1-2, was missing from home.

Announcement is made of the marriage last Saturday of Joseph Joseph and Miss Gertrude Enos, both of New London. The wedding was performed by Rev. Phillip M. Louis Landrick, colored, about 39 years of age, died this morning at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital. He was a tailor by occupation and was born in Washington, D. C., but had resided in New London several years where he made his home with his aunt, Mrs. Emma Tyler, 2 Stony Hill.

Mrs. Adelaide Viola Mosier, 72, died this morning at her late home, Niantic, death ending a brief illness caused by infirmities attending old age. Mrs. Mosier was the widow of William Henry Mosier, whose death occurred several years ago, and is survived by a daughter, Miss Florence Mosier, also of Niantic.

A large number of parents of students of Chapman Technical High school visited the institution this evening and inspected the work of the several classes during the past year. Particular interest was manifested by the visitors in the machine work, wood-turning and domestic science. Tomorrow evening the commencement exercises will take place at the school auditorium.

The condition of Mrs. Edwin Keeney, ill at her home, 28 Pearl street, 10 days, is somewhat improved as the patient is now able to exercise about the house.

Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ, has written the following congratulatory letter to Rev. Timothy M. Crowley, rector of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church in connection with the latter attaining his 40th anniversary to the priesthood last Sunday:

My dear Father Crowley:

"I remember very distinctly the month of June in the year 1884. I graduated from the preparatory school in Philadelphia and my father went with me to Amherst where I took my examinations for college.

"Now I am mentally writing in beside those memories the thought of your starting out upon your career as one of the chosen servants of Almighty God.

"Kindly accept my greetings with the hundreds of others you are now receiving. Your warm heart, bright and well-stored mind, and friendly spirit have meant much to me during the years that have passed since you came to New London. Pardon me if I mention one more trait of yours that has won my special regard—it is the positiveness of your belief.

"There is a wonderful amount of good in the world, but it needs to take a new strong grip on its faith in God, the Father, Son and Holy Spirit. The clear utterance of your faith has helped thousands in these 40 years. May God spare you to us all for many years to come."

Most heartily yours,

J. ROMEYN DANFORTH.

Robert Arundel will come to trial in the police court Thursday to answer a charge of the theft of seven shirts from Benton McIntyre, a chief petty officer at the submarine base. Why Arundel should have stolen the garments is not easily explainable, but they were found in his possession and he could not account for their presence there on any reasonable grounds. Arundel roomed at the Montague house in Golden street and McIntyre also had a room there. The shirts were missed and a search and investigation was begun when the theft was traced to Arundel. He implicated an acquaintance and that person is now being sought by the police. There is no doubt he will be found. Indeed he is expected to give himself up as soon as he is aware that he is wanted, for his friends declare that he is entirely innocent of the crime and that the statement that he was concerned in it is a fabrication. The shirts Arundel has are altogether too large for him and he cannot wear them comfortably, which is another reason for mystery in the theft of them.

Daniel Cates, an employe of the Standard Oil company in New York, was in Norwich Monday and drove the truck he was in charge of to New London. Coming down Main street he hit a pace of 35 miles an hour so that everything in his way had to leave or be run down. A team of the Gardner Transportation company was being driven along Main street with Bert Loomis in charge of it when the Cates truck came along. Loomis tried to get out of harm's way, but he was not successful and his vehicle was struck. The pole was broken, but that was fortunate for Mr. Loomis nor his horses were hurt. Cates agreed to pay the damage but he was prosecuted today and was fined $25.

Carl Melvin of Jewett City was fined $10 for failing to observe the rules of the road and reduce the speed of his car on approaching an intersecting street, which in this case was Glenwood avenue at Ocean avenue, a point where there have been many serious accidents and to the dangers of which streets attention has been many times directed. Melvin admitted that he was driving at a speed of 35 miles an hour, just as Motorcycle Officer Babcock alleged.

Joan F. D'Abrau of Stonington was fined $10 for operating an automobile without a license. He pleaded guilty for he never had any license, though he had applied for one. He attributed his failure to be licensed to the fact that he could not make himself understood when he was questioned. D'Abrau had a sizeable roll of bills of large denomination when he settled so he did not regard that he was much hurt.

COLCHESTER

Oliver Woodhouse lodge, No. 57, K. of P., held its last meeting for the summer Tuesday evening in Pythian hall, with a large attendance. COMPLAINT OF HARTFORD AND BRISTOL COMMUTERS

Hartford, June 17.—Chairman Richard T. Higgins, of the public utilities commission, stated today that it seemed to him that the new summer time table of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company was prepared with the view to providing accommodation for the through passengers to the detriment of those who rode short distances, and of commuters. The statement was made at a conference between the commission and division superintendents of the railroad. Division superintendent Snavely of Waterbury gave a qualified assent to the statement of Mr. Higgins.

The conference was on complaint by commuters between Bristol and Hartford against the changes in the time table. The result of the conference was an agreement by officials of the company to look into the matter.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS UNSETTLED

New York, June 17—Stock prices resumed their movement to higher ground at the opening of today's market, but the advance was interupted in the late dealings by heavy profit taking and a renewal of bear selling, closing prices showing a curious mixture of gains and losses. While substantial inroads were made into the quoted values of a number of the oils. Rubbers, motors and motor accessories, marked independent strength was shown by most of the tobaccos, public utilities and chain store issues.

Ruling of public utilities received its impetus from a federal court decision holding the local $1 gas law unconstitutional and confiscatory. New 1924 high records were established during the session by Consolidate Gas, Brooklyn Union Gas, Columbia Gas & Electric, American Water Works common and Brooklyn Manhattan Transit common, the net gains ranging from fractions to three points.

High current earnings formed the basis for the bullish demonstration in chain store issues, Kresge jumping 15 1-4 points to a new 1924 high at 350 1-4 while Woolworth new stock, which had advanced 22 points in the last eight days, added two more today by touching a record level of 194 3-4. Buying of the tobaccos was attributed to some of the leaders of the industry and revived reports that negotiations were again under way for a merger of the Schulte and Tobacco Products Companies.

Omission of the dividend on Kelly-Springfield 6 per cent. preferred was used by bear traders as an excuse for an attack on the rubber shares, losses in the Kelly-Springfield issues ranged from moderate fractions on the common shares to 2 1-2 points for the six per cent. preferred. Goodrich, Fisk, U. S. Rubber and Goodyear stocks suffered slight recessions.

Recent activity in the mail group subsided, but stocks of the New Steinway realized gain in unrelated companies. Chesapeake and Ohio and "Nickel Plate" both established new high records for the year at 81 and 97, respectively, before dropping back to around yesterday's closing levels. Southern Pacific shares were under accumulation, but delay in negotiating the lease of the Norfolk and Western to the Pennsylvania Railroad caused a recession of 1 3-4 points in the former.

Selling pressure was renewed against the oil stocks in the final dealings. Cosden, singled out for attack, yielded more than a point and fractional declines took place in Mexican Petroleum, Simms Petroleum, Pan-American "B" and Texas Pacific, hovering around the lowest prices of the day.

Foreign exchanges developed a recessionary trend, French francs were driven down about 18 points on selling inspired by Premier Herriot's declaration that evacuation of the Ruhr would be deferred until the guarantees provided in the Dawes plan had been set up. Adoption of this policy, it was felt might possibly delay the early settlement of European difficulties that bankers had been looking for. At the close of the day French francs were selling [illegible] and sterling exchange was [illegible] hovering around 4.84.

A quiet undertone prevailed in the money market. Call funds ruled at 2 per cent. all day and rates on time loans ranged from 3 per cent for short maturities to 3 3-4 per cent. for six months obligations. Commercial paper was active with most of the business transacted at 4 per cent. Although some of the best names discounted at 3 3-4.

BOND MARKET

New York, June 17—The forward movement in bond prices [illegible] been in progress for the past week received its first check today when various issues accumulated on the recent upswing were unloaded. Prices gave way in all sections of the list although a number of foreign obligations, including the Belgian issues, established new 1924 high records.

U. S. government bonds, which first showed signs of reaction yesterday, lost further ground today as evidence accumulated that the [illegible] were operations were ended [illegible] ducing to some extent the volume of idle money, although not to a degree that would affect money rates. Additional purchase of Liberty Bonds, nevertheless, were discouraged and the Treasury 4 1-4s fell back to 104.26, almost a full point below the record high level attained last week.

The declaration of Premier Herriot of France that evacuation of the Ruhr must await fulfillment of the Dawes guarantees caused some selling of French governmental and municipal bonds, which moved lower along with the franc. Belgian issues, however, were strong and several South American obligations [illegible] to effect a [illegible] municipality of Medellin, Colombia, which will take the form of 25 year 8 per cent dollar bonds. New Jersey's $11,000,000 bond offering, on which bids were opened today, commanded a substantial premium.

Price changes of domestic corporation [illegible] mainly were unimportant. Omission of the Kelly-Springfield, six per cent. dividend influenced some liquidation of this company's 8 per cent. bonds and those of other rubber companies. Gas company issues were [illegible] by a favorable court decision and Pierce Arrow 8s jumped four points.

CURB MARKET

New York, June 17—Profit taking was responsible for irregular price movements in curb market trading today, affecting chiefly the oil and public utilities which have recently been making marked headway. In contrast to declines in other issues, American Light & Traction gained more than three points and Adirondack Power 1 1-8 points. Appalachian Power lost 3 1-2 points on small sales, and Lehigh Power [illegible]

The majority of the Standard Oil issues held their ground, most of them recording fractional recessions, while Standard of Nebraska, South Penn Oil and Standard of Ohio made gains of 1 to 4 points on small turnovers. Prairie Oil and Gas and Standard of Indiana closed fractionally lower.

National Tea led the industrials with a gain of 10 points and strength also was shown by Centrifugal Cast Iron Pipe, which closed two points higher. Transactions of more than 22,000 shares carried Lehigh Valley Coal down more than a point.

Motor and Radio shares were active but without important changes at the close of trading.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, June 17—Wheat suddenly advanced today at the last after having averaged lower from the outset. Renewal of speculative demand was in evidence together with reports that the hot wave in the southwest was spreading. Closing prices for wheat were strong, 3-4 to 1 3-8c net higher, July 115 1-2 to 115 3-4 and September 116 7-8 to 117. Corn finished unchanged to 1c higher. Oats unchanged to 1-8c off and provisions varying from 1c decline to an equal gain.

HEARING GRIEVANCES OF LADIES' GARMENT WORKERS

New York, June 17—Morris Hillquit, counsel for the International [illegible] today told the commission of conciliation appointed by Governor Smith to settle the garment trades dispute, that the workers would "not continue working for one-half the year, only to starve the other half." He pleaded for a more equal distribution of the work during the year, instead of a concentration of employment preceding the opening of the buying seasons.

The practice of jobbers in placing their orders with contractors, who in turn again [illegible] the orders to [illegible] was criticized by Mr. Hillquit as [illegible] competition that is morally, as well as practically [illegible]

Meyer London Basche, chairman of the [illegible] commission, said at the opening of the hearing that he thought the body would find a solution to prevent the threatened strike of 50,000 [illegible]

CAMPAIGN TO BANISH SIGNS FROM HIGHWAYS

Hartford, June 17.—Many display signs will disappear from the Connecticut highways in the near future as the result of a campaign started by the state highway department. Contrary to law, many signs have been placed within the legal limits of the highways on trees, poles and other structures. Those responsible for these signs, according to the highway department, are liable to prosecution.

The department has instructed its district supervisors and foremen that signs so placed in violation of the law shall be removed. The state police department also has been notified, and flagrant cases will be referred to that department for investigation.

LEGAL NOTICE

SPECIAL STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING

A special meeting of the stockholders of Shetucket company is hereby called to be held at the office of said company, Room 211, Disco Building, Norwich, Conn., on Wednesday, the 9th day of July, 1924, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, to see if they will vote to confirm the vote of the directors of said corporation to terminate its corporate existence, duly passed at the meeting of said directors held at 48 East Seventeenth Street, New York city, on Tuesday, May 27, 1924, a copy of which vote is as follows:

"Resolved, that the corporate existence of the Shetucket company be terminated at the earliest possible date and that the Secretary be authorized to take such steps as are necessary to carry out this resolution in conformity with the law."

Dated at Norwich, Conn., June 7th, 1924.

By order of the directors.
EDWIN H. BAKER, Jr., Secretary

NOTICE

TO ALL PERSONS WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

You will take notice that at an adjourned regular meeting of the Court of Common Council of the City of Norwich, Connecticut, held Friday, June 13th, 1924, the following proposition and resolution was submitted to said Court of Common Council, to wit:

"Resolved, That there be laid out and established as an addition to and enlargement of the park of the City of Norwich, known as "Mohegan Park, the land located in the Town of Norwich, State of Connecticut, recently acquired by the City of Norwich from Rowland D. Hill under an indenture between him and said city made the 15th day of September, 1923, recorded in the Norwich Land Records, Vol. 170, Page 145, and [illegible] and confirmed by a meeting of [illegible] held March 3rd, 1924, which land is bounded and described as follows

Beginning at a bar post on the southerly line of the Ox Hill road 422 feet westerly from the center of a brook that runs southerly into the lake in Mohegan Park, which post is the northwesterly corner of the land conveyed by Angelina W. Hill to Edward, Charles and George Baskowski by deed dated May 21, 1921, and recorded in the Norwich Land Records, Book 161, Page 570, and running southwesterly about 1470 feet to other land of the City of Norwich at the point on the northwesterly boundary line of Mohegan Park as now laid out where [illegible] intersected by the northeastern side of the Sachem Plain road, bounding northwesterly [illegible] said land conveyed to [illegible] and northwesterly to the Ox Hill road abutting southeasterly, easterly and northeasterly on other land of the City of Norwich known as Mohegan Park; thence westerly to the place of beginning abutting northerly on Ox Hill road."

And that in accordance with the provisions of an ordinance relating to parks adopted June 1st, 1906, said Court of Common Council postponed action on said proposition and resolution set forth until the regular meeting of the Court of Common Council of the City of Norwich to be held Monday evening, July 7th, 1924, at 7 o'clock p. m. (standard time) in the Council Chamber in said city at [illegible] and place a public hearing will be given on said resolution [illegible] said Court of [illegible]

NOTICE

SPECIAL TOWN MEETING

The Legal Voters in Town Meeting of the Town of Norwich are hereby warned to meet in a Special Town Meeting, to be held in the Town Hall in said Norwich, on

TUESDAY, JUNE 24, 1924
At Seven O'Clock P. M., (Standard Time)

For the purpose of deciding what [illegible] on the vote will take upon a certain petition, signed by twenty legal voters of said Town and presented to the Selectmen, requesting the holding of a Special Town Meeting for the following purposes:

1. To decide whether the Town will purchase a tract of land and build a new schoolhouse thereon in that portion of the Town known as Norwich Town, for the Fourth Voting District in said Town, at a cost not to exceed $250,000 for said land, building and equipment and to appropriate said sum.

2. To decide whether the Town shall build a new school building on the tract of land owned by said Town in the Sixth Voting District (East Norwich), so called, at a cost not to exceed $100,000 for building and equipment and to appropriate said sum.

Also, to appoint a Committee to do all things necessary to erect said building or buildings.

Also, to authorize the Selectmen to borrow such sums and at such times as may be necessary to pay for said land and for erection of said building or buildings and to give notes or other evidences of indebtedness of said Town therefor.

Also to appropriate the sum of $75.00 for the purpose of installing a hydrant on the Canterbury Turnpike at a point about 400 feet from Peck's Corner, so-called.

Also to do any other business proper [illegible] necessary to be done at said meeting.

Dated at Norwich, Conn., this 18th day of June, 1924.

Honors.

First Scholar—(Classical and Scientific Courses) Israel Solomon Stamm.

Second Scholar—(General and Commercial Courses) Isabelle Marguerite Mulcahy.

Academic Scholars in Order of Rank—Israel Solomon Stamm, Faith Elizabeth Curtis, Isabelle Marguerite Mulcahy, Millicent Disco, Constance Lesher Irvine, Rosina Anna Gredler, Rose Driscoll, Stela May Gaska, Shirley Amy Jackson, Ruth Elizabeth Sterry, Sophie Susan Grzymkowski, Dorothy Jacobson, Delia Ivanette Gray, George Owen Geer, Elsie Anna Peterson.

Valedictory Address.

Israel Solomon Stamm, the valedictorian, in his address said:

Parents and Friends, Mr. Tirrell and Teachers, and Mr. Palmer and Gentlemen of the Board of Trustees:

As the time comes for us to leave this school, it is only fitting that we should thank you for what you have done for us. You have all combined to make it possible for us to secure some preparation for life. If there has been any failing, it has been a failing on the part of some of us at different times to really appreciate what you were doing for us and to make the most of our opportunities. Now, however, as we look back over the last four years, and consider them as a whole, we realize more and more what you have been doing for us. I know most of us have gained much through your efforts and we thank you.

Classmates:

To you I say: "Let this be a day of dedication. As we go forth from this school, let us dedicate ourselves to the greater things in life still remaining before us. We are going out into a world that needs sacrificing and unselfish citizens. We are going out into a world that still contains much narrowness and misunderstanding. It is especially for us, who have the advantages and the broadening effects of an education to do our bit toward removing these banes of mankind. Let us show our parents, teachers, and friends, that they have not worked in vain. Let us rise to greater things."

In presenting the diplomas Principal Henry A. Tirrell spoke to the the members of the class as follows:

Members of the Graduating Class:

We are gathered today, the Corporators and Trustees of the school, your teachers, your parents and friends, to celebrate the completion of your Academy course.

You, yourselves, cannot realize as you will in the future how much of interest and friendship and goodwill have been devoted to your education. Since this building was erected about 1,500 young people have come here to receive their diplomas. Mr. Slater, while still a young man, gave the building to honor the memory of his father, of whose great gifts to education you know, and also, I think, in order to hand on to coming generations some of the blessings he himself had received. This was but one of numerous gifts he made to this community which he loved so well.

So in my last words to you as a class I would emphasize the importance of giving — not only of your money, if you should acquire wealth, but also of your time, your interest, your talents.

Up to this time you have been receiving. There has never been a time when so much was done for young people as today. This is because we believe you will use the gifts well, that you will pay back to others what you yourselves receive. Never has there been a greater need of earnest workers than today. And the world is so organized that those who give most receive most. Even in the hard world of business the employer has his eyes on his earnest workers rather than on those who give grudgingly. And in other lines of effort you increase in influence and usefulness in proportion to your generous service.

You grow as you give.

Class Gift Presented.

The class president, Miss Dorothy Priscilla Lord, presented the class gift of $60 to be used in the scientific department of the school. The gift was received by George S. Palmer of New London, president of the board of trustees.

In accepting the class gift, Mr. Palmer, who graduated from the Academy fifty years ago and at that time was delegated to make the gift for his class, made an affecting reference to his own entrance into the school as a raw untutored school boy from the country and to the members of the board of corporators and the teachers while he was in the Academy. He said that he had attended many graduation exercises recently but none appealed to him quite so strongly as this one where he felt that he was at home and was deeply touched by this return to his alma mater.

Arbor Oration.

Clifford W. Mell delivered the arbor oration, speaking as follows:

Classmates: We are now assembled [illegible] departure from this school. It is a day which we can never forget. Some of us have now finished our school life, while others of us go on into higher institutions of learning, yet may the memory of these few moments, during which we now place this tree, a Douglas Fir, in this soil forever sacred to us, weld us into a firmer and more perfect fellowship. May this tree stand as a memorial of the wholehearted loyalty of the Class of '24 toward this school.

We earnestly desire that this tree shall in years to come rear its head towards the heavens as has its forebears on the mountain slopes of Oregon. When full grown the Douglas Fir is a majestic tree, often bearing its crest two hundred feet above the ground beneath. Its trunk at the base is from six to twelve feet in diameter. With these proportions in mind imagine a mighty forest of such trees being ruthlessly cut down with no thought as to what shall take the place of the fallen timber; then visualize a raging conflagration consuming another forest of stately firs. Lumbermen and government rangers, both agree that far more standing timber is burned each year than is used for building purposes.

This wholesale destruction must be stopped, and it must be stopped by you and me, the rising generation. Duty demands that we check this sinful waste of our country's resources. The danger is imminent; something must be done, and done quickly or some day we shall awake to the realization that we are without these same forests, which tradition has Thomas Jefferson say, "that it would take America two thousand years to use."

The task which lies before us is complicated and difficult yet the more eagerly we lay hold of it to accomplish our purpose. It is for us to do this work. In the first place we must use the rest of our ability preserve the forests which are yet intact; secondly, we must plant and cultivate trees such as this.

Classmates, we soon shall be separated, yet may we bear these thoughts in our minds and may we remember our duty to our country and to our school, which we shall forever cherish and love as can only a graduate of N. F. A.

About 6 o'clock the graduating class assembled in the gymnasium where the class supper was served. The gym was very attractively decorated on the class colors the floral decorations being in charge of Robert Waddington and the menu served by the Terminal. At the head table were the class officers, Principal Henry A. Tirrell, members of the faculty, the class president, Miss Dorothy Lord acting as toastmaster. The menu was as follows:

Iced Canteloupe
Olives Pickles Celery
Tomato Bisque au Croutons
Half Broiled Chicken
Julienne Potatoes

NORWICH BUILDING LOAN DIVIDEND 5½ PER CENT.

The Norwich Building and Loan association held its regular monthly meeting in the Chamber of Commerce office Tuesday night and transacted a large amount of business.

After the meeting the directors declared a semi-annual dividend at the rate of 5½ per cent. A new series was opened so that this is an oppotune time to become a shareholder in this prosperous organization. Twice each year, in January and July, the directors open new series of shares.

The following interesting excerpt is taken from the bank commissioners' report of the state's investigation of the Norwich association made this month: "An analysis was made of the earnings for the year ended 1923. It is interesting to note by the same the increased earnings from every source This association during the first six months of 1923 after crediting a dividend at the rate of 5½ per cent. was able to credit $180 to its surplus. During the last half of 1923 after crediting a similar dividend at the rate of 5½ per cent, was able to credit $755.15 to the surplus fund. The expense for the latter part of 1923 was decreased indicating very conservative and business like management. The fact that they were in a position to credit 30 per cent. more to the surplus fund the latter half of 1923 indicates that the association is in a prosperous condition."

Frigidaire ends all bother with ice

THERE is no uncertainty, no muss, no bother, if your home is equipped with Frigidaire—the electrical home refrigerator.

Frigidaire is automatically controlled, maintaining a dry, cold, constant atmosphere in which food keeps fresh and sweet for a much longer time than is possible with ice.
Frigidaire makes ice for table use. It freezes ices, custards and other dainty desserts.

It saves work, saves food, and will probably cost less to operate than you would pay for ice.

Visit our Frigidaire display or let us mail you an interesting booklet which describes Frigidaire in detail.

LAFOLLETTE ELIMINATED BY FARMER-LABOR PARTY

St. Paul, June 18.—(By the A. P.)—Senator LaFollette was eliminated tonight as a possible presidential candidate of the national farmer-labor progressive convention. William Mahoney, a leader in the farmer-labor party, announced this, saying he had again bee assured the Wisconsin senator did not wish his name to be even considered by the present gathering.

Mahoney announced that word of this was taken to the nominations committee of the convention by John F. Sinclair of Minneapolis. He explained that Mr Sinclair was Senator LaFollettes Minnesota representative.

The nominations committee thereupon began making up a list of provisional presidential candidates with Duncan McDonald, Illinois labor leader, as a favorite. The convention, it was reported, would be asked to nominate a ticket which would remain in the field until Senator LaFollette makes plain his status as a presidential candidate.

It was also announced that Mr. Sinclair had advised this convention to cooperate with the conference for progressive political action, in Cleveland July 4. Mahoney said a committee to represent the St. Paul body would be sent to Ohio.

MYSTERIOUS DROWNING OF THREE PERSONS

Chicago, June 18. — Mysteriously drowned Monday night in a quarry pool near Elmhurst, a suburb, the bodies of a middle aged man and women and the nearly nude body of a young woman were recovered today.

The man was identified as George L. Townsend of Chicago. The women were Mrs. Dorothy Burg and Mrs. Emma Mack. Mrs. Mack was clad only in silk underclothes. William A. Burg husband of Mrs. Burg is missing and the quarry is being dragged in the belief that he may have been a member of the automobile party with the other three.

TENTH SEPARATE SALE OF STAMP COLLECTION

Paris, June 18.—(By The A. P.)—The tenth separate sale of the famous stamp collection of Count Ferrari De La Renotiere, which began today, netted over $50,000. The highest priced item was a two-cent British guinia of 1850, which was knocked down for $3,000 to a Parisian dealer. The next highest was a four pence red wood block Cape of Good Hope, which brought $2,500.

The purchaser was the American collector, Warren H. Colson, of Boston, who also acquired the rarest of American local stamps, that issued by the East River, New York, post office in 1851. This brought $425.

THE ARENA, NEW HAVEN, WAS COMPLETELY GUTTED BY FIRE

New Haven, June 18.—The Arena, leased by Yale hockey teams and for skating during the winter and used for the first time this spring as a storage house and salesroom for used automobiles, was completely gutted by fire early today. The old Hooker carriage factory in State street, part of the Arena structure, and occupied by several manufacturing concerns was also burned out and other nearby property threatened for a time.

When a man is in trouble he believes a great many things that he would doubt at any other time.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

South African Election.

Cape Town, Union of South Africa, June 18.—(By The A. P.)—The South African general election of yesterday, it is indicated by the latest available returns, constitute a direct setback to the Smuts government whose majority of seven in the last parliament over the opposing parties—labor and nationalists — has been wiped out. Most of the returns from the county districts are still to be received but political experts say that these are not expected to show any great change.

U. S. EMBASSY ACTING FOR BRITISH IN MEXICO

Washington, June 18.—The American embassy in Mexico City has taken charge of the archives of the British embassy there which have been in the custody of Herbert C. Cummins, the British agent against whom the Mexican government has endeavored to enforce an order of expulsion.

Premier Macdonald discussed the situation at Mexico City this week with American Ambassador Kellogg at London and it is assumed that the transfer is one result of that conference.

The request that the American embassy take charge of the archives was transmitted to Washington through Ambassador Kellogg and instructions went forward today to H. F. Arthur Schoenfield, American chrage at the Mexican foreign office of his action "as a matter of courtesy."

No information as to the next development in the case was available at the state department.

The Mexican embassy here issued a statement today announcing the determination of the Mexico City government not to recede from its position in demanding the recall of Cummins.

A reply to the British government was dispatched yesterday, the statement said, disagreeing with the view that the request for the recall constituted a discourteous act. The reply, the embassy said, declared it to be an elementary principle that any government at any time has the right to request other governments to recall diplomats or official agents and that it is the duty under international comity to withdraw them, "and not to endeavor to impose them on other countries."

The department of foreign relations likewise informe the British government, the statement said, that it could never permit "Mr. Cummins' discourtesies toward the Mexican authorities in the discharge of his duties," adding that "to obviate further difficulties it would consider as a sincere demonstration of his majesty's government the immediate recall of Mr. Cummins."

NAMELESS PARTY TO HAVE A PRESIDENTIAL TICKET

Cleveland, June 18.—A presidential ticket without a party or a party name, something new in political history, will be seen this year, according to plans of those behind the conference for progressive political action, which meets here July 4.

The chief reason, it was explained, is because Robt. M. LaFollette, who is expected to be nominated for the presidency and other members of the "progressive bloc" in congress supporting a third party candidacy do not intend to withdraw from party organizations in their home states.

The names of Senator LaFollette and his running mate will go on the ticket as "independent progressives," it was asserted. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, which is supporting LaFollette, does not favor a third party. Vice President H. F. Daugherty, spokesman for the engineers' triennial convention declared.

A preliminary executive meeting of the progressive conference will be held here July 2 and 3.

BELGIAN BALLOON LANDED ON COAST OF SCOTLAND

Brussels, June 18 (By the A. P.)—Lieutenant Ernest De Muyter, in command of the Belgica is the winner of the international balloon contest at Gordon Bennett cup. By his victory the cup remains in permanent possession of Belgium, De Muyter having won the trophy four times in all, and three times successively.

The Belgian pilot landed yesterday about noon at Saint Abb's Head, which is about forty miles due east of Edinburgh on the coast of Scotland. De Muyter thus covered a distance of 745 kilometres (about 500 miles) from the starting point.

According to the estimates of the Aero club last night the Ville De Bordeaux piloted by La Porte, of France, covered 320 kilometres, and Captain Honeywell, commanding the American Uncle Sam, 290 kilometres.

HELD FOR STEALING GOODS AND CHICKENS

Wilton, June 18.—Waiving examination, Peter Howard, Fred Reddy and Frank Cook, arrested by state police in a clean-up here and in New York state of a band of outlaws that operated extensively in both states in stolen goods and chickens, were bound over to the September term of criminal superior court at Bridgeport in bonds of $2,500 by Justice of the Peace M. Grover Gregory, of New Canaan, in court here tonight.

Young Howard, Cook and Reddy will be additionally charged with burglarizing the summer home of Misses Mae F. Smith and Ethel Breen of New Canaan on May 24 last and removing $2,500 worth of household effects, furniture, silverware, rugs, silks, etc., when they are arraigned for trial in the higher court in September.

TOO EXPENSIVE TO STORE RUM BOATS AND AUTOS

New Haven, June 18.—Orders emanating from the office of Attorney General Stone at Washington notified all federal enforcement agents of the Connecticut division today that in the future automobiles or boats seized by local or state authorities were not to be taken over by federal officials as in the past.

The great expense involved in storing seized cars until such time as they can be sold by the United States marshau here, was given as the reason for the move.

CONVENTION OF WORLD SUNDAY SCHOOL ASS'N

Glasgo, Scotland, June 18.—Revised registration figures disclose that more than 4,500 delegates, representing 40 countries, are here to attend the ninth quadrennial convention of the World Sunday School association, the opening session of which will be held tonight under the chairmanship of Lord Pentland.

St. Paul Mail Train Robbery is Solved

Four of the Alleged Robbers in Custody—Part of the $2,075,000 Loot Has Been Recovered.

Chicago, June 18.—One of the most daring train robberies ever perpetrated, the holdup of a Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul mail train near Chicago, the night of June 12, by eight bandits who obtained $2,075,000 in cash and securities, has been solved, postal officials announced tonight.

Four of the alleged train robbers are in custody, postal officials said, one has confessed, part of the loot has been recovered, and a nation wide search for the quartet still at liberty is in progress with prospects of their arrest within a short time.

The complete story of the robbery was related tonight by A. E. Germer chief Postal inspector, Chief of Police Morgan A. Collins and Lieutenant William Schoemaker, who arrested the suspects.

Max Greenberg, said to be a member of "Egan's Rats," St. Louis gangsters, planned the robbery at East St Louis, according to the officers, and had the assistance of Carlo and Ernest Fontano, Chicago gunmen, who are believed to be implicated in the $80,000 mail robbery at Harvey, Ill., in March and the $35,000 robbery at Indiana Harbor, six weeks ago. Carlo Fontano was arrested yesterday. His brother is being sought.

Three brothers, besides the two Fontano brothers, participated in the robbery, postal inspectors said. They are Willie Newton, Willis Newton and Joe Newton, alias Johnny Newton. All three of the brothers are in custody. Willie Newton is the bandit who was wounded and who posed as J. H. Wayne; Willis Newton gave his name as Paul Wade and said he was a Tulsa, Okla., aviator, and Johnny Newton traveled under the alias of J. H. Watson.

Besides the Fontano and Newton brothers, the others who participated in the robbery and who are still at large, postal inspectors said, are Samuel Grant of Cisco, Texas, who escaped from the prison at Huntsville, Texas, where he was serving a life sentence for murder, and Blackie Wilcox, also a convict escaped from the Huntsville prison.

DEBATE MORE THAN ONE ROTARY CLUB IN CITIES

Toronto, June 18.—The International Rotary convention in session here, today debated permitting more than one Rotary club in cities under a million population. After lengthy discussion the issue was left for future Rotary growth to decide.

Frederick E. Matson, of Indianapolis, advised Rotary clubs not to "fire cannonballs at canaries."

"In other words," he said, "it is not the policy of Rotary clubs to take part in every activity which comes along. For if Rotary should try to use its influence every time anything comes into the community life, then in time the people will say, 'Oh, it is only Rotary again, trying to run us.'"

1,000 PERSONS ATTENDED AUCTION OF ANTIQUES

Danbury, Conn., June 18.—More than 1,000 persons were attracted to this place today by the sale at public auction of the collection of antiques of the late George F. Ives. This collection, valued at a quarter of a million dollars, is recognized as one of the finest in the country. Mr. Ives died two years ago and in his will directed that the collection be held intact for two years and then disposed of at public auction.

Bidders and buyers were present from all parts of the United States, some coming as far away as California to attend the sale. Henry Ford had representatives at the auction and many other wealthy men were represented.

The collection consists of 1,200 pieces. The highest price at the opening sale today was $1,100 for a table.

RETAILERS CONSIDER HOW TO COLLECT BILLS

New York, June 18.—When a married woman fails to pay her bills, should her husband be notified at once, or should she be given time to pay?

William T. Snider, president of the Retail Credit Men's National association, leading a discussion of the question at the annual convention of the association today, asked the question and answered:

"A married woman should be given time to pay. If she fails, her husband should be notified."

The problem of whether it is proper to attempt collection of delinquent bills by telephone also perplexed the delegates. The answer was:

"Yes, but go easy. There may be company in the house, or a conference in the office."

REPUBLICAN LEADERS AT WHITE HOUSE DINNER

Washington, June 18. — Several members of the senate and house republican steering committees were guests of President Coolidge tonight at a White House dinner.

While the political situation was considered a natural topic of discussion, White House spokesmen said, the dinner had no connection with friction among leaders growing out of the Cleveland convention. The dinner was described merely as in the nature of a farewell to the members who are about to depart for their homes.

The guests included Senators Lodge of Massachusetts, Borah of Idaho, Watson of Indiana, Curtis of Kansas, Warren of Wyoming, and Brandegee of Connecticut, and Representatives Tincher of Kansas and Sinnot of Oregon, members of the house steering committee.

MAGNUS JOHNSON AGAINST THE COMMUNIST ELEMENT

Grand Forks, N. D., June 18.—Senator Magnus Johnson, of Minnesota, who arrived here to give a series of addresses in North Dakota, said that although he had been invited to speak at the farmer-labor convention in St. Paul, he had refused as he did not approve of the communist element which was in power there.

Worldwide Decrease in Communist Party

Fact Disclosed by G. S. Zinovieff, Chairman of the Fifth Congress of the Third International.

Moscow, June 18.—(By The Associated Press.)—In a speech remarkable for its candor, G. S. Zinovieff, chairman of the fifth congress of the third international, today told 500 delegates of that organization that there was no reason to feel discouraged over the fact that the communist international has failed to obtain victory in the majority of western countries, or that social revolution has not been developed with the rapidity anticipated in the early days of the Russian revolution.

While he gave no definite figures on the membership of the communist party in the various countries of the world, most of the delegates had before them statistics from their own countries respecting the status of the party. It was shown that with the exception of Russia where the communist party had increased from 480,000 members to 600,000 the strength of the organization in most of the foreign countries has decreased.

For instance, it is shown that the membership of the party in the United States dropped from 30,000 to 3,000 while in England it decreased from 10,000 to 3,000, in France 130,000 to 100,000 and in Germany from 300,000 to 250,000. The figures from South American countries were equally disappointing. Zinovieff counselled the delegates, however, not to lose hope.

"The aim of the third international, said he "should be to oppose the flood of the second international which by its acceptance of [illegible] put the rose upon the [illegible] the proletariat with the [illegible] of surrendering it.

"We are not going to permit the second international to play the role of angel and peace messenger to the working classes, remembering all it did to advance the imperial war. The demonstration which the communist international intends to inaugurate on the tenth anniversary of the world war is therefore of the utmost importance. We must show the workers and those who are still following the second international that [illegible] war may bring upon them [illegible] to support the communist international."

Resolutions were adopted calling upon workers in the colonial countries to flock under the banner of the communist international in order to wage "a last and decisive struggle against the forturesses of capitalism and set up an international union of socialistic soviet republics."

The presidium elected today includes Leon Trotzky, M. Stalin, Clara Zetkin and William Dunn. Premier [illegible] welcomed the delegates on [illegible] the soviet government and [illegible] committee of the communist party.

The most important action taken at the session of the Tolland county superior court held at Rockville with Judge Frederick M. Peaslee on the bench Tuesday, was in regard to the application of the South Coventry Water Supply company. At the sitting of the court Friday Lawyers King and Phelps argued a motion to amend their application, while Major John Buckley opposed it. It was argued by the first two named attorneys that the water from Lake Wangumbaug had been used since 1855 and therefor the cemetery statute did not apply as 1854 is the date fixed by this statute. At that time Judge Peasley reserved his decision. After court had adjourned Tuesday he handed down the decision. The application to amend the petition was denied on the grounds that it did not add any material allegations to the application as originally presented and because the original application asked all relief that the statutes entitled it to.

There isn't any story of a subject amatory as idyllic or romantic (or whatever else means love), as the tale of hearts and flowers which has won this world of ours, and of course you know "Three Weeks" is just the yarn we're thinking of.

She has stepped forth from the pages of this romance of the ages, to excite us and delight us by appearing on the screen she whose ardor blazed forth madly and whose love was true and tragic—Uger-like her love was (so we've heard) but not obscene. If you're asked to name a single movie queen, it's Aileen Pringle she's the one who's most equipped to play The Lady as a part, and her love for Conrad Nagel will entrance you and inveigle you to witness this sweet story of two souls with but one heart.

Many million folk have read it, so we'll give the author credit

NEW SCHOOLHOUSES.

By the calling of a special town meeting next Tuesday evening there is placed before the taxpayers and voters of Norwich the proposition of appropriating the sum of $350,000 for the purpose of building two new [illegible] houses.

Where schools are concerned the entire community is interested. With the exception of the new Mt. [illegible] school Norwich has come little in the way of new school-house construction for a considerable period. On the West Side it was [illegible] that the school facilities were inadequate. There was not enough room to accommodate the pupils. There was evidence of growth that called for action and a fine school that will provide for many years to come has been erected.

Such action as the townspeople will take upon the two propositions presented to them will unquestionably depend upon the conditions set forth in the respective localities as to school equipment.

The townspeople will desire to know whether the existing school facilities are inadequate, whether they cannot be made adequate by proper additions, whether there are advantages to be gained through a consolidation of schools such as is contemplated at Norwich Town, whether it is advisable to transport the children to one central school in that section rather than retain the present arrangement where two or three schools are used and whether the outlay called for is warranted under the increase in the number of pupils.

When it comes to the question of providing proper public school facilities every progressive community must be keenly interested. Adequate school buildings are part of an efficient school system. Norwich has not hesitated, when it has been shown to be needed, to provide for the coming generations and it is not believed that it will deal otherwise than for what it considers the best interests of all concerned in connection with the propositions that are to be voted upon next week.

It is a matter which deserves careful consideration nevertheless, and when action is taken it should be the expression of a representative gathering of townspeople

PRESIDENT STANDING BY DUTY.

When congress in its closing hours failed to provide the appropriation for the payment of the bonus measure which it had put through over the veto of the president, there was a [illegible] for the president to say that [illegible] as congress had failed to [illegible] its work, inasmuch as it had started something which it had refused to finish and inasmuch as there was no money voted to carry out the provisions of the bonus measure that he was unable to do anything. Such an attitude would have been immediately referred to as being entirely in accord with his view concerning the [illegible] that he was opposed to such a [illegible] and now would take advantage of the situation to block it.

That is just what the president has [illegible] stands in the position [illegible] trator of the nation's [illegible] recognizes the fact that [illegible] nacted a law in the [illegible] and that it is his duty to [illegible] regardless of his views [illegible] ideration for it. [illegible] notice that he intends to carry out the will of congress and that it will be done through a transfer of government funds until such a time as congress provides the necessary [illegible] will be in a much better position to meet this drain than was anticipated last November for the economies of the government and the increased revenue promise now to provide a larger surplus than was forecasted.

It will require much time to get the house preliminaries arranged and congress will be in session again before the time comes for the cash payments, so that what it failed to do in the closing hours early this month it is expected to speedily accomplish in the first few days of the December session. Congress has been criticised for its [illegible] and [illegible] tions and he hasn't been turned away by the flounderings of a bad acting congress.

CHANGING CONVENTION RULES.

Each [illegible] democratic convention approaches there is a demand for the abolishment of the rule which requires two-thirds of the delegates to nominate a nomination. That is one of the fights that is to be made in the New York convention opening next Tuesday. There are those who maintain that a majority should decide in a convention quite the same as at an election. Should there be such a change in the rules it is contended that Candidate McAdoo would have sufficient votes to give him the nomination on the first ballot. Invariably when such a change is sought it is the case that a candidate has a majority of the delegates but not two-thirds of them.

On the other hand there are those who are seeking the ending of the unit rule whereby state delegations vote through a single spokesman unless there is protest when the majority vote of the delegation determines how the vote of the state delegates shall be cast. Breaking up the unit rule would permit delegates to vote as they please and under such a plan Candidate Smith thinks he would show greater strength than by the unit rule.

Staging such contests adds to the interest of political conventions. The demand for such changes does not necessarily mean that they will be obtained. It is more often that they are sought and denied than that they are urged and obtained. The existence of the two-thirds rule has been the case of prolonged democratic conventions with ballots running to the 57th when Douglas led in 1860 at Charleston only to have the convention adjourned to Baltimore where he was nominated on the second. When Woodrow Wilson was first nominated 46 ballots were required after Champ Clark had had a majority on nine of them and four years ago 44 ballots were required to nominate James M. Cox.

The two-thirds rule might stand a better chance of being changed if the modification was intended to affect the convention four years hence instead of the existing one.

OUR REPLY TO JAPAN.

When Japan made its protest to this government regarding the exclusion provision in the immigration act it was cognizant of the difference of opinion between the chief executive and congress, as to when such should take effect. It was because of such that it may have found additional ground for making the protest. But in the response which has been made by Secretary Hughes of the state department it is clearly set forth that this government has exercised "its prerogative in defining by legislation the control of immigration instead of leaving it to international arrangements."

Furthermore Japan is told that there is no reason to expect that there will be any change in the legislation passed. No reference is made to the delay which the administration sought because that is passed and gone, but emphasis is laid upon the fact that mutual good will and cordial friendship which have always characterized the relations of the two countries ought not to be affected.

Japan is told in the note only what it must have anticipated. Its attention is directed to the fact that it lies within the rights of a nation to limit or control immigration, and it is reminded that it has exercised this very right regarding its own territory.

It is a case where the time has come when an agreement should be supplanted by legislation. That is what has been done and that is what there is no prospect of changing. The reply to the protest deals effectively with the situation, but whether it will serve to satisfy Japan is another question. There is no equivocation. It deals straightforwardly and pointedly with the matter, but in a friendly manner.

A DEPLORABLE EXHIBITION.

Much criticism is made from time to time over the acts of state legislatures but the situation in Rhode Island is such that should bring prompt remedial action on the part of the people of that commonwealth. In the previous as well as in the present session of the legislature of our neighboring state everything but orderly law making has featured the sessions. There has been a disregard for law and order among the law makers that is a disgrace to the state. There has been quite as much disregard for supreme court decisions or parliamentary procedure as would be expected in a free for all fight.

The situation is one that must disgust the Rhode Islanders. The trouble surrounds local conditions and the methods being pursued by officials and members of the legislature, but it is the clear duty of the people of that state to take a hand in the matter in such a way that nothing of the kind will take place again.

Every state election is important but when the time comes for Rhode Island to again elect its state officials and its legislators, it should be keenly alert to the importance of electing those who will give first consideration to state business and who will stand for law and order in the making of laws as well as in the enforcement of them.

There has been an exhibition in the Rhode Island legislature which calls for a thorough housecleaning and it will be a surprise if the people of that state do not come to that conclusion long before election day.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Is it unreasonable to ask if there are to be any June days that they come in June?

There's nothing thus far to cheer those who depend upon big seasons at the seashore resorts.

The man on the corner says: Common sense is supposed to be free but it is not always easy to find.

Thus far there are no democrats jumping into prominence by declaring they would not accept a nomination.

We have passed the halfway mark in June but no one would suspect it by studying the thermometer readings.

Those Chicago bandits probably figured that in these days of big [illegible] could be aroused by [illegible]

Though the president has not as yet been formally notified of his nomination, he is doing no worrying over the outcome of the Cleveland convention.

There is no reason to expect that following the first vote in the democratic convention there will be a rush to make it unanimous for the fellow with the most votes.

That Finland has begun to pay interest on its war debt to this country should not be overlooked by some others which haven't made arrangements to repay as yet.

An effort to have the democratic keynote speech at night is underway that more may listen in by radio. To reach the radio fans all sessions should be held at night.

EXPERT WORK

"I don't want to go at all," said the badgered husband. "But, of course, that makes no difference. Yes, of course, I'll go, dearie."

"But why do you go if you hate it so?" asked the impractical and visionary woman. "I am sure Marie is not a domineering person. The idea!"

"All wives are!" declared the badgered husband quickly before his wife could say no indeed she isn't! "All husbands are eternally doing things and going places they hate! Wives never do because they are so darned clever at wriggling out of tight spots, while a man, with his noble, straightforward nature and innocent trust, invariably has it put over on him.

"Why, when Marie and I were first married and I saw reluctantly that the girl was moving me around with her little finger I attempted to exercise my keen wits on the situation and get a strangle hold on this insidious force she was using. This was long ago and I am still struggling to know. I am in as complete ignorance as I was on that far-gone day.

"The only difference is that I always skip all the useless chatter which formerly came in between the edict and my capitulation and say yes, dear, immediately. It saves a wonderful lot of time in which, if I applied it, I might easily have mastered Sanskrit, Russian and Chinese. That is why our home life is renowned for its peace and happiness.

"I know that you are going to say that Marie is a gentle, sweet little thing with large and innocent eyes, and I must be mistaken, but I am here to tell you that Marie's kind is the very worst kind. They work under a disguise, so to say. No matter how many times it has happened to you, you glance at them and your every instinct tells you that there is nothing to fear at the hands of such an angelic, self-sacrificing, high-principled little creature with your best interests at heart, and you walk right up confidingly.

"A ton of brick or something hits you and when you again blink your eyes open you find yourself on the toboggan traveling downward with exceeding swiftness. In other words, you are on that trip to the Etwings' house party or are telling the Bangwhacks how tickled to death you are to get them or are writing the check for the new living room rug that you know you don't in the least need. There may be an all-gone feeling in your interior and the smile on your lips may be second-hand and cracked, but she looks just as sweet and innocent as ever and usually has the nerve to murmur something about your being such a big, strong man, and isn't it marvelous that you should care for a poop, weak, little thing such as she is! Spikes your guns—that's what she does!

"Why, no man ever went to a family dinner party of his own accord! Left to his own devices he would break a leg in preference. However, men always do attend family dinner parties in droves. You may draw your own conclusions. Some irresistible force got them there. Evening receptions, bazaars, dressmakers' spring openings and things like that would be nothing but a seething mass of women if men had anything to say about it.

"It is when a man has just become encased and is still dazed and helpless that the girls begin to sink in their claws and lock the handcuffs. I suppose it just goes on and on stealthily and we don't notice it until it is too late, as it is in this case. This Lobelia Splash person is always asking me whether I don't think something or somebody is just too dear for anything and when I attend a dinner at her house she always puts me between a disappointed man-eater with buck teeth and an insolent flapper who snubs me—and ding take it all if I am going to stand it much longer!"

"Now, Edward, you'll have a perfectly good time,' Marie broke in just at this point. "'Don't be foolish. I've sent your evening clothes to be nicely pressed and everything! It just hurts me to have you talk like that about a wonderful woman like Lobelia.'"

"Hear her?" the badgered husband asked hopelessly of the impractical woman who was beginning to look sympathetic. "That's exactly the way they do it, if you get what I mean!"—Chicago News.

Doherty, the Newsboy.

His schooling ended when he was still a boy, Henry L. Doherty had to teach himself, and having no money he was compelled to make his way uphill to affluence.

Born in Columbus, Ohio, he went to grammar school, and, at 12, sold newspapers. He built up a large trade and then found additional work in the city gas house. There, while watching the furnace fires, he read equipment catalogues. He studied his job, and at 20 was gas house engineer. At 22 he was manager of the plant.

The Wall street concern that owned the Columbus franchise found that its Madison, Wis., plant needed reorganizing, and offered the task to Doherty. Without waiting to pack his baggage, he took the next train for Madison.

He succeeded, and soon was president of the company there. Soon afterward the New York organization had him traveling from city to city—28 in all—putting its plants on an efficient basis.

In Denver, a competing company started a cut-rate war, hoping to force a purchase from the syndicate Doherty represented. He fought it with good service and bought it out at his figure.

Now 34, he organized Henry L. Doherty & Co., bankers and operators of public utility corporations, with offices in New York. Public utility financing had all been done in this country, but after he had been in business three years he went to England to interest the Englishmen. Older and better known financiers called him "that upstart," but he arranged with London bankers to handle public utility securities to the extent of $5,000,000 a month.

By the time he was 40, he controlled an immense corporation and now, at 53, he is a real power in Wall Street, a leader in America of the gas and electric arts and industries, the patentee of many devices and the originator of a number of standard practices used in those fields.

And one of his mottoes is, "Don't worry, make play of your work and let nothing be impossible."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Walter J. Damrosch, who has been decorated by the French government with the Legion of Honor in appreciation of his services to music, has long been celebrated in the musical world as leader of the New York Symphony orchestra. His father, Leopold Damrosch, came to the United States from Germany in 1871 and threw himself unreservedly into the American life. The boy, whose education in music was derived from his father and from eminent teachers in Germany—including Hans von Bulow—grew up with the profession of conductor in view, and essayed his first task as such with an orchestra of Newark, N. J., when he was only 19 years old. Later he came to hold positions once held by his father, and as an opera and symphony orchestral director he won a national reputation, partly because of his direct work as leader and partly by his interpretations of music and of lectures in lecture-recitals a form of education of the American public which he was one of the first to use.

A Little Talk on Thrift

Fundamental of All Success.

"Stop the leaks!"

This is a lesson that has been impressed on every American school boy and school girl, yet it is a lesson that is lost sight of by all too many persons.

It is not a mere school book platitude. "Stop the leaks!" This is one of the fundamentals of all success.

No business is so powerful and prosperus that this principle can be ignored.

It is the leaks often that cause failure where there is otherwise every apparent reason for success. Lincoln's famous letter of recommendation for a fellow townsman illustrates the point. While a young lawyer in Illinois he received a letter of inquiring the standing, responsibility and character of a certain man in the town to which he made the following reply:

"Dear Sir: Yours of the 10th received. I am well acquainted with the gentleman named and know his characteristics. First of all, he has a wife and baby; together they ought to be worth $50,000 to any man. Then he has an office, in which there is a table worth about $1.50 and three chairs worth, say $1. Last of all, there is in one corner a rat-hole which will bear looking into.

"Respectfully,

"ABRAHAM LINCOLN."

Nothing could be said against the man, excepting that he did not understand how to stop the leaks. A few days ago I had occasion to inquire about a certain man, and the answer I received was, "Lots of ability but no stability." No stability because he could not stop the leaks of unimportant matters which warped his judgment, undermined his will and distorted his character.

Leaks may consist of misspent pennies or misdirected energy. What is even of greater importance, they may consist of the failure to withstand small temptations.

Most success is achieved through a series of events which in themselves are of small consequence. Most failures likewise come from a piling up of petty mistakes or misdeeds.

Search your own life. Survey your habits. If you discover any leaks, stop them!—American Society for Thrift.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

At the Brown Bear's Cave
Dearest me—Let me see.
Where did we leave off,
You and me.

Oh, yes. I remember now. Little Jack Rabbit had just said goodbye to Mr. Grouse, who had fooled the bunny boy by making a noise like thunder in the last story.

As the little rabbit hopped along he said to himself: "I wonder where Mrs. Grouse has her nest. It's on the ground I know, for she never builds one in a tree. And he looked here and there, but he couldn't find that nice lady bird. No siree. She had so cleverly made her nest among the dry brown leaves at the foot of a big tree and her brown feather dress was so like their color that the little rabbit passed her by without a thought. Yes, sireebus. He never saw her bright eyes peeking at him from the midst of a little heap of dry leaves at the roots of the tall tree.

"Hello, Hello!" shouted Jack Rabbit

Pretty soon he came to the Big Brown Bear's cosy cave, where that kind animal sold ice cream cones and lollypops, sweet clover balls and pink gumdrops. The lollypop tree that grew close to his front door was all aglow with rainbow colored lollypops. Some were half hidden by glossy green leaves, and maybe two or three were lying on the ground, blown off, no doubt, by Billy Breeze during the night.

"Hello, hello" shouted the little rabbit, laying his knapsack on the big wooden bench just outside the cave house. "Here I am," answered a friendly voice, and out ambled the kind old bear. "I was filling boxes with lollypops and he wiped his paws on his white apron. "Lollypops are sticky when they are first picked. Maybe if they didn't have sticks they wouldn't be so sticky. But then, who would like a stickless lollypop," and the Big Brown Bear sat down on the wooden bench and took out his corn cob pipe.

"I'd like to fill my knapsack," said the bunny boy, cuddling up to the big kind animal's fur overcoat. "May I?"

"Dear, oh dear," answered the Big Brown Bear. "I'll have to climb the lollypop tree. I have only enough lollypops on hand to fill the little pasteboard boxes."

"Smoke your pipe first," sighed the little rabbit, politely, although he could hardly wait to get those delicious lollypops that twinkled from the branches of the lollypop tree. My goodness, how they did shine under the bright rays of Mr. Merry Sun. I wish every little boy and girl who reads this story could visit Cosy Cave and see the Big Brown Bear climb the lollypop tree. Wouldn't they shout and dance when he reached the topmost branches and looked down to ask: "Would you like that yellow one over there, or that purple one as large as a pear?"

But your Uncle Dave has come to the end of this story. So you must wait, little reader for the next one, when I will write tonight by candle light.

ENRICH YOUR BLOOD WITH THIS NEWER FORM OF IRON

For many years physicians and chemists experimented to produce a newer form of iron, like the iron in your blood, because they realized that the old metallic irons often blackened the teeth and upset the stomach. Their examinations proved that three people out of every four were deficient in iron content in the blood and that thousands were weak, sick, nervous, ailing and run-down, and suffering from all sorts of alarming symptoms, when as a matter of fact their trouble was all due to iron starvation of the blood. At last they discovered this newer form of iron, like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples in highly concentrated form. It quickly helps put strength into your muscles and color into your cheeks. Get your doctor to test your blood count today, then take this newer form of iron known as Nuxated Iron for a few weeks and watch your red blood corpuscles increase; see how much purer and richer your blood becomes; how much stronger and better you feel; what difference it makes in your nerves. Over 4,000,000 people annually are using Nuxated Iron. Your money will be refunded if you do not obtain satisfactory results. In tablet form only. At all druggists.

BIDS AWARDED FOR OLD SCHOOL HOUSES

Bids to buy the old school houses, all of the one-room type, at Scotland Road, Plain Hill and Wauwecus Hill were opened Wednesday by the selectmen. The following were the successful bidders: Wauwecus Hill, Joseph Kapusick, $40; Scotland Road, Frank P. Bushnell, $50; Plain Hill, Charles Gilcher, $75.

The bids are only for the buildings and do not include the land upon which they stand as this reverts under the deeds when it has ceased to be used for educational purposes. Except in the case of the Wauwecus hill school the buildings will have to be moved off. In that case it happens that the successful bidder is the one to whom the land reverts.

Other bids were received as follows: Peter Nawrocki, $10 for the Wauwecus hill school and $25 for the three; A. T. Gardner, $26 for Plain Hill; Frank P. Bushnell, $50 for Plain Hill; Hormedas Lambert, $30 for Scotland Road and $30 for Plain Hill.

WEDDINGS.

Garvey-Yerrington.

Maurice Clifford Garvey, son of John Garvey of Groton, and Miss Anna Rose Yerrington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Yerrington of No. 404 Boswell avenue, were united in marriage Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock by Rev. Frederick Coholan in St. Mary's Memorial church. The bridesmaid was Miss Mary A. Yerrington, sister of the bride, and the best man was Thomas Gleason. Henry J. LaFontaine presided at the organ and as an offertory sang Ave Maria.

The bride's wedding gown was of Spanish lace over white canton crepe and she wore a tulle veil caught with orange blossoms. Her shower bouquet was of roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid was gowned in pink canton crepe and she carried a bouquet of butterfly roses.

The gift of the bride to her maid was a string of pearls and the groom's gift to the best man was a K. of C. charm. Over 55 guests were present at the reception held at the home of the bride's parents. Upon their return from a wedding trip to Boston Mr. and Mrs. Garvey will reside on Oakridge street. The bride has been employed in the office of the Richmond Radiator Co. Mr. Garvey is employed at the Norwich plant of the J. B. Martin Co.

Dineen-McGarry.

St. Patrick's church was filled Wednesday morning for a quiet, though impressive wedding service, where Miss Anne E. McGarry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William P. McGarry of 111 Washington street, and William E. Dineen, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Dineen of Cheyenne, Wyoming, were married, Rev. Michael H. May, rector of the church, officiated.

The bridal procession entered the church to the music of the Bridal Chorus, from Lohengrin, played by Professor Frank L. Farrell. The bride was very charming in a gown of poudre blue georgette crepe, trimmed with ostrich feathers with a hat of the same shade and an arm bouquet of Ophelia roses. Miss Margaret McGarry of New Rochelle college, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, wore a dress of tan georgette crepe trimmed with morning glories. She wore a tan hat, and carried blue delpheniums with yellow daisies. Dr. William J. Driscoll was best man.

A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, and was attended by the immediate families of the young couple.

The bride, a graduate of the Norwich Free academy, 1917, was secretary of her class, and a member of the Sigma Beta Phi sporority. She also graduated from the Willimantic Normal school and for the past three years has been a member of the faculty of the Norwich Free academy. The groom was graduated from the Naval academy at Annapolis in 1919, and, since his resignation from the navy in 1921, has been engaged in business in Cheyenne, Wyoming.

Following their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Dineen will return to this city for a brief visit, before leaving for Cheyenne, where they will be at home after September first.

Among the out of town guests at the wedding were Mrs. William E. Dineen, mother of the groom, Mrs. Edward J. Murray, sister of the bride and her small son, William M. Murray of Cheyenne.

Florence—Rothwell

In Sacred Heart church, Taftville, Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock, Rev. U. O. Bellerose, the rector, united in marriage Harry J. Florence, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Florence of Occum and Mary Frances Rothwell, daughter of Mrs. Sarah Rothwell of Taftville.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Julia A. Rothwell as maid of honor and John F. Sullivan of Norwich, was best man.

The bride was becomingly gowned in white satin crepe, trimmed with Spanish lace and wore a veil of lace caught up with pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore Alice blue satin crepe, with hat to match and carried sweetheart roses and carnations.

A wedding breakfast was served to friends of the couple at the home of the bride. In the afternoon the newlyweds left on a short trip in their car. Upon their return they are to reside in a newly furnished home in Norwich. The bride's going away gown was of blue georgette with hat to match.

The brides gift to her maid was a pink sapphire and the groom's gift to the best man was a gold stick pin.

Mr. and Mrs. Florence have the best wishes of a host of admiring friends for a long and happy married life.

Rowley-Devine.

In St. John's church, Montville, at 9.30 Wednesday morning Miss Leonie A. Devine, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Devine, and Edward L. Rowley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Rowley of New London, were united in marriage by the pastor, Rev. James O'Mara, assisted by Rev. John Quinn of Westerly, formerly of Montville. A nuptial mass followed. Miss Helen Garvey, the organist, had charge of the music and the choir was in attendance. Miss Jane O'Brien of New London sang Ave Maria at the offertory. The church was decorated in palms, ferns, pink carnations and baskets of pink peonies.

The bride was attended by the groom's sister, Miss Loretta Rowley, and the best man was William Devine, brother of the bride. The ushers were Joseph Collins and John P. Corcoran.

The bride was prettily attured in white embroidered crepe de chine with wreath and veil and carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid wore peachblow crepe de chine with black picture hat and carried a shower bouquet of Columbia roses.

After the ceremony at the church, a wedding breakfast was served for forty guests who included friends from Springfield, Chicopee, Webster, Westerly, New London and Norwich. The bride received a large number of beautiful giftsn that included money, furniture, silver, glass and linen. Mr. and Mrs. Rowley left early for a trip to Atlantic City and on their return will reside in Montville for the summer.

DAMAGES AWARDED FOR SLANDER AND ASSAULT BY TWO WOMEN

After an all day trial here Wednesday in the superior court before Judge John R. Booth and a jury in the assault and slander suit of Mrs. Adranna B. Percy of New London against Mrs. Clara Occhialini and Mrs. Cesarini Olivier. Both of New London, the jury gave a verdict for the plaintiff.

After the arguments by Attorney Thomas E. Troland for the plaintiff and Attorney D. J. Cronin for the defendant, and the charge to the jury by Judge Booth, the case went to the jury at 3:20 in the afternoon. About an hour later the jury returned and reported through foreman John R. Bowman Jr., that they had found for the plaintiff on both counts but asked instructions from the court as to the amount of damages and as to the counter claim which the defendant had made. Judge Booth gave them a few words of advice and sent them back to the jury rooms, from which they subsequently returned with a virdict of $75 for Mrs. Percy for damages to her cloths and $500 for the slander, while they dismissed the counter-claim in its entirety. The damages wese assessed against both defendants. Judge Booth accepted the verdict.

Before court adjourned, Attorney Cronin filed a motion to set aside the verdict.

Witnesses who testified for the plaintiff Wednesday were Evelyn Cordasi. Prentice Alexander and Josephine Cordasi.

Besides the two defendants, witnesses who testified for them were Frances Olivieri, Antonio Menghi, Sarah Menghi, Italia Perfedessi, Maria Epolito, Edith Miller and Josephine Drago.

An interesting two-reel educational film showing the coal mining operations in the Pennsylvania fields was shown at the noonday luncheon of the Norwich Rotary club on Wednesday at the Wauregan hotel. The picture dealt with the anthracite industry largely. This picture was one shown at the National Coal Economy exhibit in New York recently. Lucius Briggs, who had charge of this interesting part of the program, spoke briefly on the subject of coal, saying that the public is slow to realize the advantage and economy in burning the small sizes of hard coal. He told of the advantageous way in which the smaller sizes—buckwheat and pea coal—can be used.

Walter F. Lester, president of the town school committee, was present at the meeting and spoke briefly to the members of the club, urging their attendance at the town meeting on next Tuesday evening when two important school projects will come up for action. Mr. Lester told of the extreme need of more adequate school facilities in two districts in the town, Norwich Town and the East Side. An overcrowded condition exists in both these localities, one which must be remedied if proper schooling is to be given the children of these districts. With 60 pupils crowded into a classroom originally designed to accommodate 40 it can be readily seen that a condition exists that must be bettered or the children will suffer, both in their study and physically. Ample school facilities must be provided, said Mr. Lester, so it is the duty of every father and mother in Norwich to interest themselves in this matter and attend the meeting Tuesday evening. A large number of the Rotarians signified their intention of attending the meeting.

At the business session President Hugh B. Campbell presided and John J. O'Rourke was the very energetic song leader. There were many guests present at the meeting and among the visiting Rotarians was a member of the Chicago club, the first club to be organized in the country.

Secretary J. Nelson Weymouth among other communications read one from Dr. Clarence A. Spear, who is attending the international convention of Rotary at Toronto, as the delegate from the Norwich club.

E. LaRue Bliven, chairman of the baseball committee, issued a sweeping challenge to the teams of all business organizations in New London county, especially the chamber of commerce teams, the Lions club, Bankers and the Rotary clubs.

The meeting closed with The Star Spangled Banner.

TESTIMONY IN TRIAL OF GASTON B. MEANS

New York, June 18.—Complaint to Secretary of Treasury Andrew W. Mellon by John W. Hubbard, wealthy steel man of Trenton, N. J., that he had lost $15,000 in an effort to get whiskey out of bond, led to the prosecution of Gaston B. Means and his secretary, Emil Jarnecke, for alleged conspiracy to violate the liquor law, it was alleged in testimony at the continuance of the trial of the two men today.

Hubbard testified that through Frank D. Saupp, an automobile dealer, he had been given an opportunity to buy whiskey obtainable through special government connections from the Thompson distillery warehouses at Brownsville, Pa. Through Saupp, he said, he had paid $15,000 to Charles W. Johnson who was negotiating directly with Means. Johnson on the stand all day yesterday and through the forenoon today told in detail the story of the alleged plan to withdraw the whiskey and how it had failed.

Hubbard, who asserted he knew Arthur Sixsmith, Mellon's secretary well, and was acquainted with Mr. Mellon, testified he wanted the liquor for drinking purposes. After the plan had failed and no sign of the return of his money appeared, he said he had lunch with Sixsmith who urged him to lay his complaint before Mr. Mellon. He called on the secretary and after he had told his story including the role played by Means, Mr. Mellon is alleged to have said:

"I'm surprised a government official would do anything like that."

At Mr. Mellon's suggestion, the witness said, it was then arranged that formal affidavits of charges should be made before Commissioner David W. Blair of internal revenue. This was done. The witness said Johnson also called on Mr. Mellon.

Hubbard denied having any business or financial connection with Mr. Mellon. He said he owed companies in Pittsburgh, Chicago and St. Louis. Repeated efforts to link the name of the secretary of treasury with the conspiracy were blocked after bitter clashes between opposing attorneys.

Saupp, following Hubbard to the stand, testified to being approached by Johnson with an offer of warehouse whiskey. He said Johnson had told him that the wiskey was being sold to repay Secretary Mellon for the money he had advanced in the 1920 campaign.

Jacob Stein testified that he had been asked to find customers for bonded whiskey at $200 a barrel by Means. In addition to Johnson he had brought others to meet Means, he said.

Under cross examination this morning, Johnson admitted that he had, while in Havana, received a telegram from his brother advising him that he would be granted immunity for his testimony in the case.

EAST ENDS WIN ONE-SIDED GAME FROM WEST ENDS IN TWILIGHT LEAGUE

The old story of the home team getting defeated was again demonstrated last night at the Duwell field when the role of the home team was taken by the boys from the West End of the town. The so-called visiting team was none other than the East End crew made up largely of players of Duwell fame. Keeping awake was the chief reason for the East Enders' victory, [illegible] together with bases on balls at opportune moments. The 13 hits were placed where they would do the most good. Only one came by itself, the others being accompanied with brothers or sisters. Eight of the binglers were doubles, and these also figured in the scoring.

Lamphere, the strikeout king, started in good duty for the men from the West Side. He had his opponents eating out of his hand for the first two innings, when he got out—and [illegible] was the boy picked to go against Lamphere. He seemed to [illegible] those first two innings [illegible] for five hits in two innings, [illegible] together with [illegible] batter totaled four [illegible] the game looked like the West Enders in the third, the East [illegible] back with four runs, taking the lead away this point Leonard [illegible] on Lamphere, putting the [illegible] in the lead. Four more [illegible] were scored in the fourth; [illegible] was vet to be. [illegible] Boston boys more [illegible] and when the [illegible] away the scoreboard [illegible] more counters. A double play occurred in the fourth when Segal had singled to left and Lamphere was at bat. He hit a pop [illegible] Mills who let it drop, doubling [illegible] Lamphere. [illegible] first. Mills [illegible] getting [illegible] in five [illegible] Mills also got [illegible] credit as winning pitcher.

Echoes From the Stands
(By Matt)

Another one-sided score.

It was a good game for all of that.

Those East Side boys sure have a couple of hitting team when hits are needed.

Whacko Riley made a pretty double with the bases full in the third, scoring two runs and tying the score. Whacko also hit another double in the [illegible] scored two more.

[illegible] of the West Enders, made a wonderful catch of Razzo Pedace's long fly in deep center in the last of the sixth.

Bullet Pedace's throwing arm is improving as he made two beautiful throws in the first inning catching a man at third and another at second in the same inning. Pretty work, Bullet.

Lane caught a nice game for the West Ends. One thing that can be said for the West Siders is that they were trying all the time.

President Mathewson was on hand as usual and took an active interest of the boosters for the league and is doing everything in his power to make a success.

Lane's catch of a line drive in the third that retired the side was one of the fielding features of the game.

Sydney is strengthening his team all the time and although he was on the short end of the score he is a good loser.

The fans should remember that Umpire coleman is not getting anything for his services and is trying to do his best which is exceptionally good. An umpire's life is far from pleasant, especially if there are many close decisions.

Harry Mills retired the West Ends in the last inning on strikes and he, with Belair, played a big part in the East Siders' victory.

It is rumored that Trickfeet Risley has been released from the East Ends and that George Madden is going to use him to take the place of the Wooden Indian that stood in front of the cigar emporium for so many years.

DONOHUE OUTPITCHES DOAK AND REDS TRIM DODGERS

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 18.—Bill Doak, made his debut in the box for Brooklyn today and pitched a strong game. But Pete Donohue twirled a shade better and Cincinnati broke the Dodgers' winning streak by a score of 2 to 1. A close decision at the plate by Umpire Moran gave Cincinnati its first run. How It's Done In the Majors
By Frank Frisch
Captain New York Giants

There is a runner on first base. The batter is given a base on balls.

If the catcher throws the ball to second base is the runner out if he steps off the base after first touching it?

Because a runner is forced to second by a base on balls some amateur players and fans think that he doesn't have to stop and hold the bag after reaching there. In short, they believe he can't be put out should he step beyond the base but the moment that such a runner touches second his contract has been completed. Hence, he may be touched out if he steps beyond the base or leaves it in either direction. I have seen smart catchers every now and then in college and amateur games whip the ball to second when a runner is advanced to that place on balls and every now and then this runner will forget himself and step off the bag and be touched out. It is a good thing to have that point clear in your mind when you watch baseball or play the game.

DUNDEE ACCEPTS CHALLENGE FOR BOUT WITH KAPLAN

New York, June 18.—Johnny Dundee, world's featherweight champion, today accepted Louis Kid Kaplan's challenge for the 126-pound crown. The Meriden, Conn., challenger was recently selected by the New York state athletic commission as the logical contender for the title. The commission informed the managers of the two principals that negotiations for a title match must be started immediately.

Frank Moody, English middleweight and a licensed boxer in this state, was suspended indefinitely for engaging in a bout with Harry Greb, world's middleweight champion, at Waterbury, Conn., on June 16. Greb is under ban in this state following his suspension in Massachusetts and the New York solons ruled that licensed boxers must not participate in a contest with the title holder while he is under the ban.

AMERICAN WOMEN TENNIS PLAYERS FAIR POORLY IN WIN ONE-SIDED GAME

Wimbledon, England, June 18.—(By The A. P.)—The American team of women tennis players was soundly beaten in all three matches with British opponents this afternoon. To the surprise of everyone the American champion, Miss Helen Wills, of California, fell before the steady and unfaltering attack and almost puncture proof defense of Mrs. Phyllis Covell, of England, in straight sets, 6-2, 6-4.

Miss Wills had recovered from her slight illness of yesterday, but she was for some reason almost entirely off her game. Nothing went right for her. Except at rare intervals her fast service flew too far beyond the net, or else plunged into it; her ground strokes were for the most part ill-timed, a great many of them whizzing several feet beyond the back-court lines, others flying low into the net.

For a long time it seemed as if she would never accustom herself to the pace of the keen shaven court, which was far faster than any other turf court she had been able to practice on here, as it had been sheltered from the spring rains by a tarpaulin. When she did seem to get the "hang" of it all it was too late, as Mrs. Covell had the second set well in hand.

The Englishwoman played with steadiness, fine courage and unfaltering judgment of timing and distance. From the first stroke to the last Mrs. Covell made no mistakes; everything that was possible for her to reach she got her racquet on and usually returned it at a forcing pace. Few of her drives went outside the lines of play, and still fewer of them were caught in the net. She simply stuck grimly with real British bull-doggedness to every play, plugging away at Miss Wills' backhand, which for today at least, had lost its deadliness, until the California girl was driven into error after error, both of timing and placing.

Those who have followed Mrs. Covell's playing for years said they had never seen her perform so well in the singles. Most of her past successes have been in the doubles, today she covered the entire court like a map of single encounters; she showed fine judgment in selecting the proper time to come to the net, putting many volleys beyond the reach of Miss Wills, who herself seldom resorted to the net game.

To the matches that followed, the other British players brought the same resolute firmness, sureness of aim and certainty of pace that marked Mrs. Covell's triumph. Miss Kathleen McKane, outplayed Mrs. Molla Mallory in almost every game, winning easily, 6-3, 6-2. The American ex-champion played well, and was never as wild as Miss Wills had been, but Miss McKane, who has added a great deal of speed to her strokes and footwork since last year, always found vulnerable spots, smashing low ground shots or crisp volleys at her opponent.

At times Mrs. Mallory rose to her best endeavors, comparable to the game she has played in America in the past years, but she was never able to quite catch up with Great Britain's ranking number one player.

The doubles was a slam-bang sort of affair with a great deal of volleying and played at a hard fast pace throughout, but the English pair, Mrs. Covell and Mrs. Shepherd-Barron, played harder and faster than the Americans, Mrs. Marion Jessup and Miss Eleanor Goss, and never for a moment looked like losers. They won 6-2, 6-2.

Wonders had been expected from the racquet of the California girl and her failure to rise to her real form was so surprising that the crowd watched the last set almost in silence. It was not a large crowd, only two or three thousand, half of them school children in uniforms. They cheered during the first few games of the match between Miss Wills and Mrs. Covell, but displayed intense disappointment from that on.

WILL BULKELEY WIN STATE BASEBALL TITLE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 18.—The Connecticut High School championship will be awarded to one of the leading high school baseball teams in this state within a short space of time. This afternoon Coach Robert T. Aldrich of the Bulkeley High School team of this city made a special trip to Hartford to present the season's record to Dr. Ireland, athletic supervisor of the high schools in the state. Due to the absence of Dr. Ireland, Coach Aldrich was unable to receive an answer either way to the claim of the Bulkeley team to the high school championship of the state. However, Dr. Ireland's secretary is expected to communicate with Coach Aldrich and inform him of the finding that the state supervisor of athletics makes.

Bulkeley finished its season with but a single defeat with high schools in the state. That defeat was at the hands of Crosby High School of Waterbury, the team that is pressing the local high school nine for the high school crown. The standing in the state high school teams in a complicated mess, indeed, and only a round about course may be taken to decide the championship. Up until two weeks ago, when New Haven Hillhouse met a defeat at the hands of Hartford High, this team had one of the best chances for the title. The only defeat the New Haven institution suffered until that time was at the hands of Bridgeport High, while Bulkeley and Crosby High both held a victory over this team. On the other hand New Haven Hillhouse took Crosby High into camp and was leading the teams in the standing together with Bulkeley. When Hartford sent this team down to defeat it also sent all hopes for the state championship down with it.

The question at the State Capitol for Dr. Ireland to decide is whether it is Crosby High or Bulkeley to be declared state title winners. Both teams present a fine record and is marred by only one defeat. Whether Crosby High and Bulkeley will remain at a deadlock and neither team is awarded the title [illegible] tion to be figured out and [illegible] some time to think out and a hasty answer cannot be made. At present the Bulkeley players together with Coach Aldrich will have to sit tight and await the outcome of Dr. Ireland's finding.

GAIR TEAM WINS THIRD STRAIGHT IN LEAGUE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 18.—The third consecutive victory was safely tucked away under the belt of the Robert Gair nine, when the paperm[illegible]ers humbled the Connecticut Power nine at Morgan Park this evening in an Industrial League contest. The Gair nine piled up a total of thirteen runs to a goose egg for the Power nine and took a firmer grip on first place in the standing.

The Montville boys started scoring in the second and did not stop until the final frame and a total of thirteen runs were scored. Errors and timely hits were the cause of it all. Priestly for the Connecticut Power found it rough going fortwo innings and after ten runs had been scored off him in the second and third innings Chappell, who had pitched the night before in the City League, took up the pitching burden. The Gair batsmen were not to be stopped from crossing the platter, both Chappell and three runs were scored off Channell. The Power team did everything but play baseball and continually presented the Montville men opportunities to score.

Shahan twirled fine ball for the winners and kept the Power batsmen off the bases. He was strong in the pinches and rose to the limelight in the seventh inning by striking three men out in order after the bases had been filled. Shahan allowed but four hits during the [illegible] He received [illegible] team mates and was [illegible] except for the [illegible]

Cleary with three hits, one good for a triple led the Gair attack upon the Power pitchers. Machines made the circuit in the second inning with two men on the base paths. Shahan and Beaupre had triples.

ST. PATRICK'S TEAM WINS GRAMMAR SCHOOL TITLE

In a one-sided game at the Academy Campus St. Patrick's School baseball team won the final game of a play-off of a tie in the [illegible] School League [illegible] 17 to 2. Broadway had eliminated Greeneville in a previous game. This victory gives the Saints possession of the Norwich Evening Record cup, emblematical of the [illegible]

The fielding of Bill Burns and the two doubles by Shorty Hamil were also features.

The personnel of the team is as follows: Casey, manager, Marks captain, J. Shea, S. Mingo, W. Burns, E. Reilly, J. Burns, C. Drew, E. Hamill, D. Sullivan, F. Donovan, D. Courbois, J. Ruffo, W. Wamsh and John Moran. Father Guerriero was coach and John Burns and Henry Couture assistant coaches.

This game ends a most exciting and successful season for the St. Patrick's teams, football basketball and baseball, St. Patrick's winning the championship in each. Father Guerriero coached all the teams to their overwhelming victories and a large share of the credit is due to him.

Manager Casey and Captain Marks were untiring in their efforts in leading the team to victory and their work is appreciated by all the school.

The team plans to hold a banquet at some later date and St. Patrick's team will have teams next year in athletics and hopes to be as successful as in years past.

NEW LONDON A QUIET CITY WITH THE YALE-HARVARD RACE DUE TOMORROW

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 18.—Within less than 48 hours of the greatest water sports in which Yale and Harvard participate there is so little local interest manifested in the varsity and freshman crew races to occur on the Thames Friday that no one would realize that a contest is at hand. A few newspaper writers are in town and a few yachts are in the harbor with owners and guests aboard, but among the hotels and on the streets there is no evidence that a great aquatic struggle will be rowed in 42 hours. In contrast with bygone years the events mentioned are attracting no attention from any but the supporters of the colleges and their immediate friends and these are not here in any numbers. In 1878 when the crews first came here the few days and nights preceding the races the streets were thronged with strangers there were street sinkers and lemonade and the town was actually a mob with hunting and with the excitement that the collegians created. Now, no one speaks of the races, there is no talk of wagers, for Yale is a prime favorite in the most important event that of the varsity eights, and confidently entered are the freshmen who also carry off the honors in which they are to compete. The crews are said to be in the pink of condition. They were fit for a race when they came here, so that they were in need only of such training as would keep them in shape and prevent them from taking cold and the like. The crews will rest tomorrow. They have done all that can be done to reach perfection in condition. They stay here, of a fortnight, has been chiefly devoted to perfecting their work with the oars and that it is admitted, has improved.

Attachments on the Pequot Casino are now to be satisfied by the sale at auction of all the equipment and furnishings of the once fashionable summer resort. It will be recalled that the building was bought at one of the creditors through some months ago. Then there were attachments on the property to satisfy debts and it is these attachments that are now being closed. The place was raided last summer and the proprietor was arrested and prosecuted. He was convicted, too, and is now serving a jail sentence.

Vessels arriving from outside Block Island and Montauk today report that the craft that have been supplying liquor and alcohol to the vessels that went there and took on cargoes have been frightened away by the activity with which the coast guard cutters have pursued them. It is believed the rum boats have gone to the eastward. Their departure has advanced the price of grain alcohol and has made the bad booze they brought in cost more than it has cost in a long time, the expense of getting it having doubled since the fleet got away.

It is declared by merchants others than those doing business on Bank street, that that thoroughfare will never be made a success as far as the movement of traffic is concerned. The street railway company proposes, it is said, to present the matter at a public hearing to be heard soon and upon which the city council is to express itself as to whether the company may be allowed to accommodate a few dissatisfied persons on Bank street by making changes that would be inconvenience to the public at large. It is understood that representatives of the Connecticut company have had a conference with City Manager Holt and that the entire situation has been canvassed with the result that the city manager is not enthusiastic to make the change asked for.

Dr. Joseph M. Ganey and wife have returned to their home on Williams street after having spent several days in New York.

Thomas Cornell, former resident of New London, now of New York, is spending a few days in town.

Harry Morris, 100 Bristol street, New Haven, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Thomas F. Sexton in the Waterford town court evening, charged with reckless driving. A fine of $25 was imposed. The accused was represented by counsel. Morris was taken into custody Monday by State Policeman Thomas Barry of the Groton barracks. The New Haven man was observed driving his machine on Durfee hill in a zig-zag course, finally plunging off the side of the highway and overturning.

Now We Know Why People Have Burning Feet

All In the Joints Says Maine Doctor

"What fools we mortals be."

All these years we have been trying to help thousands of footsore people by bathing and powdering the skin when all the time the real trouble is in the bones, ligament and cartilage.

Or, to be short, in the joints.

There are 26 bones in the foot covered with cartilage and connected with ligaments and they have a tremendous amount of work to do.

The slightest strain on one little ligament from being "on the feet" too much inflames the whole foot, causing soreness and burning, aching and general misery.

"All this can be quickly proved," says a prominent Maine doctor whose name is known the world over.

Just try a remedy that is compounded for joint troubles only—such as Joint-Ease, which every druggist carries, and see how quickly your sore, tired, inflamed and tortured feet will get well and strong and sturdy again.

Forget your powdering and soaking and other makeshifts for just a few days and get rid of all foot misery by using Joint-Ease.

It's an active emollient that you rub on with your fingers for about a minute and it soaks right in through skin and flesh away down to the joints—the real seat of all troubles.

And remember when Joint-Ease gets in all foot agony get out—quick—a tube for 60 cents—Every drug store.

Lee & Osgood Co. sells lots of Joint-Ease.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR.

New York, June 18.—Stock prices developed considerable irregularity on a reduced volume of trading in today's market. Special strength was being shown in a number of widely diversified issues. Speculators for the decline made several attempts to unsettle the general list, but they made little headway except in the rubber and tobacco issues were advanced sharply.

[illegible] the industrials were very [illegible] the Sawyer and [illegible] fed 2 1-2 to [illegible] ading in the [illegible] eck by the [illegible] e democratic [illegible] platform.

[illegible] to [illegible] l common [illegible] ill time at [illegible] and the six per cent. preferred, dividends on which have been omitted, dropped two points. U. S. Rubber common and first preferred dropped 1 2 and 3 1-4 points, respectively.

Strength and activity of Nickel Plate, which established another new 24 high record, up three points, led reports that the stock was [illegible] placed on a $7 dividend [illegible] consolidation with [illegible] up to the common stock which sold a point higher at 80. Southern Pacific was another outstanding strong spot in the rail [illegible] was up [illegible] a point on the day. Gulf, Mobile & Northern issues also showed brisk advances, the common closing [illegible] up [illegible] more than five points.

Sales shares held relatively firm despite the reaction in the whole market recessed that settled demand during early afternoon operations showed any improvement. Copper shares were again dull. Accumulation of tobacco stocks was suggestive of pool operations. Reynolds B., Schulte and Tobacco Products common all making new gains.

Call money held unchanged at 2 per cent. The time money was dull with rate funds offered at 3 1-2 per cent., four months and 3 3-4 for three months maturities, but borrowers generally being unwilling to pay more than 3 1-4 and 3 1-2. The bulk of time unsecured paper continues to move at 4 per cent.

Foreign exchange rates held steady in extremely quiet trading. Demand sterling ruled around $4.32 and French francs were quoted at about 6 3-8 cents.

BOND MARKET.

New York, June 18.—The return of bond trading to normal volume and activity, coupled with insignificant price fluctuations, today focused attention on the terms of new offerings, which furnished the most enlightening indication of the market's trend.

The state of North Carolina, which several weeks ago obtained a record low rate of interest from bankers on a short term loan, bettered that transaction today by placing $2,000,000 60-day notes with the same bank at a rate not to exceed 2 1-2 per cent. in addition, it sold $10,000,000 4 1-2 per cent. highway bonds for a $5,000 premium. Offering of the issue, maturing from 1924 to 1963, is being made on a 4.35 bas s. Aggregate premiums on a $11,000,000 state of New Jersey bond issue exceeded $160,000.

Several railroad issues, including $3,150,000 Chicago and Northwestern 63 year 5s and $1,500,000 "Soo" Line two-year 5 per cent. notes were placed privately and an offering of $3,516,700 Frisco equipment 6s was quickly subscribed.

Shifting of surplus bank funds from Liberty bonds to federal land bank obligations was reflected in a further advance in the quoted values of the $35,000,000 issue sold earlier this week. The bonds which were offered at 101 sold at 1-4 point higher today.

Foreign government bonds gave the best demonstration of group strength in today's trading. Belgian 7 1-2s, Cuban 5s and several South American issues sold at the year's highest prices. Trading in the domestics list was featured by the weakness of Rubber Company liens, many of which ranged from 1 to 1-2 points lower on reports of additional price cuts.

CURB MARKET.

New York, June 18.—Speculative interest in today's curb market was at low ebb, prices generally moved within narrow and irregular limits. Efforts to unsettle the oil shares met with little success, losses of 1 to 2 points in Prairie Oil and Gas, Standard Oil of Ohio and Cities Service being accompanied by a small volume of trading. Moderate improvement was shown by Vacuum and Salt Creek Producers.

A gain of nearly two points in American Light and Traction common was one of the outstanding developments in the industrial list. Grand Stores moved up more than a point on reports of high current earnings while Hudson and Manhattan and Gillette Safety Razor dropped back 1 1-2 points, respectively.

Interest in the mining group was confined principally to the penny stocks. Hawthorne Mines, which has enjoyed a brisk advance recently on reports of important development work, fell back slightly on profit-taking.

Bond trading was again active, the principal feature being a loss of one point in Northern States Power 6 1-2s.

COTTON.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, June 18.—Corn scored a spectacular advance today, and the upward sweep of the wheat market continued. All deliveries of both cereals overtopped the season's previous record. Persistent wet weather was the chief stimulating factor in corn, and there was foreign buying of wheat. Corn finished strong, 2 5-8 to 3 3-8c net higher, July $6 1-4 to 56 3-8. The closing for wheat was unsettled, 5-8c to 1 1-8c up, May $1.16 1-2 to $1.16 5-8 and September $1.17 5-8 to $1.17 3-4, with oats showing 1 to 1 3-8 cent gain, and provisions varying from 10c decline to 12@15 advance.

Usual scarcity of offerings in the corn market appeared to freighten traders who had contracted to make deliveries in July and September. Flurried bidding from such individuals ran prices up rapidly, and with speculative demand broadening out it was only after the urgent had amounted to 3 1-2c a bushel that any reaction of importance took place. Knowledge that other markets were outbidding Chicago in the country, and that cash corn was up 5c at St. Louis with all grades selling above 90c added to the tention here and led to talk in some quarters that the recent big advance of wheat might be rivaled by corn.

A sharp advance in wheat quotations at Liverpool was quickly reflected by the wheat market here, especially as Winnipeg prices showed greater strength even than Chicago. It was said that through purchase of future deliveries foreigners had obtained a large quantity of United States wheat and would exchange the futures for the cash grain when wanted. Heavy profit-taking sales, however, wiped out much of today's maximum advance in wheat here.

Oats as a substitute for corn attracted numerous buyers.

Provisions averaged higher owing to an upturn in hog values.

Immigration inspectors, examining 238 Japanese who arrived at Seattle aboard the liner President McKinley with passports from Japan, found scores who claimed long years of residence in this country who could not speak a word of English.

JEWETT CITY

The marriage of Francis H. Driscoll and Miss Yvonne C. Hourigan was performed at St. Mary's church on Wednesday morning, the church being filled with relatives and friends who had gathered to witness the nuptials of this very popular young couple. The ceremony was performned and the nuptial mass sung by Rev. Alfred Driscoll, of St. Mary's church, Greeneville, a cousin of the groom, assisted by Rev. J. J. McCabe and Rev. J. J. Tyler of St. Mary's church, Jewett City. Miss Sadie Driscoll, Norwich, a cousin of the groom, sang the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin as the wedding party went to the altar. She sang Ave Maria as the offertory. Mrs. Noel Garand sang during the mass, James Olson officiating as organist.

The bride wore an exquisite gown of white duchesse satin and handmade duchesse lace. Her point d'esprite lace veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of brides roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid was Miss Amelia Morancy, her cousin. She wore primrose and rose tinted taffeta with hat to match, and carried yellow Marguerites. The best man was William Driscoll, brother of the groom. The bride's mother wore orchid beaded georgette, and the groom's mother wore black satin. The altar was decorated with gladioli, peonies, carnations and daisies. The wedding breakfast and receptiaon were given at the Wauregan in Norwich, fifty guests being present. Cut flowers and palms were effectively arranged by Geduldig.

Mr. and Mrs. Driscoll went to New York for their wedding trip, and will live in a newly furnished apartment on Mathewson street on their return. The bride wore a dark blue poiret twill suit with hat to match and scarf to match. The bride's gift from the groom was a platinum wrist watch, and the best man received a silver card case. The bride presented her maid with a pearl necklace. The bride received a large number of gifts of solver, cut glass, linen, china, house furnishings and money. She is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Hourigan, and has been bookkeeper at Finn Bros. store, after being graduated from St. Mary's parochial school and attending the Holy Ghost convent in Putnam.

Mr. Driscoll is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. F. Driscoll and was graduated from Riverside Grammar school. He is a World war veteran, serving in the navy. He is proprietor of a meat and grocery business in Jewett City. The wedding occourred on the twenty-second anniversary of the marriage of the bride's parents. Guests were present from Norwich, Westerly, Plainfield and Greenwich.

GROTON TRAFFIC RULES FOR BOAT RACE DAY

The traffic complexities which arise annually as a result of boat race day will be handled by a large force of the state police [illegible] with the Groton police force. [illegible] regulation of traffic on the day of [illegible] Yale and Harvard race the following rules have been adopted. There will be no parking on the east side. Parking will be permitted on the west side if cars are placed as close as possible to the fence or other limits adjacent the highway and as close as possible to the car ahead. Cars so parked must face south. These rules will be enforced on the Norwich road, from the Thames river state highway bridge to a point two miles beyond the Submarine base. All traffic must be at a dead standstill during the race.

The highway will have one-way traffic towards the south. [illegible] hours after the races. Horse drawn vehicles must be in position 15 minutes prior to the start of the race and must remain in the position until other traffic has been cleared, after the race. No exceptions to these rules will be made for the benefit of peddlers or hucksters. Cars parked on private driveways, lots or other spaces not strictly highway area, must keep their position until the rest of the traffic has passed. All traffic for [illegible] hours after the finish of the race must keep its respective position in line. United States army, navy or mail automobiles or conveyances, ambulances and fire engines shall have the right of way in case of an emergency.

NOTICE

TO ALL PERSONS WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

You will take notice that at an adjourned regular meeting of the Court of Common Council of the City of Norwich, Connecticut, held Friday, June 13th, 1924, the following proposition and resolution was submitted to said Court of Common Council, to wit:

"Resolved, That there be laid out and established as an addition to and enlargement of the park of the City of Norwich, known as 'Mohegan Park, the land located in the Town of Norwich, State of Connecticut, recently acquired by the City of Norwich from Rowland D. Hill under an indenture between him and said city made the 18th day of September, 1923, recorded in the Norwich Land Records, Vol. 170, Page 149, and ratified and confirmed by a meeting of said city held March 3rd, 1924, which land is bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a bar post on the southerly line of the Ox Hill road 432 feet westerly from the center of a brook that runs southerly into the lake in Mohegan Park, which post is the northwesterly corner of the land conveyed by Angelina W. Hill to Edward Charles and George Laskowaki by deed dated May 21, 1921, and recorded in the Norwich Land Records, Book 161, Page 170, and running southwesterly about 1430 feet to other land of the City of Norwich at the point on the northwesterly boundary line of Mohegan Park as now laid out where it is intersected by the northeastern side of the Sachem Plain road bounding northwesterly on said land conveyed to said Laskowakis; thence northeasterly, northerly and northwesterly to the Ox Hill road abutting southeasterly, easterly and northeasterly on other land of the City of Norwich known as Mohegan Park; thence westerly to the place of beginning abutting northerly on Ox Hill road."

And that in accordance with the provisions of an ordiance relating to parks adopted June 1st, 1906, said Court of Common Council postponed action on said proposition and resolution set forth until the regular meeting of the Court of Common Council of the City of Norwich to be held Monday evening, July 7th, 1924, at 7 o'clock p. m. (standard time) in the Council Chamber in said City at which time and place a public hearing will be given on said resolution and proposition by said Court of Common Council.

SPECIAL TOWN MEETING

The Legal Voters in Town Meeting of the Town of Norwich are hereby warned to meet in a Special Town Meeting, to be held in the Town Hall in said Norwich, on

TUESDAY, JUNE 24, 1924

At Seven O'Clock P. M., (Standard Time) For the purpose of deciding what action they will take upon a certain petition, signed by twenty legal voters of said Town and presented to the Selectmen, requesting the holding of a Special Town Meeting for the following purposes.

To decide whether the Town will purchase a tract of land and build a new [illegible] house thereon in that portion of the Town known as Norwich Town (or in the Fourth Voting District) in said Town, at a cost not to exceed $250,000 for said land, building and equipment and to appropriate said sum.

To decide whether the Town shall build a new school building on the tract of land owned by said Town in the Sixth Voting District (East Norwich, so called) at a cost not to exceed $100,000 for building and equipment and to appropriate said sum.

Also, to appoint a Committee to do all things necessary to erect said building or buildings.

Also, to authorize the Selectmen to borrow such sums and at such times as may be necessary to pay for said land and for erection of said building or buildings and to give notes or other evidences of indebtedness of said Town therefor.

Also to appropriate the sum of $75.00 for the purpose of installing a hydrant on the Canterbury Turnpike at a point about 400 feet from Peck's Corner, so-called.

Also, to do any other business proper and necessary to be done at said meeting.

Dated at Norwich, Conn., this 18th day of June, 1924.

POETRY

Who?

Who teacheth thee to sing, sweet nightingale,
When silver star illume the purple night?
Who streweth flowers upon the sleeping dale,
When spring arrives to wake a new delight?

Who giveth thee thy fragrant breath, O Rose,
When raptured dewdrops cling to thy fair breast?
Who lighteth morning skies with golden glows,
When birds begin to call from cloistered nest?

Who clotheth hill in gorgeous autumn dress,
When Summer hath her charming colors lost?
Who sendeth earth this dainty loveliness
When winds their trumpets blow to hasten frost?

Who telleth swallows in the southland fasts,
When northern climes are warm in sunny ray?
Who guideth pigeons through uncharted vasts,
When men must compass have to find the way?

Who holdeth planets in His hidden hand,
When puny mortals proudly boast of power?
Who raiseth up the meek to take command
When men of high conceit last but an hour?

—By Lebbeus Harwood Townsend in Forbes Magazine

Wealden Shepherd

He never owns he is old, but these late Springs
Do tease the bones. Whoever else may fail,
When February pits his cheeks with hail,
Or in his head March like and iron bell dings
Shepherd must never fail . . .
But O, the grace
Of the May cherry-boughs that bend and brush
His hairy arm with petals; of the blush
The sunset throws over his wrinkled face;
Of the green grass, so tender on the lips
Of his young lambs; and of the chuding call
Of ewes when they are anxious—such things fall
Like balsame on the wounds of Winter's whips

He'll never own he is old; but fragrant now
His dreams are, as the cherry's burdened bough!
And kinder than his own kind hands are they
That lean out of the night, to beckon him away.

—C. Henry Warren in London Spectator.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

A list of the candidates are: Elementary diploma, Doris Alice Avery, Honors: Alice Frances Burke, Rockville; Dorothy Hope Burnett, Winsted; Celia Marie Cooke, Waterbury; Catherine May Cooney, Waterbury; Marion Elizabeth Cooper, Mystic; Theoma Irene Douglass, New London; Marie Cecelia Hallock, Waterbury; Catherine Irene Hanlon, Waterbury; Catherine Hoey, Naugatuck; [illegible] Holbrook, Willimantic; Sarah Hynan, Norwich; Edith Jennes, Norwich; Helen Johnson, Putnam; Helen Frances Kelleher, Westerly; Helen Elwell Kimball, North Grosvenordale; Arcelia Mary LaBonte, West Willington; Alice Genevieve Lee, Willington; Alice Marie Lynch, Willimantic; Sarah Allen Owen, Willimantic; Mary Alice McGee, Norwich; Florence Kathryn Maclaine, Willimantic; Catherine Ann McGowan, Stonington; Anna McQuade, Colchester; Jane Margaret McQuillan, Willimantic; Ruth Elizabeth Manard, Putnam; Gertrude Bessie Meyer, Staffordville; Lillian Rose Molleur, Taftville; Olive Marion [illegible], Windsor; Gladys Marion [illegible], South Coventry; Louise Agnes Pagett, Willimantic; Mary [illegible] Lennon, Pomfret; [illegible] Regan, Rockville; [illegible], Willimantic; Helena Hahn, New Haven; [illegible], New Haven; Mildred Elizabeth [illegible], Middletown; Margaret Elizabeth Smith, Middletown; Margaret [illegible], Norwich; [illegible], Willimantic; [illegible], Willimantic; [illegible], New London; Lina [illegible], Willimantic; Pass [illegible], New London; Lina [illegible], Willimantic; Helen Pass [illegible], Willimantic; Helen Baltic; Helen Pass [illegible], Willimantic; Old Mystic; Viola Ann [illegible], Stonington; [illegible] kindergarten—Primary, Dorothy Bowen, Eastford; Katherine Mary Cahill, Naugatuck; [illegible], Anna Cohen, Willimantic; [illegible], Helena Hahn, New Haven; [illegible], Hermann, New Haven; [illegible], Hertz, New Haven; Mildred Marion [illegible], Jones, Naugatuck; [illegible], Lee Baker, South Coventry; Marion Agnes Norwich Town [illegible], Roberts, Greenfield; Olive Eleanor Ryan, Naugatuck; [illegible].

George H. Shaffer is principal of the school. Morgan R St. John was in charge of the music.

For having created a disturbance at his home just outside of Atwoodville on the old Balch place, and having ejected his wife from the house, Michael Kurinski was hailed in the Mansfield town court Thursday forenoon and charged with breach of the peace. It is understood that Kurinski is a habitual disturber and a complaint of his actions has been registered with the selectmen of the town by neighbors. The last affray was of such a nature that State Policeman Henry Heinold was called to the scene and he placed the man under arrest. Justice of the Peace George H. Andrews found Kurinski guilty and imposed a fine of $5 and costs and a suspended 30-day jail sentence. F. W. Millard of Mansfield prosecuted the case.

The graduation exercises of the class of 1924 of Windham High school, were held at the auditorium of the school Thursday evening. There was the usual large attendance of relatives and friends. The class motto was "Facta Non Verba" and the class colors blue and gold. The graduation program:

The home of Paul Chemulsky in the Windham Back road district was totally destroyed by fire early Thursday morning, the origin of which will probably remain a mystery. Neighbors organized a bucket brigade and by excellent work managed to save the barn and contents nearby. Nothing remained of the residence Thursday but a heap of smouldering debris. The furniture, however, was in the most part removed from the building before the flames had gained too much headway. Mr. and Mrs. Chemulsky and three children got out of the house in full attire before the flames had spread. Mr. Chemulsky had been in Waterbury up to a week ago. The fire lasted about one hour and a call for assistance was made at the Bank street engine house, but members of Engine Company No. 1 were ordered not to respond by Acting Mayor George W. Hickey. The building was a one and one-half story wooden structure, containing six rooms.

Mrs. Margaret Doyle Morin, wife of George Dillon Morin, died at St. Joseph's hospital at 5.30 o'clock Thursday morning, following an operation on Tuesday. Mrs. Morin had been a resident of this city for many years up to about four years ago when the family removed to Holyoke, Mass., returning here last spring. Besides her husband she is survived by two sons, Peter G. of Holyoke, Mass., and George W. Morin of this city; one daughter, Mrs. Francis J. Mahoney of Storrs; three sisters, Mrs. Peter Hardman of this city and Mrs. D. H. McGowan and Mrs. Mary Duffy of Newark, N. H., and two brothers, William Doyle of Providence, R. I., and Thomas of Newark, N. J. Mrs. Morin was born in Harrison, N. J. A devoted mother and of a loving and trusting nature, Mrs. Morin was beloved by all who came in contact with her and she leaves many friends who deeply mourn passing, from their midst.

Funeral services for Lacon W. Robertson were held at the late home in South Coventry, Thursday afternoon, at 3 o'clock. Rev. Charles G. Johnson and Rev. Mr. Pickup officiated. Burial was in the Nathan Hale cemetery. The bearers were William Cleveland, George Barber, Theron Dunham, DeWitt Kingsbury, Albert Harmon and Frank O. Boynton. Arrangements were in charge of Avery & VanZandt.

From the parlors of the Avery & VanZandt undertaking firm at 62 North street, the funeral of Charles T. Crane was held Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Services were conducted by Rev. F. F. Feshay. Burial took place in Atwoodville. Four nephews of the deceased acted as pall bearers.

Louis M. Hodis suffered bruises to his hips Wednesday when his Ford truck began to roll down Church street hill and he stood between a tree and the car in an attempt to prevent a collision. He succeeded in padding up the car from damage but unfortunately was put out of commission himself.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Once again a senior class of Killingly High school has been graduated. Time-honored scenes, dating back to the late 70's, were re-enacted Thursday, when a class of 30 members received diplomas.

Afternoon, when the class day exercises were held, and evening, set aside for graduation, found the town hall, where many classes have assembled for similar functions, filled to its capacity. Happily, the weather, while sufficiently warm, was not of the torrid variety traditionally associated with commencemept day.

The class day exercises were reserved for those present by invitation of members of the graduating class and the audience, consequently, was made up largely of relatives and friends of the class members. The town of Killingly generally was represented in the audience that assembled for the evening exercises.

Decorations attractive as is usual at commencement were used, blue and gold, the class colors figuring in a predominant way in the plan of arrangement. Vinci, Qui Laborat was the class motto.

A selection by the high school orchestra, following the entrance of the class, marked the opening of the class day exercises. Prayer was offered by Rev. Harvey H. Conklin of the Methodist Episcopal church. Two numbers by the school chorus—The High School March and Largo (Handel) preceded the address of welcome delivered by Leslie Merriam Downs, the class president. In sequence came an honor essay, Ideas and Ideals in Education, by Miss Mildred Evangeline Dodding, a girls' chorus, Hither Fairies Trip; another honor essay, Growth of High Schools in the United States, by Eugene Fanning Downs; the class story by Edwin Randall Davis; violin solo, Meditation from Thais by Margaret Rebecca Burton; class prophecy, Paul Alphonse Gendron; class gift, When the Banjo Ti[nkles] ... That is what the public of this town would like to know. Only a few weeks ago an accident happened in this area, when Boston men riding in a small closed car struck a tree. Both men being badly injured. Almost immediately the town of Killingly was served with a notice from an attorney representing one of the men to the effect that the town might be held liable.

Traveling in a special car, members of the Public Utilities commission covered the lines of the Connecticut company between Norwich and the state line in Thompson, the line from Central Village to Moosup and the line from Elmville to East Killingly Thursday on the annual inspection trip.

The following is the list of pupils recently graduated from the Sacred Heart school at Wauregan: Alphonse Bouthillier, Armand Bouthillier, Jean Bouthillier, Marthe Bouthillier, Arthur Couture, Agnes Daigneault, Ferdinand Daigeault, Fregeau LaFrance, Irene Pellerin, Florence Plantier, Joseph Plantier, Alphonse Potvin, Marcel Pelerin, Germaine Brodeur, Omer Daigneault, Dorothee Despathie, Rilla Despathie, Cecile Rondeau.

Entrance examinations for Killingly High school are now a thing of the past. New students are now admitted upon certificate.

"King" George Jacques of East Killingly, whose summer circuit is around, he resorts where the clam dinners grow, has opened his 1924 season and is in action with all the vigor of a colt. All hail the King!

Up at East Killingly committees are busy with their arrangements for a celebration of the Fourth that it is anticipated will top anything offered by another community in this part of eastern Connecticut. East Killingly remembers, though many appear to have forgotten, the July 4th is the anniversary of the nation's achieving independence through declaration.

Killingly may not be responsible before the law for any deaths that may occur in motoring accidents on the stretch of highway, but Killingly may not be proud when such deaths occur because it has not put sufficient pressure to bear to bring about an improvement for which it has unanimously voted. "Kill a man and a tree" seems to be the slogan now.

Two-thirds of a barrel burned away, the remaining third charred and containing the remains of solidly packed waste paper and rubbish, set on the sidewalk following a fire that might have destroyed the Elks block in the heart of the city and caused one of the biggest conflagrations the city has ever known, was silent but emphatic evidence of that lack of care and precaution so stressed in all "safety first" campaigns regarding fire hazards.

It was from this barrel, that had reposed in a back room in the dental office of Dr. E. L. Simpson, in the northwest corner of the second floor of the Elks' block, that a fire was started that came near resulting in a large property loss.

Smoke issuing from the dentist's window at seven o'clock Thursday morning—attracted the attention of a passer-by and an alarm was pulled in from Box 41 at Bugbee corner. This box being in the heart of the business section, an alarm sounded from it is always a cause for grave fear on the part of the business men of the city and members of the fire department. All of the apparatus in the city responded to the alarm and a crowd, many half dressed, quickly gathered.

The firemen had a tough fight on their hands as the fire had eaten into the partitions of the building and was burning briskly out of reach of the streams from the chemical hose until holes were chopped to allow the stream to reach the flames.

Several men rushed to the Elks' lodge room on the third floor where smoke was seen pouring out, the floor was warm and, by putting one's ear to the floor, the flames could be heard eating their way along underneath. The firemen's axes could not spare the beautiful floor in the lodge room ... a large hole had to be cut in order for the firemen to reach the blaze.

EAST KILLINGLY

On June 16th Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Hetherington motored to Williamsville and (at the Baptist church) attended the Ashford Association of Baptist Ministers in their quarterly meeting.

At East Killingly preparations are being made for celebrating the Fourth of July on a grand scale. The outdoor exercises will surpass those of any previous year. The in-door exercises will be larger and of a more inspirational nature. On that day all roads will lead to East Killingly, where lots of good things to supply mans inner needs will be found.

Some people are prepared for any emergency except twins.

PROTECTING THE PUBLIC.

Those who defraud the public, no matter in what [illegible] are entitled to slight [illegible]. Few are the instances [illegible] set out deliberate[illegible] this very pu[illegible] get away without [illegible] there are [illegible] caught they plead [illegible] make restitution for the sta[illegible] commissioner [illegible] case in Bridgeport [illegible] approve plea [illegible] of a coal company [illegible].

The concern [illegible] a practice of [illegible] had [illegible] made to be allowed [illegible] shortage to the [illegible] and despite the fac[illegible] sioner consid[illegible] flagrant in an ex[illegible] there are those am[illegible] weighted who are [illegible] matter end with such [illegible].

Full credit must be [illegible] commissioner when h[illegible] in disposition. We [illegible] the injustice to the [illegible] ple and to the [illegible] action, and wh[illegible] jail sentence [illegible] the purpose of [illegible] dishonest coal [illegible] less he shou[illegible] only of the court [illegible] ceive.

Those who are engaged in crooked dealings are not going to be made to stop through lenient treatment [illegible] their second or third conviction. There are many difficulties involved in detecting short weights, all of which are fully understood by the swindlers, and the toleration of such practices is a rank injustice to the handicapped public. Denying such people the chance to practice their dishonesty is the kind of protection the consumer should get, [illegible] punishment has been handed out.

LA FOLLETTE AT ST. PAUL.

When the call was being issued for the farmer-labor convention at St. Paul there was evidence that it was not only under radical guidance but that there was likelihood of communistic control. It was something which the party leaders were not advertising and which they were quick to deny when it was alleged that such was the case.

It was [illegible] domination of radicals that was giving much support to the La Follette candidacy. It was relied upon to help in bringing about his nomination for [illegible] money and to back [illegible] if no party did. [illegible] himself, La Follette figured [illegible] he could accept no nomination [illegible] communistic party and [illegible] pounced it and refused to permit [illegible] name to be put forth by the convention. It was regarded as a serious blow for they believed in La Follette and they tried to insist that there was no such thing as communistic control in the party.

That La Follette was right in his accusation was borne out this week by the test vote which showed the communists holding the balance of power and produced the boast that they would put through [illegible] programme regardless of [illegible] wanted.

But what calls for special attention is that even though La Follette has denounced the communists and will accept no nominations from the convention, that convention is highly enthusiastic for LaFollette. In other words he measures up to their requirements, favors policies which suit them and to all intents and purposes is radical enough to suit the communists. That being the case, he may denounce them and they may not actually nominate him, but with that communistic controlled convention determined to back him, even though he is not nominated by them it shows why there is such an unwillingness on the part of [illegible] to have the country from [illegible] and such [illegible] exercise. He is [illegible] many to attract.

BALLOON RACES.

One cause for gratification in connection with the international balloon race for the James Gordon Bennett cup is that it ended without fatalities this year and was not marked by any such deplorable features as occurred last year when the [illegible] lasted upon a start being made in the midst of a terrific thunder [illegible].

This is a contest which calls [illegible] all the skill of the balloonists. They must contend with many uncertainties and must be in a position to know how to take advantage of favorable conditions and to escape as far as possible the unfavorable. Dependence must be placed upon favorable winds and the test is to make the most of them.

With the winner this year, and of the cup, having covered practically 900 miles as the crow flies, he made his landing in Scotland. Last year he covered about 750 miles and it was in Scandinavia that he came to earth. He managed to get farther than any other aeronaut but it was not in the direction that he might have selected had he been able to do so, but as the wind carried him. That is of course bound to be the case with balloons. They cannot be guided like the dirigible or the airplane. Therefore the service that they perform is bound to be limited. Staying in the air long enough to cover 750 or 400 miles is no small accomplishment in ballooning but the fact that it is subject to the way the wind blows lessens its value.

Ballooning has therefore got to the point where little or no further progress can be expected. It is still able to furnish a thrill but it is fast being made obsolete by the navigation of the air by those heavier than air machines which can be sent in any direction and are not restricted to the way in which the wind is blowing. Even the international contests will not be able to overcome the handicaps which surround the gasbags which have no means of propelling themselves.

CONNECTICUT TIMBER.

Reports have it that Connecticut, along with other states, is showing a decrease in timber production. [illegible] is a regrettable though not a surprising situation. Governor Templeton [illegible] inaugural address called attention to the vast amount of waste land in the state and the opportunity [illegible] t to good use by devoting [illegible] raising of [illegible] persistent efforts [illegible] interested in [illegible] tion to stimulate [illegible] direction, and [illegible] shown that Connecticut [illegible] millions yearly [illegible] timber brought into the state, much of which might be raised here.

Connecticut is chiefly devoted to manufacturing but there is much land upon which many a profitable crop of timber could be raised if there were but the right attitude taken toward such a proposition. Look [illegible] necticut over from [illegible] and there is a large [illegible] unproductive. No attention is paid to it because it doesn't happen to [illegible] a factory site or because not tillable land. It is upon such [illegible] which could be turned to the production of handsome [illegible] de. The raising of timber is not [illegible] be done with the [illegible] units from [illegible] work is feasible and through such activity Connecticut [illegible] back that decline in timber [illegible] could produce a much larger [illegible] are using each year. [illegible] tion will never be the [illegible] try of the state but it can be [illegible] oped to much larger proportions [illegible] last today.

OUR POPULATION.

In regard to cities there [illegible] concern over the growth of the [illegible] ulations. To a certain [illegible] is the same [illegible] country, so that when it is announced by the census bureau that the population of the United States [illegible] 1,943,000 during during 1923 [illegible] the total the first of this year [illegible] 826,000 there is invariably [illegible] degree of pride displayed over the increased figures.

This total was arrived at by the census bureau without an individual count. Without doubt it is fairly correct and it is interesting to note that it is attributed to immigration and a decreased death rate.

While this country is growing it has also come to recognize the need of curtailing the number of immigrants. It has stood against the admittance of the undesirables and the unfit, but now it declares that only a limited number from other countries can be admitted each year. We are not exactly overcrowded but we have come to recognize the importance of making better Americans of those who are already here before bringing in all those who want to come from other countries.

There have been revelations which have made us see the importance of making sure what kind of material we are getting, for the melting pot rather than accepting any and all just for the purpose of swelling [illegible] population figures. This is [illegible] ant in connection with American citizenship and as regards the observance of our laws and respect for our institutions. Today instead of being concerned over the boosting of the population we have reason to display deeper regard for the character of the people enumerated.

EDITIRIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: Can you see anything today but blue?

The Rhode Island legislature is setting an example for other states to positively avoid.

There are days when June is able to turn the thoughts to the vacation places along the shore.

It only requires a few hot, humid June days to get the vacation fever up to the epidemic stage.

Note well the highway regulations for race day and remember that it is through compliance therewith that accidents are prevented.

Pedestrians need to be careful, of course, but they never get so far out of control as to disputing the way with locomotives at railroad crossings.

When General Dawes said, "I don't think it wise to talk unless something needs saying," he probably had in mind a long list of individuals [illegible].

Talk that Russia and Rumania are to mix things up forcibly rises and falls. It is unusual when a war cloud isn't visible or being discussed somewhere.

La Follette repudiated the communistic farmer-labor convention at St. Paul, but the convention declares La Follette to be its inspiration. This Battling Bob seems to have started something he doesn't like to recognize.

The bishop from New Bedford who came near being kept out of the country on his return from Europe, though living here for 25 years, resolves to become naturalized as soon as possible. One experience is enough for some people.

TO THE RESCUE

"You never see a married man looking as brisk and happy as a bachelor," the argumentative man offered as a starter. "Just in one glance I can tell whether a man is foot-loose or not. Married men have all the worries there are and what I would suggest is that bachelors be forced to take some of them on.

"For instance, if a married man had more than he could stand, such as measles for Johnny, no more coal with out the cash, six relatives to visit and only one guest room and was forced to go to evening parties when he hates 'em, he could ring up the trouble clearing house and ask to have a carefree bachelor roped and thrown over in his direction. It's no more than justice!"

"And if the bachelor saw what trouble it was to get along with a wife," suggested the clever girl, "he would be more than ever determined to stay a bachelor, so you see the supply never would run out! I think bachelors are delightful men. A bachelor is an interesting unmarried man without the slightest intentions of matrimony. If he is uninteresting he is just a plain old grouch whom nobody cares to bother about. And if he is flirting with matrimony he isn't a bachelor, he's a prospect, and every girl knows there is a great difference.

"The whole social fabric would just fall to pieces without bachelors, indeed. They don't make good husbands, because they are so spoiled and petted. Poor things!' cooes the girl in the house. 'living around at clubs and hotels where you get a single good thing to eat! Now Lorenzo the two second helpings of white meat, and, what do you mean by not passing the red raspberry jam he asked for, Lorenzo. I think you are already—poor man, with another you! You must look after yourself! That is a shame you have on, Lorenzo—you have such taste in clothes.

"The woods are full of them up to [illegible] but you never see any who [illegible] They just vanish off the [illegible] at times. One minute they are [illegible] stepping with the season's buds [illegible] and the next they merely aren't there.

"Of course they always fly and go to Europe if they find danger at their heels in the shape of a determined lady with a halo of orange blossoms in her dreams. I knew a lovely bachelor once who was as spoiled as they make 'em. He dined out every night and the girls fought for him at balls. He was as sleek and satisfied as a kitten and took the showers of rose leaves as his due. But every once in a while some girl or widow, who had proved extra fascinating to him, would say, 'Here, this has gone on long enough; it's time this man took on some of the responsibilities of life, and, sensing the change with perceptions made keen by experience, this bachelor would slam things into his handsome suitcase and flee.

"You would hear of him in Europe, or Japan, touring the Berkshires or sliding down glaciers in Alaska, and he would stay away long enough for the girl to get discouraged and turn her attention elsewhere. Then he would reappear in Chicago loking as innocent as the cat which has just devoured your pet canary. 'Hurray!' everybody would chuckle, 'score one again for Jimmy! there just isn't one smart enough to catch him!'

"In fact, he began to think so himself—and now you meet him coming home with a bottle of cream from the delicatessen, which his wife sent him for in a hurry when unexpected company came. She was the smartest of the lot and, instead of running after him, she just sort of walked away, and no man can stand that. Jimmy nearly broke his neck to get her, and now is so scared of losing her that he is utterly hopeless and a total loss socially.

"It wouldn't be fair to make bachelors like that take on worries for the married men and then achieve their own worries. Your plan wouldn't work!"

"Any real good idea always gets sat on!" the argumentative man sighed. "Nobody ever does have any sympathy for a married man, doggone it!" —Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

The Hon. John Oliver, whose Liberal Government is at stake in today's general election in British Columbia, first became premier of the Province in 1918. Mr. Oliver is a native of Derbyshire, England. He was brought to Canada as a boy 14 years old, and has grown up in the West, steadily gaining in wealth as a farmer with extensive holdings, and at the same time entering into political life with a zest. From 1900 to 1909 he sat in the Provincial legislative assembly as member from a constituency in the Fraser River delta region. Then he retired to private life for a season, coming back to the legislature in 1916, and soon entering the ministry formed by the Hon. C. H. Brewster, whose place he was later called to fill. Mr. Oliver has a reputation for intense industry, bold criticism of his political rivals, and associates, and ardent partisan loyalty.

Pupin, the Runaway Immigrant

After strenuous effort, Michael Pupin reached America. A stranger, unable to speak the language, he became homesick, but could not go back home.

Born in Idvor, Banat, Hungary, he was training, at 15, to be an officer in the Serbian army. The ideals of America appealed to him and he run away.

Working his way to this country, he landed, when 17, at Castle Garden just one of hundreds of immigrants. His hat had blown into the Atlantic, and his headpiece was a red fez. A bootblack jeered at him, newsboys and ragamuffins followed him. He could not speak English, so he pummelled the jeerers into respectfulness.

Homesickness passed and ambition grew. New York attracted him. There he did odd jobs, worked in a cracker factory, in an iron foundry and in a laundry. Then he became a clerk in a store, and at night attended Cooper Union. He read, read, read, and went to the theatre to hear actors, and perfect his faulty pronunciation.

Five years in America, and he had saved $311. He entered Columbia University, but kept his job. Making marked progress in mathematics and Greek, he soon was tutoring to pay expenses. While a sophomore, he defeated a Herculean freshman in a wrestling bout, then taught wrestling.

He won prizes [illegible] studies, studied [illegible] physics in Europe and took up [illegible] Returning [illegible] he [illegible] next year he became [illegible] Columbia. He invented [illegible] radio appliances and [illegible] and was awarded the Edison medal.

A Little Talk on Thrift

DRIFTERS

Are you a drifter?

Would unexpected unemployment or adversity find you among the dependents?

When you reach old age will you be independent or will your relatives, friends or the public have to take care of you?

Studies made in various parts of the country at different periods during the past 50 years [illegible] to 90 per cent of [illegible] have no estates at the [illegible] and only a comparatively small number leave accumulations of any appreciable amount.

An examination of court records in a large eastern city, showed that 89 per cent of the adults who died during the period [illegible] investigation left no estates at all; that more than 92 per cent left less than $1,000 and that more than 98 per cent left less than $10,000. Another investigation revealed that [illegible] persons 65 years of age were independent or self-sustaining.

Every careful inquiry of the kind has revealed that a large percentage of our people [illegible] or almost entirely dependent on current wages or salaries for their livelihood, and that unexpected unemployment would render their conditions deplorable.

Cold figures are of value only when we study their significance. The brief array of statistics here employed is quickly suggestive of thousands of human interest stories of men and women who have frittered away their earnings during the golden years of youth and middle age, and, utterly, without realization, have drifted into the shadows of dependent old age.

If you would save yourself this unwelcome fate, don't be a drifter.

Was skeptical of Kellogg's Bran until it gave him back his health

Naturally Mr. Carter—whose letter follows—was skeptical. He had tried practically everything for the relief of constipation. All had failed. But Kellogg's Bran brought him permanent relief, just as it has done for thousands of others. Read his letter:

Gentlemen:
I am 48 years old, and have been for years a great sufferer from constipation. I had to resign a clerical position because of rushed of blood to my head, some of which caused me to fall to the ground. I took an outdoor laboring job and tried for the first time, skeptically I admit, your Krumbled Bran. The result has been wonderful. I began to be normal after I had been on the Bran about three days. No more enemas, no more Old Dr. So-and-So's Pills, Epsom salts by the ton, etc., ad infinitum! You have the most wonderful product for constipation I have ever seen or tried. Yours very gratefully,
L. T. Carter, 294 Nineteenth St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, does not irritate the intestines like drugs and pills. It acts exactly as nature acts. Eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to relieve permanently the most chronic case of constipation, or your grocer will return your money.

You will like the exclusive, nut-like flavor of Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases with every meal. Eat it with milk or cream and in the recipes on every package. Sold by all grocers. Made in Battle Creek.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Charles E. Rogers.

Following an illness of some duration, Louise M. Troland, wife of Charles E. Rogers, died Wednesday noon at her home in the Breed building, No. 16 Main street. She had been in poor health for several years. Mrs Rogers was born in Norwich, June 8, 1866, and was the daughter of James and Louisa M. Blakesley Troland. She graduated from the public schools and from the Norwich Free Academy. For a short time she resided in New London and while a resident of that city was united in marriage with Charles E. Rogers, the date of the wedding being June 2, 1887. Since her marriage Mrs. Rogers made her home in this city.

She was a member of the Central Baptist church and when her health permitted took an active part in the church affairs. Besides her husband she leaves one sister, Mrs. Leila Troland Gardner of New York, two brothers, Thomas H. Troland of New London and James R. Troland of New York and several nieces and nephews.

Henry W. Branche

After an illness of several months Henry W. Branche passed away at his late home, 286 Park street, Hartford, Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Branche was born in Lisbon, Dec. 9, 1860, the son of Levi J. and Sarah Williams Branche. He was united in marriage with Miss Fannie Bottomley of this city who with the following children survive him, Harry J., of this city, Mrs. Gilbert L. Austin, Harold W., and Miss Richard W. Young, all of Hartford; also a sister, Mrs. Frank L. Blanding of Auburn, R. I., and brother, Herbert R. Branche of this city.

Mr. Branche was a well known business man of Norwich for many years and was a member of the firm of Reeves and Branche, clothiers, and later manager of the Boston-Norwich Clothing company. During the past 15 years he has been a traveling salesman representing several wholesale clothing firms in New England. He was among the first to build a home at Lord's Point and has always been deeply interested in the progress of the colony.

APPOINTMENTS MADE FOR SEASON IN NORWICH PLAYGROUND WORK

Plans for the opening of the playground season in Norwich were discussed Thursday evening by the recreational committee at a meeting in the juvenile court room at the court house. All members of the committee were present at the meeting which was presided over by Chairman William J. Fitzgerald. It was announced that the playgrounds will be opened to the children July 8th and that they will remain open through July and August. This year there will be an additional playground which will make eight grounds in all. The location of the eighth ground has not yet been decided upon. The following executive committee was appointed: John M. Lee, Richard Lewis and Mrs. Elizabeth Drew.

After the meeting Secretary Lewis announced that the following appointments had been made: Playgrounds supervisor, Earl E. Brigham; assistants, Edward J. Sullivan, John P. Murphy, Charles H. Corcoran and Matthew Sheridan; playground instructors, Miss Catherine P. Duff, representing Miss Margaret D. Shugrue, reappointed; Miss Catherine Farrell, reappointed; Miss Mary O'Neil, Miss Mariam Blackledge, Miss Sarah Hymen, Miss Celine Bowen and Miss Margaret Sullivan.

Mr. Brigham who has been appointed supervisor of the playgrounds, has been the athletic coach at the Norwich Free academy and is well qualified for the appointment.

The members of the committee are: William J. Fitzgerald, chairman; Richard Lewis, secretary, John M. Lee, Alex Pasnik, Mrs. Elizabeth Drew, and Mrs. J. C. Atterbury.

SALVATION ARMY AT $1,871.01 IN CAMPAIGN

The fine total of $1,349.41 collected in the Salvation army drive, that brought the grand total to date to $1,871.01, was reported Thursday night when the teams and their captains met for supper at 6 o'clock in the Sunday school room at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church. Campaign Director A. W. Nicol and campaign chairman George A. Finn commended the team for the work they have done so far but told them there was plenty of room for hard work yet for the rest of the week to reach the goal of $5,000. The W. C. T. U. workers came in for special praise for the fine work they have done and it was predicted that a number of reports that are still to be expected will bring the campaign to the desired goal by the time the reports are made next Monday night at the Salvation Army headquarters.

The Thursday reports and the totals are shown as follows:

Team	Capt.	Thurs.	Total
1.—G. A. Finn		$210.00	$317.00
2.—A. Schwartz		$72.00	147.00
3.—E. O. Rodier		66.00	177.00
4.—L. M. Crandall		23.00	172.10
5.—J. T. Barry		75.50	75.50
6.—F. R. Murdy
7.—P. F. Sweeney		6.00	6.00
8.—H. B. Cary		156.00	317.00
Women's team		41.23	61.23
W. C. T. U.		143.35	192.85
Salvation Army		405.31	405.31
Totals		$1,249.41	$1,871.01

After the business of the meeting the team workers were entertained by two well rendered solos by Mrs. Eileen Howland of New York, a member of the Salvation Army, who sang The Lord Is My Light and gave as an encore The Four-Leaf Clover.

HOME CHAPTER MEMBERS ENJOYED PICNIC DAY

Thirty-one members of Home Chapter of King's Daughters, including the leader, Mrs. William E. Manning, responded to the invitation extended by Mrs. Herbert R. Branche, to attend an out-of doors picnic, Wednesday at her home on Mohegan road.

The day was spent at the rear of the Branche home, on the hill bordering Mohegan Park. Here the grounds had been made attractive with flags, rustic seats, campchairs and cushions. In one section a sign had been placed which read "To the Spring" where cold drinking water could be procured.

At noon a basket luncheon was enjoyed, with hot coffee through the courtesy of Mrs. Branche. The coffee was made on a fire place which had been built for the occasion. Following the luncheon each person providing their own, ice cream was served and again at the latter part of the afternoon, ice cream was served for the second time.

All who attended were much impressed with the delightful location where the picnic was held, and the weather was most desirable for such an outing.

BOZRAH DECLINES OFFER BY GEORGE S. PALMER

The special Bozrah town meeting Thursday afternoon, which had an attendance of about 100 with First Selectman John F. Sullivan presiding, declined to accept the offer of George S. Palmer of New London to build a stone addition to the school house at Fitchville but passed a vote of appreciation to Mr. Palmer for his offer.

The difficulty of transporting pupils from the outlying districts to such a central school building as would have been provided by acceptance of the Palmer offer was said to have been the moving cause for the action that the meeting took.

On motions offered by Town Clerk W. W. Bentley, and by John Sweeney it was voted to leave it to the selectmen and town school committee to proceed with the plans to build a new school building for the Rudd district, for which an appropriation of from $3,500 to $4,000 was authorized. A motion offered by O. C. Gardner to have the committee see what could be done about selling the Hammond school was lost.

DEMOCRATS CONTRIBUTED $805 AND SPENT SAME AMOUNT

The democratic town committee had $805 put into its hands for expenses at the recent city election and spent the same sum, according to its report filed with the town clerk, Charles S. Holbrook.

The report of receipts and expenditures is as follows:

Receipts: H. T. Robinson, $50; Dr. Brophy, $50; J. J. Corkery, $50; W. H. Callahan, $50; T. Donovan, $25; H. Gebrath, $20; J. A. Desmond, $10; C. S. Avery, $25; W. J. Carroll, $5; M. R. Waters, $50; J. Donovan, $5; D. Gadel, $25; W. Malone, $5; M. J. Leonard, $5; Frank Quinley, $5; John Hoelck, $5; W. H. Aldrich, $5; Earl Mathewson, $35; W. H. Shields, $100; W. H. Shields Jr., $100; T. M. Shields, $50; A. W. Jarvis, $10; J. H. Shannon, $5; P. J. Sweeney, $25; H. J. Parker, $10; J. J. Desmond, $25; N. J. Spelman, $10. Total $805.

Paid out by district treasurers: W. H. Callahan, $400; M. J. Leonard, $150; J. J. Williams, $150; H. Gebrath $105. Total $805.

TO COMPEL SHOWING OF PATY SCHWARTZ CO. BOOKS

State Attorney Hadlai A. Hull has made application to the superior court for a writ of mandamus to be issued to compel the Paty Schwartz Co. of New London to show cause why it should not permit two of its stockholders to examine the company books in order to ascertain the financial standing of the company.

The application is made on behalf of William and Ida A. Schmauk, represented as owning half of the 420 shares of the capital stock of the company, the other 210 shares being held by Paty and Joseph Schwartz. It is claimed that the Schmauk ownership made application on June 12, 1924, to see the books, but this was refused.

The hearing on the mandamus application is set for June 24 at Norwich.

Graduated at Pratt Institute.

Mr. and Mrs. Simon J. Fahey of North Main street were in Brooklyn, N. Y., on Thursday, attending the commencement exercises of Pratt Institute when their son, Francis, was one of many hundreds in the graduating class. Mr. Fahey has specialized in the study of chemistry. He also was an honor graduate of the Norwich Free academy, this city.

It is far better to fall in a good cause than to make good in a bad one.

SIX EIGHT-PENNY STAMPS WERE SOLD FOR $3,000

Paris, June 19.—At the continuation of the sale of the famous stamp collection of Count Ferrari De La Renotiere today the highest price paid was by a London dealer for account of Arthur Hinds of Utica, New York. This was $3,000 for a block of six eight-penny New South Wales stamps of 1850. W. H. Colson of Boston paid $1,500 for a block of ten penny stamps of New South Wales.

WEDDINGS

Hickey-Van Wagner.

At 7.30 o'clock Wednesday evening, Joseph M. Hickey of East Hartford and Miss Lillian Van Wagner of No. 317 Main street were united in marriage by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church. The marriage ceremony was performed at Rev. Mr. Ricketts' home, 114 Prospect street. The attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tracy of this city.

Following the ceremony the wedding party went to Ocean Beach where they enjoyed supper at Wordell's. Mr. and Mrs. Hickey will reside in East Hartford. The bride has been a telephone operator at the local exchange.

Welsh-Hazler.

A quiet but very pretty marriage was solemnized early Thursday morning at St. James' church, Poquetanuck, when Miss Minnie Margaret Hazler became the bride of Harry Scott Welsh of Norwich. The marriage was solemnized by Rev. Thomas H. M. Ockford, rector of the church. The bride and groom were attended by Mrs. Andrew Hazler, Miss Laura M. Baer, and John Hazler, respectively the mother, niece and brother of the bride. The altar, with its proper appointments, and iris lilies that graced the vases, and other proper chancel hangings of white, contributed to the attractive appearance of the church for the wedding.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hazler of Poquetanuck, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Mary Welsh of Marcellus, N. Y. After a brief wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Welsh will perfect plans for their future residence.

Boy Scout Court of Honor.

The last Court of Honor for the Boy Scouts until fall is to be held next Friday evening in the city court room when cups, prizes and merit badges will be awarded. A speaker will address the meeting.

Automobiles driven by Victor Puska of Canterbury and C. Charbonneau of 139 Hickory street were in collision on Hickory street Thursday but with only slight damage to the machines.

THE TAGUS

While America has had disastrous overflows in its Potomac and Cumberland rivers, Spain and Portugal have been suffering a similar fate at the hands of the Tagus, their largest stream. A bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society tells something of this river which is the joint possession of the kingdom and the republic.

"The Tagus is one of the rivers of the world that is not blessed with smiling, productive banks throughout most of its course," says the bulletin. "It has carved its way through one of the most desolate and most thinly peopled parts of Europe, the bare, arid plateau of Central Spain. For scores of miles the Tagus flows through this semi-desert land of Spain like some American stream in Utah or Arizona, with not even a hamlet on its banks or an isolated railway bridge to bring to it at intervals a touch of the modern world. Through much of its course there is not even vegetation worthy of note along its banks,—merely a few stunted evergreen oaks and some tufts of coarse grass.

"For a very considerable part of its course the Tagus flows in a narrow gorge cut far below the level of the drab upland plains, with nothing to indicate its situation until one reaches its precipitous banks. There are two exceptions, however. At Aranjuez, 30 miles southeast of Madrid, and at Talavera, 75 miles farther down stream, the constricting walls recede and the river flows for a space through fertile valleys. It is there infrequent valley-oases that furnish practically the only points vulnerable to floods along the Spanish Tagus.

"Toledo is the only town of marked prominence in Spanish history along the Tagus. Here at one time was a city of several hundred thousand inhabitants when Toledo was the capital of Visigoth Spain. The Tagus was the huge and impassible moat for the old city, sweeping around three sides of it in a gorge 200 feet deep. On the fourth side were high walls.

"Plunging into its deep canyon near Toledo, the Tagus flows between steep walls for most of the remainder of its passage through Spanish territory. At Alcantara, near the western border, it is spanned by a sturdy old Roman viaduct, 'Trajan's Bridge,' that has stood in efficient simplicity for 17 centuries.

"Eighteen miles after it crosses the Portuguese border, the Tagus becomes navigable for the first time, and boats ply upon its waters from that point to its mouth, 115 miles down stream. As though by way of compensation for its uselessness and solitude during most of its passage to the sea, the Tagus forms near its mouth one of the best harbors in existence, that of Lisbon. The river widens into a tidal lake about 20 miles above Lisbon and narrows down to normal river width again just before emptying into the Atlantic. Lisbon, with its excellent port facilities, is spread out along both the narrow channel to the sea and the deep tidal lake."

Marines Guarded Mails in 1775.

The first authentic record of marines acting as mail guards deals with the marines of Connecticut from the city of Hartford, says the Paterson (N. J.) Morning Call. It occurred in May, 1775, when re-enforcements, together with mail dispatches and a chest containing 500 pounds specie, were sent to Fort Ticonderoga, which had been captured from the British a short time before. Owing to the difficulty of securing reliable guards a detachment of eight marines was sent to watch over the treasure and dispatches. According to a letter from Jesse Root to Silas Leano those marines were "well equipped and well spirited" and executed their task in excellent fashion.

Treat the Stairs Kindly.

If, in ascending stairs, the foot is placed upon the step or tread with a sliding motion or "scuff," needless wear is brought upon the paint or finish, and the wood of the step, itself, for particles of sand or grit clinging to the shoe will grind through the paint and into the wood. Instead, the foot should be placed upon the step as though one were walking upon the ball of his foot, which causes the least wear upon the paint and wood of the step. In descending a flight of stairs, of which the treads or steps are narrow, if the toe be placed as close to the front of the step as safety permits, or if the body be in a sideways position, the risers will not be bruised by striking the heels against them.

YALE CREWS EXPECT KEEN OPPOSITION FROM HARVARD IN RACES TODAY

New London, June 19—It was first blood to Yale in the annual Yale-Harvard regatta on the Thames river when the Blue combination crew late today nosed out Harvard's eight-oared combination over a two-mile course up-stream, winning the preliminary to the main program which will be contested tomorrow.

Today's event, although considered of minor importance in the annual series, was one of the most closely contested struggles in the history of racing at New London. Yale was ahead at the mile; Harvard spurted and went into the final half mile nearly a boat length ahead. The Blue eight stroked ed by H. C. Potter, of New York, crept up abreast, and by a desperate effort in the last twenty strokes finished a winner by four feet. The time was 11 minutes 14 seconds. The Crimson crew was stroked by E. Scudder, of Chicago. A second preliminary, the gentlemen's race between eights made up of graduates, was cancelled at the request of Yale because of insufficient entries.

Speculation as to the issue of tomorrow's four mile test between Yale's varsity crew and Harvard's new and [illegible] eight was the dominant topic [illegible] at the headquarters of the [illegible] wherever Yale and Harvard graduates were assembled on the eve of the races. In the last week the [illegible] of the Crimson have been given greater weight by observers along the Thames. Head Coach Edward Stevens has evolved a fair crew from a weak early season aggregation, the experts say. Another element cited as favoring Harvard tomorrow is the unique experiment Coach Ed Leader of Yale has attempted this season in breaking off his crew's training for four mile race in order to complete the Olympic tryouts at Philadelphia over the mile and one quarter distance.

Harvard supporters urge in favor of their [illegible] crew in a time trial over the New London course on Saturday [illegible] course record, covering [illegible] miles in 19 minutes, 53 seconds. Even with the tide and wind in their favor that was regarded as fast time. The record of 20 minutes 2 seconds was established by a Harvard crew in 1916. Another element which, according to Crimson backers, makes for Harvard success is that the present Yale crew has not yet demonstrated its powers in long [illegible] Yale has had no time trial over the four mile course this season.

While the Blue remained a strong favorite tonight with the general regatta public, even in the Yale camp at Gales Ferry it was frankly admitted that Harvard now has a strong crew and that there is no over-confidence as to the result tomorrow. Today's drawing for lanes resulted in the course on the east side of the river going to Yale and the western course on the New London side, to Harvard, in all three events tomorrow.

In the forenoon events, the freshman and junior varsity races, will be rowed up-stream over the middle two miles of the four mile course. The varsity race, set for five o'clock in the afternoon, will be rowed down-stream from Bartlett's Cove to the New London railroad bridge.

New London already was filled tonight with only the vanguard of the annual regatta invasion here. In the harbor the usual flotilla of yachts rode at anchor housing their quota of Yale and Harvard alumni and their guests. For the great influx expected over the road tomorrow special traffic regulations have been imposed, one being the closing of the road along the east shore of the Thames for two hours during the race program. State officials have estimated that 10,000 automobiles will bring crew enthusiasts to New London tomorrow.

NEGOTIATIONS BROKEN OFF FOR FIRPO-WILLS BOUT

Buenos Aires June 19.—Juan Homs, Tex Rickard's representative in Argentina, announced today that he had definitely broken off negotiations with Luis Firpo, the Argentine heavyweight, for an engagement to fight [illegible] United States and that he would sail for New York on the first [illegible] in four weeks hence.

Homs said that Firpo had put forth impossible demands, and that while he would again be willing to listen to Firpo prior to his departure, in case the boxer was disposed to recede from his demands, he would make no attempts on his part to resume the negotiations.

Firpo's demands, acording to Homs including $10,000 cash, the privilege of approving the referee of a bout with Harry Wills; a guarantee by Rickard that he would pay the cost of defending suits brought against Firpo in the United States, and the naming in the contract with Rickard of the place where the fight with Wills would be held, according to Homs, also demanded that eight ounce gloves shoul be used in a bout with Wills, but was willing to yield on this point.

INDIANS DIVIDE WITH TIGERS IN DOUBLE BILL

Detroit, June 1.—Cleveland and Detroit divided a double header today, the Indians scoring a 16 to 5 victory in the first game, when they chased Whitehill in the fifth and made a dozen hits off Holloway, who succeeded him. Detroit won the second game, 3 to 2, with one run in the ninth inning. Wells, former Bethany college pitcher, who was last year with Birmingham in the Southern Association, held the visitors to six hits in the second game.

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch
Captain New York Giants

Runners are on first and second bases. The batter up is a hard hitter. The score is 1-0 in favor of the team in the field. Fourth inning—no one is out.

Where should the shortstop play and what should he be on the lookout for?

Under such conditions the shortstop should play close to second base for most opposing teams will pull a bunt in this situation. His duty is to keep the runner on second as close to that bag as possible in order to permit his team to field this bunt and nail the runner when he advances toward third. If there are one or two men out he should always play deep so as to be able to field the ball rapidly to second base in case it is hit in this direction either to make the final put-out or if only one is out to make a double play possible in order to retire the side.

JACOB BESTS RING IN 10 INNING BATTLE 3 TO 1

Philadelphia, June 19—Elmer Jacobs bested Jimmy Ring in a ten inning pitching battle today and Chicago defeated Philadelphia, 3 to 1.

Jacobs held the locals hitless for six innings but weakened a trifle in the seventh and permitted the home team to bunch three hits that tied the count at one run apiece.

An error by Ford, a single by O'Farrel and a double by Statz scored the two Chicago runs in the tenth inning. Score:

NO CHANCE OF NAVY CREW GOING TO OLYMPICS

Annapolis, Md., June 19.—There is no possibility of the navy graduates eight oared crew, which was defeated by Yale in the Olympic finals at Philadelphia Saturday going to Paris as alternates or reserve crew to the victorious Blue eight, it became known here today.

A request for the "Grads" to make the trip was made of the navy department by Colonel Robert M. Thompson, chairman of the American Olympic committee, in a cablegram from the steamship America now en route to France, with between 300 and 400 American athletes aboard.

The veteran oarsmen returned to Annapolis following the big race last Saturday and have already begun to disband, pursuant to orders from the navy department.

SANCTION 5TH AIR RACE FOR PULITZER TROPHY

New York, June 19—The fifth air race for the Pulitzer Trophy October 2, 3, and 4 at Dayton, Ohio, was sanctioned by the Aeronautical Chamber of commerce. The trophy race, which carries $9,000 prizes in Liberty bonds, will be augmented by more than a dozen speed events, open to pilots of all nations and carrying cash prizes of $50,000, the chamber announced.

INFIELD ERRORS LOST GAME FOR NUGGETS TO THE FAST BIG Y TEAM LAST NIGHT

George Madden knows how John J. McGraw felt last autumn when his champion Giants went back on him for Madden's own team did the same thing last night, in finishing the second week of the Norwich Twilight League. Madden's hope for the bunting must be very low at this time for his charges have dropped two games in as many starts.

The first defeat was caused by the lack of a pitcher, and the team played very good ball to make up for this loss. Last evening, however, the pitcher was on hand and the team decided that it would have an off day—that is all except Manchester. Leslie V. made use of the poor playing of his teammates to show the more brilliant what he could do. Two line drives came out to the right pasture during the evening, both labeled base hits, but Manchester added to his number of put-outs by eagerly gathering them in.

Lefty Corcoran was the hurler obtained by Madden to round out his otherwise "championship" team. Lefty performed in good form, whiffing seven of the opposing batters, but hits did not come at opportune moments. The Academy-Nugget infield seemed to have an off day, with the exception of Tombari who was the shining light there.

Kegler, who pitched in hard luck last week against the Battery B nine did mound duty for the Millers. Although he did not get as many strikeouts as previously, he pitched very acceptably and deserved to win.

Yantic was out in one, two, three order in the first two frames. Corcoran was easily master of the situation and let his opponents know it. The Nuggets tallied once in the third when Standish walked, advanced on the putout of Mileski, and crossed the plate on Coulard's two base slam. In the third, Yantic solved Corcoran for four hits, and aided by two errors, garnered four counters. Hereafter the Nuggets were always headed, although they gathered two in the fourth, but a double play, Steiman to Russell, killed the rally. In the last inning Kegler struck out the first two men to face him and came near finishing off the third in the same way.

Russell led the Millers with his batting, getting two doubles in four trips to the plate. Steinmen made a pretty throw from deep center to catch Bursch at the plate and complete his double play. Mileski caught a nice game with the exception of a couple of pass balls. Score:

Echoes From the Stands

(By Matt)

In the first of the fifth, Mileski made a fine catch of a high foul fly.

It seems too bad that the home team can't win on the Duwell Field. Six games have so far occurred in the Twilight League and the home team has failed to win one. Pretty soon no one will want to be home team (A always was superstitious.)

Attendance was about the average last night. Nuggets will have to look out or they may lose their drawing power.

Lassonde, the big blonde from the country, was asked to loan his glove before the game, while he was not using it, evidently thinking he was in Yantic, he replied, " hold onto your gloves, boys, you never can tell what will happen."

Manchester was told to play the game or get payed off. Les was broke so he put up the game of his career His hat was worn ragged with his tipping it to the stands.

Standish had a por bat—and didn't get any hits. I wonder why.

MOOSUP SIGNS SIX NEW BALL PLAYERS

Manager Henry Loughran of the Moosup Town team has signed six new players for the remainder of the season. They are Artie Coullard of the Riverview club, "Eddie" Burns of the Sub Base and his running mate, "Dinty" Moore, Harry Mills of Riverview. Harry Noel, formerly of the Willimantic Threadmakers and Roy, a former hurler for Worcester in the Eastern League. These six men will appear in the Moosup lineup for the first time at Recreation Park, in Willimantic on Sunday when Moosup opposes the Threadmakers.

Manager Loughran will have Harry Mullowney, former Boston College pitcher on the mound with Allard of Plainfield High on the receiving end. This will be the first game of a series with Willimantic.

NURMI LOWERS HIS OWN RECORD FOR 1500-5000 METERS

Helsingfors, Finland, June 19.—Paavo Nurmi, the Finnish runner, today lowered two of his own world records—the 1500 and the 5000 meters. In the 1500 meters he ran the distance in 3 minutes 52 3-5 seconds, clipping two-fifths of a second off the mark he established last year of 3:53. In the 500 meters Nurmi's time was 14 minutes 28 3-5 seconds. His previous record was 14 minutes 35 3-10 seconds.

The runs were made with an interval of 45 minutes between them.

GEHRIG GETS 7TH HOMER ON HIS 21ST BIRTHDAY

Hartford, June 19—Lou Gehrig celebrated his twenty first birthday today by hitting his seventh home run in as many playing days and playing a large part in a 9 to 8 victory for Hartford over Worcester. Gehrig also hit a double and triple. The visitors led 8 to 3, in the sixth inning, when the champions began a rally that ended with victory in the ninth. The score:

Worcester ..... 3 2 2 1 0 0 0 0 0—8
Hartford ..... 0 3 0 0 0 2 2 0 2—9

TWENTY AWARDED LETTER AT CHAPMAN TECH

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, June 19—Twenty Chapman Technical High school cinder path athletes were awarded their letter "C" this morning. The requirement for the winning of the Tech letter was scoring a total of ten or more points in the various dual meets that were scheduled for the Red and Black this season. The breaking of any record at the local institution would also be one of the qualifications for the earning of the letter or a place in the annual Eastern Connecticut interscholastic meet held at New London was also recognized as one of the ways to earn the school letter.

For the third time in as many years, the Tech cinder path athletes were successful in bringing the cup offered by the eastern Connecticut council, by winning the annual eastern Connecticut track meet. Only Westerly High competed against Tech in this meet and both Norwich Free Academy and Stonington withdrew their entries at the last moment.

Besides winning the eastern Connecticut interscholastic title for the third time in as many years, Chapman's Tech won from Stonington High in a dual meet held at Morgan park. It was the first meet for the Red and Black and Tech won by the lop-sided score of 71 to 29. The Tech team traveled to Providence to compete in the 20th annual track meet of New England High schools. The athletes representing Tech failed to place a Norwich boy, and a member of the Tech squad traveled the century in 10 2-5 seconds, setting a new record for a high school runner in this section of the state.

DUWELLS WILL HAVE LEXINGTON CLUB HERE SUNDAY

In order to try and offset the terrible exhibition of baseball put up by the Falcons of Middletown at the Duwell field last Sunday, Manger Pedace has signed up the Lexington A. C. of New Bedford to oppose his colts on Sunday at the Duwell field. Last Sunday the six hundred fans were thoroughly disgusted with the game and many left in disgust and remarked that it would be the last game that they would witness on the East Side and they could hardly be blamed. It must be remembered that the Duwell Athletic Association is only in its infancy and has worked hard to give Norwich clean sports but it wouldn't hardly be fair to turn them down now just because a bunch of hams with a big reputation should come here and lay down for one game. It also must be remembered that lack of support at this stage of the season would prove fatal as the association has been followed by a jinx ever since they have started operations and only through the loyal support that they have received have they been able to weather the tough going that has been destined to be theirs since the start.

Manager Pedace has explained the situation to the management of the New Bedford team and has been notified that unless they defeat the Lexingtons here on Sunday the game will be one of the quadrangulars for the earning of the honor of a place in the annual Eastern Connecticut interscholastic meet held at New London was also recognized as one of the ways to earn the school letter.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

The Woodpecker.

Little Drummer Woodpecker
Goes tumpty, tumpty, tum.
He fancies a very hollow limb
Is meant to be a drum.

Hipperty hop, clipperty clop, went Little Jack Rabbit up the Shady Forest Trail.

"Who's drumming like a soldier boy?" he asked himself, stopping all of a sudden, just like that, quick as a wink.

I am," answered a little voice, and the next minute a pretty bird, dressed all in black and white, with a crimson patch on the back of his head, circled around the trunk of a tree.

"Hello, bunny by," he cried. "Do you like bunny scout music?"

"I like all kinds of music," answered the little rabbit. "When you drum I feel like hopping faster than a kangaroo. In a minute I'd hop a mile or two."

You see, I can't sing, so I show my happiness by drumming. I'm a good carpenter, too. Now I'm just drumming for fun," laughed the happy woodpecker.

"Gracious me, I've learned a few things today," laughed the bunny boy. "Next time I see Professor Crow I'll tell him to put it all down in his Wisdom Book."

"Maybe he has it already written on page twenty-three," answered Drummer Woodpecker, hopping into the sunlight to show the little bars of black on his outside tail feathers.

"I'm going to hop right up to the Tall Pine Tree to find out," replied the curious bunny boy, and away he went, clipperty clip, hipperty hip, up the Shady Forest Trail, his knapsack bouncing up and down on his back and his little red-striped candy cane swinging from his left paw.

By and by, after a while, and a bump and a smile, and almost a mile, he reached the Tall Pine Tree, at the top of which, in a pretty wooden bungalow, lived Professor Jim Crow and his family.

"Hello, hello, Professor Crow!
Little Jack Rabbit is down below.
Please fly down with your Wisdom Book.
At page twenty-three I want to look."

"Who's calling me?" asked the wise old blackbird, poking his head out of a tiny window. "Oh, it's you. I'll be down in a jiffy or two."

"Who's calling me?" asked the wise old black bird.

But even in less time than that Professor Crow was reading from page twenty-three all about Drummer Woodpecker.

"Thank you," said the polite little rabbit, "I'll have lots to tell mother tonight when I reach home. Goodness me how much there is to learn in this big world," and away he hopped on the next page. And now, dear boys and girls, be patient till I find out from little Bobbie Redvest what the bunny boy did after that.

SOCIAL WORKERS ELECT DR. BRYAN PRESIDENT

The Social Workers' council of New London and Windham counties held their annual meeting at Bride Brook [illegible] Wednesday. After a business session, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Dr. K. M. Bryan, Norwich State hospital; vice president, Miss M. Joyce Crosby, State Bureau of Child Welfare, Willimantic; recording secretary, Miss Geneva Smith, Norwich State hospital; corresponding secretary, Miss Marion Philips, Associated Charities, New London; chairman program committee, Miss Marion Bishop, Norwich; chairman social committee, Mrs. Schenk, Norwich; chairman legislative committee, Miss Betsey Mitchell, Neuro Psychiatric Clinic, Norwich; chairman publicity committee, Miss Clara Larned, probation officer, Putnam; chairman membership committee, Miss Irma Hutzler, State Bureau of Child Welfare, Willimantic.

The club has been organized for one year now making vast strides in this short time. President Bryan addressed the members as follows:

"One year has passed, since we handed ourselves together to study each others' methods, and to be helpful to each other, to exchange experiences and confidences that would make us more proficient as workers, that would help us to do more faithfully the task of helping the community. We have organized, we have formed committees, we have had helpful papers and addresses, we have had delightful luncheons and visited institutions, we have adopted and revised our constitution to meet our needs and to all intent and purposes we have accomplished that for which we come together.

"But I sometimes wonder if perchance we have failed in some degree to present to our own minds and to those associated with us. I say sometimes I am startled with asking myself if perhaps we lose sight of the real vital thing for which we really come together. We think and talk and write and reason much about cases. Cases of mental deficiency, cases of immorality, cases of desertion, cases for adoption, cases for institution, cases for the court, and I wonder, oh, I just wonder a little bit about the individual. What have I to do with the individual? Is he mentally defective what then, he has a soul and a nervous system that responds to the stimula of ordinary surroundings.

"Is she immoral? Yes. He that is without sin among you,' Christ said—"Is it a family affair, desertion, drunkenness or disagreement? Well, desertion and drunkenness and divorce are not alone confined to the class of people who come under the supervision of the welfare worker

"Is it a case for an institution? Some retain their identity even in institutions.

"A court case? Courts are made up of morals.

"After all, then, these people are very much like the rest of us only that circumstances of birth and environment or association has made react in a manner that in our highly civilized state is inimical to continuance in society. Some years or centuries ago this same mentally deficient might have remained out making a livelihood and not offending society.

So remembering that it is largely the environment over which the so called misfit has no control that makes him a misfit, let us deal carefully.

Every case a soul, an individual a sorry one, no doubt, but never the less deserving of our best as an individual not as a case or one of this or that class of problems.

"I am appealing for the human side of the question not at all missing the efficiency of organization or case work or confidential exchange, or whatnot that adds to the expediency with which cases may be handled. I am begging for love, charity and individual comprehension of each case in estimate we as women place upon the human soul we assume supervision over."

After the meeting Miss Hazard of the State Farm for Women, Niantic, and Dr. O'Brien of Seaside sanatorium, Crescent Beach, kindly allowed the members of the club to visit their institutions and told them something of the work that is being done in these places.

PLAINTIFF WAS NEGLIGENT; JUDGMENT FOR DEFENDANT

Judgment for the defendant in the suit of William J. Curtin of New London against Leon Buzenski of this city was handed down here Thursday by Judge John R. Booth before whom the suit was tried some time ago.

Curtin, a driver of a public service car sued Buzenski for $1,500 for damages to the plaintiff's auto in a spectacular collision on the night of May 18, 1923, at the foot of Quaker Hill on the Norwich-New London turnpike. The two machines came together as they were traveling in opposite directions and a woman and several children were sent flying out of the Buzenski car.

In his brief memorandum of decision Judge Booth says: "The evidence indicates that whether or not the defendant was guilty of negligence, the plaintiff himself was guilty of negligence which essentially and materially contributed to the accident. Judgment is therefore rendered for the defendant to recover his costs.

NEW LONDON HARBOR WAS BEAUTIFUL SCENE ON EVE OF YALE-HARVARD RACES

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, June 19.—The first evidence that the Yale-Harvard boat races were at hand were obvious today when the friends of the crews and those who want to see the struggle on the Thames tomorrow began to reach here. All day they have been straggling in by train and coming in autos till tonight the appearance of the streets indicate the unusual in at hand, and that by tomorrow afternoon there will be several thousand more people in New London than there are here now. The great majority of the crowd will come by automobiles. Where to put the machines is a problem that has not yet been solved. Everyone who has a space that is available for parking purposes can make a few dollars without any expense to themselves. The streets are filled with autos now and many of them carry the colors of the college with which the occupants are in sympathy. The hotels are filled to-night and tonight cots have been occupied in all the rooms where it is possible to place them. The only indication of old times is about the hotels, and there it is most striking. The college youths and their parents are everywhere in evidence. Most of these are perhaps more than the usual number, in recent years, of pleasure craft. The upper harbor contains so many yachts this evening that their lights give the appearance of a cloud of fireflies. In the group are J. P. Morgans' big steamer Corsair, Payne Whitney's handsome Whileaway, Arthur Curtis James' bark rigged steamer Aloha and Edward T. Hutton's Hussar. These floating palaces have served to give the members of the crews a few outings since they have been here for the Corsair, the Whileaway and the Hussar have taken the oarsmen into the Sound during the past two weeks. Tomorrow morning these yachts will go up the course and find anchorage in places of vantage along the course. The Whitney yacht has always in the past floated the colors of Yale, but this year she will also carry the crimson of Harvard. There will be entertainment on the yachts tomorrow for the guests of the owners and in the evening dinner parties will be entertained on them.

A. E. Sebbins came into town Wednesday to transact some business with the purchasing agent of the city. He pulled his auto up in front of the municipal building and entering engaged in talk with the city manager that consumed more than thirty minutes. Then Policeman Babcock came along and left a tag in the car of Mr. Sebbins that requested him to be in the police court Thursday at 9.30 a. m. Mr. Sebbins explained in court that he was a stranger in the city, that he had the business appointment referred to and that while he was aware there were parking ordinances in force here, he was careful, he supposed not to violate them. He looked for a warning sign and not finding one in sight he parked. Judge Prince did not penalize him but he warned him as to his visits in the future. May Enos, employed on Union St., parked her car near her place of work on the east side of the street and her car was also tagged. She was fined $5. Albert Neiderman, temporarily residing at the Yale crew quarters, drove into North Bank street and stopped his car on the east side. Then he went across the street to a tailor shop and got some clothing that was under repair. When he came back he found his car was tagged and he appeared in court today for discipline. He was fined $5. All of which goes to convince that New London policemen do not discriminate in the matter of allowing parking. But, says a fellow who stands at the elbow of the writer of this article, the cops are too darned strict. They should be told so by the boss who employs them.

Harry Gridley, Bank street, a public service operator, whose license was recently suspended by Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel of the State Motor Vehicle department for speeding, has had the license temporarily restored.

Roy G. Gavitt, 38 Newton avenue, Westerly, was ordered to appear in the police court tomorrow morning when he was detected parking his automobile on the left hand side of Golden street this afternoon. Parking is allowed only on the opposite side of that thoroughfare.

James J. Doran, son of Mrs. Anna Doran, 32 Blackhall street, and Miss N. Josephine Quinn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Quinn, 37 Williams street, were married this morning at 7.30 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. The nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Alexander Wollschlager. Harry C. Quinn, brother of the bride was best man and Mrs. Leslie Tourtelotte was the bride's attendant. Mr. and Mrs. Doran departed upon their wedding tour this afternoon and upon their return will make their residence with the bridegroom's mother.

Minnie Witchinsky, 23 Linden street, Mrs. Lester Terry, and infant son, 34 Mercer street Anna and Ruth Bayon, Waterford, were patients discharged today at Home Memorial hospital.

The Little Vereign, which is now moored at the customs house wharf and her cargo of 2,000 cases of Scotch and rye whiskey stored at the customs house, was captured by the revenue cutter Seminole on the morning of the 4th inst. The cutter had been scouring the sound in search of rum-running craft when the Little Vereign was sighted off Block Island and proceeding from the direction where the dozen or more steamers with liquor cargoes were moored at "Rum Row." The Seminole in command of Lieut. Rae Be Hall, put chase to the Little Vereign, which is equipped with three engines and powerful of propelling the craft at a speed of 32 knots per hour. The Little Vereign was gradually pulling away from the cutter when Lieut. Hall ordered a shot fired across the bow of the speedy rum-runner and when the Little Vereign failed to reduce her speed a second warning shot was fired. When the second shot failed to halt the rum-runner several shots were fired into the wheel house of the yacht and following the shots reaching their mark the craft was brought to a stop. The crew of the cutter then boarded the yacht and it was then revealed of the greatness of the cargo. The yacht was brought into port and with its arrival here Stack was taken to the hospital, while the remainder of the crew were remanded to jail, but they were released the following day on a bond being provided by a bonding company.

Miss Mary Keefe, a patient at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, returned to her home, Fairs Harbour place this afternoon.

Margaret D. Young has sold a building lot on Thames street extension, to Violet S. Smith.

Edna B. Chester has sold a parcel of land on Chester street to N. Elbert Geer.

The funeral of Louis Landrick, late of 3 Stony Hill, colored, whose death occurred at Lawrence-Memorial hospital several days ago, was held this morning at 10 o'clock at 48 Shapley street. The services were conducted by Rev. Sinclair Grimstead, pastor of the Shiloh Baptist church. Interment was in Jordan cemetery.

Residents throughout the city have deluged the police department the past 24 hours with complaints because of the actions of youths who have become a great source of annoyance because of their mischievous acts. Particularly was this the case with boys in the vicinity of Crystal avenue and Lewis street and Connecticut avenue and Lewis street and Connecticut avenue, between McDonald and Prest street.

It was revealed today that the driver of the automobile truck which was seized by State Policeman Finnegan at Madison late yesterday afternoon with 125 cases of liquor destined to be delivered at the Hotel Winthrop, this city, was Tony Longo. Longo, who was held in bonds of $500 for appearance before Justice of the Peace Knott at Madison next Monday, has been employed of late on the construction work connected with the laying of the new state highway in Waterford. Longo used the truck for carting material, but with its seizure yesterday, he is now deprived of the earning capacity of the vehicle as Justice Knott refused to release the truck.

The crew of the Little Vereign, the steam yacht that was captured in the sound several weeks ago with one of the richest cargoes of liquor that has been grabbed by revenue agents in this vicinity since the advent of prohibition, were arraigned before United States Commissioner Earl Mathewson of Norwich, at 3 o'clock, this afternoon at the customs house. All the crew had been at liberty since their apprehension on an aggregate blanket bond of $38,500, but with their arraignment today the aggregate bond was placed at $15,000 for all but the owner of the craft, John Stack, Brooklyn, N. Y., and John Wilson, master, were released, Stack and Wilson were each held in bail of $7,500, which was furnished by a bonding company. Stack and Wilson were both wounded by gun-fire in the capture of the Little Vereign, Stack receiving a bullet wound in the left groin and was unable to appear at todays hearing, being a patient at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital. Wilson, who received a flesh wound of the hand, was present when the cases were called. Stack and Wilson will be tried before the United States district court when that tribunal next convenes, the fourth Tuesday in September.

The original bond of Stack and Wilson was $10,000 each, while that of the released crew was $500 each.

An automobile owned and operated by Joseph J. Shankel, 664 Main street, and a machine owned and driven by Frank Lowe, Station 33, Waterford, were in collision late this afternoon at the New London approach to the Thames river highway bridge. Shankel's car, a Ford sedan, was damaged.

Announcement is made of the wedding the 14th inst., of Edwin A. Hopkins, New London, and Miss Pearl Cornet, daughter of Mrs. Mary Cornet, Quaker Hill. The marriage was performed at the parsonage of the First Baptist church by Rev. Chester H. Howe. Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins are now on their wedding tour and upon their return will reside on Vauxhall street. Mr. Hopkins is a foreman in the employ of the Babcock Printing Press Manufacturing company.

Capt. J. S. Rogers, Waterford, and Mrs. S. J. Hamilton, Newport, R. I., were joined in wedlock last evening by Justice of the Peace G. Curtis Morgan. Capt. Rogers is master of the schooner T. C. Sherman, sailing from Newport, R. I.

Samuel A. Goldsmith has returned to New London after having spent several weeks at Atlantic City following an operation performed at a New York hospital.

The Misses Agnes Fleming and Mamie Ryan are in Bridgeport where they are being entertained by Mrs. Justin McCarthy. Mrs. McCarthy was formerly Miss Elizabeth Coyle of New London and a former operator in the service of the Southern New England Telephone company.

Richard Vito, 15, employed by the Edward Bloom Silk company, was seriously injured late this afternoon when he was struck by an automobile owned and driven by Albert B. Crawford, 97 Canner street, New Haven, sustaining a fracture of both legs, besides lacerations, contusions and abrasions about the face. At the Lawrence hospital, to which institution the boy was rushed immediately following the accident, it was stated this evening that the victim's condition was considered fairly good.

The automobile, in which there were several acquaintances of Crawford's, including Rev. Edward G. Riggs, of New Haven, formerly of New London, was being operated through Jefferson avenue about 5.30 o'clock. At the corner of Grand street Vito and a companion, both of whom were on their way home from the Bloom plant, were chasing each other. Just before the machine was about to pass the intersecting streets, Vito in running away from his companion ran from the sidewalk and into the street. Not observing the approaching automobile the lad ran directly in the path of the car, which was traveling at a speed of about 25 miles an hour, struck Vito and hurled him with great force to the macadam highway. Crawford and his friends rushed to the assistance of the youth and observing that he was seriously injured, placed him in the automobile and conveyed him to the hospital. After turning the victim over to the hospital authorities Crawford reported the accident at the police station.

Enrico Carnarolis, 75 School street, complained to the police this evening that his registration was stolen from his automobile late this afternoon or this evening while his car was parked. Carnarolis does not know whether the theft was committed while the auto was parked in front of his residence or from some other point about the city.

After a lapse of several weeks the promiscuous shooting of [illegible] by mischievous youths was again perpetrated this evening for [illegible] Frank Belcher, residing [illegible] Hempstead street, reported to the police that several shots of a 22-calibre rifle had been fired [illegible] Franklin street and that two bullets had found their mark in the [illegible] of his home. Mr. Belcher did not favor the prosecution of the offenders this time, but requested that the youths be sought out and compelled to refrain from further indulgence in the dangerous pastime. Several weeks ago a bullet from a 22-calibre rifle fired from the vicinity of Franklin street passed through the window of the residence of Dr. Harold H. Heyer on Coit street, a distance of about two blocks from Franklin street. The police are making an endeavor to secure the identity of the users of the firearms that the shooting may be brought to an end before some one is struck by the dangerous missiles.

Robert Arundel, a former submarine base sailor, and Harold Williams, a Fort Wright sculler, will appear in the police court tomorrow morning when it will be determined which of them is guilty of the theft of seven shirts from the possession of Benton McIntyre, a chief petty officer, with a room in a Golden street house conducted by Mrs. Emily Montague. Arundel was arrested and the goods were found in his possession, but he accused Williams, and he too was arrested and accused. He denies the theft and says that Arundel is the thief. So there is a case for the police court to unravel to find the guilty party. There is no doubt that some one is lying about the matter. Nor is there any doubt that the guilty party will be convicted.

Belgian pavement about the city is at present receiving the first repairs it has known in years. The paving is being replaced where it has sunken, much to the benefit of the streets where the work is done.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Andrews, Pequot avenue, and Mrs. Frank Flora, Pierce street, are at Crystal lake, near Stafford Springs, where they will remain over the week end. The trip is being made by automobile.

HAMPTON

At the Congregational church Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock a very pretty wedding took place, the contracting parties being Miss Evelyn Martha Pearl and Joseph A. Bicknbrooks, the double ring service being used. The bride was given away by her father, Austin Pearl. The maid of honor was sister of the bride and the best man was Walter Pearl of Boston, Mass. The flower girls were Mary Pearl and Pearl Emmonds of Willimantic and the bridesmaids were the Misses Beatrice Pearl, Dorothy Pearl, Edith Pearl and Florence Pearl.

Miss Mildred Burnham and Miss Griswold of Hartford were at L. H. Burnham over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Congdon of Hartford were in town Sunday.

Miss Ruth Burnham is at her home here for the summer vacation.

Mrs. Starr and daughter, Janett, are at their summer home.

There was a special meeting of the Hormany club at the Grange hall Tuesday afternoon.

SAYS "SELECT RINGS" DOMINATES NAVY

— Charging Washington ... the navy and ... their friends ... and social ... Britten, re- ... letter to Pres- ... requested an in- ... of the redent ... ains to the rank ... is ranking republ- ... naval committee, ... assignments are ... out to those in ... to no others and ... two captains ... ously passed, the ... the first ten ... the four ... graduates of ... six cap- ... been to the ... promotion ... asserted, ... rs ran his ... Virginia, aground and another noteworthy circumstance is that three of those promoted are at present assigned to the department in Washington."

Mr. Britten declared that although congress had substituted the "selection up" law in place of the seniority promotion plan, the navy "feels that real selection up does not prevail," and "if merit and capacity are not to be rewarded by promotion then the selection up provision should be repealed so young officers may not longer be deceived.

"It is unreasonable," he added, "to assume that the senior ten captains, each and every one of them, are superior to the remaining 150 captains eligible for promotion and it will be impossible to convince the navy and congress that real merit and not mere seniority has been rewarded."

A banquet in honor of his recent ecclesiastical elevation was tendered Cardinal Patrick Hayes in New York by the Catholic Summer School of America.

MANSFIELD

Miss Gladys Thompson of Palmer was at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Thompson, from Friday until Monday.

Miss Macinda of West Willington was a guest of Miss Gladys Thompson, Sunday.

Mrs. Hernberg and son, William Hernberg, have returned from a visit in Troy, N. Y.

Miss Clara Hernberg entertained three girl friends from Columbia over the week-end.

A very pretty and impressive baptismal service, witnessed by a large congregation, at which the Rev. C. A. Johnson, pastor of the Congregational church at South Coventry and supply pastor of the Eagleville church, and Rev. J. W. Carpenter of the local church officiated, was held at the Eben Dunham Memorial church Sunday evening. Those baptized were the Misses Helen and Mildred Bowers, Miss Maude Brigham, Mr. and Mrs. Harlow and the Misses Eva and Winnie Perkins, daughters of Mrs. Harlow, by a former marriage, were baptized by Mr. Carpenter. They will unite with the local church.

On Sunday Rev. C. A. Johnson administered the rites of baptism to four boys who will unite with the Eagleville church. They were Howard Reynolds, Lester McKinney, Walter Adams and Paul Homer.

Rev. J. W. Carpenter and Rev. C. A. Johnson and family of South Coventry left Tuesday morning on a motor trip to New York city.

Miss Gladys Livingstone of Cedarhurst, L. I., is spending her vacation at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Gerrier.

Mrs. A. J. Bowers attended class day exercises of the Windham High school, Wednesday.

The Bible study class was led by Miss Mildred Davoll Wednesday afternoon.

CHESTERFIELD

More than three hundred people attended the dance and entertainment held at the Chesterfield Casino, Monday night, given for the benefit of the Boy Scouts fund.

"Jack" Kaplan, of Chesterfield prompted for the square dances, which was appreciated and enjoyed by everyone. Music was furnished by the Boy Scouts', Hanney's and Russo's orchestra.

Some of the disgraceful acts are performed by the most disgraceful sinners.

LEFFINGWELL

Mr. and Mrs. Albert [illegible] Providence were Sunday [illegible] Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Elliott.

Fred Gottman of New York city has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Beebe.

Mrs. John Nolan of New York city is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Silas W. Leffingwell.

Miss Linda Mowrey and Miss Katherine Goldberg were in charge of the Ladies' Aid Society church supper Tuesday evening in the church vestry. The supper consisted of baked beans, potato salad, brown bread, rolls, coffee, cake and home-made ice cream. A good sized sum was realized and quite a good crowd present.

Miss Mildred F. Leffingwell is visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Whiting of Benjamin street, Norwich.

Friday last was the closing day of school for the summer holidays. Mr. Rutherford Plaut of Norwich was present and gave a very interesting talk on his recent tour of the world. Pictures of different places were exhibited and the people of the neighborhood that were present thoroughly enjoyed the event.

CHILDREN OF THE SUNRISE

When the children of the city
Pause to offer friendly pity
To the children of the country, unpossessed of town-made joy,
They forget to fully measure
All the elements of pleasure
That so glorify the mornings of the country girl and boy.

They forget to count as drama,
Movie-show or panorama,
All the grandeurs of the sunrise when the grass is dipped in dew:
When the new-born sun comes streaming,
Setting every dewdrop gleaming,
Till it makes ten million diamonds more than Sheba ever knew.

Though the country children labor
More than might the city neighbor,
There are joys that ease their toiling to a jubilant decree.
Is there music in the city,
Canticle or ragtime ditty,
That can match the sunrise trilling of a bird a-top a tree?

Are the city's bartered berries,
Fingered plums or huckstered cherries,
Ever half as grandly luscious as the fruits dew-sugared are?
Is there circus clown as funny,
Movie-show worth half the money,
As a calf's queer acrobatics when it tries to jump a bar?

Save your sympathy, your pity,
Friendly children of the city;
The Children of the Sunrise have a million joys to spare.
All the chores, the weeding, hoeing,
When the summer's crops are growing,
Leave a balance in the Treasury of Happiness out there!

NEW PARK SUPERINTENDENT IS NAMED BY BOARD

At a special meeting of the board [illegible] commissioners with all members present Thursday morning [illegible] Boswell avenue was appointed superintendent of parks. Mr. Krohn, [illegible] will take charge of the park July 1st. Mr. Krohn was selected from a list of 15 applicants.

[illegible] employment at the Richmond Radiator plant and was previously employed by the United States Finishing Co. For a number of years he was employed by the Hopkins and Allen company. Mr. Krohn is a native of Germany but has lived in this country since he was 11 years of age. He is much interested in landscape gardening and [illegible] garden.

Louis Tringo who has had charge of the park since the death of Mr. Ver Steeg was remembered by the park board for his good work. The board voted to tender the use of the board rooms to the recreation committee.

PIANO RECITAL BY PROF. WHITE'S PUPILS

Prof. James H. White of Norwich gave a piano recital in Jewett City on [illegible] evening. The [illegible] Miss Susan Hargreaves; [illegible] Dance, duet, Miss Christine Pa[illegible] and Mrs. [illegible] Mary Alice Gow, Thomas Bates; Twittering [illegible] Miss Christine Rugnius; Napoleon's Last Charge, Roger Wa[illegible]on; tenor solo, I Hear You Calling Me, Oscar Heinrich; Obiron, Mrs. Eva Bell; Alla Turca, from the Sonata in A, by Mozart and Canzonetta, from the String Quartet in E flat, by Mendelssohn, Miss Edna F. Bates.

All participating in the programme showed the excellent musical training given them by their leader and instructor. The ladies wore corsage bouquets of roses and the young men wore button hole carnations. The tenor solos of Oscar Heinrich were rendered in fine voice and were especially pleasing, as were the piano [illegible] Miss Bates. Both of which were rendered with skillful ability and technique. Miss Boynton responding to two encores, Spanish Sonata, Bleirbech, and The Secret, by Chaminade. Prof. White was assisted in carrying out the evening's programme by Miss Edith Boynton, a former pupil. Miss Boynton was pianist with Horner's New York orchestra playing for [illegible] Hudson, Wisconsin's [illegible] owned and operated [illegible] Chesterfield Steele, [illegible] statesman, [illegible] After the [illegible] was served [illegible]

LIFE IS SOMETHING MORE THAN A STRUGGLE AFTER DOLLARS

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

When average men and women talk of "success," nine times out of ten they mean success in getting rich. Just that and nothing more.

Oh, sure; I know that, nine times out of ten, they'll protest they don't mean exactly that. They'll affect a certain horror if you charge them with such crass materialism. But actions still talk louder than words. When the whole gist of their conversation is devoted to a worship of wealth; when the whole trend of their lives is that of a chase after money; when the illustrations of "success" which they chiefly admire and mostly hold up to their children for emulation are those of men who have "made their pile" whether by [illegible] every—then any intelligent observer knows that either [illegible] lies. And the really intelligent observer has small doubt as to which is the ruth.

Now, we all have to get money, just as truly as we have to get breakfasts and dinners later. But there is never any question in the mind of a wholly reasonable being as to which is of relatively the greater importance—money or the meals. The average man and woman, having obtained certain amounts of money, usually [illegible] a goodly portion of it every month for something they want more. In other words, breakfasts and dinners are soon [illegible]. No man or woman can ever live long on a wad of money in the pocket or a big balance in the bank. It is only when some of that wad is stripped off or some of that balance reduced in exchange for [illegible] that even "successes" [illegible] hunger.

As a means to an end, the possession of riches, as desirable, nay, is necessary. No one but a crack-brained dreamer will dispute that. But not even a moron calls the possession of just enough money to buy beef and bread with a "success."

It is when some fellow, by incessant [illegible] devotion to money-getting, piles up a fortune of [illegible] that he is pounced on by every man who has made money-getting not a means unto life but the main object and purpose of life who is chronicled in the mob's "Who's Who" as a "success."

But is he?

Bless your heart, that's another question.

I don't believe that many of us old farmers ever went into farming as a promising method of getting [illegible] any of us did, we've long since learned better. We know that it would be easier for a camel to squeeze through the needle's eye than for a farmer to become really rich by straight farming. Also, our sons and our daughters know it. And therein lies one pregnant reason for the movement among them to abandon the farm. They hanker after something which at least gives better promise of "success," i. e., of attaining wealth. This is partly due to the initiatives of their own natures. It is, at the same time, somewhat due to our parental habit of holding up money-chasers as models to them. Are we wise in doing so?

I don't know when I've been more interested in a lot of newspaper gossip than in the frank confession of a retired millionaire, recently chronicled in a Philadelphia paper.

"I might as well admit," said he, "that I'm not having as much fun out of being what you'd call comfortably fixed financially as I looked forward to in my hard-working days."

And then he went on: "I suspect a good many other old fellows would admit they are in the same fix if their price would let them. I worked too hard, not hard enough to kill me or wear me out, but too hard to form a taste for the best things that money can't buy.

"The lesson my experience has taught me is that keeping your shoulder to the wheel and pushing ahead looking neither to the right nor left and so forth, is not a complete set of directions for making a success of life.

"The rules may get a bank account for a fellow without unusual gifts, but they overlook too many things that count.

"Take my advice, and if you've got the money-making bee don't let it get you, for unless you're a world-beater, no matter how well you make out, you won't be any too near the head of the list."

Here is an old gentleman who has made what the mob calls a "success" of his life. He himself doubts it. He has discovered, too late, that it is quite other things that count."

Too late for him, for, in his youth, having the choice before him, he intentionally turned himself into a money-getter. To win out at this game he had to keep his shoulder at the wheel, keep pushing ahead, looking neither to the right nor left, etc., as per directions in any standardized book on "Success." Now that he has accomplished this much, he plaintively admits that such rules are "not a complete set of directions for making a success of life."

Long habituation has turned him into a business machine. In his youth he says he had the makings of a real man in him. But he suppressed them, put them under, cast them behind him and transformed himself into a money-chasing automaton. Now he can't get interested in books or music or travel or sports or social service or even in the company of his fellow men. He has trained his mind for so long to run in the money-making groove that the groove has become a rut he can't get out of. He knows, now, that he made a mistake. But the mistake has become his whole life so that he can't correct it. He's too old, too hard. All he can do is warn other youth against following his example and aiming after a mirage which spells "Failure" rather than "Success."

We have had, in your time and mine, at least two great men as presidents, Theodore Roosevelt and Calvin Coolidge—I won't start hissing and booing if you want to add other names. I simply say we've had two, at least. And both of them have given their testimony as to what they regarded as really great human qualities and pressing human needs.

If you've been interested enough to read the anonymous millionaire's frank confession of failure, will you give a minute to reading Theodore Roosevelt's judgment as to what are the really great human qualities?

"Factories and railways are good up to a certain point; but courage and endurance love of wife and child, love of home and country, love of lover for sweetheart, love of beauty in man's work and in Nature, love and emulation of daring and of lofty endeavor, the homely workaday virtues and the heroic virtues—these are better still, and if they are lacking, no piled-up riches, no roaring, clanging industrialism, no feverish and many-sided activity shall avail either the individual or the nation. We do not underrate these things of a nation's body; I only desire that they shall not make us forget that beside the nation's body there is also the nation's soul."

Will your patience extend far enough to read this testimony from Calvin Coolidge as to the real needs of human life?

"We do not need more material development, we need more spiritual development. We do not need more intellectual power, we need more moral power. We do not need more knowledge, we need more character. We do not need more government, we need more culture. We do not need more law, we need more religion. We do not need more of the things that can show, we need more of the things that endure.

If the munitions of even these great Americans fail to stir you, you ought to find cause for reflection in this still shorter warning from the highest authority that ever spoke on earth:

"For a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things that he possesseth."

Meat is essential to feed life and clothing useful to protect the body. "But is not the life more than meat and the body more than raiment?"

Dear fellow farmer, you may be forced to admit, when you come to think seriously of it, that perhaps you yourself are in some degree responsible for the abandonment of the farm by the young folks. Have you never held up or approved the holding up by others of mere money-making as the road to "success?" Have you never cited this or that money-grabber as an illustration of "success" to your own family? Have you never cast [illegible] and transformed himself into a money-chasing automaton. Now he can't get interested in books or music or travel or sports or social service or even in the company of his fellow men. He has trained his mind for so long to run in the money-making groove that the groove has become a rut he can't get out of. He knows, now, that he made a mistake. But the mistake has become his whole life so that he can't correct it. He's too old, too hard. All he can do is warn other youth against following his example and aiming after a mirage which spells "Failure" rather than "Success."

He would be a very fool of a farmer who would set up before his children the claim that farming was the surest and quickest road to wealth. But he is an unwise farmer, who does not, either by precept or in practice, make it clear to them that the attainment of wealth is not the only success humanly attainable. "The Hoodoo Man," which Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra record this week, might have been written for Hallowe'en. But don't wait that long to hear it. It is embroidered with Black Art. "It Had to Be You" by the same organization is not so eerie but extremely brilliant and clear.

Two fine slow waltzes are recorded this week by the S. S. Leviathan Orchestra and the Troubadours. "Serenade," by the former, has two-tone whistling effects, agreeably modulated, and a vocal refrain. "Sunrise and You" is a medley waltz on two well-known melodies, introducing "Smilin' Through."

Barney Rapp and His Orchestra make two records of their own this week. "When Dixie Stars Are Playing Peek-a-Boo" is a light-moving fox trot with some comedy vocalizing. "I Need Some Pettin'" sounds like the petulant plaint of a neglected flapper.

Broadway Theatre.

Duplicating the former fine shows of Keith vaudeville at the Broadway theatre, the program presented yesterday seemed to more than please a full house.

Royer West and Ide Van Siclen in "The Masquerade" presented a little novelty with music that made a hit.

A clever combination of comedy, patter, songs and dances is offered by Al and Dora Lester under the title of Major Concrete and described as a solid laugh. It is just this.

A splendid combination of card manipulation and good comedy put over Nate Leipzig, the man of international repute. He is good.

There is singing, dancing, comedy and instrumental music in the closing act, headed by Eddie Stanley, assisted by Patricia Kennedy, Ann Atkinson and Jack Finney. The present "Vaudeville Moments," and are a delight.

If it's action you're looking for, here it is—plus, in the Paramount picture, "Code of the Sea," which opened at the Broadway theatre last night. Rod La Rocque and Jacqueline Logan are featured in the principal roles of the production, directed by Victor Fleming.

After "The Ten Commandments" and "The Dawn of a Tomorrow" it's a pretty hard thing to find a more popular combination than La Rocque and Miss Logan. Any picture either of this pair appear in is certain to be a sure-fire hit and judging from the reception accorded it at the Broadway "Code of the Sea" is more of a knockout than a hit.

D. C. Stephenson, former grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, in a statement issued in Indianapolis announced his resignation from the order. He will retain his position with the northern klansmen who have seceded from the organization with headquarters in Georgia.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

Pola Negri has registered her second triumph on the American screen, and this time it is fully as great an achievement as her first.

This wonderfully talented Polish artist who conquered motion picture audiences in the United States with her magnificent portrayal of Madame Du Barry in "Passion" is now seen as the alluring Carmen in "Gypsy Blood," which had its first showing at the Palace theatre last night.

The story of "Gypsy Blood" as presented on the screen is a gripping, romantic thing with all the color and artistry of the old world breathing with life itself. It is a great contribution to the silent dramatic art.

Also, "Boy of Mine," the J. K. McDonald production for First National now being shown at the Palace theatre, marks the big come-back of Henry B. Walthall to the screen.

"In 'Bay of Mine,'" says Walthall, "I believe I have given my best performance in many years. The part appealed to me in many ways and I took a great pride in the interpretation of the difficult character."

Other members of the cast interpreting this remarkable Booth Tarkington story are: Irene Rich, Rockliffe Fellowes, Ben Alexander, Dot Farley, Lawrence Licalzi and Gene Jackson.

Special showing of "Boy of Mine" Saturday morning at 10 o'clock for the children, 10c. No children under the age of 14 years will be admitted to the theatre unless such child is accompanied by its parent, guardian or some adult person authorized by such parent or guardian to attend such child. We shall obey the law of the state.

Parents, guardians or any adult person authorized by such parent or guardian to attend any child under 14 years will be admitted free.

Added attraction: Round 12 "Fighting Blood," with Jack O'Hara. No advance in prices.

Broadway Theatre.

Pola as the darling of an underworld cafe who becomes the toast of the theatrical world of France. In a story written especially for her.

That's Pola Negri's role in her latest production for Paramount, "Men," which opens at the Broadway theatre Sunday night. It's a story of the type that Pola Negri is great in—a love drama of fashion and passion, with a novel twist, a story that gives the star a chance to wear gorgeous gowns as only she can wear them. But don't get the idea that it's a highbrow production. It's anything but that; in fact, Pola has never essayed a role that suits measures up to her "Cleo" in "Men."

Robert Frazer is leading man; Robert Edeson, Joseph Swickard, Monti Collins, Gino Corrado and Edgar Norton play in support.

Here's Pola as you've always wanted to see her!

Do not confuse this star with her old foreign-made pictures.

Bread Theatre.

In order to accommodate the hundreds of disappointed patrons that have been turned away at every performance of "Three Weeks" the Breed theatre management has arranged for its showing for the remainder of this week. Many who have seen this great screen triumph are seeing it again and judging from the impression it made upon the public at large it proves to be the greatest picture Norwich has ever witnessed. Those who have not seen this sensational film may have the opportunity today and Saturday. This extraordinary engagement positively ends Saturday.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

WHY RAISE ALFALFA IN CONNECTICUT

In respect to raising alfalfa, a new alignment of Connecticut farmers has recently taken place. One group is now raising this splendid crop; another is contemplating trying to raise it. The former group is small but increasing rapidly. An explanation of the merits of alfalfa seem out of place. However, alfalfa is not thoroughly understood or there would be only one group, namely those who raise alfalfa.

The large number of farmers in this state, very widely scattered, who are now successfully growing alfalfa preclude the argument that it cannot be done. When a northern state like Michigan had an increas in acreage from 74,000 in 1919 to 500,000 in 1923, and when New York state has an acreage of 160,000, Connecticut dairymen must meet competition from outside sources. Would it not be logical to meet this competition by growing alfalfa ourselves?

Alfalfa has very well been called the queen of forage crops. This superiority might properly be claimed on any one of four distinct characteristics.

There is no better hay than alfalfa. Alfalfa hay is approximately fifty per cent higher in protein than clover hay. It is higher in total digestible nutrients than clover but since proteins are relatively expensive in this state, there is a decided saving in feeding alfalfa over feeding clover. The protein in alfalfa is three to four times that in timothy and red top. Calcium is now recognized as an important mineral constituent of feed and alfalfa contains a quarter more than clover and eight times as much as timothy.

Feeding trials indicate an even greater feeding value in alfalfa than chemical analysis does. Cows in production at the Iowa experiment station gave a return of only $0.86 per ton for timothy. Under similar conditions alfalfa gave a return of $15.00 per ton. The Illinois experiment station reports that a ration containe 10 pounds of alfalfa hay produced about 18 per cent more milk than the same ration with timothy substituted for alfalfa.

No other crop will give as large a yield of high qquality hay per acre as alfalfa. The last census gives the average yield per acre of all cultivated hays in this state as 1.15 tons mixed clover, timothy hay as 1.29 tons, and alfalfa as 2.5 tons. Individual farmers who are successful with alfalfa report yields of 4 or 5 tons per acre. The farmer is rare who gets a smaller yield with a fair stand of alfalfa than from an excellent stand of clover. Yields of 4 tons per season have been consistently secured at the Connecticut and Rhode Island experiment stations with good seeds and moderate fertilizer treatments.

No other plant continues to produce a high quality hay for several years. Red and alsike clover are biennial plants. They may live longer than two years or may re-seed but to count on more than two cuttings of clover from a single seeding is to invite failure. Alfalfa does not live as long here as in the semi-arid sections, but a hardy strain, well fertilized, will maintain a good stand for at least three years. Most farmers are securing good yields for five years and some as long as seven years.

Alfalfa does not require nitrogen in commercial fertilizer or manure as grass hay do. The nitrogen removed from the field, about 40 pounds per ton of hay, is taken from the air and the soil is not thereby depleted. When this hay is fed on the farm and the manure utilized the soil is improved. The long roots penetrating into the subsoil, many times aids drainage. Alfalfa lowers the fertilizer bill as well as the feed fill. Lower cost phosphoric oid and potash are sufficient for alfalfa.

Alfalfa, the queen of forage crops, will furnish Connecticut farmers a better hay, and more hay. It will reduce the labor for frequent seedlings and permit the use of lower costs fertilizer.

CAULLIFLOWER CAUTIONS.

The chief cause of failure with home-grown cauliflowers is lack of a sufficient supply of moisture when the heads or "flowers" are starting to form. Like its cousin, the cabbage, the cauliflower demands rich soil and a liberal supply of moisture. Given these conditions, it will thrive and produce beautiful snowy heads which make it such an attractive and popular market vegetable the year around.

Seed for late cauliflower should be started in the seedbed in the open ground now to be ready to transplant the latter part of June or early in July with late cabbage. The early crop should be well on its way by this time. For the home garden, set the plants two feet apart, which will give sufficient room to wield the hoe, a necessary adjunct of good cauliflowering, particularly when the weather becmes dry.

Keep the soil well stirred and water liberally when a period of drought threatens. Do not sprinkle but take the nozzle off the hose and let the water soak in. Give a soaking, not a sprinkling.

It is well to hill up the soil around when hot weather sets in. When the "flower" is the size of a baseball, tie up the tips of the leaves which surround it, which will protect it from sun and insects and give the handsome snowy "curds" so attractive to well-grown cauliflower.

Early Dwarf Erfurt and Snowball are fine sorts for the home gardener and Dry Weather is the type to plant if you are in a section subject to drought or scant water supply in summer or you are likely not to have time to cultivate and water. This variety will survive and give a crop where the more highly bred varieties will prove failures. It gives a larger head than the Snowball and is one of the surest croppers.

It is a second early type and will prove a very satisfactory variety to plant if the earlier varieties have proved difficult.

Cauliflower and cabbages alike demand rich soil. In fact, it is useless to try to grow really fine specimens of either vegetable unless the soil can be well fertilized for them. Nitrate applied occasionally will give excellent results. Cauliflowers are more exacting in their demands than cabbage and must be kept growing. They do their best in the cooler months.

HOME-GROWN MELONS

Muskmelons of the finest quality must be grown at home and allowed to ripen on the vines to be at their most delicious stage. Market melons are always picked green and ripen while waiting for customers and often don't wait long enough. They take up the most room of any of the common garden vegetables but, like the cucumber, may be kept within bounds by pinching out the buds of the runners which causes branching growth and also promotes earlier bearing.

The name muskmelon is derived from the salmon-fleshed types which posses the characteristic flavor of musk in greater quantity than the green-fleshed sorts. Muskmelon seeds should not go in until it is reliably warm and early started plants should not be set out while the nights are still chilly.

They should be planted in hills well fertilized, about 6 feet apart, placing a shovel of well-decayed manure underneath the hill or using compost to furnish a moisture conserving medium as well as fertilizer. Melons need moisture to bear well. Plant plenty of seed in the hill to be sure of saving three vines as in handling cucumbers, for the same bugs attack both and the same treatment in the way of insecticides is needed.

The green-fleshed sorts enjoy the greatest popularity although there are many who prefer the salmon-fleshed larger growing kinds. New early muskmelons or canteloupes have been placed on the market of late which increase the gardener's chances of getting a crop. The Rocky Ford netted Gem types are favorites sharing popularity with the Osage types.

Seed of the improved forms of these two types and try some of the new early varieties.

Melons require rich soil but must be cultivated carefully as they resent disturbance of the root which lie near the surface, so scratch the soil gently about them, but do not hoe deeply.

Watermelons require much the same treatment but need even more room than muskmelons. They require 100 to 120 days of growth to mature melons and are not as practicable for the ordinary home garden as the muskmelon.

CUCUMBER CULTURE

Cucumbers in the small garden should not be allowed to wander at will in the old-fashioned way and use up double the space or more than they can pay for with their produce. Pinching out the ends of runners and allowing more strength to go to the development is one way of keeping the cucumbers within bounds and another is to grow them as vines on trellises, a great space saver and very convenient method.

Training them on a wire fence is an excellent way to save space and increase the gardening area for the fence would not produce vegetables ordinarily. Where there is ample space, cucumbers are grown in hills six feet apart, or two to three feet in smaller garden plots.

The best method is to dig out the hole for the hill and fill it with well rotted manure or compost to a depth of six inches. Place about four inches of soil upon this and plant about a dozen seeds to a hill, about a quarter of an inch deep in heavy and an inch or half inch in lighter soil. The large number of seeds is planted as a necessary sacrifice to bugs which, despite most of them, but enough will be left to provide three or four plants to a hill. As soon as they have made four or five leaves the danger from insects is pretty well past. The young vine should be sprayed or dusted with insecticide from infancy.

There need be no hurry to plant cucumber seeds. Do not put them in until nights are warm, for there is little gained by putting them into the ground when the nights are still chilly. Mid-May or the first of June usually is plenty of time. Late pickle vines should be planted the end of June.

The small yellow and black beetle is the meanest pest and it can be controlled with slug shot or paris green and sifted ashes mixed in and dusted on the plot or by arsenical mixtures. As it works chiefly on the young plants it is soon got rid of. Later the squash bugs appear and the same medicine in the way of arsenates will fix them.

Pick off the first cucumber that forms. Often the bush will throw all its strength for the time being into developing this precocious cuke while later ones stand still.

MAY CUT COST OF PORK BY SAVING MORE PIGS

There is apparently greater opportunity to make a saving on the cost of producing pork by increasing the number of pigs weaned per sow than there is by improvement in some other phases of the hog-production process. This is indicated in a study recently completed by the department of agriculture of the cost of producing hogs in 1921 and 1922 in Indiana, Illinois and Iowa.

Most farmers know that much of the success of their hog raising operations depends on the way in which they bring young pigs through the suckling period. Apparently, however, many have not understood the degree to which this part of the work surpasses other parts in relative importance. Usually hog raisers are better at feeding out stuff than they are in handling brood sows. Improved management of brood sows, says the department of agriculture, offers big chances for increased rewards.

Information obtained in regard to the spring pig crop on about 150 corn belt farms in 1922 showed that the number of sows farrowing pigs was only about 86 per cent of the number actually bred. Wide variation also existed in the cost of production per pig at weaning time on the farms raising the lowest number of pigs per sow and the cost on the farms raising the largest number. Thus in 1922 the cost per pig, at the age of 10 weeks, on the farm where fewer than four pigs were raised per sow was $9.10, whereas on farms weaning from six to eight pigs per sow the cost per pig was only $4.94. The cost of producing 100 pounds of pork on those farms weaning less than four pigs per sow was $7.93, compared with only $6.61 on farms weaning from six to eight per sow.

These wide variations of cost are emphasized when the profits are expressed in terms of return per bushel of corn fed to hogs. In central Iowa the most efficient one-fourth of the farmers averaged 93 cents a bushel from feeding corn to hogs. The least efficient one-fourth of the farmers received only 39 cents a bushel for the corn fed to hogs. One-half of the farmers between these extremes averaged 63 cents return per bushel of corn. In Indiana during the same year the return per bushel was $1.21 for the best farmers and 48 cents for the least efficient.

Few men will admit they are wrong as long as there is a chance to make others believe they are right.

Following the graduating exercises [illegible] Crandall, principal of the school was presented with $5 in gold by the members of the graduating class.

Arthur L. Perry, treasurer of the Washington Trust Co. of Westerly, attended the reunion of the class of 1900, Brown university, at the University club Wednesday. Others attending were Francis B. Armington and his son, Francis B. Armington, Walter A. Briggs, Charles W. Brown, Harris H. Bucklin, Harold S. Capron, J. Wallace Chesbro, Roscoe M. Dexter, Fred T. Field, J. L. Hood, Donald Howland, Rolla E. Hunt, Melvin C. Johnson, Charles J. Lynch, Benjamin O. Pillsbury, Charles P. Roundy and Clinton C. White.

Miss Clara D. Pashley of Ashaway, who recently returned to Westerly from her duties as a teacher of music in Richmond, Va., left town Thursday morning accompanied by her friend, Miss Agness McInturff, of Greenville, Tenn., for a visit with Mrs. William T. Maitland in Newport, R. I.

Ninety-five pupils of the Westerly [illegible] school have been awarded prizes for efficiency, medals in gold, silver and bronze by three typewriting concerns. Miss Mary Mullen received first honor, with a record of 61 words per minute and Miss Ruth Carpenter was second, writing 55 words a minute.

Milany Dotolo is being held at the local police station on a charge of larceny of a gold watch, the property of Vivian Barnett of Pierce street. Barnett reported the theft to Officer Mitchell of the Westerly police and Officer Charles Connors of the West Side was notified and he apprehended Dotolo and turned him over to the Westerly police. He will be arraigned in the third district court.

Miss Phoebe Langworthy of Ashaway and Quonochontaug, R. I., leaves Westerly today (Friday) for a visit in Hartford.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Pitcher and daughter of Westerly were visitors in New London Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Austin Matthews and son, Austin, Jr., of Pawtucket, R. I., are the guests of relatives and friends in Westerly.

The family of Howard McWilliams of Plainfield, N. J., has arrived at Weekapaug, R. I., to pass the summer season.

Dr. A. F. Burgtorf of New York has arrived at Shelter Harbor, Quonochontaug, R. I.

J. D. Baxter has arrived at Quonochontaug, R. I., from New York city.

Edward O'Connell, Nicholas Papas, Thomas Economy, Timothy Deady and Louis De Bartolo were automobile business callers in Norwich on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Morris, well known people of the state, arrived in Westerly on Thursday afternoon to open their cottage at Quonochontaug, R. I.

Battery men of Battery B., 102nd Artillery, R. I. N. G., who were encamped on Wednesday night at Clarks Falls, while on a 15-day cross country tour of duty, were visitors in Westerly on Wednesday evening. Thursday the battery journeyed across country to make camp Thursday night at Charlestown, R. I.

Many members of the Westerly Masonic club gathered in the club rooms on High street on Thursday evening to enjoy their annual native strawberry shortcake feast. The usual card, pool and billiards with social hour completed the evening.

The feature of the evening was a three-reel motion picture—The Story of an Electric Meter—presented by H W. Carpenter of Norwich, New England representative of the Sangamo Electric company of Springfield, Mass.

A regular session of the Third district court, Judge Michael J. Turano, will be held at the court room on Union street Friday morning at 9 o'clock when, it is said, decisions will be given in the liquor cases which have been before the court for some time.

Frank L. Friend of the West Side was a business caller in Providence on Thursday.

Attached to the west bound Gilt Edge express, which stopped at the Westerly station of the New Haven road at 7.30 Thursday evening were three Pullman sleepers with members of the Porcellain, Fly and A. D. clubs of Boston. These sleepers are to be sidetracked at New London that the occupants may find quarters and later view the Yale-Harvard boat race on the Thames.

Westerly people to attend the boat races in New London this (Friday) afternoon will, to the greater extent, make the trip to the Whaling city by automobile. In the years that the races are rowed down stream, as will probably be the case this year, a greater number make the trip as a day's work can be done and with the cooperation of favorable weather, a late afternoon's outing can be enjoyed and the finish of the race seen with the minimum amount of travel. All day Thursday and late in the evening a large number of thrown automobile parties passed over the Pawcatuck bridge, bound westward.

At St. Michael's church, Thursday morning at 8.30, by Rev. J. J. Keene, Miss Constance Balato and Joseph Gandolfi, both of Westerly, were united in marriage.

Father Keane also celebrated the nuptial high mass which followed the ceremony. The bride was attended by Miss Anna Tasca, and Joseph Orlando was best man.

Mr. Gandolfi is foreman of the sewer department of the town of Westerly and is well known here. After their return from a wedding trip to Whitehall, N. Y., Rutland, Vt., and other points where they plan to visit friends, Mr. and Mrs. Gandolfi will reside at 14 Downer street.

Rev. Bernard M. Alders of St. Rita college, Chicago, Ill., united in marriage at St. Michael's church, West Side, Miss Margaret Helene Herbst and Stephen Austin Shea at 9.30 on Thursday morning.

Father Alders said the nuptial mass which followed the marriage ceremony.

Miss Theresa McMahon sang O Promise Me and Mrs. Thomas Murray played the wedding marches.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Clare Herbst, and Michael Shea, a brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride wore a gown of white satin brocaded crepe. Her veil was trimmed with pearls and orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaid's gown was of changeable gold taffeta, with hat to match, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Following the ceremony at the church a wedding breakfast was served to about 90 relatives of the two families at the home of the bride, 120 Liberty street.

Mr. and Mrs. Shea left this afternoon for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls. Upon their return they will make their home at 57 Liberty street.

At 9 o'clock at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Miss Alfonsine Visciglio and Thomas Salimeno, both of Westerly, were united in marriage. Rev. Henry Bruno, S. M., celebrated the nuptial mass, which followed the ceremony.

The bridesmaid was Miss Rose M Salimeno, a sister of the groom, and Antonio Visciglio, a brother of the bride, was best man. James Salimeno and Miss Antonette Nigrel, nephew and niece of the groom, were the flower children. The wedding marches were played by the church organist Mrs. Frank Ahern.

Following the ceremony at the church a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride on 61 Pleasant street.

Mr. and Mrs. Salimeno will leave this evening on a wedding trip to New York city and Atlantic City. Upon their return they will make their home at 53 Pleasant street.

Announcement has been received in Westerly of the marriage on Saturday, June 14th, of James [illegible] Archie to Miss Ruth McBroom [illegible] Kansas City, Mo.

Mr. Archie is the son of Mrs. Elizabeth Archie of this town and graduated from the Westerly High school in the class of 1907.

YACHT ASHORE FOR SHORT TIME AT WATCH HILL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, R. I., June 19.—A two-masted 50-foot, schooner yacht of light color came in on the lighthouse point, Watch Hill, Thursday morning about 5.30 o'clock. It was during a thick fog that the keeper of Watch Hill light was surprised when he looked out and saw the schooner through the mist within 50 feet of the shore and between two large boulders just to the east of the point. As the sea was calm and the boat proceeded slowly so that it barely grounded. A crew of at least four men were on the schooner and two of these men came ashore for a short time. From them it was learned that the schooner was bound to the Harvard-Yale races but the identity of the craft was not made known.

Capt. A. E. Broadmeadow of the Watch Hill Coast Guard station was notified of the schooner in shore and in the short time that he took in getting to the point the men on the schooner succeeded in getting anchors to their stern and hauled off with their own power. A cutter was sent out a half mile off shore in charge of Bowswain's Mate James Fletcher and crew. In a short time they returned to the station and reported that they were unable to see anything of the schooner or hear from its crew. It is probable that the schooner got back into deep water and proceeded to the westward by the point for New London. A remarkable feature was the fact of the schooner's being inshore so far and not hitting any of the numerous rocks which line the shore at this point.

MARKET WAS STRONG.

New York, June 19—Heavy selling of rails and other shares, based on unfavorable trade reports, failed to halt the general upward movement in today's stock market, which was again featured by the heavy accumulation of the railroad shares, more than a dozen of which established new high prices for the year. Investment demand, the dominant professional manner and leaders appeared to make a vigorous effort on rallies and days when selling, adding about 50,000 shares.

Indications of a free pace current was followed closely by the opening of the dividends on Wall Street and it looked for a time as though selling and the usual summer dullness would be Springfield engaged in repeated price cuts would end a few others acting of some better prices. Coal stocks, U. S. Rubber and Mexican Petroleum were also feature, the latter on reports that the Mexican government would not put into effect the export tax on crude oil. Trading became dull and prices drifted downward in the afternoon, the market closing heavy at a net decline of 1 to 3 points.

Gains were offset down to 2 points in the case of the leaders, but the Vanadium, Baldwin, Locomotive, Texas Company, Sinclair Consolidated Oil, Pan American B, Mexican Petroleum, Chandler Motors, Stewart Warner, Continental Can, Corn Products, Coca Cola, Kelly Springfield, Fisk Rubber, Goodrich, Kennecott, Allis Chalmers

TO ALL PERSONS WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

You will take notice that at an adjourned regular meeting of the Court of Common Council of the City of Norwich, Connecticut, held Friday, June 13th, 1924, the following proposition and resolution was submitted to said Court of Common Council, to wit:

"Resolved, That there be laid out and established as an addition to and enlargement of the park of the City of Norwich, known as "Mohegan Park, the land located in the Town of Norwich, State of Connecticut, recently acquired by the City of Norwich from Rowland D. Hill under an indenture between him and said city made the 18th day of September, 1923, recorded in the Norwich Land Records, Vol. 170, Page 149, and ratified and confirmed by a meeting of said city held March 3rd, 1924, which land is bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a bar post on the southerly line of the Ox Hill road 432 feet westerly from the center of a brook that runs southerly into the lake in Mohegan Park, which post is the northwesterly corner of the land conveyed by Angelina W. Hill to Edward, Charles and George Laskowski by deed dated May 21, 1921, and recorded in the Norwich Land Records, Book 161, Page 170, and running southwesterly about 1430 feet to other land of the City of Norwich at the point on the northwesterly boundary line of Mohegan Park as now laid out where it is crossed by the northeastern side of Old Sachem Plain road bounding northwesterly on said land conveyed to said Laskowskis, thence northeasterly, northerly and northwesterly to the Ox Hill road abutting southeasterly, easterly and northeasterly on other land of the City of Norwich known as Mohegan Park thence westerly to the place of beginning abutting northerly on Ox Hill road."

And that in accordance with the provisions of an ordinance relating to parks adopted June 1st, 1906, said Court of Common Council postponed action on said proposition and resolution set forth until the regular meeting of the Court of Common Council of the City of Norwich to be held Monday evening, July 7th, 1924, at 7 o'clock p. m. (standard time) in the Council Chamber in said City at which time and place a public hearing will be given on said resolution and proposition by said Court of Common Council.

SAILING FROM NEW YORK FOR EUROPEAN TRIP

Charles F. Noyes of New York is sailing on June 21st, from there on the new ship Albert Ballin for Hamburg. The Albert Ballin is the first trans-Atlantic liner to be equipped with Dr. Foerster's system of stabilizing bulges combined with the Frahm anti-rolling tanks. The combined system not only increases the steadiness of the ship but adds to the safety factor due to the presence of a double hull at the water line amidships.

Mr. Noyes returns about August 1 on the S. S. Aquitania. His itinerary includes a few days in Hamburg; three days in Berlin; two days in Munich; a trip through Lake Constance to Zurich; three days at Vitznau, Switzerland; five days in Paris; a trip by aeroplane to London, and five days in London. Tickets have been procured for the Olympic games in Paris and a private car and guide will make the trip delightful in London where Windsor, Eton and Hampton Court will be visited as well as three days devoted to the British Empire Exposition. Mr. Noyes will be accompanied by his father, Charles D. Noyes of this city, his daughter, Lorna H. Noyes and Elizabeth M. Shiebler, a friend of Lorna's.

RACE DAY TRAFFIC RULES ON GROTON SIDE

War department authorities at Washington have notified officials of the state motor vehicle, police and highway departments that the drawbridge between New London and Groton will be kept closed for one and one-half hours after the conclusion of the Yale-Harvard boat race in the Thames river Friday. This concession has been made, at the request of state officials, to avoid serious complications in the traffic problem following the regatta.

The three state departments named have joined hands with the New London and Groton authorities to regulate the heavy traffic which is expected to be attracted to that section of the state for the race. The following special traffic regulations for the day have been issued over the signature of Motor Vehicle Commissioner Stoeckel, State Police Superintendent Hurley and Highway Commissioner Macdonald:

"Under the authority granted by the law to the commissioner of motor vehicles, the following special traffic regulations for the management of traffic on the day of the Yale-Harvard boat race, June 20, 1924, between the hours of 8 a. m. and until the highway is clear after the finish of the race, are provided.

"1—No parking or standing on the east side of the highway.

"2—Parking on the west side of the highway is allowed as close to the fence as possible headed in a direction south (toward New London) and as close as possible to the car ahead.

"3—All traffic on the highway to be at a standstill during the race.

"4—The highway to have only one-way traffic south (toward New London) for two hours after the finish of the race.

"5—Horse-drawn vehicles must be in position fifteen minutes prior to the scheduled start of the race and remain in such position until the highway is clear of motor vehicles.

"6—No exception from these rules will be made for peddlers and hucksters, but such must take a parking position and keep it.

"7—Cars parked off the highway in private parking spaces will not be allowed to enter the highway until traffic on the highway is clear.

"8—All vehicles, for two hours after the race, will proceed in a direction south and will keep in their respective lines.

"9—United States navy, United States army, ambulances, fire apparatus, police motor vehicles, United States mail vehicles to have right of the highway at any time in emergency.

"10—All officers on duty will see that these regulations are enforced."

SECRET OF KEEPING YOUNG

Why is it that some women look older at thirty-five than others do at [illegible]? Why is it that so many women are always run-down, weak, pale, nervous, irritable and unhappy? Health, vitality and freedom from pain and disease alone can prevent the signs of age from fastening themselves upon women. All over this country women are awakening to the fact that the ills, aches and pains of women may be relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and the result is renewed life, energy and the glow of health. In fact, the secret of keeping young is to ward off all interfering ailments that cause premature old age which is easily accomplished by this remarkable root and herb remedy.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

The evening brought the final public event of commencement week—the annual reception in honor of the graduating class of Killingly High school and the usual dance, given by the Alumni association of the school in honor of the graduates.

It was the usual splendid function and there was the usual large attendance. The state armory drill shed was prettily decorted for the occaion. The reception brought to the class members the greetings of hundreds of their friends and friends of the school. Practically all of the classes ever graduated from the school were represented on the attendance, many graduates making the usual point of returning to Danielson for this annual affair. Music for the dancing was by a Providen[illegible] committees of the Alumni [illegible] in charge of the arrangements for the reception and dance and carried out their duties with the usual ease.

St. James' school baseball is elated over its 15 to 8 victory against the Midget team of LaSalette college at Hartford. St. James' boys, though younger and smaller than the young students at LaSalette won a clear cut victory, keeping up the splendid record they have been making throughout the playing season. Featuring the game was a home run by Tetreault of St. James' team, the big drive coming when there were three men on bases. Lemieux of the St. James' team also contributed a home run during the game, but he hit while the bases were unoccupied. St. James' piled up six runs at the very start of the game and from the outset were practically assured of victory. The teams was made up of the three Brouillard brothers, Perreault, Lemieux, Peters, Guilbert, Lys, Hubert and Morin. The party from Danielson, numbering 22, made a visit to the LaSalette missionary novitiate at Bloomfield while on the trip, which was a delightful one. The St. James' team was in charge of Rev. F. X. Richards.

A county wide enrollment campaign will take place on Monday and Tuesday, June 23rd and 24th, in which the parents of every member of the Y. M. C. A. and Boy Scouts, as well as the parents of all other boys, 12 years of age and over, will be solicited for the purpose of securing their boys as campers at Camp Woodstock.

Camp Wodstock opens on June 27th for its third season with an even better equipment and more attractive features than have ever been offered, and every Windham County boy should take advantage of such opportunities. Boys may enroll for from one to five weeks, between the dates of June 27th and August 1st. The camping season is divided into three periods: 1st period, June 27th to July 11th; 2nd period, July 11th to July 25th; 3rd period, July 25th to August 1st.

The following men have been enlisted to serve as tent leaders: William P. Dutemple, Wattinsville, Mass., J. S. Brown of Brooklyn, N. Y., Harold [illegible] Moosup; Maurice L. Childs, Danielson; Worcester Academy, James Gifford and Harvey Delorme of Putnam, Arthur Hughes of Dayville.

The camp enrollment for Windham up to date is as follows: Clarence Wood, Jr., Walter C. Rumrill, Henry [illegible] Sheriff, Melvin A. Chase, Walter Wilson and Lloyd W. Babcock of Dayville; Richard A. Tillinghast, Lyman D. Lyon, Thomas L. Day and Stanley Allen of Danielson; Ernest and Carlton Boys of Holyoke, Mass.; R. Daniel Chubbuck of Mechanicsville; L. Thomas Jones, William E. Jones, Sheldon W. Carpenter, James A. Mansfield, Stuart Sabin, Leonard A. [illegible], Elliott C. Thayer, Augustus [illegible], Arthur Ross and Robert [illegible] of Putnam; James and Allan Wambolt of Millis, Mass.

The June issue of the Killonian, official organ of Killingly High school has been issued and is credited by many who have seen a copy with being one of the very best numbers ever issued.

A triduum of prayer and devotion opened at St. James' church Friday will come to a close on Sunday.

Rev. [illegible] Conklin will preach at a union vesper service to be held Sunday afternoon at the Baptist church.

Teachers who are non-resident in Killingly are leaving this week end, following the activities of commencement week, for their homes and the long summer vacation.

Mrs. E. M. Collins of Wray, Col., is here to spend the summer with her daughter, Mrs. Frederic O. Armington.

The Fortnightly club will meet with Mrs. Lillian Atwood of Broad street next Wednesday afternoon.

Osarie J. Warner of Carter street, a lineman in the employ of the S. N. E. T. company in this district, and Miss Rose LaRoche, Moosup, a night operator at the Danielson central office, both are to receive medals for valor in the line of duty. The presentations are to be made in the near future. The medals are to be presented by the telephone company and the occasion will be of a very special nature.

The Danielson Rod and Gun club has another shoot planned for the Fourth and it will be much along the lines of the successful one held Memorial day. A registered shoot planned for Labor day will be the most important event of its kind ever held in Danielson or vicinity. Following a meeting of the board of directors, it was announced Friday that the club will offer a trophy cup, to be competed for by members. A sliding scale handicap, allowing all an equal chance in comptition for this cup will be arranged. Ten strings of 25 targets each will be shot by each competition on or before August 31.

Mrs. Esther A. Jacobs and daughter, Miss Agnes Jacobs, are to spend the summer in California.

Rev. William H. Bath, district superintendent, Norwich, came here on Friday evening to attend the first quarterly conference at the Methodist church.

Next Monday's meeting of the Ladies' Reading circle will be held at the public library.

Felix Tetreault of Fall River, has been spending a few days here visiting with relatives attending graduation exercises at which a niece and a nephew were included in the classes. Mr. Tetreault formerly was a resident of Danielson.

Chief John McFarland remarked on Friday morning that the motor traffic on account of the boat races at New London was lighter this year than he recalls it having been any year during his experience as an officer.

Next Tuesday the annual outing and picnic of the Sunday school of the Methodist church is t obe held at Alexander's lake. Games and contests will be arranged as special features.

Rene Caron is recuperating at the Day Kimball hospital after having undergone an operation for appendicitis.

On July 4th the big parade that is to enliven the observance of the holiday at East Killingly will get underway at 9 o'clock in the morning—and the promise is that it will be a humdinger.

Members of the Ladies' Missionary society of the Baptist church held a meeting with Mrs. E. B. Wilbur of Broad street Friday afternoon.

The annual procession of the Blessed Sacrament in observance of the feast of Corpus Christi will be held through the parish grounds after the high mass at St. James' church Sunday.

Miss Miriam Boomhower, visiting nurse, in company with Miss Cecelia Lessard, visiting nurse in Putnam, attended a social workers of conference at the state farm for women in Niantic. They also visited at the Seaside tuberculosis sanitorium.

Dr. Hugh Campbell of Norwich has sent notice that he will be unable to be in Danielson next Tuesday for the regularly monthly clinic at the health station.

Francis Macdonald and Girard Chartier, studenst at LaSalette college in Hartford, will reutrn to Danielson on Saturday of next week for the summer vacation.

Excavation for the high pressure gas mains between Danielson and Putnam is now underway through Dayville and along the flats by the Ayer farm. The work is now far advanced.

There was a considerable delegation from Putnam at the Yale-Harvard boat race on the Thames, Friday afternoon.

Arthur Williams and Miss Lucy Young, members of the senior class of Killingly High school, graduated Thursday, will receive, respectively a gold watch and a string of pearls through good fortune in a present plan arranged by a local jeweler.

Principal Ernest R. Warren has in mind spending much of the vacation season taking summer courses at Columbia university.

Rev. Leonard E. Richards will have the members of Moriah lodge, A. F. and A. M. in his congregation at the Sunday morning service at St. Alban's church, the lodge having accepted an invitation to attend the service.

PUTNAM

The last of the graduation exercises in Putnam schools was that of St. Mary's school, held in St. Mary's hall, Friday night, before a large audience. The graduating class numbered 43 pupils. In the cases of Jeff Bergeron and Henry McManus, both charged with owning and keeping liquor with intent to sell, the same procedure was taken as in the other cases. Bergeron was tried first and the evidence was allowed to stand in the McManus case.

Prohibition Enforcement Officers Congdon and Briggs and County Investigator Jackson were the witnesses in this case and it was during the trial of Bergeron that the dialogue between counsel and witness relative to the witness being able to handle "small men" occurred.

The officers testified to going to the place of Bergeron on Providence street, Saturday evening, and finding Bergeron just going into a rear room with a half pint bottle of whiskey in his hand. McManus was also in the place. The officers took the half pint and also carried away several three-ounce bottles of what Officer Congdon said contained a fluid used in coloring alcohol to make it look like whiskey, and in addition two whiskey glasses. It was testified that there were several cases of empty bottles in a back room. It was also testified that McManus had stated in the police station that he owned the place.

"LET COMMON SENSE REIGN."

When [illegible] Charles G. Dawes was [illegible] by a large gathering of his townspeople to congratulate him on his nomination as vice president it was incumbent upon him that he should make a response to their expression. This he did in a brief manner when he denounced demagogism, declared it open opposition thereto and declared that it was a time to "let common sense reign."

This is no new view on the part of the republican candidate for vice president. Throughout his public career that has been an outstanding policy of the man. Not only has he urged and advocated it but he has practiced it. It was because of his known attitude for standing fearlessly by the right, his courage to back up his views and the appeal which he made through his straightforward conduct that gained for him such recognition.

It was through the use of common sense principles that his work in establishing the budget system made such an impression. It was common sense which he saw was needed and which he applied in connection with the reparations question in Europe resulting in the Dawes recommendations which have been so favorably received and give promise of being adopted.

"Let common sense reign" may well be accepted as one of the slogans for the campaign that is now underway, and as an exponent of it General Dawes must be regarded as a most fitting running mate for Calvin Coolidge.

General Dawes has fittingly demonstrated that he is committed to the exercise of common sense, something [illegible] too often is a rarity in connection [illegible] the administration of public [illegible]. He does well to lay emphasis upon it at the opening of his campaign [illegible] certain that there can be no place for the demagogue where common sense is the guiding influence.

In his first speech General Dawes amply served to reinforce the good impression that he had previously [illegible]

PROTECT THE ELMS.

In some places attention is being [illegible] to the importance of starting a [illegible] the elm tree [illegible] chinemoss is being laid [illegible] action [illegible] many are rated as [illegible] when dire need exists. [illegible] view must be taken of [illegible] for the checking of [illegible] of the elm tree beetles. [illegible]some of the efforts that [illegible] forth in Norwich for [illegible] preservation of the [illegible] they not appre- [illegible] fail to elicit sufficient support to warrant [illegible] this regard for our [illegible] inclined to the point where [illegible] admitted that the elm beetles are victorious.

[illegible] is within the memory of many [illegible] at Norwich had many beautiful [illegible] trees which added to the attractiveness of streets and residences. Those trees were lost through neglect. Time enough has not elapsed for others to take their place, and it must be apparent that others will go the same way unless protective measures are employed as needed. It is far easier to preserve trees than it is to replace them, and it is the prevention of the great army of beetles that is desirable to a harder fight once such an army gets to work.

Spraying the elms at this season of the year, if properly done, accomplishes the destruction of the larvae of the beetle. Norwich hasn't lost all its elms and it doesn't want to. It will be unfortunate, however, if the protection against such a pest is neglected until the leaves have been filled with holes, become dry and fall off. This is the time for putting up a strenuous fight against the elm tree beetles and any other efforts are made in that direction cannot be considered a waste. The elm trees of this and every community are an asset and should elicit sufficient interest to give them the needed protection.

MEXICO AND THE BRITISH.

The trouble in Mexico resulting in the recalling of H. Cunard Cummins, British government representative in Mexico, discloses the usual difference of opinion by the respective sides in such affairs. When Premier MacDonald points to the charge of archives as simply protecting the interests of a British subject it is to be seen that he did only what might be expected of him under the circumstances. Whether he went further than was warranted is another question. Mexico at least brands him as undesirable and under international understandings that has been regarded as sufficient grounds for a change in representatives.

What the outcome will be is quite as uncertain as the trouble was unexpected. British interests in Mexico have been placed in the hands of this government and the Chilean government. The British papers will be safeguarded under the joint protection and [illegible] rests upon us in the republic to the south.

The Obregon government has been anxious for recognition by the British. It has not been able to obtain it, and the situation that has arisen seems to have made such action even more remote, at least so far as the present government is concerned. The added responsibility which it places upon the United States will not be shirked, however much it might have been hoped that the trouble would be prevented. We stand in the position of desiring to adjust such difficulties and it is to a certain degree fortunate that we have overcome the strained relationship that existed for several years. This may not mean that Mexico is disposed to accept our advice or to follow our recommendations, but we are in a better position to set them forth. The fact is that we might expect a greater degree of acquiesence from the British than from the Mexicans in whatever move might be made. The inclination of Mexico to be unreasonable at other times never fails to react when such a situation as the existing one arises. It is not always the easiest thing in the world to follow Mexico in its reasoning that it is always right.

THE SALVATION ARMY APPEAL.

Having made such progress in its campaign for funds that the halfway mark has been nearly reached, it becomes evident that the Salvation Army and its work in this community is receiving a deserved endorsement from the people of Norwich and vicinity.

In the quest at this time for $5,000 the Salvation Army is seeking to raise such a sum as will meet expenses for the coming year and in addition to complete the furnishings of the well appointed headquarters in Cliff street.

This is an organization that is always ready for service and that deals with conditions about which few people even know. That there should be such an organization within our midst was clearly established a year ago when funds were provided for the purchase of a Salvation Army building. Well officered and efficiently administered there is reason for seeing that it is provided with the means of accomplishing the best possible results.

What is worth doing is worth doing well. Having provided for the permanency of the Salvation Army here and recognized that there was work for it to do, and at the same time that it was doing well what it undertook, Norwich cannot fail to display that civic pride which will see that it is provided with the necessary funds to not only maintain its work but to increase it as demands require.

Whatever this great organization does reacts to the benefit of the community. Therefore the community should be not only interested in it but anxious to see that it gets the required funds. Norwich never fails in supporting a worthy cause.

SOUTH AFRICA'S ELECTION.

Probably Jans Smuts was quite as much prepared for his defeat in South Africa as were others. He never ceased to fight but he has been able to see evidences of weakness for some time. For the past three years his power has been on the wane, and the election which gave control of that government to two opposing parties which had united in an effort to down him was waged under conditions which forecasted the defeat of Smuts.

Premier Smuts has been a strong leader in South Africa. His influence has not been restricted to his own part of the world. He has stood firmly for adherence to the British empire and he has had no small place in British affairs. It doesn't appear that the defeat in this election means that South Africa is going to renew its demand for release from the British empire. It may come, but if it does it will be after a different alignment than exists at the present time, for while the nationalists are still as ardent as ever for such a change the labor party makes no such demands and in joining hands with the nationalists at this recent election insisted that the question of secession be not raised during the life of the new parliament.

The defeat of Smuts comes about as the result of conditions at home which have made possible a coalition of opponents to the South African party, aided by the fact that Smuts has lost the powerful influence of the late General Botha. Had the election been waged on the question of secession the result would doubtless have been different. Aimed at economic reforms it remains to be seen what effect the result may have in home government and subsequent demands.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Ought there not to be here in Norwich some general plan of city extension if we are to preserve any sort of symmetry in our building operations? Whether the population is increasing not, many new houses are being built. Possibly it may be only an expanding process; human bee hives taking the notion that the time has arrived to swarm. However this may be, an expansion is rapidly going on. It is, however, to be regretted that there seems to be no idea of building according to some general plan of extension. The helter-skelter way in which some houses are being put up may interfere with some future plan of laying out new streets. Many of these new houses are attractive, and are built on sightly locations, but as to their relation to one another, and to any general scheme of increase, many of them look as if dropped from some airship, and stuck just where they fell. Some of them certainly look just as Czecho-Slovakia sounds.

The most provoking question before the American people today is that of equitable taxation. Dr. Albert Shaw, the able and sane editor of The Review of Reviews, has this to say on the subject in the June issue of that periodical: "It would be well within bounds to assert that we are now in this country levying taxes with greater recklessness and less intelligence than is shown in any other country in the world." He criticises many of the technicalities and bureaucratic methods that are now employed. To illustrate: In 1921 there was a surtax of 65 per cent on incomes above $1,000,000, which with a normal tax of 8 per cent. made a total tax of 73 per cent., and this was virtual confiscation of private property. It was a legislative hold-up. It was penalizing men with brains big enough to make large fortunes. It ought to be remembered that even rich men have some rights.

Why is it that those who speak on the value of Americanism go out of their way to put emphasis on keeping it "white" as though the color of a man's skin had anything to do with his character? Also why do they laud the value of being native-born? It is not where a man is born, but what he is, that counts with God, and ought to with man. Per square mile there are as many scalawags born in America as anywhere else. It ought to be the aim of our free democratic institutions to recognize a real man whereever he happens to be born, or whatever may be his color, race or religion. It is criminals and incompetents that threaten the perpetuity of our national life. Today we are suffering for the mistakes made thirty years ago in not restricting immigration, and in not taking better care of our own incompetents. Let us forget "white" men and try to make better men.

What discord and confusion when an orchestra is tuning up! But when the instruments are in proper shape, and the individual players have taken their respective places, and the conductor has taken the stand, raps for attention, moves his baton, then a miracle—or what nearly approaches it—takes place. Discord has been driven away by harmony. It is no longer each one scraping, blowing and thumping for himself, but all playing together according to the rules of music. It puts emphasis on the value and beauty of unity. It shows what can be accomplished when fifty men, more or less, can do when they work together as one man. This expresses a law that is of universal application. When churches, school orders, guilds, political parties work as though dominated by one big spirit, then something moves; then a goal is reached, and we are not merely "beating the air."

When these lines were written there had been no sunshine—only at brief intervals—for many days. Added to this was lower temperature than at any time, at the same season of the year since 1907, so statistics inform us. What, then, is the physical effect of this sub-normalcy? Vegetation has a yellow tinge as though in the incipient stages of jaundice. In other words this external world of ours seems to be affected with biliousness. Things that ought to be growing are drooping, and remind us of the forlorn appearance of a sick hen. This is a strong reminder of what the light means to man all along the line. Not alone man's body, but his mind and soul get yellow when the light is withdrawn for any considerable length of time. After we have had a week or so of gray skies the people one meets on the thoroughfare look bilious, and shopkeepers look as though their liver had not functioned since the war.

"What is so rare as a day in June?" The supposed answer to this poetic question is "nothing" and this in spite of the fact that this June, thus far, sunshine has been about 37 per cent. below par. One cannot take a leisurely ramble across the fields and through the woods without feeling that in June there is something superb, which no other month duplicates. Other months have their excellence that June does not possess. But in this month there is a density of richness of verdure that we do not have earlier and certainly not later. Usually vegetation is at its best in June. The scorching suns of later months rob the natural mold of the beauty that it has in June. It seems to me that it has a close resemblance to early manhood and womanhood. There is a vigor of body and nimbleness of mind that is not usually so much in evidence later in life; certainly not in old age. Let us say then: "All hail to the month of June!"

"To partly solve the high cost of living laws should be passed that all styles should remain effective for at least thirty days." One hardly knows whether these words were spoken in earnest or in jest. In either case the author expressed a far-reaching truth, and it matters little whether he blundered upon it or said it after mature deliberation. The high cost of living is determined by the things we buy; and these are divided into two classes, first, the things we must have because they are essential to life, and secondly, the things we think we must have in order to be in the swim. We are fashionable (or, at least, we think we are) if we are well supplied with the latter. And it is the latter that drains the pocketbook. If we want to be fashionable there are many things we must have, and the styles frequently change. We cast aside things but little worn, because they have been supplanted by something new. This is all right for the manufacturer, but it is hard on the consumer.

Lloyd Jones was quite right when he said, "the men who try to do something and fail are infinitely better than those who try to do nothing and succeed." The truth of this statement depends on the character of what we try to do and fail. If the object we aim for, and try hard to accomplish is a worthy one, if we fail in doing it we are certainly better off than when we succeed in doing nothing. At least we have received the benefit that comes from putting forth the effort. There is never any good coming from doing nothing—either to ourselves or others. But may it not be entirely different if we aim at an evil goal and miss it? Is it not better to do nothing than to succeed in doing

CANNING AND SELLING CROPS DIRECT

We little thought, eight years ago, when the home demonstration agent persuaded our son to join a canning club, that by this time almost all the income from our 100-acre farm in the hills of Litchfield county, Connecticut, would be from home-canned products, writes B. S. Johnson of Bethlehem, Conn., in Farm and Fireside. Practically everything we grow is put up on the farm in cans and jars.

We are unable to supply the demand for our products, and we are sure anyone able to turn out high-quality canned goods could do the same as we have. I am going to try to answer in this article the questions you would ask me about what to can, how to sell it, and what mistakes to avoid, if you were going into the business.

So many city people are in the market for good farm-canned products that I don't hesitate to tell what we have found out for fear of others going into competition with us. There is plenty of room for more home canners.

We started eight years ago, when the home demonstration agent persuaded our son to enroll in a canning club. We discovered then that city people would gladly pay good prices for fruits, vegetables, meats, and preserves of superior quality.

The first years we did all the work in our home kitchen. The business grew so that we put up a special building with equipment for canning on a larger scale, and now we are planning to expand still further. Our price list now includes 89 different products. That beats the famous "57 varieties." However, what we have learned will apply equally well if you expect to dispose of only a few surplus items put up in your regular kitchen.

Our best sellers are Golden Bantam corn, peas, asparagus, and currant jelly. Other products in good demand are Evergreen corn, tomatoes, succotash, spinach, beets, carrots, lima beans, small green string beans, chicken, chicken broth, mince meat, clam chowder, sun-cooked strawberries, peaches, pears and specialties in pickles.

Among still other items on our list are cauliflower, pumpkin, squash, sweet potatoes, apples, cherries, blackberries, huckleberries, plums, raspberries, quinces, sweet cider, grape juice, pork loin, and sausage. We put up ten different kinds of pickles and condiments, and seventeen varieties of jellies and jams.

Two or three satisfied, enthusiastic customers are all one needs to start sales and orders and to put a home-canning business firmly on its feet. We have not found it necessary, although in some localities it might be helpful to do newspaper advertising. We have found that quick sales, and some that develop later, result from exhibiting at country fairs. The products must be attractively displayed, and in charge of a person competent to demonstrate and answer questions. We have been able to show at some important fairs in connection with the state college exhibit.

We have added to our list of customers and made daily sales of more than $200 by arranging with city department stores for a week's sale at one of their counters. We furnished the goods and the salespeople, and paid the store 15 per cent of the sales. The advertising and prestige gained was of much value. It is likely to be a little difficult to make this arrangement unless your products have established a reputation in the city where the store is located.

The reputation is not difficult to acquire if you strive to keep your products up to a high standard, and make them go different from and better than the commercially canned products that folks will have to sit up and take notice of them.

However, winning customers is simple in comparison with the problem of keeping them. There is a certain percentage of spoilage and "swells" in all canned goods. While the number of our customers gradually increases, and many have been with us from the first, the occasional dissatisfied one has to be dealt with tactfully.

A Boston housekeeper, one of our best customers, wrote a very harsh letter complaining that some of her last order was not up to our usual standard. Our reply informed her that a baby daughter had arrived in our home on New Year's day, and that business and motherhood had been in conflict. An apologetic and congratulatory letter from her indicates that we haven't lost her business.

We have a standing guarantee that we will replace any spoiled or unsatisfactory goods. Mistakes in our canning methods have sometimes made it necessary for us to make good this guarantee, but we couldn't fairly expect to stay in business without being willing to do that.

It is our experience that the home canner cannot profitably supply stores or wholesale houses. We have some hotels, restaurants, and clubs as customers. They will buy high-class homemade products, especially tomatoes. Most of them use canned tomatoes every day in the year. The commercial canners last year canned three quarts of tomatoes for every individual in the United States. We gave a successful trial to the plan of having an agent in the city, but discontinued it. We find customers like to deal direct with those who pack the eatables, and the more the personal element enters into the business the more pleasure to sell.

Our best customer is the well-to-do city housewife who is willing to pay a good price for superior homemade things for her table. About 90 per cent of our output is sold right at the farm to people who drive there for it. We like this because it saves us work in packing, and also because they buy more when they see what we have. We give a discount of 10 per cent to cash-and-carry customers. On shipments we prepay express charges in the first and second zones.

We live a little ways off the state road. This year our son is going to run a stand right on the road, where we expect to reach many new people.

About a third of our customers order in advance, so as to be assured of getting certain products of which we always run short. We guarantee to fill "preferred" orders, as we call those accompanied by cash, for half the price. This induces folks to order early, as well as bolstering up our bank account in the slack season.

Keeping our standard of quality high is one of our biggest problems, for we realize that any inferior goods we may sell are apt to damage our business severely. After we had definitely determined to make the sale of canned products the major project of our farm, two members of the family went to the state college at Storrs for a thorough course in home packing. We are in constant touch with state and government authorities on the subject for new information. We have found that there is a lot that is not known about canning. We do a certain amount of experimenting, such as cold-packing in glass, for instance, which we have done successfully. Government experts come to us to study our experience just as we have gone to them.

Naturally one can't put up good canned products without good materials. We try to grow the best. We buy some things from neighbors, and insist on getting the best. Corn and string beans, for instance, must be picked at the right time, before they get too ripe, for best results.

Most of our output is put up in tin, although we have had to yield to the prejudice, which is possibly justifiable, in favor of glass. We charge 10 cents apiece extra for glass jars. Probably the ideal plan is to use both tin and glass. Huckleberries, blueberries, and strawberries we put in glass, as they will keep in tin for only a limited time.

I would advise anyone starting a home-canning business to proceed according to his own experience, plus the advice of his state college and the United States department of agriculture. There are many bulletins on the subject that give about the best information there is available up to date.

I suppose you have been wondering what kind of price we get. Our banker, with whom we have to consult now and then as we need money for new equipment and expansion, advised us that we should figure on a gross profit of 40 per cent. We try to average that, although some items we sell for less and some for more.

You may have noticed that I have frequently said "we" in this article. Ours is a "we" concern, for Mrs. Johnson has carried a full share of the responsibility of planning and developing our business, and we like to think the youngsters are equally interested. On our banker's advice we have incorporated with capital stock of $50,000. The canning that started eight years ago in our kitchen stove is now done in a $10,000 building, to which visitors are always welcome. Its cleanliness is one of our best sales points when people come.

I see no reason why thousands of farm women should not can, for direct sale to users, the surplus of their orchard and garden, and make a good profit at it. To those who try it, Mrs. Johnson and I would make these suggestions:

Turn out a better, tastier product than the stores can sell.

Go slowly, starting with the things you can do best, and that you feel sure someone will buy; and don't be discouraged with a few mistakes.

Get the advice of your state college and the U. S. department of agriculture about canning methods.

Don't worry about not selling, especially if you are within reach of a city.

Keep track of your costs, and don't be afraid to set a price that will pay you a good profit.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Interference With Lawn Party of the Klan

Mr. Editor: This letter is offered for publication to serve two purposes, one to cite the outrageous conduct of citizens of the city of Norwich, the other to give to persistent anonymous telephone inquirers information they appear to be in search of since the aforementioned outrage. The order of The Knights of the Ku Klux Klan appointed last week Tuesday evening, June 10th, to hold a lawn party on my property, agreeing that it would be a meeting fully sanctioned by the Constitution of the United States—that is it would be a peaceful assembly. The Klansmen assembled in considerable numbers at a spot about 200 yards back from the public highway. They wrong? Suppose a man plans to commit murder and is foiled in the attempt, would it not have been better for all concerned for him to have done nothing than to have made the attempt? The correctness of this statement depends on the character of what one fails in doing.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

Be Steadfast.

The early Christians continued steadfast in the apostle's doctrines. This fact stated in this way indicates that efforts were made to overthrow their belief in these doctrines.

We know that heresies crept into nearly all the early churches. The apostles saw fit to combat these errors and try to remove them. They did not think that it made no difference what these first converts to Christianity believed. Paul considered it proper to write letters in which strong arguments were introduced to overcome heresy and to establish the Corinthians in the faith.

In these days there are professing Christians who hold that it makes no difference what a man believes, so he only lives a good life. Those who have begun to waver in their faith use this declaration with great confidence. They seem to think this is the end of all controversy.

They appear to find much comfort in this thought. But it is a very loose and dangerous statement. It has deceived many. If it makes no difference what a man believes, then the world would be just as well off if no one believed a single statement of the Bible. Imagine the whole system of Christian truth suddenly and completely overthrown and banished. There is no longer any God, Jesus Christ the Holy Spirit, regeneration, the witness of the Spirit, Christian experience, prayer, a future life, all are banished from the earth. No one knows anything about them or cares anything for them. They are blotted out forever. Would it make no difference? Would the world be quite as well off as it is now?

Difference? The change would be as great as if the sun should suddenly be blotted out from the heavens and the world left in darkness.

But it will be claimed that those who make this statement about no difference do not refer to the whole body of Christian truth, but only the minor doctrines, and which are the minor doctrines? Which doctrines are important?

One person may consider one doctrine comparatively unimportant, and think it can be dispensed with without loss. Another would dispense with some other. A third would give up another. When a score of men have ruled out the particular part which each deems unimportant, the entire Gospel has been disposed of. If we are to pick and choose, no one can decide for his neighbor which part he shall rule out.

The doctrines of the Gospel are dependent on each other. They form one complete symmetrical structure, like an arch. Remove one stone from the arch, and the entire structure is ruined. Nothing in the Gospel can be dispensed with. The notion that some things are of no importance or of minor importance is a delusion whereby the temple seeks to impair the entire system.

A more pernicious sentiment than the one which says it makes no difference what a man believes never was invented. Truth and life go together. Banish truth and life ends.

"Therefore my beloved brethren be ye steadfast unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, for as much as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord." I Cor. 15, 58.

"THANKS TO TANLAC I'M IN GOOD HEALTH"

Says Murry Gottesman, of Hartford—Indigestion and Nervousness Thing of the Past.

"Tanlac is an upbuilding tonic, which, in my estimation, stands above all, and I am pleased to praise it to my friends because I believe it will help them as it has me," is the glowing tribute paid the famous treatment by Murry Gottesman, 80 Buckingham Street, Hartford, Conn., popular night clerk at the Savoy Hotel.

"Since taking Tanlac, indigestion, with all its attendant distress, including nervousness, gas bloating, sleepless nights, and that worn-out feeling is in the past. I sure can appreciate a good meal with a real hearty appetite now, thanks to Tanlac, for I am enjoying the best of health."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

were in reality my guests and were engaged in ceremonies of a devotional nature when an alarm came from the gates that thirty or fifty citizens of Norwich, freely alleged to be members of the order of the Knights of Columbus, were threatening to break in, avowing their purpose to break up the meeting of the Klansmen, which, so far as I could see was as the Klansmen had promised it would be a peaceful assembly. Upon going to the gates I found a crowd of Norwich citizens, some of them well known, using traducing language and offensive manner to my guests, the Klansmen. Finding it impossible to pass the guards at the gate the rioters blocked the egress of my guests to the public highway by driving their automobiles and a truck across the entrance. They refused to move the obstructing vehicles when my guests sought to drive their cars from the grounds. They did concede passage to the car carrying the Bulletin representative invited to be present at the party, but they immediately closed the opening by placing a truck across the gateway until forced by police summoned from the Groton barracks to do so. During these proceedings the rowdies were free with offensive words. The klansmen, during my two visits to the gate, held their peace against great provocation. The roughs further endangered life and property by rolling large and sharp stones into the highway, whereby several cars were considerably damaged.

The rowdies estimated that they had right to collect and tabulate the numbers on the plates of the automobiles, which they did in an offensive manner out of all keeping with peaceful American citizenship. It would have taken but few words to start bloodshed which might have turned out to be nothing more than a lively rollicking shindy, but could easily have rushed to tragedy right in a peaceful street of the Rose of New England—in the month of roses at that.

It is pertinent to state the whereabouts of the police officers of Norwich during this excitement. As soon as the roughs appeared a summons was 'phoned to the Norwich police, two miles away. The reply was in effect a refusal to act, the dazzling lights of Union square appearing to be more attractive just then than the unlighted portion of Corning road, which is in fact a street in the municipality of Norwich, Connecticut.

The summons to the state police brought quickly two officers from Groton, thirteen miles away, which is only seven miles less than the glorious Phil Sheridan rode in CiCvil war days.

This recital is little more than an epitome of the riotous assembly of the citizens of Norwich who hotfooted two miles in the midnight season almost "to clean up the Klansmen," as they said. Citizens of this community should understand that this outrage did not come to pass in Herrin; not in West Virginia, not in Cripple Creek, but in the staid old city of Norwich. The offenders should carefully study the Constitution of the United States of America, and should no longer estimate it a "scrap of paper," but an instrument abounding in the joys of freedom for all who preserve its integrity, and punishing those who do not.

Are You Discouraged?

Fanny Hurst's Severe Hardships.

After a pleasant college career, during which she sold many stories, Fannie Hurst went out to gain greater literary success—but found cruel hardships awaiting her.

Born in St. Louis, she began to write when 14, but won no success and when she finished high school her parents directed her to Washington university, with the hope that the "passing fancy" would give way to another calling.

During the four years there, she sold thirty-five stories to one popular magazine and printed others in the college magazine while she was its editor. Next she studied literature at Columbia university two years. Then, alone and living in a small hall room in New York, set out to gain success.

Visits to editors and publishing houses resulted only in rejections of her manuscripts. Arriving home one night she found a patrol wagon in front of the door. Unable to get into a hotel, she rode in the subway until morning.

The outlook was black. Then came an offer to play a small part in a Broadway production, with pay of $20 a week. She acted at night and wrote during the day. The show prepared to go on the road. She sold her first story for $30, and started her writing career all over. Her quest for local color took her into the lower East Side, Chinatown, the Bowery and other slums.

Funds gone, she was a salesgirl in a cheap department store, and was discharged. Then she worked as a waitress in a lunchroom, and afterwards as a seamstress in a Polish sweat shop. She wrote at night stories conceived during the day. After months of effort she sold another story for $30. Her money again ran low. A letter from home enclosed a check and said to use it to come home, for it would be the last.

But she wanted to write. She dodged the landlady, induced another editor to read a manuscript, and he said: "Fanny Hurst, you can write." Within a week she rewrote and sold him three stories.

Since then she never has had a manuscript rejected.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Walter Monroe, who has become premier of Newfoundland—the fourth to head the government of that country within a period of six weeks has heretofore been more prominent in business than in public affairs. Though actively interested in politics, he never before has held important public office. Indeed, his first attempt to enter public life was made scarcely more than a year ago, when he was an unsuccessful candidate for a seat in the legislative assembly. Mr. Monroe is the first Newfoundland premier in a quarter of a century who was not native-born. He is an Irishman, born in Dublin 53 years ago, the son of a prominent Irish jurist. He came to Newfoundland in 1888, after completing his education at Harrow, and entered business as a supply merchant. He prospered in business and in course of time developed a huge commercial enterprise for the fitting out of Newfoundland fishermen and the marketing of their product.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Raymond Cote.

After an illness of some duration Emilie Charon, wife of Raymond Cote, died Friday morning at her home, No. 63 River avenue, Baltic. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Charon and was born in Canada, May 24, 1849. Twenty-four years ago she came to Taftville where she lived for five years, then going to Willimantic and later to Baltic. October 24, 1874, she was united in marriage with Raymond Cote. Mrs. Cote was a member of St. Mary's church and the St. Anne society of Baltic.

Surviving are her husband, four sons, Edmund Cote of Norwich, Gideon, Alcidas, both of Willimantic, Philias Cote of Baltic, and a daughter, Mrs. Delphis Cote of Baltic. There are two brothers in Canada and 21 grandchildren.

Mrs. Patrick Quinlan.

Mrs. Margaret A. Quinlan, aged 82 years, widow of Patrick Quinlan, died at her home, 20 Whitman avenue, West Hartford, Friday afternoon, after a short illness. She was formerly a resident of Norwich. She leaves four daughters, Misses Margaret A. and Anne Quinlan of West Hartford, Mrs. John Fay of Steubenville, O., and Mrs. John McGuire of Norwich. There are also several grandchildren.

Mrs. William H. H. Leavens

Mrs. Susan Tracy Leavens, 83, widow of William H. H. Leavens, died Thursday morning at 5 o'clock, at the Johnson Home, following an illness which rendered her partially helpless for the past year and totally helpless for the past three months.

Mrs. Leavens was born in Jewett City, June 15th, 1841, the daughter of Albert and Harriet Tracy. She suffered a shock on her 83rd birthday, about 11 days ago and never regained consciousness.

Mrs. Leavens, who formerly resided in Danielson where for years she was a member of the Congregational church, came to the Johnson Home July 5th, 1916, having been a number of their family nearly eight years.

Since coming to Norwich Town she united with the First Congregational church by letter from the Danielson church. She had been partially blind for a number of years, although until physical health and strength failed her, she was a constant attendant at all services, being deeply interested in the work of the Lord.

Mrs. Leavens was much loved in the Johnson Home where she passed her declining years and it has been said of her that she was a good Christian character and of a very charitable disposition.

During her long and trying illness she was tenderly cared for by Mrs. Mary White nurse at the Johnson Home, who always had the faithful assistance and cooperation of the efficient matron, Mrs. Mary Rollins, whose every thought and effort is for the welfare and comfort of all those under her care. Mrs. Leavens not only will be greatly missed at the home, but in the community where she had made many good friendships since locating here.

Among those who survive her, are a step-son, Fred Allen of Norwich, and a grandson, Edward Allen of New Haven.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Johnson Home, with relatives and friends attending. Rev. Gurdon P. Bailey, pastor of the First Congregational church officiated. There were choice floral pieces.

Burial took place in Westfield cemetery, Danielson, where Rev. Mr. Bailey read the committal service. The bearers were her step-son Fred Allen, of Norwich, her grandson, Edward Allen of New Haven, and two friends.

The Henry Allen and Son Co., was in charge of the arrangements.

YANTIC WOMAN, 88, HAS DISTINGUISHED ANCESTRY

Mrs. Mary-Jane Chapman Bogue of Yantic received relatives and friends Friday with their congratulations on her 88th birthday. She is the last survivor of the children of Phebe Wickwire and Joseph Lee Chapman.

Mrs. Bogue was born in Montville June 20, 1836, at the old Chapman homestead on the heights of Chapel hill. She married John Bogue and lived in Chesterfield until the eighties when she removed to her present home in Yantic. Her children are Charles, Lewis and William F. Bogue of this city, Mrs. Jennie Adams of Palmertown, Mrs. Alma Smith of Meriden, and Mrs. Annie Briggs of Lebanon.

Although Mrs. Bogue has never affiliated with any of the patriotic lineage societies but she has been very appreciative of her ancestors. She is a direct descendant through the Chapman and Latimer lines to the old colonial settlers of Hyde, Lord and Lee. Mrs. Bogue is four generations from Col. Stephen and Abigail Lord Lee. Lee served in the French and Indian War and was at the siege of Louisburg, a member of the legislature, as was also Lieut. Richard Lord. Esther or Abigail Lord and husband of Elizabeth Hyde, the first white child born in Norwich in 1660, tracing back on two lines to Thomas Lee who died on the passage from England, in 1641. His widow erected the old Lee homestead at "Little Boston," Lyme, and removed her large family there. The D. A. R. holds its meetings in this identical house.

Through the Wickwire branch Mrs. Bogue's great-grandmother was a sister of Governor Winthrop's wife at New London and Ezekiel Chapel, who married Sarah Gardner, daughter of David Gardner of Bozrah and grandson of George Gardiner who settled Joint Judith and Kingston district, R. I., on a large grant of land from King Charles.

Her grandson, Irving Bogue, died in the service in France in the World war. Her husband, John Bogue, was a sergeant in the Civil war. Her father, Joseph Lee Chapman, was in the war of 1812. Her grandfathers, Ezekiel Chapel and David Gardner, were in the revolution and her great grandfathers, Col. Stephen Lee and Lieut. Richard Lord, were both at Louisburg in the French and Indian war.

Mrs. Bogue has a very attentive memory and although her eyesight has deprived her of being able to distinguish objects, she has a wonderful faculty of remembering persons.

AUTOMOBILES COLLIDE AT SPRUCE ST. CORNER

Automobiles driven by Dr. G. H. Jennings of Jewett City and Adaline Lafiesh of Occum were badly damaged Friday evening when they collided on Talman street near the corner of Spruce street. The physician's car had one wheel taken off. Lafiesh was driving on Talman street and the doctor was coming out of Spruce street onto Talman street.

DR. JOHN H. EVANS SAYS NEAR EAST RELIEF MUST BE CONTINUED

Dr. John H. Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Byron H. Evans of 20 Court street, who has been at Erivan, Armenia, since April 1922, in charge of Near East Relief work there, has given an illuminating account of what the work is and what the necessity is for its continuance in a letter to his parents.

Writing from there in August, 1923, Dr. Evans describes the work as follows:

The great problem facing us was to rapidly cure the 2,500 children in hospitals at this time. As before stated they were for the most part suffering from starvation, scurvy, malaria, favus, trachoma, scabies, and tuberculosis. Fortunately the conditions in the greatest numbers—namely favus, scabies, trachoma, lend themselves to routine treatment, of trained attendants, composed of the older girl orphans, under the supervision of American and Armenian nurses. So, organization and the systematizing of treatment became the order of the day. Teams of four, six, or ten orphan girls, were taught to give sulphur baths for scabies, to shave favus heads and apply the regulation treatment, to put "drops" in eyes suffering with trachoma, etc. In a short time we were giving a daily sulphur bath to 1,500 orphans, were giving treatments to 800 heads infected with favus and were daily treating 2000 cases of trachoma. The remaining cases of scurvy, starvation, tuberculosis, surgical conditions, were handled in the routine hospital manner. Results were apparent at once and soon we were discharging as cured from 100 to 300 cases each week and after a few months the ratio of sickness reached a normal state, enabling us to close some of our hospitals, greatly reduce the employees in the medical department, and liberate for work in other areas some of the American personnel.

In Command of District

After three months of the most intensive work of this kind, making several trips each week to Edzemiadzin, and an occasional journey to Darachichak, I was requested to assume the command of the entire district, to relieve Mr. Lewis who was to go home after some years spent in Red Cross and relief work. This meant that in addition to my duties of medical administration that I must assume responsibility for the administration of the entire district. At this time there were over 1,000 employes in the district, with over forty buildings all located to our use, a large vocational training school and a common school of 2,500 pupils, warehouses for our supplies, and an expenditure of $25,000 or more each month to consider, in addition to the work of my regular department. At the time Mrs. Evans was to be made Superintendent of Orphanages for the district—with 13 separate orphanage buildings, over 200 employees, and 4,000 orphans to feed, house, clothe, etc. To further complicate matters we were facing disturbing labor conditions, our employees having just formed a union that was making sundry demands, were working with a mandate from the Armenian government that had long ago expired and that was meeting with difficulty in its renewal, and were contending with money that fluctuated in value more than 50 per cent in 24 hours. The attitude of different officials, both city and government was suspicious, and there was some discontent among our American personnel. The prospect was none to bright for a successful administration by one who must transact all business, and dealings with officials, through an interpreter, and who was inexperienced in this work as well as new in the land. Nevertheless Mrs. Evans and I took over our new positions with the determination to do the best we could and now after 14 months have passed, look back with some satisfaction.

As the District Commander I found many different duties from those I had had in the medical department alone. In addition to ruling on questions of finance, supply, transportation, construction, repair, telephone service, mail and telegams, I found a corps of 150 guards under my direct control as was the general relief work (Feeding of refugees) and the work of the medical department. In the settlement of our labor difficulties and the formulating of a new mandate with the Armenian government I found myself in daily conference with the highest officials of this land—so with the procuring of pass-ports for visitors to Persia, and similar problems, my work came to resemble that of a consul or ambassador to a foreign land. The officials I met and had every sort of conference with from the allocating of buildings, to the release from arrest of a speeding chauffeur, were of course all Communists, with their very different view-point of how things should be done, as well as their differences of race and language. All this was very interesting, but with the responsibility of my 4,000 orphans and the 1000 employees, as well as the care of many thousands of refugees on my mind, made my hours long and my problems many and hard. Some 28 different government departments are in Erivan, and with them all we had frequent and intimate contact, becoming acquainted and familiar with all their officials, often entertaining them and being entertained by them socially. This part of my experience has been one of the most delightful and interesting of any in my life. During all this time as the months passed different American officials those belonging to the organization, and others representing business firms, other governments, missionaries on their way to their stations or going to America, delegates to inspect our work and so on passed through Erivan and were entertained at our own house, often depending on me to procure their permits and official papers. After this manner we met many of the worlds great men, Dr. Spear, Dr. Montgomery, Governor Allen, Dr. Finley, etc. Hardly a week passed but we had famous guests of this kind. This to us in this faraway and lonesome post made the time pass quickly and placed us in intimate touch with many eminent personages that we would not likely meet in the usual walks of life.

Conditions Improved

On taking over the command of Erivan one of the most outstanding problems was to reduce the expenses of the district as for some months these had exceeded our budget by many thousands of dollars. Concentration and careful organization was the remedy needed, so as rapidly as possible the area at Edgemiadzin was transferred to Erivan, thus doing away with the fifteen mile journey all equipment and supplies must make and releasing many employes. Darachichak came in for this same attention, so after some months had passed, all the orphans in Erivan, and as they were comparatively free from disease by now, could be housed in our orphanages. All departments were carefully reorganized and unnecessary employees released so that soon we were within our budget and the district functioning efficiently. About this time the improvement of the people owing to a good harvest permitted us to totally stop "general relief" to refugees, leaving on our hands only the problem of the care and education of our 4,000 orphans.

By the time all these objectives had been attained spring was upon us. Winter with its intense suffering of half clad people, with our heartache at our inability to relieve the distress so constantly about us, with its crowd of children and older folks crying at our gates each day for food and warmth, had given away to warmth and sunshine, fruit and vegetables were appearing in the market places and most of the destitute had found employment in the peasant villages on farms. About this time we commenced to canvas our orphans in the search for possible relatives, with it in mind to place the child with its relative, giving it the aid of an equipment of bedding and clothing and a monthly allowance of supplies. Homes for over 800 were found in Erivan alone on this system. At this same time a canvas of the entire Caucasus Branch had been made by an efficiency expert with it in mind to improve our methods in an effort to reduce expenses. In this study it was found that a saving of approximately $10,000 a month could be achieved by transferring the Erivan orphans to Alexandropol. This idea was at once put into effect—that is as rapidly as division every second [illegible] will permit the transfer of 4,000 children, and corresponding equipment. For [illegible] reasons it was decided to permanently maintain two orphanages here of not over 500 children, this being the capitol of Armenia and the source of comparisons and [illegible] tion by [illegible] officials. Thus [illegible] past few months we have been sending orphans and equipment to Alexandropol, ninety miles away, until at the present time we have consolidated the district to less than 600 orphans in our orphanages, some [illegible] in homes of relatives, [illegible] N. E. R. aid, and some [illegible] to government orphanages but we [illegible] still ration. Employees and [illegible] have been reduced in a correspondent manner until now we have but [illegible] Americans and 200 employees.

11 Months of Work

We have been in Erivan for [illegible] months and as I compare the present conditions that surround us with those of April 1922, it is difficult to [illegible] we are in the same city. At that time it seemed as if a third of the people one saw were refugees, half naked, or clothed in dirty rags of the most nondescript character, [illegible] food. Every hallway open to the public was filled with them at night as they sought shelter, and it was difficult to ride or walk about owing to their pleading. The town at this time was policed by a poorly uniformed [illegible] there were few [illegible] the gutters were [illegible] dens were [illegible] animals [illegible] scavengers and diseased and few [illegible] per, railroad transportation [illegible] certain and irregular, [illegible] curred, hospitals were without [illegible] beds, or blankets, money fluctuated daily in value, shops were [illegible] every where there was depression and despair. Today while there are many [illegible] still to be improved [illegible] changed, while still the number [illegible] poor people and the suffering [illegible] want is appalling, conditions, compared to that time are greatly improved. Many stores have opened [illegible] dealing [illegible] and [illegible] have [illegible] necessities [illegible] [illegible] to obtain [illegible] receive aid from the [illegible] gardens [illegible] been cleaned and have [illegible] running water, gardens [illegible] vated, there [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] offices [illegible] [illegible] transportation [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

JOHNSON REBUKES PLAYERS IN FIGHT AT RECENT DETROIT-YANKEES GAME

Chicago, June 20—With the announcement that the players involved in the riotous New York-Detroit game at Detroit last Friday had been fined as well as suspended, President Ban Johnson of the American League tonight declared that fighting and boisterous conduct could have no part in the playing of an American League game, and that if there are to be any finished battles "they must be staged in a vacant lot, far removed from the ball parks.

Babe Ruth, world's champion home run hitter, while escaping suspension, was fined $50 for what President Johnson characterized as his "frenzied effort to participate in the trouble." Bob Meusel, Yankee outfielder, was fined $100 in addition to a 10 day suspension. Bert Cole, the Detroit pitcher, was fined $50 and suspended for ten days.

The game, breaking up in a free for all fight in which players, police and spectators participated, was forfeited 9 to 0 to the Yankees when the police were unable to clear the field.

"The forfeiture was a regrettable occurrence, and wholly at variance to a standard the American League is pledged to maintain in good deportment and the highest grade of sportsmanship among its players," President Johnson said.

"A spirited contest is something to be desired, but when carried to the point of violence, it merits sharp criticism and must be severely condemned. The player should have constantly before him the elevation of his profession so that baseball may serve as a wholesome and manly recreation for the boys and young men of this country. The employment of rought tactics will never have the endorsement of fair minded Americans.

"There was not a blow struck by the players in the riotous scene at Detroit, but their belligerent attitude and frenzied conduct plainly excited the multitude to a point where all measures for its control were speedily wiped away. The forfeiture of the game resulted.

"There is a prevailing thought among league players, possibly without foundation, that some of the Detroit pitchers are indifferent as to the physical welfare of opposing batsmen. This proved the incentive for the trouble when Meusel was struck by the first ball delivered to him.

"Meusel's conduct on that occasion was highly censurable. He precipitated the outbreak and added fuel to the fire by his menacing attitude toward Cole in passing through the dugout of the Detroit players.

"When a player is ordered from the field by the umpire he must go direct to his dressing room. It is not permissible for him to tarry on the players' bench. The second outbreak would not have occurred had Cole followed the prescribed line of procedure."

INDIANS SLUG OUT VICTORY OVER THE TIGERS

Detroit, June 20.—Cleveland continued its slugging at the expense of Detroit and won today's game, 11 to 9. Both managers threw the majority of their subs into the game, Manager Speaker using 15 players and Manager Cobb sending in 13 players. Score:

HAVERS WILL HAVE JOB DEFENDING OPEN TITLE

Hoylake, England, June 20.—(By The A. P.)—Most of the 277 amateur and professional golfers entered in the British open championship, which will be played here next week, are already on the ground doing daily practice stunts with woods, irons and putters. They are finding the Hoylake course, which is always a tough and difficult one, harder and longer than ever before.

Five holes of the championship course have been lengthened during the past few weeks in preparation for next week's competition and the course now has a length of 6,640 yards. The qualifying rounds will be played Monday and Tuesday over the Royal Liverpool course, the championship course here, and the links at Formsby, several miles away. Each competitor will play 18 holes over each course. Eighty players having the lowest scores for 36 qualifying holes, plus all those who may tie for eightieth place, will be permitted to take part in the championship test of 72 holes over the Royal Liverpool course on Thursday and Friday.

Arthur G. Havers is defending the open title won at Troon. The field he must beat to retain the trophy embraces all but three or four of the best who ran the champion a tight race in 1923. They include such stalwarts as MacDonald Smith, Gene Sarazen, Jim Barnes, Abe Espinoza, Ralph Clarkson and Johnny Farrell—all Americans and also Douglas Grant, an American amateur residing in London who was semi-finalist in the 1923 amateur championship and is at present champion of Surrey.

The British stars entered include all the old timers such as Vardon, Ray, Braid, Herd and Taylor, with such great post-war stars as Mitchell and Duncan and with many of the rising generation of "pros." Among these latter are the present champion, Havers, and the three Whitcombe brothers. There will also be present the golfing sons of some of the older professionals of England.

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch

Tenth inning. Score 2 to 2. Runners on first and third. One out. Slow runner at bat. He hits ball sharply to third baseman.

Should third baseman make a play?

In a case of this kind, the third baseman should play the ball to second base in order to make a double, as this is the easiest and surest way of doing so. Naturally the third baseman must make his throw accurate so as not to lose any time.

STERLING BASEBALL ATTRACTIONS SLATED FOR WEEK-END IN NORWICH

If the weather remains the same during the week end as it has during the early part of the week there will be several exceptionally fine baseball games in Eastern Connecticut Saturday and Sunday. Saturday's games include the Crompton-Knowles and J. B. Martin game at Taftville and the Taftville A. A.-Riverview game at the State Hospital. Either of these games will be well worth seeing as there is keen competition between all the teams involved.

On Sunday the Duwell-Lexington A. C. game stands out as most prominent in New London county while the Moosup-Willimantic game at Willimantic will take care of the Windham county fans. As is always the case on Sundays there will be other games of minor importance in the eastern part of the state.

Duwells vs. Lexington A. C.

There will be many new faces in the Duwell lineup tomorrow afternoon when the local team lines up against the fast Lexington A. C. team of New Bedford as the Duwell management has been scouting around all week for some real fast boys to wear the Duwell colors during the season and has carefully selected a team that should appeal to everyone. Every one of the boys on the local team are playing baseball because they like it and not for what is in it and therefore should put up an exhibition during the season not soon to be forgotten.

Sunday's lineup will consist of Tim Coughlin, the hard-hitting port-sider from up Yantic way, on first. Roy Leonard or Joe Barry on second, Joe McInnes at short and Whitney, who has had a wonderful season with Middlebury university, at third. Although these boys are not really strangers to local fandom, Sunday will be the first time that they have performed on the Duwell field and should work together wonderfully and make a hit with everyone present. The outfield will be the same as it has been for the past few weeks with "Bill" Smith in left, Murgy Ellsworth in center and either Bill Ringland or Mullholland in right.

To do the twirling Manager Pedace has found a boy that is well known and admired in baseball circles throughout the state and has made a record this season that outstands any that a lad in this vicinity can boast of. This lad is none other than "Tillie" Daniels, star twirler of the Bulkeley High School team, which has battled its way to the front during the season and are now claimants to the state high school championship. Daniels has turned in some wonderful games during the season and only a few weeks ago earned himself a place in the so-called hall of fame by turning in a no run, no hit game against Stonington.

Joe Belair will do the catching and complete what should be one of the snappiest ball teams in this territory and should give the New Bedford team the hardest go of the year.

Riverview vs. Taftville.

The second game of the series between the Riverview club of the State Hospital and the Taftville A. A. will be played this afternoon on the Hospital grounds. Local fans are well aware of the fact that great rivalry exists between these two clubs. Last week the Riverview club took the first game of the series on the Taftville grounds 3-1. Jack Roy, twirling his first game for Riverview was a trifle wild at times and unable to locate the plate. He was touched for only six hits and proved unhittable with the bases occupied. He was given brilliant support. Davis of Sub-Base fame was on the mound for Taftville and although bombarded for twelve drives was invincible when Riverview threatened to score on several occasions. These two hurlers will hook up again this afternoon and Taftville rooters will be on hand to back Davis to the limit. Riverview has had several workouts this week and the fans will have an opportunity of seeing one of the smoothest working infields playing semi-pro ball in this state.

The lineups for today's game are as follows:

Riverview: Couillard 1b, Noell cf, Mills 3b, Moore ss, Burns 2b, Harrold lf, O'Neil rf, Belair c, Roy p.

Taftville A. A.: W. Liberty c, Davis p, Caron 1b, Murphy 2b, N. Liberty ss, Dugas 3b, Jarvis lf, E. Liberty cf, Donais rf.

Zemke will hold the indicator and the game will start at 2:45 daylight saving time.

Martin Team at Ashland Sunday.

Ashland will be opposed by the J. B. Martin team at Ashland Park on Sunday afternoon in what is expected to be a real contest between these two old rivals. Last year when these teams met the Martin team was victorious by a close score and the Jewett City team is in hopes of evening up things in Sunday's game. Morin will be on the mound for the Velvetmen and Jewett City will use either Jarvis of Kaduda.

Today (Saturday), the J. B. Martin team will clash with the fast Crompton-Knowles team of Worcester.

WALKER TO DEFEND TITLE AGAINST LEONARD AND SHADE

New York, June 20—Mickey Walker will defend his world's welterweight title against Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, and Dave Shade will meet the winner, the New York state athletic commission announced today.

Details have not been settled but Chairman George E. Brower of the commission said the three principals had agreed to place arrangements for the two bouts in the hands of the commission. At least one of the battles will be fought in New York state and efforts will be made to stage both during the outdoor season, Mr. Brower said.

Walker's acceptance of terms which will eventually lead to a bout with Shade has removed the disapproval of the state athletic commission which had banned the welterweight champion until he agreed to defend his title against Shade. The challenger has accepted the proposal of the commission to postpone his meeting with Walker until the much talked of battle between the two champions is decided.

Benny Leonard's answer to his lightweight challengers will be allowed to hand in abeyance until the Walker match is fought, Mr. Brower stated.

LOCAL MEN PAIRED IN STATE GOLF TOURNEY

The pairings for the State Golf Championship tournament were completed at New Haven Friday. The championship will be played at the Shuttle Meadow courseat New Britain. There are 166 entries and the first pair will tee off at 7:30 Monday morning and the last pair will leave at 2::30 p. m.

Among the entrants are V. D. Eldred and Willis Austin of the Norwich Golf club of this city. The two Norwich entrants will oppose each other in the qualifying round and will tee off at noon on Monday. The qualifying play is at 36 holes, and the first 32 places will be entered for match play. The survivor will be the state champion for 1924.

The program is such that all players entered and starting will have some event to play whether winning or losing.

On Monday evening the association will hold its annual dinner.

On Tuesday will come the first matches in the various divisions and match play will continue until Thursday when the finals will be played at 36 holes for the championship, consolation and bunker cups. The finals in other divisions will be at 18 holes.

BERLENBACH KNOCKED OUT JAFFE IN SEVENTH ROUND

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 20.—Paul Berlenbach heavyweight, knocked out K. O. Joffe of New York in the seventh round of a scheduled ten round fight at the Nostrand A. C. tonight. Jaffe opend a bad cut on Berlenbach's eye in the fourth round and inflicted considerable punishment but Paul came back and dropped Jaffe.

Eddie (cannonball) Martin, scored a technical knockout over Sammy Nable in the fifth round of another ten round bantamweight fight. After Nable was dropped for the third time in the round the referee stopped the fight. Both men are from New York.

Sid Terris, New York junior lightweight, danced around Al Shubret of New Bedford, Mass., and won the decision in a 10-round fight.

Terris punished his rival in every round. Shubert was willing but outclassed.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

The Wrecked Bird's Nest

"Hipperty, hipperty hop I go
Over the meadow grass.
The daisies wink and the buttercups blink
As over their heads I pass."

sang Little Jack Rabbit, as he hopped up the Old Cow Path. Mr. Merry Sun was shining from the Big Blue Sky and Billy Breeze was singing a tune to the roses that bloom in the month of June.

Dear me, how the dew sparkled on the grass for it was early morning. It had rained hard all night. Yes sir, the storm had wakened the little rabbit at thirteen o'clock, but he had fallen to sleep again, and when he had awakened in the morning, Mr. Merry Sun was peeking through the window.

"Look at our nest, Jack Rabbit."

As the little rabbit hopped along, with a jump, a skip, and a happy song, he came to the orchard near the Big Farmyard. There on the Old Rail Fence sat Bobbie Redvest and his wife looking very sad, oh, very sad, indeed.

"What's the matter," asked the bonny boy, kindly. "You look dis-con-solate." (Which means dreadfully sad, little reader.)

"Look at our nest," replied Bobbie Redvest, sorrowfully, pointing to a crumpled mass of mud and dead leaves at the foot of the old apple tree. "The rainstorm blew it off the limb."

"Dear, oh, dear," cried the bunny boy, "isn't that too bad."

"Yes, I'm brokenhearted," replied Mrs. Redvest.

"Come, let's get to work and build a new one," said Bobbie Redvest bravely, and away flew the dear little robbins to make a new house.

As the bunny boy hopped through the Old Rail Fence, Mrs. Blue Bird peeked out of the front door of her house safe and dry in a big knothole in one of the posts.

"I'm glad I chose a house with stout walls," she twittered. "A mud house in a treetop isn't safe in a windstorm. Besides they aren't clean and neat. I like my nice wooden house."

"I hope Bobbie and Mrs. Redvest build a stronger nest this time," sighed the little rabbit, as he hopped up to the Big Farmyard

"Cock-a-doodle-do,
The sky is lovely blue
And Henny Jenny's comb is red,
And most becomes her pretty head."

sang Cocky Doodles, flapping his wings.

"Oh, dear, sighed the little rabbit, "I hope Bobbie Redvest won't be too discouraged to sing."

TILDEN WINS GREAT LAKES TENNIS SINGLES TITLE

Buffalo, N. Y., June 20.—William T. Tilden, II., of Philadelphia, national tennis champion, today, won the Great Lakes singles open championship after five hard sets with A. H. Chapin Jr., of Springfield, Mass., in the final round. The score was 3-6, 7-5, 6-1, 4-6, 8-6. Chapins sensational form was a surprise and he pressed the champion vigorously for every point.

Byron Bauer, academy high school boy of Erie, Pa., won the Great Lakes junior singles championship, defeating Thomas B. McGlinn, Yale university freshman, 8-6, 6-2.

COAL HEAVERS NOSE OUT HARTFORD IN THE NINTH

Hartford, Conn., June 20.—Three hits, two passes and an error in the ninth inning won for Worcester today over Hartford, 3 to 2. Up to the last inning the visitors had made only four scattered hits, no Worcester players getting to third base. Graham's fine pitching curbed a rally by the locals in the ninth. Schmehl's hitting and fielding featured. The score:

Two base hits Hagar, Herman. Three base hits Schmehl.

PONIES WIN EASY GAME FROM PHILLIES

Springfield, Mass., June 20.—Springfield beat Pittsfield here today, 8 to 3. Post's three base hit with the bases full in the fifth gave the home team enough runs

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY.
Don't Forget the Shut-in.

If you have a bit of news,
Give it to a Shut-in;
Or a joke that will amuse,
Tell it to a Shut-in.
A story that is true,
An incident or two—
One waits to hear from you—
Don't forget the Shut-in.

Will your story make one laugh?
Send it to a Shut-in;
Have a recent photograph?
Show it to a Shut-in.
Never mind about your style,
If it's only worth the while
And will make a person smile—
Don't forget the Shut-in.

The Wisdom of Folly.

The cynics say that every rose
Is guarded by a thorn which grows
To spoil our posies;
But I can measure therefore lack;
And walk hands behind my back
While smelling roses.

I've heard that Sodom's apple-tarts
Have ashes as component parts—
For those that steal them.
My soul no disillusion seeks
I love my apples rosy cheeks,
But never peel them.

Though outwardly a gloomy shroud,
The inner half of every cloud
Is bright and shining;
I turn my clouds about,
And always wear them inside out,
To show the lining.

Our idols' feet are made of clay,
The stony-hearted critics say,
With scornful mockings;
Its images are deified
Because I keep them well supplied
With shoes and stockings.

My modus operandi this;
To take no heed of what's amiss;
Said One
Whom we shakespeare used to say,
A man can't mend twice the way
That fires a sad one.

The Whistling Fisher Lad.

The sky overhead and a
I with sun aglow,
Being a mighty good in a little stream I know.
And the birds are all a-wing and the world is set for me!
Everything is as it was in the days that used to be;
But one note is missing now, and I wish that I could hear
The whistle of a boy down the roadway, ringing clear.

I wish that I could turn from my dreary task and see
That glad rascal at the gate whistling long and loud for me.
Pole and can of bait and his enthusing smile,
Inviting me to come along and go fishing for a while.
Oh that I could know that unmuffled thrill of joy
That's mine from care to be free of a boy

There's something in the charm of summons strong and clear
That grown-ups never know
Summonses never near,
Making trip back then wasn't
Blously planned, happened in a way that all understand;
Love to dream as an
does and wait,
Then whistled from your task by small boy at the gate.

May go out fishing and may steal
a day or two,
But the journey must be planned and the work done when I do.
I sometimes lie and dream where the willows line the shore,
But the joy of it has changed, for a youngster calls no more.
And on summer days like this oft I wish that I could see
That lost comrade at the gate whistling long and loud for me.

WHAT THE CORNER MEANS TO US

Dear Social Corner Friends: I noticed my name in the roll call last Saturday and I want to answer Present! I have never been much of a "miner," but I did join the Social Corner in its infancy and I have always been glad. I was living on rather a lonely farm at the time the Corner came into being and its sociability was very welcome to me. Those who have never known anything but city life cannot realize what it means to dwell "far from the maddening crowd." I liked the idea of the Social Corner page from the start. When a young girl I heard a talk from an eloquent W. C. T. U. lecturer, Mrs. J. S. Barney, and I remember her saying she was once called on unexpectedly to speak on the subject "What Does the White Ribbon Mean to the Women Who Wear It?" She was totally unprepared and no doubt had to call out all her reserves in order to give a comprehensive and thoughtful answer. I suppose if we were all called on to tell what the Social Corner means to us there would be quite a variety of replies. It seems to me that most of us would agree that the Corner serves as an outlet, and everybody needs some outlet. In the days before the phone and auto many women living colorless lives on lonely farms, shut out from the world, seeing almost no one, going over the same old treadmill year after year with almost no chance for growth or communion with their kind, became insane. I remember reading of one such instance and the husband standing in the kitchen, in which there were but two windows, and these looked out upon a family burial lot with weeping willows. He said to a woman relative who had come to condole with him on the sad affliction which Providence (?) had visited upon him: "Well, 'twan't gadding about that done it. Mandy hain't hardly been out of this kitchen for fifteen year!" Poor Mandy! Don't you wish, dear sisters, that she might have belonged to the Social Corner? How she would have enjoyed our page, trying the good recipes, thus perhaps winning an occasional smile from her, not always Sunny Jim, laughing over the jolly letters that drive away the blues, being entertained by reports of the club dinners and picnics, even though she could not be present, and feeling ten years younger when the R. F. D. man brought a shower of birthday cards and other tokens of love from the Cornerites. Gradually her letters would have become longer, her native talent for writing would assert itself and what a lot of farm lore we should have received from her. I can almost see and feel Mandy expanding, and I know you can, too, with the genial sunshine of the Corner page. Men have always had so many more outlets for expression than women formerly had. You know, everything used to conspire against outlets for us and the lid was kept too tightly on the kettle. Gradually we are coming into our own. We are finding that the places in the sun are ours now to win, and we are confident that there will be fewer repressed, bottled-up, held-down Mandys in the future than there were in the past. I couldn't possibly express what the Social Corner means to me and what it has done for me in the space I may use here. We are growing in numbers and our power for doing good deeds, for expressing sympathy, for practical helpfulness is also growing week by week. May many others join us as time goes on. I think we can truly say: "Come with us and we will do you good."

With best wishes to you all.

EVELINE BURR.

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

Dear Social Corner: In a New York paper I saw that Peter R. Kyne says we're like a ring-tailed monkey that used to be a pet aboard our barkentine Retriever. The mate always made a lot of this beast until they discovered that he had sucked all the fresh eggs the steward had laid away for Easter Sunday breakfast. Then one of the deckhands clouted the monk and made him aware that he had a master. From then on that the monk swung by his tail in the rigging and wouldn't let anybody touch him, until one day a man coming down from aloft where he had been at work slushing the spars, caught this confounded ring-tailed monkey asleep on the bulwark. The man thereupon had a bright idea. He dipped his horny hand in the slush-grease and grabbed the monkey by the root of his long tail. Of course, the monkey awoke with a start and jumped straight away from there, and naturally he drew his tail through the deckhand's greasy palm.

Up to the rigging he fled, wound his tail around a stay and prepared to swing by it and scold his enemies. To his amazement his tail, which hitherto had never failed him, now slid off the stay and the fool monkey fell 40 feet before he grabbed a trailing rope and broke his fall. He leaped over on to the ratlines and hooked his greasy tail around them, only to have it uncoil on him and drop him again.

The American people are a good deal like that ring-tailed monkey. One of these bright days they'll lose faith altogether and when they do we'll be treated to the spectacle of a lot of congressional monkeys leaping overboard because they can no longer trust the tail they have hitherto swung by in the jungle law of stupidity. I thought the above quite cute.

GREETINGS FROM BECCY

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: It has been a long time since I have written a letter to the Corner. But as I see my name in the roll call I felt as though I must answer to it.

I am and have been quite poorly for the last two years, and since I came from the hospital more than a year ago have not been able to walk, and some of the time find it quite difficult to use my hands, so do not keep up a very swift correspondence with anyone. But I do read and enjoy all the sisters' letters every week, especially those from the south and west. Always look for a letter from Balsam Fir, for it seems good to see them from our own state.

Maine has been very cold and backward this spring, but everything is coming nice and green now.

Diana and O. H. O.: Will try and answer your letters soon. I think of you often and hope you are enjoying better health now the weather is getting warmer.

I send sympathy to all who are sick and have lost dear ones. With best greetings to all the dear sisters and our editor. From

BECCY OF MAINE (May 12).

HAPPIEST DAYS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: What lovely long evenings we now have with the daylight saving time. It is wonderful to have one more hour at night as many people working all day have that extra time to work in gardens to raise the good things to eat we all love so well. Today we had Silver Locks as our guest at dinner. She is stopping this summer at a nice home in the country where out in the open you can hear the cheery chirp and song of birds and see the beautiful open fields which take me back to my childhood days. Many times when I was a small girl of 6 or 7 years my dear mother, my sister and I picked wild strawberries on the green at Lebanon. How swiftly the summer is passing, although we have not had many nice days. Memorial day has gone by once more. So many beautiful flowers have been used for Easter, Mothers' day and Memorial day. These lovely flowers are fitting symbols of love to be given to those we love so dear and placed on precious spots where only memory lives.

A few months ago we had callers from Waterbury who were neighbors of ours when we lived in Saybrook. When they were ready to return they took me with them as far as Saybrook, where many loving friends and happy days spent with them made it a great pleasure for me to be with them. Many times I would put up a nice lunch and so would several other friends and take our kiddies and spend the day at the beach, and how we all enjoyed it. But now those days have all gone by and I am so busy and the kiddies are most grown up and hubby is away so much, so I just think with happiness of the days we spent together. I remember so well every year about two weeks before Christmas when the kiddies were young we used to come to the city and do our Christmas shopping. They began saving early in fall and when we were ready to go to the city I would give them just as much more, so they had quite a bit to spend for gifts. We would shop some, then we would buy our dinner in the restaurant and then go to the movies and finish shopping and get home in the early evening train and how happy they would be and delighted to tell dad all about it and what they had bought for mother when she wasn't looking. Those pleasant memories will ever live and be cherished by me forever. It seems to me those really were the happiest days when I spent so much time with the kiddies. Now we have a store and we all do our bit in it, too. Well, guess our good editor will surely want room for other letters than mine, so will close wishing every success for editor and Corner sisters.

As ever,

YELLOW DAISY.

SOMETHING TO LOOK FORWARD TOO

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I thank the editor for the yellow slip. Believe me, I got the surprise of my life when I saw in the paper "To Black Eyed Susan, for letter entitled Our Mothers."

I looked and looked before I could believe it.

Well, I'll tell you what I did with the dollar. I bought a Robert O. Fletcher dahlia bulb and it is now growing in my garden and about two inches over ground, so I know it is alive, for which I am thankful, and I expect to get a whole lot of pleasure from my Social Corner dahlia this summer.

Well, I have been pretty busy sewing for graduation but, thank the good Lord, that's off my mind now.

Hope we have a pleasant day Friday for the picnic, but that will come and go before this letter is printed.

Annette has kindly asked me to go as usual, so we are looking forward to a good time, and hope to meet lots of the sisters and brothers, too, if they come.

Well, we certainly did have one good time at the last meeting of Club No. 2, eh Chocolate? Let's hope we will have lots of them when we start again with our meetings in the fall.

Well, I'll say Present! to the roll call, but land! I guess you know I'm alive, for I've kept you pretty busy the past year.

But don't harbor any ill feelings for I promise to do just as much next year, if the good Lord keeps me alive and well. Ha! ha!

Well, enuf said, so au revoir, as ever for the good of the Corner.

BLACK EYED SUSIE.

ALL SHOULD RESPOND TO ROLL CALL

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: Years ago at school we had to answer [illegible] called, and I think we should do so now. So I answer Present! or Here! to my name. Not very many of the members have responded to their names. We can read the different names but can't really tell the size of our family, for some have used two or more pen-names.

Among so many we surely should be able to fill our page even if it is a busy time or some of the sisters are away or sick.

This season seems a peculiar one. It keeps cool for the time of the year, but no warmth, and it has been very dry, with much wind. The crops are crying for rain and warmth and I hope we get them soon, or crops hereabouts will be poor. The showers seem to pass over our section but one reads of showers farther away.

In spite of the dust and dryness, everything at a distance looks fresh and green.

Your outdoor picnics are at hand and I hope that nearly all the sisters can attend them. I enjoy reading of the good times you have. Am as interested as ever in the letters. It gives me something to think of. When I read that some of you are sick or in trouble, my heart goes out to you full of love and sympathy. A letter in answer to the roll call I suppose ought to be short, for it doesn't require much space, so I will stop and write again soon.

Best wishes.

DIANA.

ALWAYS WITH SISTERS IN THOUGHT

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: It is some time since I have written but between being vaccinated and having the shingles I have not felt much like writing. I do want to thank all the sisters who sent me cards on my birthday, also the letters. Now I am feeling better, I hope to answer them.

Dom Pedro, Joan, Balsam Fir and Cretia: I owe you all letters. Have patience and you will get them.

Whirlwind, her mother, my mother and I are all looking forward to the picnic, and if nothing happens we will be there.

Olga: Are you going? We hope so I will not write much today, but this will probably answer for my name, in the roll call, so I will say Present! I am with the sisters in thought at each and every meeting.

Wishing all the sisters who have birthdays this month a happy birthday.

Best wishes.

FOXGLOVE.

ANOTHER LONG SILENT SISTER

Dear Social Corner Sisters: It has been a long time since I have written to the Social Corner, but I have not forgotten you. The Social Corner page is the first one to be read on Saturday. When I read Sister E. L. M's letter I felt that I must answer it. I remember the strangers at Canterbury Green church the Sunday you mention, E. L. M. Mrs. G. D. T. gave a report of the conference she attended. I sat in the choir. There are other Corner sisters in Canterbury. The hill you mention is Black hill, and it is a lovely ride. Hope if you ever come this way again we may get acquainted.

Where is Topsy? We never hear from her. Perhaps she will answer her name at the roll call.

Best wishes to all.

GENTIAN.

WISHES CORNER SUCCESS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: As I saw my name in the roll call I will say Present! I have not been able to attend the Social Corner meetings very regular, still I think of you all and enjoy reading the recipes. Will close wishing success to the Corner and its members.

EARLY BLUEBELL, CLUB NO. 2.

FOR THE HOUSEKEEPERS

Dear Corner Sisters: I am sending in a few things for housekeepers to remember:

A good agency for keeping the air of the cellar sweet and wholesome is whitewash made of good white lime and water only. The addition of glue or size, or anything of this class, is only a damage by furnishing organic matter to speedily putrify. The use of lime in whitewash is not simply to give a white color but it greatly promotes the complete oxidization of effluvia in the cellar air. Any vapors that contain combined nitrogen in the unoxidized form contribute powerfully to the development of disease germs.

A teaspoon of turpentine boiled with your white clothes will greatly aid the whitening process.

Fish that are salted are quickest and best freshened by soaking in sour milk.

One teaspoon of ammonia to a teacup of water, applied with a clean cloth, will clean silver or gold jewelry perfectly.

Salt will curdle new milk, hence in preparing porridge, gravies, oyster stews, etc., salt should not be added until the dish is prepared.

Charcoal is recommended as an absorber of gases in the milk room where foul gases are present. It should be freshly powdered and kept there continually, especially in hot weather, when unwholesome odors are most liable to infect the milk. It is also a good article to use in the refrigerator to absorb bad odors and to keep the air sweet.

Paint stains that are dry and old may be removed from cotton or woolen goods with chloroform by first covering the spot with olive oil or butter, then apply chloroform.

Cold rain water and soap will remove machine grease from washable fabrics.

Fish may be scaled much easier by first dipping them into boiling water for a minute.

A teaspoon of borax put in the last water in which clothes are rinsed will whiten them surprisingly. Pound the borax so it will dissolve easily. This is especially good to remove the yellow that time gives to garments that have been laid aside for a while.

Calla Lily: I see you have not found your Social Corner register yet. I think I know who has it, and I told this party once I thought she had your book and she replied: No, it isn't yours. Still she would not let me see it. It seems strange to me why she would want a Social Corner register and she claims not to be a writer or a member, and she told me it was given to her by a party who was not a member. Who of the Corner members will give their register away to non-members? No one I know. I know I want my own book myself, and in what way can a non-member be interested in the Corner is a question I wish to ask.

Balsam Fir: I see you are still alive and very active.

Sayilla: I sure expected to see a letter from you in last Saturday's paper, but was disappointed.

Wurdy Belle: Where are you? Was your trip too much for you?

Rural Delivery: I see by the paper you have a standing invitation to attend some of the meetings and exhibit some of your writer's needlework. How about it? Will this entanglement ever be straightened out?

THE BEAUTIES OF JUNE

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: I thought when I joined the Social Corner circle I should write nearly every week, but several weeks have elapsed since I wrote you; not, I assure you, from any lack of interest but for various reasons, principally feeble health. At this time of year, when the world is so beautiful, it is certainly an inducement to use pen, ink and paper to express our admiration and appreciation of all the beauties of nature with which we are surrounded. For surely this is merry, smiling June, and birds and brooks are all in tune.

The annual Memorial day has come and gone, and with it many sad memories, of those who gave their lives for their beloved country. My two dear brothers marched away in the battle autumn of 1862 and never returned. Oh, those days have left many painfully and heart-sickening memories. But we must try to forget them and look on the bright side of whatever comes to us.

It is hard to be an invalid and a shut-in, but there are many beautiful things in nature which even a shut-in can enjoy, when one has an appreciative disposition. To me the world is never quite so beautiful as in the sweet and flowery month of June, the month of roses. We have had a late season this year, and it has been rather tedious, watching and waiting for the beauties of June to unfold. But now June is dressed in all attractive beauties of nature and trees, shrubs and vegetation of all kinds are showing their new, fresh spring suits, and the birds are flitting through the air, and evidently enjoying it all, if one may judge by their sweet caroling as they flit from branch to branch, looking for a cosy place to build a home.

"Oh, it's so hard to wait
For beauty pictured in the heart,
A longed-for pleasure's ever late—
And those of Nature more than Art."

Best wishes to all.

PALMLEAF (Oct. 7.)

TRIPE CROQUETTES.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: In looking over the roll call last Saturday I saw my name, so will answer Present! I have not been a very active member but will try and wake up. Will send a recipe that may be new to someone. I call it tripe croquettes. In these days of high prices of meat it helps out::

Tripe Croquettes: Boil one pound of tripe one-half hour to get the sour out of it, then pat it in a cloth to get the water out of it, then put it through the meat chopper. It makes about two cups full. Then put enough crackers through to make the same quantity as there is of tripe, add one beaten egg, salt and pepper to taste, a piece of butter size of a walnut, mix thoroughly, form little cakes and brown in butter or drippings.

Rural Aunty: I will send you some patchwork patterns if you will send me your address. If this escapes the waste basket I will come again.

ELECTA.

SERVING COMPANY

Dear Corner Sisters: It is usually hard at this time of year for us in the country to know what to cook, and when an auto load of unexpected company arrives for the day we are in a quandary. Most of us have fowls we can share, but it takes quite a bit of time to get it from the block to the table, and when there are babies to run after, too, and all the other things required of a good hostess, chicken for dinner is out of the question. It seems that canned goods is the only solution to the problem. Before I began keeping house I thought I knew how to cook, but when I found there was no butcher, fish peddler nor grocer calling several days a week, as was the custom at home, I found that necessity was indeed the "mother of invention," and I was very frequently at a loss to know what to serve.

Give me an egg, a slice of bacon, potatoes, a small onion and a little flour and I will make you a fancy dish now. But although I had all these and more on hand I shall never forget a most trying experience that I managed to live through shortly after my marriage. For some reason or other, whether due to the new stove, new tins, etc., or just new environment and unrelenting pangs of homesickness, practically everything I cooked for some time was well baptized with tears and sacrificed to the hens. Just at the height of my discouragement a couple of my husband's friends called. It was nearly supper time but as they said they must catch the next trolley I resolved to forget supper and just try to make them feel welcome. Just as they were about to leave in comes friend husband and invites them to stay to supper. Indeed, he insisted upon their staying. With the promise of being driven to the trolley-in time they were persuaded to remain. I went to my cupboard. There was one huge boiled beet that I had intended making into a salad but there was no dressing. There was half a loaf of soggy bread, quarter of a stale cake and one egg. I had some tea, but my milk had tuned sour. I survived, but that meal was a nightmare for months. I had wanted so badly to make a good impression. I didn't know enough to toast or French fry my bread nor make a hot chocolate or lemon sauce to pour over the cake. My cooking became normal after a while and I learned canning and now I do not mean to get caught without several jars of my own canning in the cellar and canned fish and the like in my cupboard. I am not afraid to attempt biscuits or muffins as I was then.

Perhaps though greater than all I have learned that it is not always what you place before your guests but the hospitality and smile that really counts. How many times do we say, "Oh, if I had only known you were coming!" And if we had, we'd have been all fussed up and tired out and couldn't enjoy the callers at all.

We always take our own lunch wherever we go and we know that most anything tastes good after a long auto ride. If our hostess wishes to make us a hot drink and have us sample her cake we do so providing she is willing to sample our lunch, and I find most of my friends are as ready to taste food cooked by other hands as I am, and by sharing our lunch I do not feel that we are imposing on the other fellows as I should if they got up a fine dinner and tired themselves waiting on us.

How many times have we heard the expression, "I have not a thing fit to eat!" There is a story told of George Washington emphasizing his love for truth. He was invited to dine at the home of a woman who was noted for setting an excellent table. About as soon as he was seated at the bountiful spread the hostess began, "If I could only have had something better for you. I know this or that or the other isn't just right," etc., etc. Whereupon Washington pushed back his chair and rising said, "Madame, you have known for a week that I was to be your guest tonight. If that is not sufficient time in which to prepare a meal you think suitable for me, kindly let me know, now much time you do require."

It is so foolish for us to run down our own cooking. If we do so to search for compliments, let the appetite of our guests and the way they go at their food tell us if they think it good. A great many times the unexpected happens in other homes as well as ours. Cordial hospitality doesn't mean giving the unexpected guest your very best nowadays. Cheerful sharing of what your circumstances will allow will make your company feel more at ease. If you planned mush and milk for supper, serve mush and milk, but serve it with joking and laughter; let your guests feel they are truly welcome. Only a snob will hang back, and you don't want such people for your friends, anyways.

The plainest food with a dash of some special seasoning will always taste good. I am reminded of the story of the darkey who was cook at a club. He was being praised about the flavor of his hash. When asked how he made it, he replied. "Tatahs, dey am nothin'; beef, dat am nothin'; onions, salt, pepper, dem am nothin', but when I puts mahself into the hash, dat am the recipe."

Come to Club No. 2 on the 26th and taste our "hash."

DON'T WORRY (Sept. 26).

BLACK HILL

Dear Sisters: When I read the letter by E. L. M. last week where she tells us about her trip through Canterbury Green and mentions the beautiful hill bordered with trees, which does, indeed, lead to Central Village, I concluded not to wait for the roll call but to write now, for I have been up and down Black hill, as it has always been called, as long as far back as I have heard, a good many times. I think it is about a mile of gradual ascent, and the view on the side where the Quinebaug river winds along is so fine that I often wished I was an artist and wonder that nobody has ever made a picture of it. Perhaps someone has, but I never heard of any. I believe the trees are all, or nearly all, maples which are a quick growing shade tree and were set there because the long hill climb was so hot in summer, exposed to the blazing sun, and it makes a beautiful and picturesque road. Canterbury Green is a pleasant place, too, especially in summer.

Sister Delight wonders if she knows Iola, and Iola also wonders if she knows Delight. You may have gone to school there before or since I did, but I have known or known of most of the people about Westminster till within a few years. Now they are nearly all strangers. I used to live on the road leading to Hampton about a half mile or so from the church, in a large white house now torn down. Does that give you any clue? I am always glad to find old acquaintances and those who know the same places that I do.

Best wishes.

IOLA.

ANSWERED ANOTHER ROLL CALL OVER YEAR AGO.

Dear Social Corner Editor: As the roll call included Blue Bells of Scotland or Blue Bells I will answer for him. He passed to the higher life and loved ones March 14th, 1923. He was an ardent lover of the Corner page, and after he became blind, many times until the last, he wanted me to read him the treasured Corner letters and cards he had received, which were many from Rural Delivery. They were so cheery. As soon as the paper came he wanted to have the Corner letters read to him. He enjoyed so much, even if he could not talk with the writers. There were also the kind words of Aunt Abby. How we did miss her when she answered the roll call of God.

Best wishes to the Corner.

L. T. H.

IF NAMES ARE MISSED, MENTION IT.

Dear Social Corner Members: As my name appeared among the first of the roll call, I will respond, although late. That isn't like me at all, for I never like to be late anywhere—I'm usually on hand early. But like Calla Lily I bob in and out during the year, so do my bit to help fill up the page. I enjoy the roll call very much and am going to paste the names in a blank book large enough to follow out with each address as I get them. I have a goodly number now. In reading over the list I can easily see where one or more names belong to the same person. I think it's a good plan for the owner of such names to come forward and acknowledge it and in that way avoid confusion. I can also see several that have passed on to their reward, and miss some that should be in the list, but for some reason are not there. I think it a good plan if a member fails to see her name in the list, she should notify the editor and send him both pen-name and full address, and he can correct the mistake. We all find it hard work to take care of minor duties without making more or less mistakes, and what would we do with 1,000 or 2,000 names to record alphabetically, besides other duties. Let us do our part to help him in his good work. We know he doesn't mean to leave anyone out.

Rock Moss: I'm a long time answering your question, but, like a true Yankee, will answer by asking another. Is the rock moss something the doctor can use professionally? As ever,

AUNTY NO. 1.

GREETINGS FROM FLEUR DE LIS.

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: As the name of Fleur De Lis is called, I will answer Present! but it has been a long time since I sent a letter to the Corner. A serious injury kept me from writing letters of any kind for a long time, then came changes and sickness until I thought it was the last of Fleur De Lis' letters as I had been so long absent, but as my name is still on the roll will try and be more social. I saw in a Corner letter where a hard corn was still causing trouble. I cured two on a patient using Dodd's Kidney Pills. Apply with cotton three nights, then soak in warm water and corn came out. Also cured soft corns same way. And Baume Bengue applied with cotton removes soreness from corn and it peels out.

Balsam Fir: Was glad to read your letter in last paper. How I would like to see those wild ducks and ducklings. When a child I used to watch them for hours.

Aunt Sarah: Many thanks for the way to keep lemons fresh.

Where is Merry Widow? I met you at a Corner picnic several years ago.

Doctor: I like your letters; wish they appeared oftener, or are you like myself, so interested in the other letters you don't take time to write? Where is Jim, and his pumpkin pies? Also Ready and her woodbox?

Anna Mel: I am glad there are others who like the dear flowers, and find so much cheer and happiness in them beside oneself. I can find a bouquet in the middle of winter even if nor of flowers that give their delicate shades as in summer. It is handsome, and pine and spruce mixed with berries and vines look cheery to us in a cold, hard storm.

Calla Lily: Your letters are so nice and you certainly have the club well instructed so no wonder we all like to hear from the Buckingham dinners.

Golden Glow: Best wishes, hope to [illegible]

Best wishes to the Corner and editor.

FLEUR DE LIS

BLACK HILL

Dear Social Corner Friends: I noticed our sister asks about the big hill between Canterbury and Central Village, and if it has a name. I was told that was Black hill, and in the first days of motor cars was a trial ground. One can just picture those queer looking automobiles chug-ging up that first steep grade, then come [illegible]

STANDARD CAKE RECIPE.

Dear Corner Sisters: Measure 1 1-4 cups of sugar and place on plate. Place in mixing bowl one-half cup of butter. Cream until like fresh churned butter, then add the sugar slowly, creaming in each portion before adding more. After creaming in the sugar add two eggs, first drop in one egg and beat it well, then drop in the second egg and beat again. Now add 2 3-4 cups flour 2 level tablespoons of baking powder, 3-4 cup of milk, one teaspoon flavoring of choice. Beat to a smooth batter.

Now for a raisin loaf cake, place 2-3 of the batter in pan and spread over this about 1-2 cup of raisins. Then place in the balance of the batter and spread 1-4 cup of raisins over the top, pushing the raisins just so they will take hold of the batter. Bake in moderate oven 45 minutes.

For a form cake, add to the batter grated rind of 1-2 lemon, 1-4 teaspoon nutmeg. Turn in well greased and floured pan that has a tube in the center and bake 45 minutes in moderate oven.

Use one cup chopped nuts chopped fine in the same manner as directed for raisin cake. One cup of finely chopped cocoanut can be used in place of nuts; 3-4 cup equal parts of candied citron and crystalized ginger cut in bits for citron cake and bake as directed.

This mixture makes two nice layers. Turn into well greased and floured deep layer cake pans and bake in hot oven 25 minutes.

You can make any desired filling and ice cake with icing.

THE HISTORY OF THE CORNER

Dear Corner Friends: The yellow slip was received with surprise and a thankful spirit.

I think we are all enjoying the roll call and the responses from so many different writers. It is a long time since we have seen some of the names on the page, and we hope as they have been awakened to their duty to the Corner they won't lapse into silence again as in the past.

I see Pedestrian is asking for a history of the Corner. She must be a new arrival as the history is frequently alluded to in these columns and quite recently was given, but I will again repeat for her benefit: Early in the year 1910 a notice, large enough to attract attention, was printed in The Bulletin offering "three prizes monthly for letters designated to be short and gossipy upon the affairs of home and household, domestic perplexities, family problems, recipes, home arts, flowers, etc., etc." The editor said: "This is everybody's Corner who has a helpful word of any sort to say." And the outcome of this notice appeared on March 5, 1910, with a page containing six letters written by Aunt Sally, J. I. C., L. M. Bach, Kitty Catnip, Rural Delivery, and Mrs. Cheerful Farmer.

The next week there were nine letters from other writers, one of which was Joan, and since then a few of the first writers have been faithful in establishing and maintaining the page up to the present time. Scores have dropped out and scores of new names have appeared.

The beginning of our social times, when we first found our "Who was who," was when we accepted the invitation of Married and Happy to meet at her cottage on the camp ground, Willimantic, on Oct. 12, 1912. Beside our hostess, there were Aunt Mercie, Samantha [illegible] Aunty, Polly [illegible] Betsy Bobbet [illegible] Ready [illegible] there for sure. Samantha wore a yellow chrysanthemum and later that was the inspiration that created the yellow bow as our means of recognition. For some time, both in W. Willimantic and Norwich, social gatherings were held at the homes of the members as there were from six to eight to twenty that attended these very first meetings until the membership rapidly increased to as many as fifty and more; and now, Pedestrian, no unusual thing to have one hundred come to the regular monthly meetings. Hope you will come to the annual reunion and see what a wonderful membership we have.

Delilah Deal: You mentioned that have answered the roll call. When I have more time, will tell of 37.

There are two names on the last page you can cross off—Frank and Filbry. So glad to see Bee's name again. I used to like your letters and have missed the name, and for you benefit will say your first letter appeared Jan. 14, 1911, entitled "Three Meals from Chicken."

Rural Aunty: Would much enjoy being at your gathering, but work too pressing to take in two pen this week.

Lover of Pets: Your letter did not appear as soon as you [illegible] ing been printed the first Saturday May, 1910.

If any notice the names of those who have passed away, will mention them. It will help those who are keeping records.

MAKING PERFUMES

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Aside from answering to one name I feel I must write and thank the sisters for their [illegible] lovely surprise plate [illegible] realize more than ever what little acts of kindness mean to one who is housed in. Mother has been very sick but is now able to get from the bed to a chair, with help. I do not have much time to write and mother is not able, but we want you to know we are thinking of you and read the Corner every week and [illegible] is one of [illegible] I [illegible] now of the sisters [illegible] would like to [illegible] after your flowers [illegible] have the odor you love. As you experiment you will be surprised how your interest [illegible] I am sure [illegible] than one [illegible] try this [illegible] the [illegible] use from [illegible] is still on [illegible] have the best of luck.

FRECKLES

JOLLY BOYS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: In response to the roll call will answer Present! although two weeks late. I do not remember seeing the recipe for Jolly Boys among the many in the Corner, but if so hope you will pardon me. I am sending along just the same as they are very nice:

Jolly Boys: Sift thoroughly 2 1-2 heaping tablespoons of yellow cornmeal, two heaping tablespoons of flour, one of sugar, one saltspoon of salt, and one teaspoon of baking powder. Beat one egg and add to the dry mixture with enough milk to make a drop batter. Stir in quickly 1-2 teaspoon of melted butter. Beat well and drop by teaspoonful into smoking hot lard.

CURT

CREAMED ASPARAGUS SOUP

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Aside from answering to one name I feel I must write and thank the sisters for their [illegible] lovely surprise plate [illegible] realize more than ever what little acts of kindness mean to one who is housed in. Mother has been very sick but is now able to get from the bed to a chair, with help. I do not have much time to write and mother is not able, but we want you to know we are thinking of you and read the Corner every week and [illegible] is one of [illegible] I got a bunch of asparagus that had almost gone to seed. It was wilted and the lower part was hard, a neighbor said to make creamed asparagus soup, so I cut it into inch-pieces, boiled slowly one hour and strained. I had a large cup of liquid. To this I added one-half cup of warm top milk, butter the size of a walnut, salt and pepper, some tiny oyster crackers and put on to boil in cold water.

Try it, and then make your remarks.

J. E. T.

ONCE IMAGINARY, NOW REAL

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: Will say Present! to the roll call. I joined the Social Corner in its infancy when the identity of the writers was a secret.

Wish we could have a response from the old writers, and also all the new members at the roll call.

Am sending an account of a Social

STATE POLICE HEARD NOTHING ABOUT ATTEMPTED ASSAULT ON GROTON GIRL

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, Conn., June 20 — A Groton girl had a most unpleasant experience last night and if the story she relates is true the authorities of that town should cause an investigation to be made, although no such steps had been taken this afternoon.

According to the girl, she was on Thames street, near the Hotel Griswold when she was approached by an autoist, who engaged her in conversation. Finally the autoist seized the girl and forced her into the automobile, after which the car was driven away. A short time later the girl appeared at the residence of I. E. Crouch in the vicinity of Center Groton and asked for aid, declaring that she had been [illegible] assault [illegible] abandon[illegible] Crouch informed Sch[illegible] the [illegible] in the [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

WESTMINSTER

... ic topic for the home prayer ser... June 25 is The Holy Spirit as ... cher. Scripture, St. John 14:

... P Attendance at the W. C. T. U. held at the Hadley home, Wednesday ... st, was good and would have been ... and the town graduation been ... other evening. The secre... Mrs. Martin Bushnell, was out ... at the graduation of two granddaughters and a number of others were absent to attend the local graduation. The medical-temperance ... Wareham, Mrs. S. R. Hadley, local superintendent, was entertaining and instructive. As it was also Flower Mission Day in the W. C. T. U., the members contributed blossoms and made bouquets; later given sick, shut-ins and invalids of the place.

The item, "Mrs. L. E. Lewis of Willimantic was a visitor on Westminster Hill, Sunday, June 8" was sent and accidentally omitted last week.

Most of the schools closed last week, with a more or less elaborate program and a picnic.

Raymond picnic was held on the Nichols place, long ago known as the Old Camp Ground, and provided a chance for swimming among other sports.

Gayhead had a large number of guests at their picnic program, among these Mr. and Mrs. Alve Olsen, married in New York May 31st. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Olaf Hansen, of Canterbury Plains.

The closing picnic program of Westminster Hill consisted of folk-dancing, a Mother Goose Health play, in which all the pupils had parts and acquitted themselves with credit, and a feast of sandwiches, ice cream, cake and lemonade. Among the guests were Mrs. Parmelia and Mrs. Fred Lachapelle, Mrs. George Coombs, Mrs. Hivan and daughter and girl friend, all from Gayhead district, and parents and friends of pupils of the local school. Miss Kimball went home Saturday. She will return next fall to teach Gayhead school, continuing to board at the Lachapelle's, just opposite, where she has made her school home for several years.

Sometimes errors are made in items in printing them, as was the case this spring when substituting "with" for "near" made two families live together, to their mutual distress, though they are friends. Two other items were incorrect lately, through misinformation given the reporter. That concerning the markers in the Spicer private cemetery was corrected in The Bulletin of June 2. The other item was the sale of the former Medbury place. It is still the Bunz property and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bakanan of New York have been staying with them while looking for a place in this region. Frank Jr., being a Westminster Hill pupil.

Mrs. Ida Shorter and Mrs. Mary Walsh have returned from vacations spent in Brooklyn, N. Y., and vicinity and in North Windham.

Mr. John Inglis and family were guests Sunday of his daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pellett.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. MacLeod and two older sons were Jewett City guests early this week.

LAUREL GLEN

Mrs. Attaway Main is the guest of her brothers, Ernon and Charles Holdredge of Providence, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Gladfellow and Bourden Geer attended a social at the Palmer Brown house, on Pendleton Hill, Saturday evening.

Fred Main of Wakefield, R. I., called on his brother, W. L. Main, Sunday.

Mrs. John Geer entertained Mrs. Raymond Gould of Westerly, last Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Newel Smith spent the week-end with Mrs. Phoebe White.

Arthur St. Clair, 22 years old, of Berlin was drowned off Momauguin beach, East Haven, when his canoe was overturned

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

The week in Norwich fifty years ago was an unusually quiet one. The two principal happenings of the week were a visit from the committee on cities and boroughs of the state legislature and a trotting event at the fair grounds. Interesting items taken from the files of The Bulletin of June, 1874, are as follows:

Monday, June 15, 1874—Edward Collins of Fayetteville, N. Y., and formerly a member of the Norwich Free Academy, is spending a few days in town. He is now engaged in the manufacturing business in his native state.

Columbian commandery, No. 4, K. T., have engaged Tubbs' band to go with them to Worcester on the 25th. The commandery will leave here on special train at about 2.30 o'clock.

THE SOCIAL CORNER SKY-RIDE TO MAINE

By SHUT-IN.

How kind everyone is at a poor shut-in. Now, that is what I call goods. And such social people.

[illegible] Maine. I was feeling a little blue over the thoughts that all the sisters and brothers, aunts and uncles, and other guests who were going to be there, but now was I going, when I heard a dreadful clatter. I thought [illegible] jump in, Miss Shut-in.

I did not stop to think how strange, but, thanking the Lords of the air for being so good to me, I embarked.

[illegible] But by this time other sisters and brothers [illegible] others.

SOME GOOD RECIPES

Dear Social Corner: I will answer the roll call.

E. L. M.: I think you mean Black Hill. It is a very pretty drive over that hill. I used to live in Canterbury.

Onions: Peel eight medium onions, put in a saucepan and cover with boiling water, cook 30 minutes, drain, cover with milk and cook 30 minutes longer. Make a cream sauce of 2 tablespoons of butter, 2 tablespoons of flour and 1 cup of milk, season with salt and pepper, pour it on the dish so as not to disturb the crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven 25 minutes.

Stuffed Peppers: Cut the top from six sweet green peppers and carefully remove the seeds. Parboil the peppers and bake about 30 minutes, pouring a little water around the peppers. These are also good stuffed with rice and cheese or corned beef or ham [illegible]

ANNOUNCEMENTS

PALACE THEATRE

Continous today 1:30 to 10:30. Last times today double feature program, Ben Alexander, Henry Wathall and Irene Rich in Boy of Mine, Pola Negri in Gipsey Blood and round 12 Fighting Blood showing the Firpo-Dempsey bout duplicated.

Four days starting Sunday night June 22 at 7 p. m. standard time matinee daily thereafter 2.15 evenings 7 to 10:30 D. S. T.

An exceptional film event is offered local patrons of the silver screen in the announcement of the coming of Tiger Rose at the Palace theatre as the feature attraction.

Patterned after the Belasco play that scored the most successful run of any on Broadway, starring Lenore Ulric, the actress who created the title role on the stage, and who achieved such fame and popularity in her latest hit, Kiki; backed by David Belasco, whose endorsement it bears; produced by Warner Brothers, directed by Sidney Franklin, the photoplay presents a combination hard to equal anywhere.

Supporting Lenore Ulric are the following: Forrest Stanly Joseph Dowling, Andre De Beranger, Sam De Grasse and Theodore Von Eltz.

Special added attractions, Educational, Aesops Fables, The Spat, Family in their new two reel comedy riot, Darkest Hour.

Special Musical presentation by the unusual Sunday night Palace augmented orchestra, Overture Pique Xame by Suppe.

BREED THEATRE

Mae Murray, for whom such adjectives as beautiful, dazzling, bizarre and bewitching seem to have been expressly originated, is determined to give something entirely different and unexpected in every picture she makes. "Mademoiselle Midnight," coming to the Breed theatre for three days starting Sunday night, which her husband, Robert Z. Leonard, directed, is just as different from "Fashion Row" as the latter is from her previous pictures.

In "Mademoiselle Midnight" Miss Murray plays the part of a great lady of the court of Napoleon the Third, and then the descendant of the same character in Mexico [illegible] Both these roles lend [illegible] colorful characterizations [illegible] Miss Murray is [illegible] the [illegible] or evil, [illegible] to be and most originally dressed star. "Mademoiselle Midnight" gives her every opportunity to take advantage of [illegible] the picturesque [illegible] their quaint eighteenth [illegible] Miss Murray was never more beautiful and charming.

In the many costumes, dresses, gowns and shawls she wears in the old Mexico episodes of the story Miss [illegible] presents one of the most colorful characters of her career.

A [illegible] comedy and [illegible] the News completes the program.

"What if he did kill the man—he deserved killing." So Tiger Rose argues for Bruce Norton, her sweetheart, but with an argument more effective that a merely verbal one. In this screen adaptation of the famous play which made her famous on Broadway, Lenore Ulric runs the gamut of human emotion, giving an interpretation truly sublime.

Broadway Theatre.

Men, Poli Negri's new Paramount picture, written and directed by the Russian producer, Dimitri Buchowetzki, will be shown for the first time in Norwich at the Broadway theatre tomorrow. It's a great dramatic story [illegible] a tale of love and [illegible]

[illegible] the role of Cleo, waitress [illegible] front cafe in Marseilles. And what a role it is! Here's the Pola of the old European producers, the Pola of Passion and the rest. Pola in a picture that is going to make the screen world sit up and take notice—take a new interest in life. Here's Pola in her greatest role in a story with a happy ending.

[illegible] Shadows of Paris and [illegible] American made Negri picture [illegible] even begin to compare [illegible] You never saw such a vital, dashing Pola before in your life. Paramount claims Buchowetzki wrote the story some time ago, ten years to be exact, with Pola Negri in mind for the starring role and that time after time the occasion presented itself to picturize the story with another star. But Buchowetzki waited. We'll admit it was worth waiting for.

Robert Frazer has the leading man's role opposite the star. Robert Edeson and Joseph Swickard also have important parts. Others in the strong supporting cast of the production include Monti Collins, Gino Corrado and Edgar Norton. Paul Bern, who wrote the scenario for Ernst Lubitsch's The Marriage Circle, made the adaptation. Alvin Wyckoff handled the photography.

The picture will continue through Wednesday with a Jack White Mermaid [illegible] and a Kinograms [illegible]

Private Peat

[illegible] internationally known [illegible] Canadian [illegible] to the people at Chautauqua [illegible] lecture, "The Inevitable Lie," a stirring appeal for [illegible] understanding, peace and [illegible] among the nations.

In his frank, challenging address "The Inexcusable Lie," Private Peat brings out the facts that from a child's earliest period of perception and understanding he is taught, quite unconsciously by his elders, to fight. Many of his playthings and his childish games foster the love of battle. School books, and other books of childhood, glorify war, dwell at length on its thrill and conquests, but show none of its terrible consequences. Private Peat's plea to the people is so to present history during the impressionable years of childhood and youth that war will be stripped of its illusions, and national animosities will be averted. In this manner only can we prepare the way for better international relations and a more stable peace, he states.

Private Peat has toured the world. He has lectured in Australia, New Zealand, the British West Indies; has visited South America, England, France, Germany and other European countries, and has now returned to the United States to resume his place on the lecture platform.

His great lecture, inspired by a desire to help prevent further world catastrophies and to bring peace and good will to nations, should be heard by every man, woman, youth and child.

At the Chautauqua Saturday evening, June 28.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS UNSETTLED.

New York, June 20.—Uneven price movements characterized today's stock market which witnessed new 1924 high and low records being established simultaneously in different sections of the list, but net gains exceeded net losses at the close. Strength of public utilities and industrial specialties was one of the outstanding developments of the day's trading, which again fell short of the million share mark.

Bullish demonstrations in the American Water Works issues was one of the day's features, the common being run up 11 3-4 points to a new peak for the year at 88 1-2, and then slipping back to 85 1-2. The six per cent. preferred closed 7 1-2 points higher at 94 after having touched 95 3-4. West Penn Power, a subsidiary, closed at 65 1-4 for a net gain of 3-4.

Recent accumulation of the public utilities has been based on a progressive increase in earnings by most of the larger companies. Other stocks in this group which developed marked strength included United Railways investment preferred, Montana Power and Virginia Railway & Power, all up 2 1-2 points or more.

Good buying again cropped out in the rails, which were featured by a point gain in Erie common to 29 1-4, the highest price since 1917. Southern Railway touched 60 3-4, the highest in all time, while Southern Pacific and Pittsburg & West Virginia sold at their highest prices of the year.

With the exception of Baldwin, which showed a nominal gain, all the so-called pivotal stocks closed slightly lower. U. S. Steel common again failing below 97.

Strength of a number of the industrial specialties suggested pool operations. Schulte Stores was pushed up more than four points to 116 1-2, the year's best price, on reports that negotiations had been resumed for a lease of the United Cigar Stores by that company. Mathieson Alkali was bid up vigorously on rumors that contracts for its new refining process had been placed with some of the largest oil companies. Other individual strong points included American Ice, Houston Oil, International Business Machines, National Lead, Park & Tilford and Iron Products, all up about two to four points.

Atlantic Refining recovered two points of its recent loss but the other oils were inclined to heaviness on reports that the department of justice was ready to consider the federal trade commission's allegations of profiteering in gasoline. Kelly-Springfield common touched another extreme low record at 9 3-4, but the other rubbers held relatively firm in the face of further price cuts. Colorado Fuel, General Electric, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe and Davison Chemical fell back on realizing.

Call money renewed at 2 per cent. for the ninth successive day, holding at that figure on the stock exchange although "outside loans" were again reported at 1 1-2 and 1 3-4. Time money was slightly easier, loans up to ninety days being available at 3 per cent., while the longer dates ranged from 3 1-4 to 3 3-4. Commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges held firm in featureless trading. Demand sterling ruled slightly above $4.33 and French francs were again quoted around 6 3-8c. Brazilian milreis jumped about 30 points to 11c on talk of new financing.

BOND MARKET.

New York, June 20.—Revival of activity in bond trading in which foreign obligations figured conspicuously today carried prices into higher ground. Total sales, swelled by large buying orders for various European and South American loans, approximated $20,000,000.

Strength of Argentine 6s which reached a new high price of 93 1-4 on their current recovery, was accompanied by reports that the government would take advantage of the present favorable market to do additional financing. Part of today's buying which came in large volume, was said to have been inspired by the fact that bonds had been lagging behind other foreign descriptions.

French governmental and municipal bonds rallied smartly today, while Austrian, Belgian and Serbian issues also were in demand at higher prices. Brazil Central Railway is reached a new 1924 high price at 57 3-4. With the domestic list swept fairly clean of high yielding obligations, expanding operations in the foreign list were said to represent the search of buyers for the most attractive investments, and also to foreshadow a larger volume of foreign financing.

The private sale of $18,000,000 Chesapeake & Ohio 5 per cent. equipment bonds and $10,000,000 Rock Island 5 per cent. notes today measured the investment appetite for railroad liens. Prices of listed railroad securities improved moderately. International Great Northern adjustments recovering as the Gulf Coast Lines' option to purchase the road was exercised.

Bankers are offering $9,000,000 Detroit United Railway 6s at 95, to yield approximately 6.24 per cent.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, June 20.—Wheat averaged lower in price today, but was rallying at the last. Wo[illegible] Winnipeg [illegible] and the breaking of the hot wave in the southwest. Wheat closing quotations here were unsettled at 1-4c net lower to 5-8c advance, July $1.14 5-8 to $1.14 3-4 and September $1.16 3-8 to $1.16 1-2, with corn 1-4c off to 1 1-2c gain, oats a shade to 1 1-4c up and provisions showing 2c to 5@7c drop.

With lower temperatures and rains in the southwest and with Liverpool quotations down, the wheat market here underwent a material setback early, then rallied to a little above yesterday's finish, and later fluctuated nervous within the present range. Much of the demand on the declines came from new buyers, who apparently acted on opinions that the bearish reaction had gone far enough. On the other hand, crop reports from the spring wheat territory were favorable, and the harvest of the winter crop was making progress in Kansas as well as in Oklahoma and Texas.

Estimates were current that 1,000,000 bushels of wheat for shipment to Europe had been purchased at Winnipeg. There also was considerable replacement of speculative lines here which had been sold out at recent higher figures. Reports, however, that a big combination of elevator interests had been effected was an unsettling influence as the day came to an end.

Signs of expansion of shipping demand here for corn brought about higher prices for July and September deliveries, but better weather conditions eased December. The east was said to be after oats.

Commission house selling weakened provisions, lard in particular.

CURB MARKET.

New York, June 20.—Strength of the public utilities and a select list of industrials specialties featured today's irregular curb market. Oils were inclined to heaviness on unofficial reports of a federal investigation of alleged profiteering in gasoline but most of the losses in that group were limited to fractions. New Mexico & Arizona Land which is controlled by the Frisco Railroad, was again active on reports of intensive development work in that section of the country.

A jump of 8 1-2 points in Appalachian Power featured the public utilities, other strong spots in which were American Gas & Electric, American Power and Light, Commonwealth Power, Lehigh Power Securities and United Light and Power "A," the net gains ranging from one to four and a half points.

National Tea continued its sensational climb, moving up 7 points to a new high at 193. Lehigh Valley Coal certificates were again active, closing 1 1-4 points higher at 36. Checker Cab broke 3 3-4 points and some of the other motors yielded fractionally. Centrifugal Cast Iron Pipe touched 21 and then fell back to 12 3-4.

Bonds were again active with buying power most effective in the public utility liens.

VOLUNTOWN

On Thursday evening, June 12, the graduation exercises of the Voluntown schools were held in Union hall which proved too small to hold the gathering of parents and friends of the school children. The hall was very prettily decorated with streamers of blue and gold, the class colors, the stage being banked with flowers, while suspended above the stage was the class motto, "Now or Never!" The exercises opened with ... children marching to ... tunes to the strains of an inspiring march played by an orchestra of eight pieces, consisting of local and visiting musicians. The graduating class, bringing up the rear, marched under an arch of streamers composed of the class colors and were seated on the stage. The exercises were of merit and reflected great credit on the teachers who trained them, Mrs. Mary Peckham, Miss Margaret Tanner, Miss Sadie Walsh and Miss Glidden.

The following program was carried out: Selections, The Trail to Long Ago, Wonderland of Dreams, orchestra; march, The Suburbanite March, orchestra; song, Joys of Spring, chorus; welcome address, Fred L. Congdon; essay, Air, Rosario J. Russo; essay, Wheat, Lloyd C. Barber; piano duet, Arthur and Janne Russi; essay, The Planets, Floyd T. NOTICE

TO ALL PERSONS WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

You will take notice that at an adjourned regular meeting of the Court of Common Council of the City of Norwich, Connecticut, held Friday, June 13th, 1924, the following proposition and resolution was submitted to said Court of Common Council, to wit:

"Resolved, That there be and out and established as an addition to and enlargement of the park of the City of Norwich known as "Mohegan Park, the land located in the Town of Norwich, State of Connecticut, recently acquired by the City of Norwich from Rowland D. Hill under an indenture between him and said city made the 18th day of September, 1923, recorded in the Norwich Land Records, Vol. 170, Page 149, and ratified and confirmed by a meeting of said city held March 3rd, 1924, which land is bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a bar post on the southerly line of the Ox Hill road 432 feet westerly from the center of a brook that runs southerly into the lake in Mohegan Park, which post is the northwesterly corner of the land conveyed by Angelina W. Hill to Edward, Charles and George Laskowski by deed dated May 21, 1921, and recorded in the Norwich Land Records, Book 161, Page 170, and running southwesterly about 1430 feet to other land of the City of Norwich at the point on the northwesterly boundary line of Mohegan Park as now laid out where it is intersected by the northeastern side of the Sachem Plain road bounding northwesterly on said land conveyed to said Laskowskis; thence northeasterly, northerly and northwesterly to the Ox Hill road abutting southeasterly, easterly and northeasterly on other land of the City of Norwich known as Mohegan Park; thence westerly to the place of beginning abutting northerly on Ox Hill road."

And that in accordance with the provisions of an ordiance relating to parks adopted June 1st, 1906, said Court of Common Council postponed action on said proposition and resolution set forth until the regular meeting of the Court of Common Council of the City of Norwich to be held Monday evening, July 7th, 1924, at 7 o'clock p. m. (standard time) in the Council Chamber in said City at which time and place a public hearing will be given on said resolution and proposition by said Court of Common Council.

NORWICH TOWN

Miss Mary O'Sullivan, who for several weeks has been substituting in the senior room at the West Town street school, presided over the grading exercises at this school, Thursday afternoon.

The principal of the school, Miss [illegible] has been detained at home during this period, because of the serious illness of her sister, Mrs. Gilbert Gray, of Vergason ville. Mrs. Gray, who has been confined to her bed since May 25th, is still is very weak from the effects of bronchial pneumonia and was reported Friday to be comfortable, having had the best day Thursday, since her illness. Mrs. Gray has been devotedly cared for by her sister, who has rendered every possible attention in the sick room.

Having passed several days this week in Massachusetts, on a business trip, Rev. and Mrs. James B. Aldrich have returned to the Methodist parsonage on West Town street.

It has finally been decided to call off the Children's day concert of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday school, owing to the prevailing contagious illness of some of the participants.

A very fine programme had been arranged and rehearsals had taken place weekly among the members of the choir, when it was frequently found that one after another was absent from the effect. The concert will be held some week and it is expected that the program will be carried out on Sunday evening, but it has been cancelled.

SALVATION ARMY CAMPAIGN HAS REACHED $2,221.03

The total Friday night in the Salvation Army campaign stood at $2,221.03. Chairman George A. Finn having received encouraging reports from several of the captains and their lieutenants is feeling particularly happy. But nevertheless it will mean a strenuous effort to reach the goal of $5,000 and all workers have been urged to complete their canvass without further delay.

Today (Saturday) is Tag Day, with Mrs. Learned as commander-in-chief and an objective of $1,000. In addition to a number of splendid young women who have promised to do the flagging on the streets of the city, Salvation Army workers from Willimantic, Bridgeport and the local post will be in evidence. It should be a big day for the Salvation Army.

Members of the Nemrod Grotto, serenading the Yale and Harvard crews Thursday night, remembered to drive and came across with a collection of $21.50.

Employes of the Carpenter Mfg. company turned in $35.45 and $12 more from friends at the Turner & Seaton company.

STRUCK THREE AT ONCE ON BOSWELL AVENUE

Claiming that he was blinded by lights of an approaching machine as he was driving a motor truck Friday night on Boswell avenue, near the Glenmoor north of the cemetery, Leo Leonard of 445 1-2 Main street, ran into three men who were walking in the road, injuring two of them so that they were taken to the Backus hospital for treatment.

The three men hit were Charles Gudeahn, Joe Shea and Gudeahn's brother, all of Greeneville. Attorney W. P. A. Quinn, who was on his way home in Versailles at the time of the crash, stopped his machine and took the three men to the Backus hospital with Leonard. Charles Gudeahn, who was knocked onto the trolley track and probably run over by Leonard's machine, had several bad lacerations of the face and scalp. He remained at the hospital over night. Shea, who also was knocked down, had minor scratches and bruises and Gudeahn's brother, who was knocked off to one side by the machine, did not require medical attention.

Capt. D. J. Twomey, to whom Leonard reported the accident, summoned him to appear in the city court in the morning.

ODD FELLOWS, ATTENTION!

ALL MEMBERS OF UNCAS AND SHETUCKET LODGES ARE REQUESTED TO MEET AT THEIR HALL, MAIN STREET, SUNDAY, JUNE 22nd, AT 10 A. M., D. S. T., AND PROCEED IN A BODY TO TRINITY M. E. CHURCH FOR MEMORIAL SERVICES.

GIVES JUDGMENT FOR CARROLL TO RECOVER SALE COMMISSION

Judge John R. Booth in the superior court here Friday handed down a decision for George W. Carroll of this city to recover from the Shetucket Co., a commission of $5,250 for his services as agent in the sale of the mill property on North Main street to the Atlantic Carton Corporation.

Mr. Carroll sued for a 5 per cent. commission amounting to $8,750 on the sale price of $175,000, but Judge Booth finds that he is entitled to a commission at the rate of 3 per cent., which with interest amounts to $5,357.63.

In his memorandum of decision Judge Booth says:

It must be found from the evidence that the sale in question was the result of the efforts of the plaintiff and that he was the procuring cause of it, the only real debatable question being one of employment.

It appears that while the original negotiations began in reference to a sale of the stock of the corporation, yet these soon ceased, and propositions for the sale of the property were then discussed. These latter, however, were not entertained because of lack of authority of the directors to sell. They did, however, reach a stage where the directors deemed it advisable to submit the question of sale to the stockholders at the annual meeting, as a result of which the corporation authorized the sale of the property and the plaintiff was notified by one of the directors to produce his customers, which he did. In the letter of January 4 enclosing the offer of $200,000, the plaintiff expressly stated that he expected to be paid for his services and this was known to some of the directors at lease.

This state of facts clearly brings the case within the rule laid down in Weinhouse vs. Cronin, 68 Conn. 250, that either the plaintiff honestly believed a lawful request had been made to him by the defendant for his services as a broker in the sale of the property, and relying thereon, had rendered such services; or that without having been requested, he rendered such services under circumstances indicating that he expected to be paid therefor, and that the defendant, knowing such circumstances, availed itself of the benefit of the services.

I am not satisfied, however, that five per cent. of the selling price is a reasonable value of these services. Selling the corporate stock of a mill equipped for special purposes, or the plant itself, is one thing, while selling that plant stripped of its equipment and therefore fitted for any manufacturing business is another. In the latter case, the property should be classed as improved city property and therefore subject to three per cent. This amounts to $5,250, the interest on which from Feb. 15, 1924 is $107.63.

Judgment is therefore rendered for the plaintiff to recover $5,357.63 damages and costs.

MOTION LIST MATTERS BEFORE JUDGE BOOTH

With Judge John R. Booth presiding, the following motion list matters were disposed of at a short calendar session of the superior court here Friday morning:

Macpherson, et al., Trustees, vs. Ableman, default for failure to plead, postponed. Alling Rubber Co. vs. De Sario, et al., judgment of foreclosure and time limitation, postponed. Corticelli Silk Co. vs. Slosberg, et al., judgment of reformation in accordance with opinion of the supreme court of errors, postponed. Mariners Savings Bank vs. Kuhn, et al., 1, judgment; 2, limitation of time; off. Ledyard Tribe of Pequot Indians, annual account of Appleton Main, overseer, accepted and Appleton Main appointed as overseer. U. S. Trust Co. of New York, et al., exrs., vs. Shore Line Electric Ry. Co., et al.; Old Colony Trust Co. vs. Shore Line Electric Railway Co., et al, application of Robert W. Perkins, receiver, for authority to sell a certain piece of railway track located in the town of New London; granted and order entered when consent is signed. Foran, et al., vs. Caracausa, et al., modification and amendment of judgment in accordance with stipulation to make date of sale Oct. 5, 1924 granted and order entered.

Alling Rubber Company, Inc., vs. Fernham, disclosure of defense or judgment off. Niantic Lumber Company vs. Harwood, motion for order of notice and service, and to make Joseph P. Ford a party defendant; granted and order entered. Cyprian Thurnieski of New London, petition for change of name to Charles Thurzen, granted. Kendall vs. Lounsbury et al, that case be ordered stricken from jury list, postponed. Samuel, et al., vs. Louis Lubchansky, alias Connecticut Iron & Metal Co., hearing on damages, postponed. Donohue vs. Miner, motion to set aside verdict, postponed.

GRANTS THREE DIVORCES ON DESERTION GROUNDS

Three divorces on the uncontested list, all for desertion, were granted here Friday by Judge John R. Booth in the superior court.

Frank Kessler of Stonington was given divorce from Mary Crane Kessler of that town. They were married June 10, 1919, and desertion was alleged in July of the next year.

Divorce and the custody of her 5 year old son were granted to Mary Carino Martin of New London, who married Harry M. Martin in August, 1914. She alleges desertion January 1, 1919.

Isabelle Johnson Smith of New London was granted divorce from Silas H. Smith, now of parts unknown. They were married March 15, 1895, and desertion was alleged Dec. 15, 1906.

The suit of Mary D. Hubbard vs. Patrick J. Hubbard, which was on the uncontested list for trial went off the list.

SUIT IS SETTLED FOR LOSS OF HIS FINGER

In the superior court here Thursday morning for which a jury had been selected to try the suit of James W. Moore of this city against Thomas McMahon Co., Inc., proprietors of a West Side meat market, the case did not come to trial as it was settled out of court.

Young Moore, who is the son of Mrs. Nellie Moore, was suing the company for $10,000 damages for the loss of the index, second and third fingers of his right hand which were caught in a meat grinding machine at the market where Moore was employed. At the time of the accident he was rushed to the hospital with his fingers still fast in the machine from which he was not released until he had reached the hospital.

NORWICH PARTY SAILING FOR SUMMER ABROAD

Miss Alma Bowman, Miss Rosa Wilcox and Miss Beatrice Sharp of the academy faculty and Miss Mary Callahan, principal of Broad Street school, sail from New York today (Saturday) on the steamship Orca on a conducted tour which will take them to France, Italy, Switzerland, Belgium, Germany, Holland, England and Scotland.

They plan to see the British empire exposition and the Olympic games. An aeroplane trip from Holland to England is one of the interesting features of the trip.

The party will return on the steamship Berengaria, sailing from Southampton, England.

Jury Cases Assigned.

Jury cases assigned for the superior court here next week before Judge John R. Booth are the following.

Tuesday, June 24: M. E. Bates vs. Carroll. A. Halpobiton vs. Carroll. F. Halyburton vs. Carroll. Avery vs. Linnell. Nolan vs. Parks.

Wednesday, June 25: James vs. Downing, et al. Norwitz vs. N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R. Co. Stula vs. Zagria. Bendett vs. Slosberg.

Friday, June 27, short calendar—last of session.

The harder the times the easier it is to collect a crowd.

WILL BE TEACHER AT NORWICH FREE ACADEMY

Miss Elizabeth Smith will be on the teaching staff of the commercial department at the Norwich Free Academy next year.

The name of Miss Frieda Johnson, who stood fourth in the senior class, was omitted from the honor roll on the printed announcements of the Academy graduating exercises.

Eighteen of the Academy graduating class plan to enter the Willimantic State Normal school next year.

Sixty pupils are taking entrance examinations at the Academy and the results will be published next Tuesday morning.

CONTINUANCE IN COURT IN LIQUOR CASE

In the city court Friday morning before Judge A. F. Libby, a continuance until Monday was taken in the case of Frank Suminski, who was before the court on the charge of violation of the liquor law. He was arrested Thursday night when the police raided his home near the Roswell avenue entrance to Mohegan park.

One man was fined $5 and costs for intoxication, another had a breach of the peace case nolled on payment of $5, and a third paid $3 for driving an automobile without his license.

The height of a lazy mans ambition is to marry a rich widow with a cough.

SCHOOL THRIFT CLUBS SAVE TOTAL OF $2,214.59

The Thrift clubs in the schools of Bozrah, Ledyard, North Stonington and Preston, conducted in conjunction with the Chelsea Savings Bank of this city, have closed their work for this year. Thirty-six clubs have been enrolled this year as follows:

Bozrah	7
Ledyard	8
North Stonington	12
Preston	9

Every school enrolled has been actively engaged in this most laudible enterprise—saving. The children have been earnest in their endeavors to "save their pennies and enlarge their bank books." This is quite evident from the amounts saved in each town.

Every effort to teach the lessons of thrift, which the schools have attempted, has received the hearty cooperation of the bank's officials and staff.

Bozrah schools lead the district with a record of $1,060.44. Ledyard schools saved $209.98, North Stonington $347.94 and Preston $396.23.

The largest amount reported from any school was at Fitchville school, Bozrah, whose amount was $560.14. Of this amount $212.12 was from the grammar room and $294.02 from the primary room.

In Ledyard the largest amount was reported from Cider Hill school, which was $74.11.

In North Stonington, Williams school led with $65.81, while Fort Point school won the highest score for Preston with $107.94.

Banners for 100 per cent. schools were awarded as follows:

Bozrah—Leffingwell and Johnson schools.

Ledyard—Cider Hill and Long Cove schools.

North Stonington—Miner and Wheeler schools.

Preston—Crary school.

CLEVER AMATEURS APPEAR IN TWO-ACT FARCE

A Dangerous Experiment, a farce in two acts ,was presented before a crowded house at the Parish house at Poquetanuck Thursday evening under the auspices of the Woman's Guild of St. James' church by the following cast of characters: Nancy Webster, Irene Wholey; Caroline Winthrop, Olive McKelvey; Mrs. Winthrop, Ellinor Donovan; Murray Winthrop, Gerald Brassill; James Thornton, Jonathan Johnson; Howard Granger, Joseph French; Charles Hollister, Merton Swan; George Fowler, William B. Mitchell; William Churchill, Ben Mellor.

The parts were all well taken and the solos rendered between the acts by Miss Mary Gray and Miss Elinor Donovan, accompanied by Miss Olive McKelvey, received merited applause. Merton Swan gave an admirable impersonation of a Hebraw character and was called upon for repeated encores. Excellent music was furnished for the entertainment and dancing by Fitch's orchestra.

A delicious strawberry supper was furnished by the Guild before and after the entertainment. A good sum was realized towards the fund for repairs at the rectory.

Heartless Driver Left Injured Dog.

Early Friday morning an unidentified automobile driver ran over a shepherd dog owned by Miss Irene Broadhurst of Fairmount street, on West Main street, near the Colonial club and left the suffering animal by the roadside. The dog was put out of its misery by a local veterinary. The heartless driver made no effort to aid the dog and made no report at police headquarters of the accident. The dog, Shep by name, was well known to many residents on the West Side and was a favorite with the children. An effort will be made to learn the identity of the person responsible for the dog's death.

Will Represent Salvation Army.

At the Sunday morning service at Grace church, Yantic, the drive for the maintenance of the Salvation Army in Norwich will be emphasized. Mrs. Arline Howland of New York, of the Salvation Army, will render a solo and William Wilbur, son of Commandant and Mrs. Wilbur of Norwich, will assist the service with cornet solos. The special collection will be given to the drive. A large congregation is anticipated.

Revolutionary Results Told By Walter P. Chrysler

Revolutionary riding and driving results have come rapidly during the past year in the development of both the Chrysler and the Maxwell.

They are the fruit of an experience which bridges 20 years and the manufacture of some 2,000,000 cars.

During recent months, with participation of the Chrysler engineering staff, this experience has culminated sharply in refinements of the most important character, which set the good Maxwell above and beyond four-cylinder cars as you have always known them.

The great crying demand of the motoring public today is for removal of vibration and consequently greater ease of riding and driving.

And the good Maxwell now answers that demand in a way no four-cylinder car has ever done before.

Owners are now averaging 18,000 miles and more to a set of tires; better than 22 miles per gallon; grinding valves, setting up tappets and removing carbon only at long intervals; main bearings rarely if ever replaced.

Our assurance—my personal assurance, without reservation—is that the good Maxwell is the car to satisfy you on all counts; and that it will satisfy you if you give it the chance.

POETRY FOR THE WIDEAWAKES

The Firefly

We've never gotten to it.
With all our learning keen.
We simply cannot do it
With any fine machine.
Old Nature's lanterns greet us
When dusk succeeds the sun.
A thousand miles they beat us
On all we've ever done.

In spite of shining crescent
And starbeam's boasted light,
The firefly's incandescent
Most glorifies the night.
Across the meadows flying
Cold light it generates.
We, too, have long been crying,
But Time still stands and waits.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

...e of the most interesting of the bird ...mily. It lives and eats much different from the average bird. Even its ...eating habits differ greatly from those of other birds. Most of the birds have strong cozy nests for their eggs and their young. The nighthawk doesn't build a nest at all. It lays its eggs ...on the flat roof of buildings, on large flat rocks or right on the ground. The eggs are found in June or July.

The nighthawk mother is very cunning. If you go too near her eggs or her young she will try to lead you away from them by dropping to the ground a little distance away and uttering queer gasping sounds while her wings are spread out as though she were trying to make you believe she was badly injured. As soon as you go near her she will move away from you and repeat the performance. In this way she gets your mind off the eggs or young and draws you away from them so that you will not see them.

They sit very still when you get near them and this fact combined with their color and the color of the young ...kes it very difficult for you to see them. You have to have very sharp eyes to get a glimpse of them. If people want the place where the young are ...en often the mother bird will move them away to some place that is secret ...en they are able to keep the locations of their eggs and birds a deep secret.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY THE WIDE AWAKES

Safety First

Dear Uncle Jed: I am sending you my last letter of my grammar school career. I am writing my graduation essay on Safety First

...often wonder what my great grandfather, who lived one hundred years ago, would say if he could come to life again and behold the world as it is today, with all its rapid modes of transit, fast running machinery, aeroplanes, and new weapons used in warfare. I think he would say, "I am surprised everyone does not get killed." But would have been the case but for ...y senators and representatives have made good safety rules and laws, to prevent many of the accidents.

See that sign? Stop! Look! and Listen! What could be a better caution than that? In everyday life and in everyway we need to use it.

We are very fortunate in having a good nurse. This is a very important matter of safety which should never be overlooked.

In the grammar school we are taught safety rules and how to use ...

to Stop, Look and Live!

In life there is only the right and the wrong. By studying safety rules and laws, we more readily conceive what is wrong. By doing the right thing in the right way, saves many long sorrows through many a long day. Whatever is wrong, if done to a thousand men, is wrong, if done to one, and if we do not learn and use safety rules and laws, we not only do wrong to ourselves, but to everyone we come in contact with.

Today life is a sort of safety zone, through which we pass in many directions. If each would act well our parts, as our own traffic officer, in the ...ight way and with the right spirit, how much easier would it be to travel, not only in the country but in the crowded city.

We should always remember the safety rules that were installed into our minds, as we passed through the different grades of the grammar school. We are willing to teach anyone these rules, that has not had the opportunity, that we have been blest with.

Then we were put in sacks and sent roasted. After being roasted we were packed in boxes and sent to stores.

A RAINY DAY

Dear Uncle Jed: It was a rainy day and I couldn't play out of doors so I decided to play in the attic with my play things and dolls. I went up in the attic and placed my table, chairs, and little beds in different corners and inside the rooms look bright. I set some of my dishes on the table in order, for dinner was going to be prepared. For the dinner I rolled the rolling pin on five crackers and broke the pie in little crumbs. After that, I put them in a little bowl and poured a small pitcher of milk on them. That was what I called cracker pudding. Then I poured milk in my little tea cups and squeezed two oranges and put the juice in little ...orange glasses. I cut the remainder of the oranges in pieces for dessert. Everything was ready and served on my little dinner table. I placed my boy doll Harold, behind the table against the wall, and I sat my girl doll Gertrude, at the side of the table for she was able to sit up alone. I sat facing her two dolls. We all had a good dinner and after that I cleared the table. Then I played until five o'clock and washed the dishes and put my dolls to bed. I played until 5 o'clock and then gave up the attic for the day. I really do enjoy that rainy day in the attic, and if you want to have some fun, just try it on a rainy day.

AN EXPLORER

Dear Uncle Jed: We have been studying the history of Connecticut in our school. I liked the story of the Dutch navigators, Adrian Block and Hope you will like it too.

Adrian Block came to America to trade with the Indians. He got a shipload of furs and was about to go home when his ship caught fire. He and his men built another ship and were exploring along the sound. They went past a river which they named the Red river of the Mountains. Then they went on a little farther until they came to another river. They sailed up this river not far as the place where Hartford now is.

The Dutch sailed past this river which they named the House of Hope. Adrian Block explored the Connecticut river as far as Hartford.

MY VISIT TO NEW JERSEY

Dear Uncle Jed: Last August my brother, mother, sister and I started for a visit to New Jersey. We were taken by auto to New London and there took the boat that was bound for New York city. We spent a splendid night, getting up early enough in the morning to see the surroundings of New York. We landed at New York pier seven o'clock in the morning. There my uncle met us and took us to New Jersey by automobile.

A week after my father joined us. He took me, two cousins, my brother and I to New York city. There we saw many interesting sights. We went to Central Park, Battery Park and many other places. The place which interested me was the aquarium. This building is circular, and at one time was used for a fort. Central Park was also very interesting. There we saw polar bears, camels, lions, monkeys, all sorts of birds, hippopotamuses and many other wonderful animals. We spent a happy day in the big city, and returned to New Jersey at a late hour.

After visiting a few more relatives in and around New Jersey we started for home. We traveled by boat and passed under many bridges. This visit will be long remembered, for I don't know when I will be able to visit that part of this country again.

A LIVELY KITTEN

Dear Uncle Jed: I have a pet kitten. He catches mice. His name is Tommy. I love him very much. He comes in the house and I play with him. He is light brown and a little white. He has a cup of milk every morning and night. I take him with me to get eggs. I go out doors when he sees me he will hide and run, when I run and race. When I run down the hill he will run between my legs and play. He sleeps in the barn nights and he plays with me in the day time. He likes to hear the birds sing and he will play with the hens. He will chase the little baby chickens around.

MY BROTHER AND I

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my brother. My brother was 2 years old May 8th 1924. I play ball with him and he plays hide and go seek with me.

He likes flowers. When we went to Rhode Island we saw some wild lilacs. My father got some and brought them home and my brother began to cry because he could not have them. My mother told him to leave them alone that we are going to get some more next Sunday.

SAVED TWO KITTENS

Dear Uncle Jed: The early dusk of a short winter's day had fallen when I started down the front walk and into the road. I was going skating with some others. The air was sharp and cold, and I was walking rapidly, my mind still busy with the affairs of the day, when I stumbled and almost fell over some obstruction in my path. Stooping down to see what had caused my mishap, I found an old burlap bag lying in a crumpled heap directly in the middle of the road. I was about to shove the bag aside when I became conscious of a slight movement among its wrinkles and folds.

I was determined to open it and found two little kittens. Evidently some cruel boy was going to drown them. Instead of going skating I ...ied the ...le creatures into the house. They were frightened, starved and cold. I found a little box put an old soft cushion into the box and lay the kittens on it. I got a basin and poured some milk into it and heated it, because it was so cold, then I gave it to them. I also set the box under the stove. The next morning when I came down stairs the kittens did not look the same as they did the night before. I fed them every morning, noon and night. Finally I named them Tootsy and Teddy. One was something the color of a maltese. The other was the most beautiful cat I ever saw. The colors were black, white and grey. I kept this kitten for my ...

THE FIVE LITTLE BIRDS

Dear Uncle Jed: One day as I was walking in my orchard I saw a nest in a tree. I went up to it and I saw five little birds. They were robins. When I saw them I walked away for I didn't want to hurt them for it would be a pity to kill them.

After that I went every morning and put crumbs in the nest for the mother and her little ones. After awhile they began to fly and after they flew away.

THE NORTH

Dear Uncle Jed: I would like to ... the North which is far away from us. The Eskimo lives there. They ... summer, but the summer is so cold that the ground does not thaw except at the very surface. The winters are bitter cold. Heavy snows cover the ground.

In such a country no trees can grow. The Eskimo children have never seen trees of any kind. Only small plants are found there, such as mosses, grasses and very low bushes and the plants that grow will furnish no food except a few small berries.

With so little vegetation there can be few wild animals on the land for they would have nothing to eat. There are few reindeer, foxes, and wolves, but scarcely any other land animal. They are engaged in fishing and in hunting the seal and the walrus. They have very little food except the flesh of the animals. Even that is difficult to get, especially in winter when the sea is frozen.

These sea animals supply oil for both heat and light in the dark, long winter. The seals have a layer of fat under their skin which helps to keep them warm in winter.

This seal fat or blubber is burned in small lamps for both heat and light. But the Eskimo does not do much cooking. They are very fond of raw meat and like it even if it is frozen.

In summer the Eskimos go fishing in small canoes that are easily upset in storms. In winter they often go on long, dangerous journeys over the ice on sleds drawn by five or ten dogs. I would like to go on the sleds drawn by dogs, and see how they go hunting and fishing. It is different there. We buy needles, spears and fishhooks but they have to make them from the bones of the animals. Skins are made into harness for dogs. The Eskimos need the warmest kind of clothing. Their boots are also made from the skins of animals.

I live in a house in summer and in winter; but the Eskimos in summer live in tents made of fur. In winter they live in huts made of snow. There is plenty of snow at hand, no matter where the people happen to be, and in an hour or two they can build an igloo, as the Eskimo snow hut is called. The igloo is about forty feet around the outside and is made of blocks of snow piled till it is high enough for a man to stand up. The entrance is a snow tunnel about ten feet long, and so low that the Eskimos have to crawl through it on their hands and knees. The purpose of this tunnel is to keep the cold out of the hut. I would like to see the igloo and see the inside, and I would like to visit it sometime, but I would not like to be an Eskimo because I would not see any trees or vegetables.

A DISCOVERY

Dear Uncle Jed: "Look!" cried George. "I am sure I heard something behind those bushes." The two boys put down their fishing tackle and crept cautiously toward the spot. At first they could see nothing. George's companion laughed at him and told him he must be "hearing things." But George was persistent, because he knew he had heard something.

"There is the noise again," said George. Both boys stopped. This time Dick heard the noise. It sounded like a whistle. They crept closer and saw two quails creeping along. Then they started to hunt for the nest. In a minute George cried, "Look, Dick, I've found it." Dick started for the place where George was.

In the nest were nine baby quails, each one afraid of the two boys. When George and Dick started for home George was quite pleased and satisfied because he was sure he had heard something.

MY GRADUATION

Dear Uncle Jed: Seeing graduation time is again drawing near, I feel as though some of the Wide Awake girls and boys would be interested in hearing about my graduation.

There were only five graduates, including two girls and three boys, myself being the youngest, 12 years old. There were three essays, the class will and testament and the class prophecy. The class flowers were carnations and sweet peas and the motto "Not Evening But Dawn," and the class colors red and white.

Each graduate had an usher to carry their flowers to them at the end of the ... The principal of the school presented us all with our diplomas. We then marched to the front of the stage and were wished success through the many years to come by our many friends and classmates.

The hall was decorated in laurel and daisies, making the appearance of the room very beautiful.

I wrote a story to Uncle Jed when I was eight years old and received a lovely book which I kept for almost four years, called "Little Maid Marion," and my brother wrote one and got a book called "The Boy Allies in Jutland." He still has the book and has read it many times.

Dear Uncle Jed: I wonder if any of the Wide-Awakes ever saw chickens. Just when they are coming out of the shell? I did. The chickens were ... and there seemed to be two that did not come out.

The shell was broken, so we broke it a little more. I found that its head was under its little toes and the toe nail must have broken the shell instead of its bill, which usually does. As soon as it could get its head free it struggled a little and came right out in Mamma's hand. ... helped another one out just the same way, only his head was in the right position, so his bill could break the shell. We have got chickens from two days old to six weeks old, about 25 altogether.

FARMING.

Dear Uncle Jed: I am an 11-year-old farmer boy, and thought I would write a letter to the Wide-Awakes for the second time. I am quite interested in farming and help my father all I can. My father built me a chicken coop (10x12) last spring, and I have 25 pure bred Rhode Island Red chicks of my own, of which I am very proud. I like to feed and take care of them very much. I expect to have a larger coop and also a larger flock next year. I hope other readers of our page who are interested in chickens will try to encourage their parents to help them get a start. It not only means pleasure, but profit as well.

A PUZZLED HEN.

Dear Uncle Jed: Our little red hen was setting. She was a little hen because she was a late fall chicken from a stolen nest and hadn't grown very much. A big white hen came along and deliberately crowded in the nest beside her. They sat there for a while, the white hen looking sharply at the poor little red hen every once in a while. Finally the white hen laid an egg. Then the head of the little red hen peered out from under the white hen. She (the red hen) quickly rolled the egg with her beak until it was under her own wings. The white hen turned around to see if she had laid an egg and not seeing any, seemed quite puzzled. Finally she walked away, looking as if she had been dreadfully cheated.

THE KINGBIRD

Dear Uncle Jed: Kingbirds arrive with us in May and leave us in August. They are very noisy birds. They are victorious in whatever they undertake. They hate crows and drive them out of the neighborhood, vigorously dashing at them and picking them and follow them a great distance. They perch on a dead branch, fence post or a tall stalk in the field to watch for insects. Kingbirds are a great help to farmers. Their note is a series of shrill, harsh sounds.

ITALIANS WILL HAVE CONCERT, PARADE, FIREWORKS

Today (Monday) is M. S. Sonerito celebration day for the Italian residents of the city. A band concert, street parade and fireworks comprise part of the programme planned for the day. About 9 o'clock this morning there will be a short street parade, headed by the Italian band. The parade will proceed up Broadway to St. Patrick's church where mass will be celebrated. After mass, the parade will move down McKinley avenue and Franklin street as far as the Franklin street park where a short concert will be given by the band.

About 4.30 o'clock in the afternoon there will be a short street parade, followed by the setting off of a number of Japanese novelty bombs. In the evening there will be a band concert at the little park on Franklin street and at 10 o'clock there will be a display of fireworks with aerial bombs on Hinkley Hill.

The committee in charge of the arrangements comprises Paul Malerba, Mike, Barbaros, Paul Vallarelle, Basilio Quato, Paul Pilegrimo, Natrio Querion Joseph Lonardelle and Joseph Colasand. The programme to be given this evening by the Italian-American band, Prof. P. Puca, director, will be as follows:

Semper Fidelis March	J. Ph. Sousa
Poet and Peasant Overture	Fr. V. Suppe
Souvenir Waltz	B. Conset
Traviata Grand Fantasia	G. Verdi
Love Songs "Andante and Polka"	C. Carmont
Piccolo Clarinet Solo
Gioconda "Selection"	A. Ponchielli
There's Yes! Yes! In Your Eyes, Fox Trot	H. Santly
The Star Spangled Banner

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Little Vesper Sparrow

"Home again, home once more,
At the open kitchen door
Mother stands to welcome me,
With lollypops and turnip tea.
sang Little Jack Rabbit as the Twinkle Twinkle Star shone down on the dear Old Bramble Patch.

"Listen," hispered Lady Love, the bunny boy's pretty mother, softly kissing him. "Little Vesper Sparrow is singing."

Sure enough, a few feet away, perched on a bramble branch, sat a little streaked brown bird, his tail spreading just enough to show two white feathers on the outer edge. Over over and over he sang his sweet song and over again he sang his sweet song, even after it was quite dark and the two little rabbits were busy washing the supper dishes.

"Bunny Boy," said pretty Lady Love, after everything was in order and she had seated herself at the little table to tell the Bunnybridge Bugle, "What have you learned today?"

"Oh, the earth is round and we don't fall off because something holds us on," answered Little Jack Rabbit, proudly.

"Dear, dear," answered Lady Love, with a smile. "Maybe I'd better hold tighter to my bunny boy," and she gave Little Jack Rabbit a hug. "Now, I'll tell you something I learned today," she added, as the sweet song of Little Vesper Sparrow floated in through the open window of the neat little kitchen. "Do you know where he builds his nest?"

"In a tree?" inquired the bunny boy.

"No, on the ground," answered his pretty rabbit mother. "Did you never see Mrs. Cow's footprints in the soft ground in the early spring."

"Oh! course, many of them," answered the bunny boy quickly. "But what of it?"

"Because Little Vesper Sparrow picked out one in which to make his nest," answered Lady Love, with a smile. Wasn't that cute of him?"

"Well I should say yes, three times," laughed the bunny boy. "I'll hop out right away and ask him where it is."

But goodness me, As the little rabbit hopped out on the kitchen porch, Vesper Sparrow clapped his wings and flew away. Maybe he didn't want to be impolite by refusing to tell the curious little bunny just where his nest was hidden. Birds are careful not to tell where they have built their nests. They have to be little reader for hawks and weasels are ever on the lookout to find them. Oh, my yes, indeedy.

"Dear me," sighed the bunny boy, turning back. But Lady Love only smiled to herself. Lady bunnies as little birds have secrets, and in the cupboard tucked away in the upper drawer, was hidden a big blue egg, white the pretty bunny lady had bought for her little rabbit boy's birthday.

And in the next story I'll tell you what happened after that.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Possibly lacking under the stress of the moment that calm deliberation that marks, under ordinary circumstances, the careful selection of language to express one's thoughts or feelings, a woman yelled "Murder" in the business section about 10 o'clock Saturday night and drew a crowd of nearly 200 people before one could say Jack Robinson, even though one happened to be in a saying mood.

This failure on the woman's part to differentiate between murder and assault proved a bit disappointing to the crowd when it learned that the woman was not being killed. It all dwindled down to the fact that the man who was with her had merely landed a hard swing on her jaw, had punched her in the nose until it bled and then had taken her by the neck and shook her until her unearthly shrieks were stilled. That and nothing more. Each passing day seems to supply an additional incident or illustration that this is an age of exaggeration. Mur-

This isn't the first time [illegible] she's done [illegible] you have seen me before and left me [illegible] on the floor." It was gathered from this that the woman talked exactly like an unsuccessful trainer of animals, though she may not be speaking of the kind. In any event the man may be rated as entitled to be known as The Great Untrained. A lot of perfectly good propaganda about women's rights seems to have gone entirely over his head. Possibly he does not believe in that sort of stuff, for there are some men who profess to claim that the twenty-third amendment to the federal constitution will obligate men to do the housework. Anyway, he was there with the wallop.

Though as might be expected under the circumstances there was a lot of [illegible] at the air when the one-sided bout was being staged, it was gathered on inquiries that the woman had been to a picture show. Upon her return she made some comment as women sometimes do about where the man had been and the battle was on.

A crowd appeared like magic. Standing outside the car, the woman declared they would stay right there until the police came. That suggestion seemed even to startle the Ford that figured in the affair into life. The motor whirled, the woman jumped in and [illegible] was off to a flying start through Academy street from the point where the big show was staged near the Colin hotel inn. That's how the police lost out on the affair, which put a dash of tobacco into an otherwise quiet Saturday evening.

Saturday at the church in Hopkins Mills funeral services were held for Mrs. Amanda F. Williams, 83, of Scituate, where she died Wednesday. Rev. C. E. Pearson of the Union church at Chepachet was in charge of the service. Burial was in the Hopkins Mills cemetery. The bearers were two nephews, Allen Arnold of New Bedford and Oliver Arnold of Scituate, and Byron Page of Scituate and Arthur Hopkins of Foster Center. A. E. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Williams was the widow of Henry Williams. She had lived in Scituate and Foster all of her life.

Following the high mass at St. James' church on Sunday there was a procession of the Blessed Sacrament in which large numbers of the parishioners represented in parish organizations participated. The procession moved through the grounds of the church to a repository in the rear of the convent of the sisters of St. Joseph, where benediction was given, as it also was given in the church after the procession and to bring to a close the ceremonies of the day.

A Polish resident of School street, who, according to Fire Chief Ralph E. Saxton has an unpronounceable name, was enjoying an early Saturday morning smoke in bed. A spark set the mattress on fire and someone pulled in a double alarm from box 26, calling out all of the fire apparatus in the city at ten minutes after midnight, Friday, and the whole town was awakened from its slumbers as the alarm ran around, six times.

When the firemen arrived the burning mattress had been thrown from the house and the only sparks remaining were in the rear of the Polish citizens pants, which had been hanging on the bed post. The all-out was sounded in 10 minutes and everybody went hom to the uninterrupted slumbers, except the Polish man, the loss of whose bed had caused the midnight disturbance.

Automobiles driven by John Maher of Danielson and Fred Cremmens of Pomfret, came together at the intersection of Front and Liver streets Friday night, resulting in broken running board, fenders and windshields.

Members of Quinnebaug lodge of Masons met at Masonic Temple, Sunday and marched to the Methodist church, where they attended the morning service.

Clarence Booth, professional at the Putnam Country club, has entered the Massachusetts open play golf championship tournament.

Members of the Arcanum club will attend a supper at the Stage Coach Inn, Warrenville, next Saturday evening.

Because the worshipful grand master and other officers of the Masonic Grand Lodge could not be present next Thursday, the dedecation of the new Masonic Temple, of Putnam lodge, of Woodstock, has been postponed until early next fall.

GOES DOWN "STEEP HILL" AND 15 STAIRS IN AUTO

(Special to The Bulletin)

Putnam, June 22.—An unknown automobolists got away with a ride down the side of Oak's Hill, including a flight of stairs, Saturday night and if the driver was known he would be handed the blue, white and red ribbon for handling a car. The ride the stranger took from Wilkinson street to School street, down what is known as the "Steep Hill." The hill drops at an angle of about 70 degrees, and, while a city street, is never used by vehicles and it takes all a pedestrian with a good heart has, to climb from the bottom to the top. The unknown after he had started down saw that he was in wrong, but it was then too late and impossible to back out. From the tracks where the wheels ground into the dirt, it appeared that all brakes were set and the car slid from the top of the hill to the top of a flight of fifteen stairs near the bottom. The car passed down these stairs still leaving its trail in broken and splintered wood. Apparently no harm was done as a woman who saw the man's wild ride said he drove off in the darkness without stopping.

J. C. Mathieu pastor. The solemnity of the feast was this year made the occasion for the unveiling of a statue of Joan of Arc as a memorial to the service men of the parish in the World war and the dedication of a Crucifixion group in Sacred Heart Heart cemetery. At the dedication the addresses were delivered by Rev. P. S. Bellerose, Taftville, a former pastor, and Rv. W. A. Keefe of Norwich, former pastor at Plainfield. The Crucifixion group was blessed by Father Mathieu. A delegation of American legion men from Danielson attended the ceremonies and participated in the procession.

Of importance to the voters is the special town meeting called for Thursday of this week. As has been told previously in this column, the meeting is to pass upon the matter of an additional appropriation for highway work. No more money is available for that purpose and will not be until August 1, if the town does not see fit to authorize additional expenditure. The matter is one solely for the voters to decide and this can be done only by attending the meeting and voting.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Burton and and son, Billy, of Bridgeport, have been visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Burton.

Miss May Waller of New London has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Burton.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Turner of Plymouth, Mass., spent the week end with friends here, coming for the commencement exercises. Mr. Turner is a former superintendent of schools in Killingly and Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. John Purvis of Providence have been guests of friends in Danielson.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Pellett are to leave Wednesday for a motoring trip to North Carolina, where they will visit with relatives.

Mrs. Benjamin Livesey left Sunday for a week's visit in Springfield, after which she will return to her home in California.

Members of Moriah lodge, A. F. and A. M., attended service in ab ody Sunday morning at St. Alban's church. The service was conducted and sermon preached by the rector, Rev. Leonard R. Richards.

The senior class of Killingly High school, graduated Thursday, held a class outing at Ocean beach on Saturday, motoring to the resort.

Graduating exercises postponed when the borough's lighting service went out of order last Wednesday evening, were completed Sunday evening in St. James' parish hall.

"Here's some news for you," writes Herbert Cox, who is in Baltimore for a week. "While I was in Washington I was around the government buildings, and the bonus is going through. The government spent $38,000 cleaning a floor in E. Building, and there are 200 clerks on the job now. The civil service is fine. I had a shock last Saturday. I thought after passing the examinations they were valuable. There are two prices to start in with—$11.40 and $13.20 per week. That is straight. The way money is spent in continually moving around different departments is surprising. I am at Camp Holabird for a week running a test.

Numbers of the members of the Danielson Rod and Gun club were at their trapshooting lodge on Allen hill Sunday afternoon for practice.

Hot weather at the week end brought many to Moosup pond to enjoy the bathing facilities there. A shore dinner at the resort Sunday afternoon also attracted many.

The strange animal that was the cause of so much publicity a few weeks ago continues to roam about the country to the west of Allen hill.

PLAINFIELD

St. George council, No. 127 of the St. Jean de Baptist held a field day in Babcock Grove, Canterbury Sunday afternoon. About 200 members and families attended and helped make the affair a success. Ice cream, candy and soda were on sale at various booths.

Short speeches by Messrs. Paul Peltier, president of the society in Plainfield, Louis Woisard of Danielson, and Philip Roy, representative of the Reviel, were well applauded by the assembled crowd. All addresses were in French.

[illegible] wing races were carried out: Fat man's race, won by Michael Lavign; men's egg race, Adelard LaFlesh; men's potato race, Philip Smith. Ladies 100 yards, Manuelo Varieur; boys 200 yard dash, Alphonso Metivere; boys' shoe race, Lionel Jodoin; men's 100 yard dash, Daniel Connel; ladies' egg race, Mrs. A. Grenier. Ladies potato race, Mrs. A. Grenier and Miss Mary Fournier, tie; both were awarded first prize; married women's race, Mrs. B. Normand; prizes for the affair consisting mostly of candy, baseball gloves, wearing apparel and trade were donated by merchants of the town.

Messrs. Metivere, Samuel, Boulais, and Mercier do were on the arrangements committee for the annual outing declared this year surpassed all other years for attendance.

The game between the Plainfield All Stars and Moosup Alleyville sluggers was postponed on account of the Moosup Sluggers' team being disorganized.

The Misses Yvette and Jeanette Noel are home for the summer, after spending the school year in the St. Laisau convent in Canada.

A party in honor of John Brown's 76th birthday was held at the home of his daughter, Mrs. James Barthelique of Phillip street Saturday night. A great many of Mr. Brown's friends, amongst whom were many civil war veterans who served in the war of '61 with Mr. Brown attended the party. A light lunch was served by Mrs. James Barthelique and Mrs. Joseph Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Butler and family left Saturday for Brunswick, Me., to spend the summer. Mr. Butler will attend the summer school at Bowdoin college. They made the trip by auto.

Miss Lisle Hartwell, training instructor at the Plainfield Community house, is on a tour through Alaska for the remainder of the summer.

Miss Edith Beauchistle is spending two weeks vacation with friends in Long Island. Augustus Coffee is substituting as librarian during Miss Beauchistle's absence.

Albert Merriott, who is stationed at San Francisco, Calif., in the U. S. navy, is spending two weeks at his home in Laurelton village.

H. H. Smith of Phillips street, is convalescing at his home after being a patient at the Backus hospital for a few weeks. Mr. Smith was very ill recently and friends are glad to see him improving in health.

YANTIC

Through the courtesy of the family of Frederick Kingsley their hospitable grounds were given to the teachers of the Yantic school Thursday afternoon and a good time was had by all. The summer house was gaily decorated and as the children marched to it, all had fancy paper caps and wands, as well as the teachers and their assistants. There was speaking, singing, drills, dancing and games and during the afternoon refreshments of lemonade, fancy cakes, ice cream and candy was served. Much praise was given the ones in charge for the enjoyable afternoon. W. E. Manning furnished the lemonade.

As the principal, Frederick H. Bushnell has resigned from teaching the pupils of the school presented him a very attractive Wallace Nutting picture. The presentation was made by Mary Tumitsky. A new staff will be in charge next year as the primary teacher, Miss Hinchey has taken a second grade position in the Greeneville grammar school.

Assisting the teachers were Mrs. Thomas Sullivan, Miss Katherine Coughlin, Mrs. P. K. Kingsley and Miss Margery Kingsley.

POINCARE WARNS FRANCE NOT TO TRUST GERMANY

Verdun, France, June 22 (By the A. P.)—Former Premier Poincare, stepping back into the political spotlight at the moment Premier Herriot was negotiating at Chequers court with Ramsay MacDonald, the British prime minister, today warned France not to trust Germany.

M. Poincare was speaking over the graves of seven unknown French soldiers buried on the Verdun battlefield, at a ceremony presided over by Marshal Foch to observe the eighth anniversary of the critical days of the year-long siege. He took as his text Germany's unwillingness to pay reparations and the necessity for France to compel her to do so.

M. Poincare justified his Ruhr policy of withdrawing the occupational forces only in proportion as Germany pays her debt, and added: "To evacuate more rapidly would, in our eyes, be to commit a grave imprudence."

Quite So.

Popular songs would be less objectionable if sung only in the hearing of those with whom they are popular.

WESTERLY

A special session of Stonington town court will be held in Borough hall, Stonington this (Monday) morning before Judge William A. Wilcox of Pawcatuck. A few weeks ago a state policeman suggested that the court officials be ready for sessions on Monday mornings as from now on, especially on Saturdays and Sundays, two state policemen would be on duty continuously between New London drawbridge and the Pawcatuck river bridge at Westerly. Furthermore the state trooper urged that the law requiring automobile drivers have their operators' licenses with them, which at present seemed to be that part of the law least complied with, be enforced.

This (Monday) evening in Stillman hall on High street, Granite council, No. 173, Royal Arcanum of Westerly, will observe Arcanum's forty-fourth birthday. A specially arranged programme followed by refreshments will be enjoyed by the members, wives and children and sojourners in Westerly. A committee of the council members is arranging a series of Monday evening meetings of novel character for the entertainment of its members each month.

Westerly members of Palestine Temple, Mystic Shrine, of Providence, attended the annual June outing on Saturday. The severe thunder storm of the early morning was over in time to permit a short street parade with the band, patrol and legion of honor with drum corps following which the steamer Mount Hope was taken at 9.30 for Newport. At Newport a parade was made to the beach and fifteen hundred nobles had these eats:

Newport Beach Clam Chowder
Olives Pickles Radishes
Baked Clams—Melted Butter
Baked Fish, Old Fashioned Dressing
Clam Fritters Sweet Potatoes
Baked Easton's Sausage
Cold Boiled Lobster
Mayonnaise Dressing
Fried Chicken Combination Salad
Ice Cream and Cake Watermelon
Coffee Cigars

Following the return from the beach the steamer Mount Hope was taken for a four ocean sail, which included a trip to the wrecked oil tanker, which was burned off the beach, a swing around Point Judith and through the Point Judith Harbor of Refuge, with a loop toward Block Island and return up Narrangansett Bay, a short stop being made at Newport. Buffet lunch was served on the boat and excellent concert music by Palestine Temple band enjoyed during the entire trip.

At Port Washington, Long Island, at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Hemphill, daughter of Mrs. James E. Hemphill of Courtlandt, Pawcatuck and Lawrence Hobson Reece of Fort Dodge, Iowa, took place. Miss Helen Hemphill, sister of the bride was maid of honor and the best man was Donald Parry, of Chicago. Russell Hemphill of the West Side gave his sister in marrige, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Francis T. Cook of Broadway Tabernacle. Attending from Westerly were Mrs. James E. Hemphill, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hemphill and Miss Sally Frankenstein.

Mrs. Clayton A. Burdick accompanied by Miss Frances Burdick and Mrs. John Bergin of Aztec, New Mexico, are automobile visitors today (Monday) in Winchenden, Mass. On their return they will be accompanied by Mrs. Leon Bassett and daughter, Harriet Eloise, who will be the guest of Rev. and Mrs. Clayton A. Burdick in Westerly.

Joseph T. Crowley, Pullman conductor on the New Haven railroad, arrived in Westerly on Sunday morning to be the guest of relatives and friends on the West Side.

President and Mrs. James R. McColl of Pawtucket, of the Lorraine Manufacturing Company with branch in Westerly, attend in Evanston, Ill., today (Monday), the wedding of their son, Norman A. McColl, to Miss Mary Kimbark. Also in attendance will be Hugh F. McColl and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth D. McColl. The McColl family is well known in Westerly and Pawcatuck, where they have been many times in the interests of the Lorraine Company.

Charles E. Redford of New London was the Sunday guest of relatives and friends in Pawcatuck.

Wilbur G. Cheever and Leon H. York were among the Westerly members of Palestine Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., of Providence who attended the annual June outing to Newport and four hour sail on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. C. L. Stillwell of Lake Forest, Ill., has arrived in Westerly to take up her summer residence at Watch Hill.

Among the summer arrivals to make their home at Avondale has been Miss Eva Pope of Baltimore, Md., who will take up her residence at Oriole cottage.

Miss Elizabeth Austin of the West Side was the guest of her aunt in Hope Valley, R. I. [illegible] ing.

Robert M. Carr of [illegible] was a business caller in Hope Valley on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Whiting of Jewett City were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben W. Austin.

James Aitken and Miss Margaret Smith were week end guests of relatives and friends in Westerly.

Miss Mary O'Neil of Mechanic street has entered the employ of a Westerly restaurant.

Miss Enid Miller of Brookline, Mass., was the Sunday guest of the family of Reuben W. Austin in eWsterly.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Trabbe of Manchester were automobile visitors in Westerly on Sunday the guest of relatives and friends on the West Side.

Miss Harriet Constantine of Westerly is to leave town in a short time for Garden City, Long Island.

STONINGTON

Ernest L. Bromley of Quiambaug while riding a bicycle around Wilcox curve on the Mystic-Stonington road, Friday afternoon, was struck by an automobile driven by Lewis Stanton of Westerly, R. I., when a tire of Mr. Stanton's car blew out and caused his car to swerve [illegible] control. Rev. W. Fitzgerald of Mystic carried Mr. Bromley home, w[illegible] examination showed he had sustained several scalp wounds, a shattered hip and other bruises.

H. D. Chapman of Mystic has purchased the Overland car from Warhome from Philadelphia for a week's vacation.

Charles T. Willard has returned from a visit in Passaic, N. J.

The annual meeting of the Stonington branch of the Red Cross will be held in the Community house on Monday evening at 8 o'clock. All members can take part in the session. Reports of the officers will be received and a board of officials chosen for the [illegible] term.

Many from the borough attended the races at New London Friday, going in boats and autos.

MYSTIC

Friday was a big day at the Broadway school, with the presentation of gifts, announcement of the result of examinations and the graduating exercises in the evening.

Mrs. Mabel W. Denison, principal of the school, was presented a handsome set of ivory toilet articles by the graduating class of 1924, as an expression of appreciation of her interest in their progress and work. Miss Wilhelmina Gordon, teacher of the seventh grade, whose marriage to Charles Ryon of Stonington is to take place today, was presented a silver cake plate by the scholars of the seventh grade.

At the graduating exercises Friday evening Broadway certainly did itself proud under the capable direction of Mrs. Mabel W. Denison, and gave evidence of careful preparation and training on the part of teachers and scholars in presenting a program so pleas-

Miss Marguerite King of Providence, R. I., is at her home here for the summer vacation.

The eighth grade of the Broadway school had a picnic at Atlantic Beach Saturday, the trip being made from here by auto-truck.

Miss Ellen Boggemus has arrived home from Stratford, where she has been teaching this year.

At the semi-monthly meeting of Phoebe Packer Rathbun tent, D. of V., held last week, Mrs. Arline Bradley and Mrs. W. N. Thomas were elected delegates to make the annual visitation to the Soldiers' home at Noroton this week. It is customary for the local tent to make a gift to the home at this time, and the gift this year is to take the form of subscriptions to two leading periodicals.

The semi-monthly meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance union will be held Wednesday afternoon in G. A. R. hall.

Miss Louise Paige was home from Milford for over the week end.

J. Redfield and Mark Beebe of Essex were here Saturday, calling on Newton A. Dickinson.

Mrs. W. N. Sayles is seriously ill at her home on High street.

The graduating exercises of the Mystic academy are to be held this evening in the assembly hall.

Rt. Rev. E. C. Acheson of Middletown, suffragan bishop of Connecticut, is to visit St. Mark's Episcopal church Tuesday evening to administer the rite of confirmation.

The Samaritans

The Samaritans were a mixed people of ancient Palestine, composed of the remnant of the tribes of Ephraim and Manasseh, and of colonists introduced from Assyria after the Ten Tribes had been carried into captivity (721 B. C.). They accepted the Pentateuch, but rejected the rest of the sacred writings of the Hebrews. In 400 B. C. they erected a temple on Mt. Gerizim, intended as a rival to the one in Jerusalem, and thus incurred the hatred of the Jewish people; so that for many years the "Jews had no dealings with the Samaritans."

Protecting Her

The minister of a certain church called upon a woman, a member of his congregation, and, finding no one at home, slipped a card through a letter-box, after scribbling upon it the words, "Sorry to find you out." When the woman returned home, Mary, the maid, met her at the door and presented the card with a whisper, "Here, mum, I took charge of this. It would never do for the master to know the minister's found you out."

Be Thankful.

Don't forget that you ought to be thankful for a great many things you haven't got.

Duty and inclination seldom shoot the same chute.

Famous Greek Inventor

To the Greek Anaximander of Miletus is attributed the invention of the first navigation instruments. The following account is given: "Mariners had observed that the farther north they went the higher the Pole star rose in the heavens, and Anaximander is reputed to have invented an arrangement of two sticks hinged together, so that when one was held horizontally and the other pointed to the Pole star, the angle they made would indicate how far north the observer was.

DANIELS PITCHES AIRTIGHT GAME AS DUWELLS BLANK LEXINGTON A. C.

Tillie Daniels, pitching ace of the Bulkeley championship high school team, pitched the Duwell A. A. to a shut out victory, 10 to 0, over the Lexington A. C. of New Bedford Sunday afternoon at Duwell field. Daniels allowed four scattered hits, the first coming in the fifth inning, and pitched airtight ball throughout the game.

The Duwell team worked well behind Daniels giving him good support which was at times sensational. Smith Sheflott and Whitney contributing to the spectacular features of the game Sheflott was also the hitting star of the game crashing out two doubles and a single in three times at bat. Smith also hit well getting two singles and a double in four times up.

The Duwells at no time were in danger and kept piling up runs as the game wore on. They scored in the first inning on an infield error, a double by Sheflott and a single by Smith. In the third they added two more runs on a single by McInness and Sheflott's second double and Coughlin's single through the box. The fourth inning was a terrific slaughter, the Duwells hitting hard after Belylea walked two men. This inning netted six runs for the Duwells on two walks, three doubles and three singles. This marked the end of Belylea in the box, Stevens going in to pitch and Belylea to catch, Seddon taking Stevens place in the outfild.

The Lexington team threatened only once during the game, this being in the second inning when infield errors filled the bases with one down. Coughlin's throw to the plate of Stevens' grounder cut off a run and Daniels fanned Seddon for the third out. This was the only time that a man got as far as third.

Sheflott although naturally a catcher, performed will in the outfield, his catch of Cameron's long fly being a feature. Daniels fanned eight of the New Bedford boys and allowed only one base on balls. Smith in left field and Whitney at third made spectacular catches of hard hit balls that were labelled for extra bases. The score:

VELVETMEN SPLIT EVEN IN WEEK-END GAMES

The J. B. Martin team split even in the week-end games, winning from the Crompton-Knowles team of Worcester, 3 to 2, on Saturday and losing to Ashland, 9 to 4, on Sunday at Ashland.

The Worcester boys came to Taftville Saturday morning with about 50 fans and were shown through the J. B. Martin plant. At noon the visiting team and fans were served a delightful dinner at the plant. In the afternoon was the annual baseball game which was one of the closest battles seen at the local diamond this season. The game was interesting throughout and had the fans on edge until the last out. E. Murphy was the shining light in the field, taking care of six chances without an error. Next Sunday the Martin company plays the Herrup's Baseball club of Hartford, formerly the Federals. The score of Saturday's game:

BROWNS GET EVEN BREAK IN SERIES WITH WHITE SOX

St. Louis, June 22.—Kolp was batted from the box in the third inning and St. Louis lost the fourth game of the series to Chicago, today, breaking even on the four game series. Ted Lyons was pounded in the latter innings, but held the Browns from victory. The Browns played without Manager George Sisler, and Catcher Pat Collins in the lineup and Coach Jimmy Austin on the coaching line, due to notification given the trio of indefinite suspension as the result of difficulty with Umpire Holmes in the first game of the doubleheader with the White Sox yesterday. The notice came from President Ban Johnson of the American League.

Sisler who watched the game today from the dugout said "Our suspension convinces me that Umpire Holmes misrepresented matters to Ban Johnson. I said nothing warranting Holmes in putting me out of the game."

The three men had protested Umpire Holmes' decisions on balls and strikes, which led to their banishment from the game. The score:

RED SOX DOWN YANKS IN EASY GAME

New York, June 22—The Boston Americans won their first victory here today, defeating the New York Yankees by a score of 6 to 2. First Baseman Todt, who is filling in for Joe Harris for the box, was the big slugger for Fohl's team, hitting a single a double and home run and scoring three of the Boston runs. Shorpstop Lee drove in two runs with a triple and double, while Steve O'Neill sent another run over. Babe Ruth failed to get a hit in four times up and fanned once. The score:

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch
Fordham, New York Giants

Ninth inning. Score 2 to 2. One man out. A left-hand hitter is at bat who is a very fast runner. He hits ball to third baseman.

How should third baseman make the play.

When there is a very fast man at the bat, the third baseman has only a slight chance of making a double play, so he should play this ball to the plate in order to prevent the winning runner from coming home. Most runners would come in from third on such a play. When played in this way, you put two men out and leave runners on first and second. That is a favorite position to be in, as it would take the best hitter to score a man from second

SILK SOX WIN LONG BATTLE FROM GIANTS

Paterson, N. J., June 22—The Donerty Silk Sox defeated the New York Giants 6 to 5 in 14 innings today. Home runs accounted for most of the scores. Terry hit for the circuit with three on in the fifth for four Giant runs. A homer by Smith with two on tied the score for the Sox in the ninth and Knothe's four base swat in the 14th broke up the game.

The score by innings:

Huntzinger, Baldwin, Maun and Ainsmith; Hames and Smith.

SCHAUFFEL'S DOUBLE WINS CLOSE GAME FOR BRASSCOS

Waterbury, June 22—Alex Schauffel's double in the eighth inning coming after Long's successful tap down the third base line and Herman's wild throw over first on the play, broke up a pitching duel between Batchelder of Worcester and Rush of the Brasscos and gave Waterbury a 4 to 3 victory here today. Manager Bancroft of the Braves and Owners Fuchs and Powell were attended at the game. The score:

Waterbury	0	0	0	2	1	0	0	1	x	—4

Two base hits, Lefler, Schauffel. Three base hits, Gressett, Yordy.

TAFTVILLE A. A. EVENS UP SERIES WITH RIVERVIEW

Hard hitting at opportune times enabled the Taftville A. A. to win from the Riverview club Saturday afternoon, 15 to 1, and even up the series between these two clubs. Three triples off Pitcher Roy were responsible for the greater part of Taftville's runs.

Sunday, Taftville defeated the Stafford Springs team at Stafford by the large score of 14 to 6 in a loosely played game. Hard hitting and errors were responsible for the size of the score.

Hartford Easily Beats Albany.

Albany, N. Y., June 22.—Hartford easily defeated Albany here today by a score of 14 to 6. Catches by Genin and Cosgrove featured. The score:

Hartford	3	0	1	0	0	2	3	0	0	—14
Albany	0	2	1	0	0	3	0	0	0	—6

Two base hits, Cosgrove 2; Malone, Johnson, Gehrig, Long. Home runs, Kenna.

Ponies Beat Bridgeport

Bridgeport, June 22—Springfield defeated Bridgeport, 5 to 3, here today, bunching hits off Miljus in the first inning for four runs. Schreiber was wild but effective whenever the locals threatened. 14 Bears being left on the bases. The score:

Springfield	4	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	—5

Two base hits, Mullen, Oberc.

THREADMAKERS WIN TWO BRILLIANT VICTORIES OVER THE WEEK-END

A game of games was played at Recreation Park Saturday afternoon when the local entry in the Connecticut State League took the Torrington Tigers into camp in a fourteen battle three to two. Tales of Fred Fearnot and Dick Merriwell do not contain any more thrills than were crowded into this hectic pastime which was tucked away in the Thread Makers' bat bag after two men were out in the fourteenth and a majority of the fans had started to wend their way homeward.

Torrington had previously been handed a run and apparently the game was on ice for the league leaders with ancient "Dick" Tuckey slow-balling the home town hitsmiths to death. A ray of hope permeated the breasts of the faithful few when Willimantic came to bat for the last time and it was seen that Fred Smith and Sharpe were the first two batsmen. The first mentioned old reliable had previously gone hitless and was "due", the fans reasoned. But instead he flew out to short and groan No. 1 went up. "Bud" Sharpe had until now been the only Willimantic batsman to solve Tuckey's shoots with any degree of consistency, he having made three hits, including a triple and scored the home team's lone tally. But groan No. 2, was even more intensified than the first when Sharpe was thrown out by "Bob" Christie. The exodus to the gates was on. It halted momentarily when "Babe" Adams shot a clean single over short on the first pitched ball. "Jim" Tunney of Holy Cross was next up. He had looked immense in dragging down flies in right field but up to this moment had failed to live up to his reputation as a sticker. His "rep" came back by leaps and bounds, which also describes the antics of the fans when field for a triple, scoring Adams with he poled a tremendous drive to right the tieing run. Torrington handled the ball losely on the relay and Tunney would probably have scored but it was just as well when "Bunny" Trauske, emulating his team-mates and swinging at the first ball Tuckey served up, hit a single down the left field foul line, scoring Tunney and winning the game while the fans went into paroxisms of delight.

The game was a twirlers' battle from beginning to end if there ever was one. "Pete" Wood, in the box for the locals, never worked harder in his life. His opponent, Tuckey, was steadier but Wood, of a necessity, had to pitch himself out of more holes than his adversary and did the job admirably. Wood allowed eight hits, struck out six, passed four, hit two and made a wild pitch. Tuckey, on the other hand held the home club to six scattered hits up to the fatal fourteenth, three of which were made by Sharpe. He only retired three batsmen on strikes but did not give the semblance of a pass. He was an iceberg personified in the box. His habit of trying to slip over a good one on the first pitch proved his undoing in the end, however. He also tried his famous "sneak ball" but once and that on "Jim" Tunney who obtained sweet revenge in the fourteenth.

Torrington's first tally was luck pure and simple. Holden singled to left in the fourth with two men out of the way, stole second and scored when Conklin's roller took a freakish bound off this same player by Christie over E. Trauske's head. Another ball also bounded away from him for a hit and McLeon was passed, filling the bases but Wood field Tuckey's pop in front of the plate home in time to force Conklin.

The Thread Makers lost no time in tieing the score in their half of the fourth. Sharpe led off with a pretty triple to left. Adams hit one on a line to right field that was ticketed for extra bases but Ethier made a remarkable catch, first knocking the ball up in the air with his gloved hand and spearing it before it reached the ground while going at full speed. Sharpe scored easily, however, after the catch. The Torrington fielder was given a big hand as he came to the bench.

From this on the teams battled neck and neck, both threatening to score on numerous occasions but held in check by clever twirling and gilt-edged fielding. In the first of the fourteenth Ray Holden pickled one to deep center for three bags and it looked like the beginning of the end, when Conklin scratched an infield hit to Adams, all this coming with no one down. With Christie at bat, Holden apparently made a clean steal of home but the hitter tipped the ball and the Torrington leader had to go back. He was erased at the plate a moment later when Christie hit to Kamyk, "Mickey" Flaherty being toppled over in making the putout but holding the ball. McLeod then flied to Adams for the second out, but Wood at this juncture developed a wild streak, hitting Tuckey and passing Klinger, forcing in the run that looked as big as the Rock of Gibraltar until the locals' wonderful rally in their last turn at bat. The score:

Moosup an Easy Victim

Willimantic made it a perfect week-end by taking the Moosup team into camp in rather easy fashion at Recreation Park this afternoon to the tune of 6 to 1. The game was a twirlers' tussle into the sixth inning when both teams broke the ice. The visitors scored first with two down. Burns laced a single to left field. Richards mused up Roy's bounder and then Harrold came through with a clean blow to center, scoring Burns.

The home club lost no time in getting this tally back and plenty to spare. E. Trauske was safe when Moore booted his daisy cutter. Smith laid down a bunt and Mills threw wildly to second for a force-out. Trauske came all the way home when Noel mussed up the ball in center. Mills got Sharpe on a good play at first but "Babe" Adams came through with a ringing blow to center, scoring Smith. B. Trauske flied out to left. Hamel and Kamyk followed with doubles, accounting for two more runs and the fifth tally came over the platter on Flaherty's single to right.

Willimantic added one more for good measure in the eighth on a single by B. Trauske, another safe blow by Hamel and Noel's error. With two men on the sacks a double play, Mills to Couillard retired the side.

The hits were evenly divided, each side grabbing off eight but Richards fanned six and allowed no free tickets to first. The local boxman retired the side on strikes in the eighth. Mullowney on the other hand farmed on first string guard, although he held down this position the two previous years, but was rewarded but one letter and that in his sophomore year. He did not play enough quarters to receive his "C" in his freshman year. Besides being a football player, Martin was substitute center on the basketball team. He also holds the indoor record for the eight pound shot put.

To the position of captain of the track team fell the honor to Howland Vibber, the lanky and most consistent winner of the entire Tech squad on the cinder path this season. Unlike other athletes at High school who find track work rather prosaic and tiresome, Vibber took to the sport in his freshman year and from that time on has flashed out in front of all long distance runners. His record is clean and decisive, and his three years in dual and Eastern Connecticut Interscholastic participation in long distance runs, was one of the reasons of being the selection of his running mates to the position of captain. Vibber is now senior and is busy receiving felicitations from his many frends.

Maybe the most surprising election to the captain's position of the entire lot is the selection of Francis R. Courbois as captain of the baseball team for next year. Courbois who is a senior next year commutes from Norwich, his home town to New London to attend the local institution of learning. It will be remembered that Courbois at first entered Norwich Free Academy this past year and was not susceptible to the changes from Chapman Tech to N. F. A. so easily and before long he craved a vicissitude from his new surroundings to his old haunts around the Chapman Tech corridors. He was once more a familiar sight at the Waller street school and began his studies and his athletic playing the first day he entered.

Termed the fastest man in Chapman Tech, Courbois easily lived up to this prediction by breaking the century mark, completing the distance in 9 3-5 seconds. He was a member of the relay team and an exponent of the 220 yard run. A brilliant career is predicted for him [illegible]

On the baseball team, Courbois was shifted around in the early games and [illegible] the latter part of the year did not find himself stationed at third [illegible] natural position. WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW

New York, June 22—(By the A. P.)—Sporadic outbursts of profit taking interrupted but did not halt the upward movement of bond prices last week. Although trading relaxed after the previous week's record-breaking business, the strong underlying demand for investment securities continued to exert a tonic effect on the market. At the close of the week the average price of leading foreign obligations was in new high ground for the year, but that of domestic issues, after attaining a record level, fell back slightly.

Establishment of many new 1924 high records in the foreign list was said to reflect the search for higher yields, which were cut down by the rapid rise in corporation liens, and to foreshadow a larger volume of foreign financing. At the same time a decline in U. S. government bonds indicated a transfer of surplus funds into lower-priced investments, notably federal land bank obligations of which a $35,000,000 issue was placed on the market.

International bankers refused to admit that any important foreign loans were being prepared for early flotation. Expressing satisfaction with current bond market conditions, however, they asserted that new financing could be easily absorbed despite the normal summer lapse in activity. Meanwhile the intimation from federal reserve sources that the recent cut in the rediscount rate should prove a boon to foreign financing and sharp rallies in Austrian, French, Belgian, Serbian and Sout hAmerican bonds were considered significant.

Although new offerings for the week approximated $100,000,000, this total failed to measure the volume of bonds actually distributed. Private sales of several large railroad issues, including $75,000,000 Chesapeake & Ohio equipments and $10,000,000 Rock Island issues reflected the keen demand for high grade securities.

Continued ease of money rates resulted in unusually favorable terms for new state and municipal loans. North Carolina borrowed $2,000,000 for a short term at 2 1-2 per cent. and sold a $10,000,000 bond issue at a bonds also commanded a substantial premium. An offering of New Jersey premium.

Trading in domestic bonds during the week was marked by frequent unloading of liens acquired on the current upswing. Where profits were realized, however, funds usually were turned into other sections of the market. Shifting operations reduced the gains of Liberty bonds as buyers went higher yielding railroad, public utility and industrial issues. high grade securities.

Price movements of several railroad mortgages were influenced by individual developments. Denver & Rio Grande issues advanced smartly as the reorganization plan was put into operation. International Great Northern bonds were affected adversely by court action to block the merger of the road with the gulf coast lines but rallied sharply as the sale was completed despite this move.

Offered Odd Security

Roy Chapman Andrews, of the Asiatic expedition in China, overdrew the expedition's account with the American Banking company at Peking. When the bank asked for more security Andrews offered two dinosaur eggs 10,000,000 years old. The banker refused to consider the eggs as collateral, and it was necessary to sell the American-made automobiles, which brought half the original cost despite the fact that they had traveled 6,000 miles over the camel trails of northern China.

THE POST LETTERS

A successful young lawyer, hurrying through the snow, mentally cursed the impulse which had led a man of his rested brain power on a night like this to pass the domicile which housed the earstwhile lady of his heart—erstwhile, because two nights before, they had parted in the white heat of passionate anger.

An interview with Sylvia's father, who apparently knew nothing of the disagreement, had brought it all back to him that afternoon and he had been drawn this way as though by a magnet. When he reached the block in which she lived, he collided with a childish figure, charging head-on.

"Hi, there!" the boy shouted. "Doesn't you know you mustn't never stop the postman?"

"Postman!" Ellery repeated, his interest intrigued. "Pretty dark for you—it's six o'clock. Does the postcan't stop for dark. See!—holding out a letter—"they's real, for-sure letters, stamp'n, ever'-thing!"

Ellery took the letter, chuckling as he noted it was open.

After the first glance at the superscription his eyes blurred. He held it closer—looked again. There could be no mistake, it was one of his letters to Sylvia. Only last night he had phoned asking her to return them, and she had refused with the flimsy excuse that she no longer had them. He supposed she had destroyed them. To have thus lightly turned them over to some neighbor's child for a plaything or even to have cast them aside so carelessly!

"Gimme it," the youngster cried, beginning to cry. "I'm the postman! I wanna d'liver that letter. All the others is delivered. You'll be 'rested if you stop me postman!"

He was sobbing bitterly now, beating his small fists against Ellery's overcoat. An internal strife of emotional cross currents turned Ellery's mind into momentary confusion.

"Don't cry," he finally coaxed, patting the boy's wet cheek. "I don't want to be arrested. Suppose I help you instead?"

The sobs stopped suddenly. The boy looked up wide-eyed with anticipation.

"I'll be Uncle Sam," Ellery went on. "All postmen work for him. Some deliver, others collect. You've delivered, why don't you collect now?"

"Collectors has wagons," the boy answered suddenly, shaking his head. "Nope. Can't collect less I get a wagon."

The wagon was promised for delivery the first thing the following morning. Then it seemed to the tortured soul of the man standing there in the falling snow that aeons of time passed before he was able to paint the collector's job in sufficiently glowing colors to get his young friend to work at it before morning and the promised wagon arrived.

At last, however, the boy was persuaded to back trail over the short block, collect the letters he had left on doorsteps and porches, since he was too short to reach the mail boxes, and return them to Uncle Sam, who soon was on his way again, after watching the boy start up the path to the house in front of which they had collided and where he said he lived.

Behind his own locked door Ellery sat down to take stock of the whole miserable situation. He and Sylvia had quarreled over such a stupid, stupid, silly nothing, but when one word had led to dozens, the rage of one being pitted against the cold implacable fury of the other, a parting of the way had been inevitable.

A shiver crept over him as he plowed through the slush, conscious of increasing wrath against this girl he once had cared for.

The door of her home happened to be unlatched and standing a wee bit ajar. Rudely pushing his way in he began pacing the floor of the reception hall.

Sylvia, moving down the open stairway arrived at the bottom step just as her late lover, in his mad rush, reached the same spot. Without the identical moment, a boyish figure pushed through the unlatched door, halting smilingly at sight of Ellery while he waved a letter in his hand.

"Hello Uncle!" he sang out gayly. "Did you comed back for this letter I forgotted? I left it on the porch where I said I lived but I didn't. You can't have it, though—not this one—not till I get the wagon just like you promised."

"How dare you teach my innocent nephew to call you Uncle?" Sylvia exclaimed acidly, her eyes blazing with fury. "Is your sense of right and wrong completely dead?"

"I did. He was our nephew—Ellery began calmly, all the violence of his emotions fused melting into velvet softness at the mere sight of his beloved. "Forgive me, dear, for all I said the other night, won't you? Can't you—?"

"Don't you forgive him till he brings my wagon, Aunt Sylvia," the boy interrupted. "He's promised me a wagon. He is, too, my uncle, an' I'm his postman. We played a while ago with your letters. I got 'em off the desk in your room this mornin'—the ones you was cryin' over and kissin' so hard. Uncle Sam's got 'em now, all 'cept this one."

With cheeks flaming like a crimson poppy and eyes shining, Sylvia made one wild charge, in a vain endeavor to secure the letter; while Ellery, fumbling in his pocket, finally produced a crisp greenback, which he handed to the boy.

"There's the price of your wagon," he mumbled sheepishly. "Give us the letter now and run along, while your uncle return the rest of your aunt's property."

"But Ellery," Sylvia faltered, "that—that's regular blackmail! You mustn't—"

"Oh, that's all right," interrupted the lover waving a hand at the retreating youngster. "Uncle Sam's got that coming to him. He's the worst backmailer on earth. Ask your Dad—I helped him bleed out his income tax this afternoon."—Ottawa Citizen.

"TELEPHONE GIRL"

The "Holy Alliance"

In the early part of the Nineteenth century the rulers of Austria, Prussia and Russia, on the suggestion of Czar Alexander I, formed an alliance according to which the three rulers were to view each other as brothers and "delegates of Providence to govern three branches of the same family." They were to base their policies on "the sublime truths which are taught by the ternal religion of God our Savior." This agreement was called the "holy alliance."

A. S. Bennett, 40 years old, New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad engineer who was scalded in the wreck at Cornwall Bridge on the Danbury-Pittsfield line June 13, died at the Danbury hospital.

NOTICE
SPECIAL TOWN MEETING

The Legal Voters in Town Meeting of the Town of Norwich are hereby warned to meet in a Special Town Meeting, to be held in the Town Hall, in said Norwich, on

TUESDAY, JUNE 24, 1924
At Seven O'Clock P. M., (Standard Time)
For the purpose of deciding what action they will take upon a certain petition, signed by twenty legal voters of said Town and presented to the Selectmen, requesting the holding of a Special Town Meeting for the following purposes:

1. To decide whether the Town will purchase a tract of land and build a new schoolhouse thereon in that portion of the Town known as Norwich Town (or in the Fourth Voting District) in said Town, at a cost not to exceed $250,000 for said land, building and equipment and to appropriate said sum.

2. To decide whether the Town shall build a new school building on the tract of land owned by said Town in the Sixth Voting District (East Norwich, so called) at a cost not to exceed $100,000 for building and equipment and to appropriate said sum.

Also, to appoint a Committee to do all things necessary to erect said building or buildings.

Also, to authorize the Selectmen to borrow such sums and at such times as may be necessary to pay for said land and for erection of said building or buildings and to give notes or other evidences of indebtedness of said Town therefor.

Also to appropriate the sum of $75.00 for the purpose of installing a hydrant on the Canterbury Turnpike at a point about 400 feet from Peck's Corner, so-called.

Also, to do any other business proper and necessary to be done at said meeting.

Dated at Norwich, Conn., this 18th day of June, 1924.

TWO NORWICH MEN HURT WHEN AUTO HIT POLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

Westerly, R. I., June 23—Joseph R. Portelance of 313 Central avenue, Norwich, accompanied by James F. Cousins of 349 Main street, also of Norwich, were the occupants of Ford touring car N-5771, Conn., which crashed into a telephone pole at Clark's corner, Shore road, about 12 o'clock Friday night. The automobile, driven by Portelance, turned over at a place where the state board of public roads is making changes and improvements in the highway. Dr. ... W. Helfrich of Westerly was called and it was first thought that of the two men, who were unconscious, the driver Portelance was suffering from a fractured skull. The ambulance of the Westerly Sanitary corps in charge of Dr. Harold Kenyon took the injured man to the Backus hospital, Norwich, about one o'clock. Westerly police officer, George H. Champlin made an investigation of the accident. The damaged automobile, which sustained wrenched running gear, body and top torn off was towed to a Westerly garage.

Sunday morning an older brother of the owner of the automobile came to Westerly from Norwich to make arrangements for the removal of the automobile and to pay for the expenses involved. He reported that the young men were not as seriously injured as at first supposed and would probably be discharged from the hospital on Monday.

It was reported from the hospital Sunday night that both Portelances and Cousins have bruises and cuts on their heads, but they are getting along nicely.

BIG WEST END CELEBRATION IN PLANS FOR OBSERVANCE OF FOURTH

The people of the West Side and vicinity are displaying wonderful enthusiasm in co-operating with Paul Brown, general chairman, and his various committees to make the West End Community Celebration on Fourth of July a "banner day." From the parade of horribles in the morning at 9 o'clock (standard time), to the last glimmer of the fireworks in the evening, they plan to have a most delightful programme. Progress has been the watchword of every committee and the wetaher is the only uncertain factor.

The committee reports that the plans for the parade in the morning are nearly completed. Many of the local merchants are donating prizes while various firms are decorating and generously giving their trucks to be used as patriotic floats. The parade will be divided into three sections namely: Truck floats, horribles (both individual and group), and decorated cars. All wishing to enter are expected to confer with one of the committee: R. M. Browning, chairman, Frank Davis (truck floats), Prof. Frank Maples, John McWilliams (decorated cars), Mrs. Frank I. Royce, Mrs. Herman Pukallus, Mrs. Samuel [illegible] and Mrs. Arthur Armstrong.

The afternoon, which will be spent at the Fair Grounds, will be crowded with activities. Athletics, under the supervision of Samuel Slosberg will claim the early part from approximately 1 to 4.30 o'clock. Provisions have been made for nearly every kind of sport and the following skeleton programme has been submitted by the committee:

40 yard dash (younger boys), final and semi-final; 60 yard dash (older boys), final and semi-final; same events for girls; 60 yard potato race (several classes); obstacle race; running broad jump, hop, skip and jump; 220 yard relay race (younger boys); 440 yard relay race (older boys); 3-legged race (men); shot put (several classes); horse shoe game (older men); tug of war (married versus single men); tug of war (married versus single women) and several baseball games.

Mrs. Roderick Sullivan has worked up a most interesting programme for the younger children which will include all kinds of games and stunts.

Every one will bring their basket lunch which will replace the usual evening dinner. Following this will be the community singing under the supervision of Roderick Sullivan. Robert Otis has been secured to accompany the group who will be provided with song leaflets.

In the early evening, as soon as the darkness permits, the fireworks will be on display. These will be supervised and no other fireworks will be permitted on the grounds.

To top the climax there will be an "old fashioned barn dance." The details of this event will be given out later.

On Tuesday evening the final committee meeting will be held at the home of Mr. Sullivan and arrangements completed for the big day on the Fourth.

WEST POINT GRADUATE WITH HIGH STANDING

Standing 15th in order of general merit in a class of 405, Cadet John H. Brewer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy F. Brewer of this city, was graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point June 12th. Cadet Brewer is now passing several weeks furlough with his parents on Dunham street.

BULLETIN FORCE ENJOYS ANNUAL FARM DAY

An event always eagerly anticipated by the Bulletin force, farm day, [illegible] the guests of General [illegible] William H. Oat at his [illegible] South Stonington, occurred [illegible]y. The rain of the morning had no appreciable effect upon the pleasures of the party of 40 men [illegible] conveyed to the farm by automobile [illegible] pt to cause an attendance [illegible] annual ball game between the job room and the newspaper force [illegible] had to be called off because [illegible] unds. Special guests were seven men [illegible] in the Mergenthaler linotype offices in New York who made the trip here to participate in the festivities of the day. A chowder served [illegible] the morning and a chicken pie [illegible] noon were features of the [illegible] fraternal gathering.

$550 ON TAG DAY FOR SALVATION ARMY

Tag day for the Salvation Army, which was conducted Saturday, brought in the fine sum of $550, which will be a material addition to the reports that will be made at a meeting of the campaign teams at Salvation Army headquarters this (Monday) evening.

Salvation Army workers of this city, Willimantic and Bridgeport, who were out on the streets with the tags and the little boxes for contributions, were assisted by Norwich young women, who were under the direction of Mrs. Eben Learned. Those who assisted in this way were the Misses Faith Curtis, Constance Learned, Frances [illegible], Alice Sayles, Polly Benton, Millicent Osgood, Anita Nicol, Evelyn Huntington, Molly Churchhill and Irene [illegible].

Y. M. C. A. SCERETARY SPEAKS ON "THE TRUE AMERICAN"

At the Young Men's Christian Association Sunday afternoon an interesting service was held in the parlors. After the opening exercises of hymns, scripture and prayer and solos rendered by Hugh Kinder, several reels of moving pictures were shown, including "An American in the Making," "How Mountains Grow," and "Scenes in the West Indies." These were all interesting.

Between the reels Secretary Edwin Hill gave a brief talk on "What Makes a True American," and among other things the speaker said: "I do not know how many foreigners we have in America, but there are millions of them. Some people say that we should not permit them to come to our shores: we should welcome those who are willing to assimilate our ideals, and become true Americans, but those who come and begin to break our laws should be dealt with in a very definite way. Judging by the names of many who are termed bootleggers who are brought before our courts, very many of them are foreigners: it might be a good thing to deport such as these, who have no respect for our laws or ideals. What are the elements that go to make a true American? Loyalty to our glorious flag; loyalty to all of our ideals; loyalty to all of our splendid institutions: these are phases of true Americanism, but there is still another phase, without which our Americanism is incomplete. On this silver dollar I hold in my hand, I notice between the outspread wings of the eagle on this coin are the words, 'In God We Trust," but I fear this it not true of all who live in our country. It is not possible for a man to be true to his country in the other phases of loyalty, and yet fail to trust in God and follow His leadership. The foundation of all loyalty must be founded in trust in the Almighty and in loyalty to His laws; if we are fixed on this foundation we will surely make American citizens worthy of the name. Like the young man to whom Jesus said, 'one thing thou lackest,' so this one thing, too, may lack, and we who are interested in the making of Americans, let us emphasize this absolutely necessary phase of loyalty without which no loyalty is complete."

UNIVERSALIST PASTOR ON THIRTY YEARS IN MINISTRY

Rev. A. N. Foster, pastor of the Church of the Good Shepherd (Universalist), who was ordained at Lynn, Mass., thirty years ago and has filled pastorates in Massachusetts and Illinois, preached Sunday morning upon the topic "Thirty Years in the Ministry" from the text Isaiah 40.31 "They that wait upon [illegible] strength, he spoke in part [illegible]

In the book entitled the "Wonderful Century," [illegible] Wallace counts the [illegible] nineteenth century [illegible] achievements of the 19th century.

"The attainments of science well nigh surpass those of all previous centuries combined, in number if not in influence. The scientific attainments of the last 30 years seem to be equally startling and mysterious and incredible. The development of the automobile with industr[illegible] the common use, by [illegible] individual, of the wireless and the radio and the modern combination [illegible] gases vitally change our community habits and also threaten with dangers before undreamed.

American [illegible]on commands resources of [illegible] and of men and [illegible] men never before equalled in history. Such education has also shown itself in our day capable of adjustment to industrial and agricultural need and opportunity. That is no small accomplishment.

Political and social reform also seem to have followed space in our day. The democratic spirit and method have spread and autocracy has been displaced in China and Russia and Austria and Prussia. The world war, the greatest disaster in history, forced us to form new standards for evaluation and we do not yet command lasting peace.

What are the corresponding changes in religion during the last 30 years and what the call of the ministry today?

Religion is tempted to resort to the sensational and the worldly for sake of immediate effect. In so doing it loses its distinctive appeal and sacrifices its special mission. Religion must be authoritative in its message and spiritual in its relation to society, if permanence of influence and inspiration of conduct be desired. The ministry affords mental freedom and an opportunity to help make public opinion. To realize that your own individual efforts harmonize with and become a part of great life currents reflecting world tendencies and the universal trend and making for the ideal, verily gives a man the satisfaction which is deep and ennobling. After a ministry of over 25 years in Massachusetts and Illinois—in the Boston and the Chicago districts—I have come into Connecticut. The deepest satisfaction of the years of service has been, not outward reward, [illegible] but [illegible] law and [illegible] of the [illegible] recall [illegible] son devot[illegible] Lynn, Mass., [illegible] commencement we[illegible]

NEW YORK STAGES GIGANTIC PARADE FOR ITS DEM. GUESTS

Sailors and Marines, a Contingent of Soldiers and Eight Airplanes Accompanied 25,000 City Employes in March Up Fifth Avenue—Police, Fire and street Departments Made An Excellent Showing—54 Brass Bands Were Scattered Through the Line—Optimistic Statements Have Been Issued From the Headquarters of Various Candidates.

New York, June 23—New York today paid an impressive honor to its guests of the democratic national convention in the form of a gigantic and picturesque municipal parade.

Down flag-embellished Fifth Avenue, from the present called the avenue of the Americas, before crowds banked to the curbs throughout the three miles of the route, 25,000 city employes passed in review, led by Mayor Hylan and the heads of municipal departments.

Accompanying them were detachments of sailors and marines from the New York navy yard, a contingent of soldiers from Governors Island and eight airplanes from Mitchel field, flying in formation [illegible].

The [illegible] police, firemen and street cleaners—the three most numerous city departments—in one line of march made the procession the largest parade of New York City employes ever held.

A large proportion of the city's 15,000 policemen passed before the convention guests. The riot squad, carrying rifles with bayonets and girded with clubs and pistols, were in the rear guard. The mounted police [illegible] were as spick and span [illegible] at dress parade. [illegible] corps of the fire department and the army of "white wings", were striking objects of attention. Scattered through the long line were fifty-four brass bands.

CLAIMS OF VICTORY MADE BY CAMPAIGN MANAGERS

New York, June 23—(By the A. P.) The eve of the democratic convention finds the rival campaign managers advancing an abundance of claims of victory but a dearth of details on which their estimates are based.

Not one of them is ready to announce from what specific delegations he expects to draw strength enough to give his candidate the 732 votes necessary to nominate.

On the basis of instructions given in state conventions and primaries, and [illegible] preferences of those who are uninstructed, the present inclination of the 1098 delegates is to divide their support on the initial roll call among of a full score of candidates.

[illegible] in round numbers, [illegible]ment is that [illegible] have in the [illegible] on the first [illegible] At Smith [illegible] about 210, [illegible] 60 votes are [illegible] about 50 or [illegible] James M. [illegible] have in sight [illegible] first ballot votes, [illegible] perhaps a few [illegible] Governor Silzer; [illegible] Senator Ferris; [illegible] Glass; Kanawha [illegible]han Davis; [illegible] Senator Harrison [illegible] Senator Robinson; New Hampshire's 8 to 10 from Cyr[illegible], to Governor Brown; Nebraska [illegible] to Governor Bryan; Colorado's [illegible] Governor Sweet; Delaware's six to Senator Saulsbury; and Wyoming's six to Senator Kendrick.

That leaves less than a dozen votes [illegible] column until the halfway [illegible] mark.

STRING OF VISITORS AT THE DAVIS HEADQUARTERS

New York, June 23—The John W. Davis headquarters spent a busy convention eve with a steady string of visitors coming and going. There was no concrete development in the effort of Mr Davis' West Virginia neighbors to make him the party nominee for president but there was a deal of complimentary talk from visiting delegates and leaders of the home town grab movement from Clarksburg professed much confidence that Mr. Davis would prove ultimately to be the man in which the convention could unite itself united.

The West Virginia delegation caucused during the day but business was confined to naming convention committee representatives and the usual [illegible] session about convention tickets. No delegation ever wholly escapes that row but it did not bring any particularly loud words in the West Virginia group.

There was no need to take up the question of presidential nomination preference in the caucus. The West Virginians are for Davis, first last and all the time," they declare, although they are an uninstructed delegation with each member following his individual preference. From the first they have insisted that they had no second [illegible]

ROOSEVELT REPORTS SMITH BOOM VERY ENCOURAGING

New York, June 23.—Delegates from 21 states met today with Governor Alfred E. Smith and Franklin D. Roosevelt, his campaign manager, and discussed questions affecting governor's candidacy and acceptance for the democratic presidential nomination.

At the end of the day's events, Mr. Roosevelt said, the series of conferences had been "very encouraging, revealing many unexpected sources of support," for the Smith movement. It was explained, however, that while the delegates who called did not, in all cases, represent the full delegations from the states they represented, they let it be known that Governor Smith has "votes in them."

The states represented either in whole or in part were named by Mr. Roosevelt as follows: Tennessee, Virginia, North and South Dakota, Kentucky, Missouri, Washington, Oregon, Utah, Colorado, Nebraska, Louisiana, Florida, Mississippi, West Virginia, Maryland, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Maine.

Governor Smith divided his time today between political, municipal and state affairs. In the morning he met a state board from Albany, and awarded printing contracts for the year. Then, a brief stay at his campaign headquarters devoted to conference purposes, and he left to review the parade of 25,000 men in the employ of New York city, including the police, firemen and street departments.

Henry Morgenthau, former ambassador to Turkey, issued a statement from the Smith headquarters urging nomination of New York's chief executive.

"We must elect someone who has proved his capacity by administering high office to the satisfaction of all his constituents, someone who is above suspicion; someone who has [illegible] credit as defying Hearst in 1922, and now in successfully preventing the capture of the democratic nomination by McAdoo; a man who has successfully and to the entire satisfaction of his constituency filled the office of governor of the state of New York for two terms, and who should, like Governor Tilden, Cleveland, Hughes and Roosevelt, be given an opportunity for a larger sphere of usefulness."

TO PLACE RALSTON'S NAME BEFORE THE CONVENTION

New York, June 23.—Hoosier delegates put Senator Ralston, Indiana, actively into the presidential race here today.

At a meeting marked by great enthusiasm, the delegates decided to have Fred Van Nuys, former United States attorney for Indiana and Ralston's law partner, put the senator in nomination, and to cast Indiana's 30 votes for him, "from then on."

Decision to place Ralston's name formally before the convention was a surprise to delegates generally and did not meet with the approval of many of the senator's friends outside the Indiana delegates. Powerful influences immediately began to argue with Thomas Taggart, who is in active charge of the senator's campaign, to dispense with the nominating speech. Taggart listened attentively to the arguments against a formal nomination and tonight his attitude was described as "half convinced."

Indiana leaders declared that if any speech were made it would be short and devoid of oratorical flourishes. Their hope is to make the senator's position before the convention as dignified as possible.

Optimism over the senator's chances were expressed by the entire Indiana crowd from Taggart down. Taggart insisted that Ralston is the second choice of more than [illegible] delegations than any other man and that he will begin to pick up voted as soon as the states have paid their compliments to their favorite sons. Taggart thinks that large blocks of votes will come to his man if it becomes apparent, as he believes it will, that neither Smith nor McAdoo can be nominated.

WOULD FOLLOW VIEWS OF LATE WOODROW WILSON

New York, June 23—Newton D. Baker of Ohio former secretary of war, announced on his arrival here today that he would ask the democratic platform committee to adopt a declaration of principles in accord with the views of the late Woodrow Wilson.

An outline of these principles, as Mr. Baker understood them, probably just before Mr. Wilson's death he discussed the subject with a number of his intimate friends, with a view to drafting a set of principles to present to the democratic convention, but that the task was never finished.

BAY STATE DELEGATION FAVOR ANTI-KLAN PLANK

New York, June 23—An anti-klan plank was approved by the Massachusetts delegation to the democratic national convention today with instructions to Senator Walsh, who will represent the state upon the resolutions committee to vigorously press for its incorporatin in the party platform.

The delegation also adopted a resolution declaring for a modification of the Volstead act.

An effort to instruct the delegation for Governor Smith failed, although his name was enthusiastically received.

UNDERWOOD HAS ANTI-KLAN RESOLUTION

New York, June 23—Armed with a drastic and specific arraignment of the Ku Klux Klan by name which he desires to be placed in the democratic national platform Senator Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama formally followed his hat into the presidential ring and got on the job in person at his campaign headquarters. His first act was to distribute in person to the waiting newspapermen copies of the anti- K. K. K. resolution.

Democrats in Discord on Convention Eve

Chief Advisers are in Disagreement Over Party Politics—Candidates Deadlocked.

New York, June 23—The democratic national convention will assemble in Madison Square Garden at noon tomorrow with its favorites for the presidency deadlocked, its chief advisers in disagreement over party policies, and its delegates seeking a leader to guide them out of the wilderness of their own indecision.

In the vast arena of the storied old amphitheatre political observers expect to see enacted such stirring scenes as live forever in political history. It will be a battle of men and measures with burnished shield and tempered steel flashing in the radiance of a mounting flame of party enthusiasm.

Despite the differences over platform declarations, the convention is looking to the contest over candidates as likely to furnish its greatest spectacle and its most serious difficulty. The claims of twenty aspirants for the presidency have been placed before the delegates in a fevered preconvention period, but there was no clear indication tonight that the convention would find even in such a field the standard bearer it is seeking.

In pledged delegate strength William G. McAdoo stands well ahead of all his competitors. Governor Al Smith, the idol of the New York democracy, has developed a backing that will put him in second place on the opening ballot. Down the line will be ranged a long list of others, whose managers tonight were predicting triumphantly that both of the leaders would be eliminated in the end by the bitter rivalry between them.

Today there was a rallying of strength in the camps of both Smith and McAdoo that kindled enthusiasm to a fever heat and kept the hotel district of New York echoing with the cheers of marching delegates. Mr. McAdoo, taking notice of fast-flying reports that some of those pledged to him were preparing to quit the fight after the early ballots, told a group of his supporters in a public speech that no delegate had been sent to the convention to "betray a trust." Governor Smith, appearing before a crowd of thousands to review a civic parade, was welcomed by roars of applause and acclaimed by his partisans as the next president.

During the day most of the state delegations held caucuses to compare impressions and plan their part in the big show. The done of most of them was one of uncertainty and speculation, but it became increasingly apparent that many who will have convention votes are disposed to make selections of their own after they have fulfilled their instructions to cast their ballots for this or that candidate on the initial roll calls.

COTTON BROKER GWATHMEY HAD BEEN GRANTED DIVORCE

New York, June 23—On instructions from Justice Vernon M. Davis, a jury in the supreme court today rendered a verdict in favor of Archibald B. Gwathmey, Jr., wealthy cotton broker, in the divorce suit brought by Mrs. Isabelle Coomes Gwathmey.

The Gwathmeys were married while Gwathmey was a student at Yale. They separated in 1919 and later Gwathmey obtained a divorce in Florida, which was held not binding in New York. Gwathmey then obtained an interlocutory decree in Texas, but abandoned it before his wife filed suit.

DENY DOHENY DONATION TO THE McADOO CAMPAIGN

New York, June 23—David Ladd Rockwell, manager of the William McAdoo campaign, tonight denied a statement published here today that E. L. Doheny, the oil man, had contributed $10,000 or $35,000 to the McAdoo campaign for president.

"The assertion contained in an article in the New York Evening Post, owned and controlled by the rich republican Curtis interests that the preconvention campaign of Mr. McAdoo was financed by E. L. Doheny, is, of course, an utter lie," Mr. Rockwell said.

MEANS TESTIFIES IN HIS OWN DEFENSE

New York, June 23—Jess Smith, a friend of former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, committed suicide following the refusal of Gaston B. Means, and his secretary, Elmer W. Jarnecke, to act as his agent in the return of $21,000 received for liquor withdrawal permits, Means testified today at the trial himself for violation of the prohibition law.

Means testified that Smith had asked him and Jarnecke to act as his agents for the return of the money at a time when Washington was flooded with rumors of indictments in connection with the laxness of the prohibition law enforcement.

BODY WAS FOUND NEAR BRIDGE OVER CONN. RIVER

Hartford, June 23—The body of Peter Toner, 35, was found early tonight near the railroad bridge over the Connecticut river. He had been missing since yesterday afternoon when he went swimming at Wilson station, on the west side of the river and north of where the body was found. The body was found on the East Hartford shore by two boys. Dr. H. J. Onderdonk, East Hartford, medical examiner was called and pronounced death due to drowning and gave permission for the removal of the body.

ON TRIAL FOR ATTEMPT TO MURDER HIS WIFE

White Plains, N. Y., June 23.—The trial of Clarence O. Baring, charged with having tried to murder his wife by putting poison and disease germs into her food, today was adjourned before any jurors were chosen. It will be continued tomorrow.

Court was adjourned in respect to John F. Brennan, attorney, who died in Yonkers today.

More than forty witnesses have been summoned, 27 for the prosecution. District Attorney Rowland said Mrs. Baring would be the state's chief witness, Baring, his counsel said, also will take the stand.

Speaking of auctions, the most painful thing under the hammer is the thumbnail.

Press of New York Unfair, McAdoo Says

Takes Exception to Statements That McAdoo is Losing Ground in Campaign

New York, June 23. — William G. McAdoo, in two addresses today to delegates to the democratic national convention, renewed his assaults on the metropolitan press for what he characterized as unfair tactics and declared his confidence that victory for progressive democracy with himself as leader was as certain as though already recorded.

Both Mr. McAdoo, and his campaign manager, David Ladd Rockwell, took cognizance of reports, published and spoken, that McAdoo is losing ground and that much of his support will be dissipated after the first few ballots. The candidate for the presidential nomination "assured" delegates from far western states who marched to his hotel upon their arrival that a statement that they would "betray" their trust was a libel upon them and their states.

Mr. Rockwell in a conference with newspaper correspondents declared that McAdoo not had lost any delegates, but had gained some.

"And we have a reserve strength that will surprise you," he added. "All this talk about our losing ground is pure propaganda designed to influence vascilating delegates."

Speaking to the delegates from nine western states and Hawaii and the Philippines, Mr. McAdoo told them they had not come here to "betray, but to execute a trust."

And I know that you are going to do it," he said, "and that every other democrat in America is going to do it."

This declaration brought long cheers from the delegates and cries of "we are the last ditchers."

"You bet we are last ditchers," McAdoo shot back. "We are not only last ditchers, but we are path-finders for democracy."

Mr. McAdoo's second address of the day was delivered at a luncheon given in women delegates to the convention by Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, and Miss Carolyn Ruutz-Rees.

In it he declared the convention must adopt a progressive platform and name a progressive candidate if democracy is to triumph.

Renewing his attack on the New York newspapers, he declared that he was "game" but added that his hearers knew he was not "getting a square deal," from the Metropolitan press.

There was no pronouncement from McAdoo headquarters as to the candidate's attitude toward the question of abrogating the rule requiring a two-thirds vote of the delegates to nominate. Referring to this subject generally, Mr. Rockwell emphasized that discussion of such abrogation had not originated in the McAdoo camp, but had been initiated by George E. Brennan, the party leader in Illinois.

Out of the gist of pre-convention statements came those praising and assailing McAdoo's candidacy. Governor Pat M. Neff, of Texas who declined to become a delegate from his state, declared that the selection of either McAdoo or Smith would mean defeat for the party.

"Smith is too wet," he said. McAdoo is too oily," Governor Neff declared.

George L. Berry, of Tennessee president of the International Printing Pressmen of America, and himself a candidate for the office presidency, declared that McAdoo undoubtedly has the confidence of the west and south.

PHI BETA FRATERNITY IN ANNUAL CONVENTION

Hartford, June 23—About 100 delegates to the fourth annual convention of the Phi Beta fraternity, representing twenty five chapters in various parts of the country were entertained at a dance tonight, following the program of sight-seeing and theatre parties as arranged for the second day of the convention. The gathering opened last night and will close tomorrow night.

San Francisco, June 23.—Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan, army flier, successfully completed his daylight-to-dusk flight from New York to San Francisco when he landed at Crissy field at 9.48 p. m. He arrived in San Francisco at 9.44 p. m.

Lieutenant Maughan passed over Vacaville, about 25 miles in an air line from San Francisco, at 9.26 p. m., according to advices received by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company.

Mitchel Field, June 23.—A lone airman, Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan, this morning began a race with the sun in the hope of spanning a tenth of the earth's circuit before his path is darkened.

Two unsuccessful attempts in the past year had not dampened his ardor and following a light breakfast the trail blazer took the air in his 400 horse-power single-seater plane at one-half minute before 5 o'clock eastern standard time.

Some few clouds were in the sky, but the eastern star behind Zenord as a guide, and a half moon lit his way toward and over the Alleghenies which he hoped to cross before full daylight. One hundred and fifty spectators watched the departure.

Crissey field, at San Francisco, lies 2,670 miles west, as the crow flies. The aviator will go somewhat farther in his jumps between four inland fields, where fresh supplies and a few moments rest away from dinner the flight scheduled to consume 16 hours and 10 minutes, just four hours less than the maximum amount of daylight vouchsafed him.

From his margin of time the four re-fueling stops may take four hours, but he hopes to cut each stop to a third its scheduled time.

Before retiring for a short rest late in the evening the lieutenant was jovial and apparently carefree, but when he [illegible] his face was set. It may have been memories. Twice before death have cheated him of a victory earned in full.

Ahead of Schedule

Dayton Ohio, June 23. Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan landed at McCook field from Mitchel field, N. Y. at 7.05 eastern standard time, and took off at 8.16 in his third attempt to span the continent from dawn to dusk.

Maughan covered the first lap of his journey, New York to Dayton, 475 miles in four hours and seven minutes, slightly better than the schedule he had planned.

Progress of the flight was delayed one hour and 11 minutes here to repair to a crossline line.

Mechanics at McCook field also placed wheels with larger tires on the ship.

FLORIDA DELEGATION IN ROW OVER PROHIBITION

New York, June 23—A row over prohibition enforcement broke out today at a caucus of the Florida delegation with William Jennings Bryan on one end of the argument and Former Governor Albert W. Gilchrist on the other. In the end, Mr. Bryan had his way.

The fuss was precipitated after Bryan had been placed on the committee which will frame the platform. Mr. Gilchrist offered a resolution declaring it the sense of the delegation that there should be no prohibition plank. After 20 minutes discussion, marked by exchanges of personalities, the resolution was rejected. Gilchrist and Thomas J. Appleyard, also a delegate at large, were its only supporters.

Several members of the delegation joined with Bryan in declaring it would be a mistake to tie his hands with instructions.

Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, addressing a meeting of Congregational ministers today said that a "dry plank will not help prohibition enforcement laws on the statute books of Washington."

"Congressmen," he continued, "look for their respective districts rather than to planks for instruction.

"The democratic party, however, cannot afford to take a less aggressive attitude toward the question of law enforcement than the republican party. They would do well to take a stronger position."

DECISION AGAINST ECLECTIC PHYSICIANS

Bridgeport, June 23—Finding the Connecticut Eclectic Examining Board was an asylum for graduates of discredited medical school and that the St. Louis College of Physicians and Surgeons was a "harbor for lepers," from other medical schools, former Gov. Marcus H. Holcomb, state referee, today made public his report on the petition of five eclectic physicians for a review of the state's action in revoking their licenses.

After a voluminous recitation of facts, showing the manner in which the eclectic medicos secured their licenses, the referee states that should the court uphold the facts as proving fraud, the petitions should be dismissed.

The petitioners were Arnold H. Brien, Bernard Kafka, Isidor Yochelman, Harry Chaimson and Gerald R. A. Richardson.

COURT HALTS DESTRUCTION OF 7,300 ACRES OF COTTON

Los Angeles, June 23—Plans to destroy 7,300 acres of cotton near Tucson, Ariz., in the war against boll weevil, were halted today in federal court here when four judges granted a preliminary injunction, restraining agricultural quarantine officers from immediate action until the matter could be heard further in court.

DIAMOND RING WAS FOUND IN AN EEL

Greenwich, June 23.—An eel caught by Albert J. Kane, of Greenwich Point Field Point park, Greenwich, has netted the fisherman more than $500. Inside the elongated fish the fisherman found a platinum dinner ring containing 17 diamonds and six sapphires. A Greenwich jeweler placed the value of the ring at $550 or more.

SUICIDE LEFT NOTE TELLING OF INSANITY

Winsted, June 23.—The lifeless body of a well dressed man believed to be Grover Bradt, 37 years old, who served in the United States army was found above the Central New England tracks near the old toll gate between Winsted and Norfolk about 5 o'clock this afternoon by Timothy Hart, who lives nearby.

Beside the body was an envelope containing white powder believed to be poison. A letter addressed to J. J. Mahon, Schenectady, N. Y., also was found near the body and read as follows:

"Somewhere between Winsted and Norfolk, 8.20 in the evening, daylight [illegible] sudden change of insanity has given over me. I will end it all right now. Perhaps I will be here [illegible]

WILLIMANTIC

Walter S. Tripp, popular Deputy Jailer at the Windham County Jail daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Duerr at Brooklyn, and Elisabeth Duerr, of Franklin, Conn., were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Franklin Congregational church parsonage. The pastor, Rev. W. J. Tate performed the ceremony, the wedding being a quiet one. The only attendants were Miss Mabel Duerr, sister of the bride and Harold Capenaw, as maid of honor and best man respectively.

Mr. Tripp is a former Willimantic resident having been a supernumerary officer of the local police department prior to his appointment as jailer, where he succeeded to Charles Parker. Mrs. Tripp is widely known in this section of the state having taught at the district schools of Coventry, Lebanon, Franklin and other places for the past eleven years. She is a graduate of the Stamford High school. After a brief trip the honeymooners will return to Brooklyn where they will make their home for a time.

Judge Frank H. Foss laid down the good book of rules in regards the passing of trolley cars by automobilists at the session of police court Monday morning. His remarks were not only directed to Adolph K. Swenson of Elmwood, Hartford, who was charged with passing a trolley, while passengers were being discharged, but to all concerned. Swenson pleaded not guilty, but on the strength of evidence, given by Officer Roderick Larivierre, who was responsible for the arrest, the accused was disposed guilty. Swenson said that two women had stepped to coat with the motorman and Prosecuting Attorney Samuel P. Harvey stated that if such was the case he did not believe that the accused should be made to pay for the conservation. The matter was explained by the police officer and Swenson was fined the minimum of $10 and costs amounting to $20.15 which was paid.

Michael Avsbin of Ashland street, Jewett City, did not seem to know the right from the left of Main street while driving his automobile in this city with the result that he was arrested by Lieutenant McLean and booked on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. A pint of moonshine was found in the Jewett City man's pocket and he was decidedly drunk. He was scheduled to appear in police court here Monday morning, but upon his failure to do so the case was continued until next Saturday morning. His automobile is being held by the police in lieu of a bond.

Zygmond Saklowski of Chapman St. was charged with selling liquor and he pleaded not guilty, stating that he had not sold a drop since his last arrest two months ago. The case was continued until Saturday morning.

Victor Hamel was before the police court Monday morning, to answer for the fourth time this year, on a charge of intoxication, his last appearance was four days ago. Judge Foss put into effect a 30 day jail sentence and ordered Hamel to pay the costs of Monday's and the previous trials.

The removal of a 1,400 pound granite cap from the top of a seventy foot chimney was the hazardous job tackled on the west side of the roof of the Loomer Opera House block here recently by Christopher Mannick, local steeplejack and his helper. Mr. Mannick had furnished a $1,000 bond to protect the city from any damage suit that might occur from any accident while the huge capstone was being removed. The chimney was strapped up to avoid injuring while the human fly plied a sledge hammer on the stone. In this way it was broken into pieces and lowered to terra firma without trouble.

Miss Alice Dube and Charles Dorr were married Monday morning at seven o'clock, at St. Mary's church, by Rev. E. A. Mathieu. The maid of honor was Miss Helen Bernier of New York city and John Nascin of North Windham Road was the best man.

A nuptial high mass was also celebrated by Rev. Father Mathieu. The bride was charmingly gowned in white georgette with a veil of tulle and she carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses. Her maid of honor wore a gown of Chinese blue georgette crepe and carried pink roses. A reception was held at the home of the bride at 38 Bolivia street following which Mr. and Mrs. Dorr left for New York on a honeymoon journey. They will reside at Madison, N. J. The bride is a well known local young woman. Mr. Dorr has been a linotype operator at a local printing company, for the past two years.

Joseph W. Caron and Miss Jeanne Hebert, both local young people, were married at St. Mary's church Monday morning at eight o'clock, Rev. J. J. Papillon, the pastor, performed the ceremony and also celebrated the nuptial high mass. Walter G. Caron and Miss Rose Hebert were the attendants. The bride was attired in a beige gown with hat to match and she carried white roses and sweet peas. Her maid of honor wore a salmon-colored gown with hat to match and she carried pink roses and sweet peas. A breakfast was served at the bride's home, 501 Pleasant street with guests coming from Norwich, Taftville, Worcester, Springfield and this city. The couple are honeymooning to Montreal, Canada, New Hampshire and Worcester. The groom is receiving clerk in the American Thread Company office here and Mrs. Caron has been employed in the winding department of the Rossie Velvet Co.

The funeral was held at the late home Monday afternoon at three o'clock. Services were conducted by Rev. John E. Clark, pastor of St. Joseph's church. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery. The pall bearers were four of the little playmates of the deceased. Killourey Brothers had charge of the arrangements.

There may come a day when one can safely drive his automobile over all of the railroad crossings in this section, without fearing the sacrifice of springs. The two principal crossings at Union and Main streets have been put into excellent condition, but this by no means applies to the crossing of the New Haven road at Milk street. Something of what is likely to happen there can be listed in this manner: A strange driver, a Ford car, a little speed, heavy rain, wet tracks, an upset Ford, injured occupants.

William E. Higgins of Francis St., was a member of the team which won the Walter Scott cup for lawn bowling at Hartford recently.

A banquet and dance will be staged at the Al Pierre Tabarin next Monday evening by San Jose Assembly No. 14 Knights of Columbus, the occasion being Ladies' Night.

MYSTIC

A very pretty home wedding occurred Monday afternoon at 3.30 at the home of Mrs. Mary Gordon on Noank road, when her daughter, Miss Wilhelmina Gordon, became the bride of Charles O. Ryon, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Ryon, of Stonington. The house was profusely decorated with flowers, the ceremony being performed under a floral arch, by Rev. J. G. Osborne, pastor of the Union Baptist church. The bride wore a gown of brocaded white French crepe with veil and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The matron of honor, Mrs. Rudolph Imdahl, sister of the bride, wore a gown of Nile green silk and carried pink roses. The best man was William E. Ryon, Jr., of Philadelphia, brother of the groom. The bride is a graduate of the Fitchburg Normal school of Fitchburg, Mass., and has been a popular teacher at the Broadway school for the past two years. The groom is a graduate of Brown University, class of 1919, and is engaged in the grain business in Stonington, being president of the company. After the reception, which followed the ceremony, a wedding supper was served. There were about fifty guests present, including guests from Fitchburg, Fall River, New Bedford, Providence, New York, Philadelphia, Westerly, Stonington and Mystic. The bride was the recipient of an unusually large number of beautiful gifts of linen, silver, and cut glass, as well as money. After a wedding trip by automobile through the Berkshires, Mr. and Mrs. Ryon will be at home after July 1, at the home of the groom's parents, in Stonington, where they will take up their residence.

The bonus applications for the adjusted compensation act are in the hands of Commander Theodore Anderson of the Richard William Morgan post, American Legion. Anyone wishing an application or assistance in filling out the blanks can call at his office and secure same. One of the requirements is a finger print of the applicant and this also can be taken by Commander Anderson, as he has the necessary appliance. Also, all dependents of beneficiaries, are requested to get in touch with Commander Anderson, as more data is required on their applications even than on others. It is necessary for every applicant to bring his discharge papers when he calls for assistance in filling out the bonus application. The regular meeting of the legion will be held Thursday evening and at this time various matters of importance to the ex-service men will be brought up.

WESTERLY

Fire Chief George E. Egger of Westerly left town Monday afternoon, for Boston, where he will attend the third annual meeting of the New England Fire Chiefs' association, which is to be held on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week at the Mechanics hall building. Chief Egger was present at the organization of this association three years ago in Boston and it so happened that it was the time of the Ople block fire, the largest fire loss in recent years in Westerly. This year an effort was made to have the New England chiefs meet in Vermont, but Boston was chosen as the convention city.

At the Mechanics hall this year will be seen by the two hundred chiefs who will attend, one of the largest and most complete exhibitions of fire fighting apparatus supplies and accessories ever shown. For the benefit of the visiting chiefs the Boston fire department will display the skill and equipment of the firefighting forces. Talks will also be given by fire fighting men of experience and Mayor Curley of Boston will officially represent the city.

The National Fire Chiefs' association convention will be held in August of this year at Buffalo. As a part of the Buffalo program a Great Lakes steamboat trip will be one that few will miss. It is Chief Egger's intention to be present also at the Buffalo sessions.

Monday morning at 8.30 o'clock at her late home 232 High street, the funeral of Miss Margaret Ferrara was held. A requiem high mass was held at the Church of the Immaculate Conception at 9 o'clock, Rev. Thomas J. Larkin, S. M., officiating. During the service, Martin H. Spellman sang Thy Will be Done, and Miss Rose Bannon sang Beautiful Land on High.

Interment was in St. Sebastian cemetery, where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Henry Brunc, S. M. The bearers were Dominic Nocito, Joseph Gencarella, Antonio Chiarido, Joseph Cozzolino and Louis Murano.

Benjamin Bogue, 23, of Groton, was arraigned Monday morning at 9.30 in Stonington town court, Borough hall, before Judge William A. Wilcox. Bogue was before court on complaint of Prosecuting Attorney George R. McKenna and in the warrant was alleged to have entered the dwelling of Lillian B. Russell, 17 Moss street, Pawcatuck (Stonington) on the 20th of May at 11 p. m. with intent to steal.

A similar complaint on date of May 21, about 1 a. m. alleged a feiorous break and stealing from the house of David S. Myers, 5 Cedar street, at which time one flash light, $1, one purse $1, currency and coin $63, in all $65 was taken. The defendant again pleaded no guilty.

Charles W. Connors, a Pawcatuck patrolman, stated that between 1 and 1.30 Friday morning, June 20th, Bogue stopped his automobile in front of the Central theatre and that he followed him up Palmer street and up to the Cottrell residence on West Broad street. That when Bogue came down and crossed the river bridge into Westerly in his auto he accompanied Westerly police officer Robert Russell and Bogue was located on John street a half mile from his automobile on Granite street. Bogue was taken to the Westerly police station. Friday morning Bogue's room at Mrs. William Greig's, 47 Mechanic street was visited and three pocketbooks were found on top of the dresser in his rooms and three flash lights in a bureau drawer.

Davis S. Myers, 5 Cedar street, testified that there had been stolen from him $65 or $70, and a flashlight together with one used in paying parcheel and one dream book. In a purse was $6.50 and this was taken as well as money from a cloth bag and from a pair of pants $25 in $1 bills and from his wife $18. A flashlight taken from Bogue's room and a purse was identified as his property.

Mrs. William Greig, 47 Mechanic street, Pawcatuck, said that Bogue had rented a room for four weeks at her house. Previous to Bogue's occupancy the contents of the furniture in the room had been cleared out. She was present when the officers searched the room and saw the flashlight taken from the drawer, which had been identified in court.

William Greig, husband of Mrs. Greig stated that he could swear to the identity of Bogue. He did know the future in the room had been cleaned out and he ha varnished it before the room was let.

Attorney asked the defendant if he cared to question the witnesses had received a negative reply.

Pawcatuck Patrolman Francis McMahon testified to accompanying Officers Connors in the search and he had talked with the accused after he had been turned over to the Stonington authorities and he had denied all knowlege of the articles.

Miss Lillian B. Russell, 17 Moss street, identified a purse and a flashlight found at Bogue's room as her property and said that her home had been broken into during the month of May and that the articles were missing.

Mrs. Harriet A. Goff, 17 Moss street, mother of Miss Russell, said that in entering the house the pantry window was used as the means of entrance. She said she retired about 10.10 and on arising at 5.30 found the lower part of the house all open, and that all the rooms had been ransacked and articles stolen. Judge Wilcox asked Bogue if he cared to question the witnesses and he said no, "I will only say I am not guilty."

Town prosecutor said that sufficient evidence to hold the prisoner had been shown nad asked that the accused be found probably guilty and bound over to the superior court in substantial bonds of not less than $2000.

Judge Wilcox found probable cause and bound Bogue over in the sum of $2500 to the September session of the superior court. A mittimus was issued and Officer Connors took Bogue to New London county jail at New London.

Henry O'Keefe, has returned to Westerly from Fall River, Mass., and entered the employ of the R. A. Sherman company to be employed in Bradford.

While on his way to work Monday morning, Dennis Geary of 124 Tower street, died suddenly from heart disease, near the cold spring on the Potter Hill road. Mr. Geary was in the rear seat of the automobile owned by John Carney and was going to his work at the Bradford Dye Works in Bradford. Medical Examiner Dr. Michael H. Scanlon was called and pronounced death due to heart failure.

Dennis Geary was born in Pawcatuck in 1859, the son of John and Katherine Buckley Geary and lived his entire life in Pawcatuck and Westerly. A stonecutter by trade, he was employed at the Chapman and Red Stone quarries. He was a member of the Westerly branch of the Stone Cutters' union and a Modern Woodman. Surviving is his wife, three daughters, Mrs. K. F. Gallimore, Mrs. R. Wytych of Fond du Lac, Wis., and Mrs. Terrance Mallahan of Westerly; three sons, John of New London, Timothy, Dery, Pa., and Frank, of Westerly.

The sight of an ice wagon rolling up the front walk of the Westerly and Public Library on Broad street, about 3 o'clock on Monday afternoon, supplied a cooling vision to those on the inside. But this was not the case with the driver, who lost control, nor to the nervously inclined pedestrians, who happened to be in the immediate vicinity. The ice truck was backed out into the highway and no damage done.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Staats of Newport, R. I., returning from a wedding trip following their recent marriage, which included a visit to Niagara Falls, were the guests on Monday afternoon, of relatives, in Westerly.

Miss Florence McCann of Westerly is visiting today (Tuesday) in Tewksbury, Mass., where she is attending the graduation of her brother.

Dr. William Howard of Baltimore, Md., the summer cottager at Metacomet, Watch Hill road, Watch Hill, was an automobile visitor in Norwich, Monday, en route to Hartford.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

GOOD CHEER SINGERS.

A cantata, "The Call of Summer," will be given in this city by the Good Cheer Singers of New London. Beside the chorus, fourteen little girls will assist in one of the chorus numbers. The soloists will be Mrs. J. D. Libby, soprano; Mrs. Ida C. Richardson, alto; George Dodd, tenor; R. B. Hayes, bass; Mrs. Walter Spencer, saxophone; Miss Beulah Smith, violin, also J. D. Libby, reader.

The history of this chorus of 25 voices is interesting. They were the volunteer choir of the New London M. E. church until last year, when a quartet was engaged. To still keep them together as a musical organization they formed the Good Cheer Singers, their object being to bring pleasure to sick and shut-ins, in hospitals, etc. Their most unique donation to their community has been the giving of their services to small churches who would be unable to have a large volunteer choir of their own for special occasions.

The money earned in secular concerts enables them to meet the expenses of their Good Cheer work.

Few men who find themselves between his satanical majesty and the deep blue sea are drowned.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

BREED

From her grandmother, a lady in the French court during the Second Empire, Renee de Quiros inherited an uncontrolable midnight madness—a madness that incited her to kill. So it came about that one midnight during a festival, Renee, masked, danced the wild habanera of Mexico, while the man who endangered her happiness dared to flirt with this unknown creature of allure. Nearer, nearer he came. Wilder, wilder she danced. Then—See what happened in Mae Murray's latest Metro picture, Mademoiselle Midnight, which is showing today at the Breed theatre for the last times.

Coming to the Breed

Strongheart, the wonder dog, is scheduled for an appearance at the Breed theatre for four days, beginning tomorrow in his latest First National picture, The Love Master. It derives its title from the fact that in this play Strongheart selects his own master without regard to who has legal title to him.

The story is laid in the sparsely settled regions of Canada and centers about the mystery of the voodo man who has arrived with Strongheart and ends with the solution of the mystery and the love victory of the young belle of the settlement along with the boy from the states.

A dog race, film during the progress of a real one contested by the best dog teams in Canada for prizes offered by Laurence Trimble and Jane Murfin, producers of the picture, provides some real thrills. Strongheart's love idyll provides real comedy, and for sheer drama the battle waged by Strongheart against death in behalf of his "love master" has seldom been equaled on the screen.

Palace Theatre

Tiger Rose, Edmund Goulding and Millard Webb's adaption of David Belasco's famous play of the same name, is the story of a wildcat child of the Canadian Northwest, starring Lenore Ulric. Born of vagabond parents, and deserted early in this life, this girl, nicknamed "Tiger Rose" is thrown upon her own resources. Her life and participation in the loves and hates of the men she is thrown in contact with in this frozen waste, forms the basis of a picture that is well worth seeing. This Warner Brothers production now playing at the Palace.

Also latest Pathe news, The Spat Family in their funniest two reel comedy The Darkest Hour, and Palace supreme orchestra Pique Dame, complete this high class program.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday

Scarcely a corner of the world was overlooked in the production of Thundergate, a First National picture, which opens Thursday at the Palace theatre.

First of all, it's a story of Chinese and American life, in which an American, with the appearance of an Oriental, is forced to masquerade as a Chinese lord.

In the cast, playing atmosphere parts, are such nationalities as Chinese, Koreans, Japanese, Malaysians and Hindus.

The play was adapted to the screen by Perry N. Vekroff, who was born in Egypt. His mother was Bulgarian, his father Greek, and he lived most of his early life in Turkey.

Added attractions, Episode No. 3, The Telephone Girl, with bewitching Alberta Vaughn, Georgo O'Hara and an all star cast. Review and Palace supreme orchestra.

Broadway Theatre

Pola as the darling of an underworld cafe who becomes the toast of the theatrical world of France, in a story written especially for her.

That's Pola Negri's role in her latest production for Paramount, "Men," which opened at the Broadway theatre last night. It's a story of the type that Pola Negri is great in—a love drama of fashion and passion, with a novel twist, a story that gives the star a chance to wear gorgeous gowns as only she can wear them.

Dimitri Buchowetzki, a continental producer, brought to this country by Paramount for the express purpose of starring Miss Negri in this picture; wrote the story himself and has gotten the star to put every last ounce of fire into her portrayal, with the result that "Men" is Pola Negri's greatest achievement.

Robert Frazer is leading man; Robert Edeson, Joseph Swickard, Monti Collins, Gino Corrado and Edgar Norton play insupport.

Here's Poli as you've always wished to see her!

The Andy Gump comedy, "Aggravatin' Mamma," is great fun. A Kinogram completes the programme.

Children are admitted free today and Wednesday matinee if accompanied by a lady. Bring them all.

Real Estate Sale.

Real Estate Broker John A. Moran has sold the modern eight-room cottage on the boardwalk at Crescent Beach to George I. Saxton. Mr. Saxton is the superintendent of stores of The Great Atlantic & Pacific Stores in New England. Mr. and Mrs. Saxton will occupy the cottage as their home during the summer season.

MAXWELL HOUSE COFFEE

"Good to the Last Drop"

The secret of the goodness of Maxwell House is this—the best of many varieties of the world's finest coffees are blended together into one taste and securely guarded by the sealed tin. The fragrant aroma and unmistakable flavor of Maxwell House Coffee are uniform—dependable—unchanging.

AN OPEN LETTER TO WOMEN

Tells of Mrs. Vogel's Terrible Suffering and how she was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Detroit, Michigan.—"My troubles were severe pains in my back and terrible bearing-down pains in my right side, also headaches and sleepless nights. I first began having troubles when I was 15, and they have increased as I grew older. A little booklet was left at my door, and I read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for women and decided to try it. After the first week I could go to sleep every night and I stopped having that nervous feeling and got a better appetite. The doctor had always said that an operation was the only thing that would help me, but I never had any faith in an operation. Since the Vegetable Compound has started helping me I do not suffer the severe pains, feel stronger, and am able to do my own work. I am more than glad to tell my friends that it helps where other medicines have failed."—Mrs. Gus Vogel, 6608 Pelouze St., Detroit, Michigan.

A record of fifty years service must convince women of the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

No advance use of firecrackers or explosives of any kind will be tolerated in the borough, Chief John McFarland of the police department has stated. Already there is sporadic use of such devices and this fact has brought forth the comment of Chief McFarland.

He particularly calls attention to the fact that the use of revolvers by celebrators of the Fourth will be ruthlessly prohibited. He calls attention to the fact that it is directly against the law to use revolvers for such a celebration; that a person must have a permit, in any case, to carry a revolver and that possession of a revolver by an alien is prohibited. If necessary the officers will confiscate all revolvers found in possession of celebrators as well as placing such celebrators under arrest.

It will be perceived from all of this that Chief McFarland intends that [illegible] shall cause a safe and sane observance of the Fourth, insofar as it is possible for the police force to make it.

There is no intention on the part of the police to prevent anyone from having a good time and enjoying themselves thoroughly, but it is held that this can be done without breaking the law and without endangering lives or property.

Sunrise of the Fourth is the time when the celebration may begin in earnest. Special officers will be on duty the night before to see that all the regulations are observed. It will be recalled that last year was a very quiet year as to the observance of the Fourth in Danielson, especially the night before the holiday, when everyone was surprised at the quiet that prevailed.

Included in a list of Connecticut appointments as second lieutenants in the officers' reserve corps, as sent out from Washington, is the name of Sergeant James Doyen of Brooklyn, to be second lieutenant of infantry. The other appointments are of men residents of New Haven, Bridgeport and Waterbury.

Enforced vacations this summer is going to interfere in an extensive way with the usual vacation periods at this time of year. For many the usual summer absence from town for ten days to two weeks has been crossed off the calendar of events. It appears, however, that many have found that a splendid vacation can be enjoyed in this immediate territory, offering many outdoor attractions and diversions during the summer period.

Pavement in the business section has again been worn out at points along where the trolley line runs and close to the rails. This condition has developed in the past and is regularly taken care of by crews of the state highway department. Repairs such as are required will be made in the not distant future.

The confession of one of his associates as to a double murder at Westerly a few weeks ago relieves James Duffy, formerly of this town, from the most serious phase of the affair that resulted in his arrest as one of a trio held in connection with the recent killings. It is now understood the Duffy had no actual part in the killing of the men. Duffy, known here for years, never was accredited with being vicious and there was great surprise when he was arrested over his having been associated with characters who did not hesitate to plot against their fellowmen.

Those who may be interested in the proceeding of the Democratic national convention in New York to the extent of listening by radio to what goes on may tune in at 11 o'clock standard time, this morning if they would hear Cordell Hull, national committee chairman, call the convention to order. Then will come the appointment of the temporary chairman and the convention will be on.

One sometimes wonders whether state road fences are insured by the state highway department. The thought is suggested by the fact that a stretch of such fence is bowled over about every day, somewhere in the state, by motor vehicles that go on a rampage. Miles of such fence, in the aggregate, must be wrecked each year. Two or three sections were knocked over in this section at the week end.

NEW SCHOOLHOUSES, OR NOT?

Norwich is confronted with the important question of providing additional school equipment. On the East Side and at Norwich Town the present schoolhouses are not large enough to seat the pupils that attend and cramped conditions have prevailed for some time. The question is as to what shall be done to meet the situation.

According to the recommendations of the school board the erection of a new building at the cost of $250,000 that will replace two and possibly three buildings at Norwich Town, Bean Hill and Yantic is proposed. This would involve the transportation of children. For the relief of the East Side situation the erection of a new building at an expense of $100,000 is sought.

It will not be surprising if opposition develops to the idea of transportation of the children. It is in evidence that the East Side believes that provisions should be made for a larger school building, while there are those who figure that the situation can be met in part at least by the building of additions to the present schoolhouses so that the children can be accommodated in their present districts.

The question is one that is before the taxpayers and voters of the town. Coming up for action tonight at a special town meeting it calls for a representative gathering of the townspeople that there may be a full and fair expression of opinion as to what should be done to meet the situation. Schools are of the utmost importance. It is vital that they should meet the requirements. It is important that those who are going to be asked to meet the expense should thoroughly understand the situation and the reasons of the school board in putting forth their recommendations.

Don't leave this decision to the voice of a few. Norwich should turn out in large numbers and settle the matter for the best interests of the respective sections of the town.

AUTO BRAKES.

As the result of the investigation which the American Automobile association has been making concerning brakes on motor cars, its legislative committee reports that this is a matter to which the states have given little attention, and that in most states where there are requirements they are for the most part indefinite.

That this state is one which gives more than the average attention to the matter of car control is shown by the report of the president of the association, who says: "Connecticut is the only state which has a definite requirement as to brake performance. The law in this state specifically provides that every motor vehicle, except motorcycles, shall be equipped with at least two sets of brakes operated independent of each other and sufficient power to lock the wheels while in motion, yet this regulation is now admitted to be generally inadequate and is not being enforced."

The question of proper brakes is one to which Connecticut has given much attention in keeping with its other motor vehicle regulations. That as a leader in this respect simply emphasizes the importance which Connecticut has attached from the first to proper laws, well enforced, relative to automobiles and the use of the highways thereby. Connecticut has been the inspiration for many states. Its motor vehicle laws are constantly being studied. Its regulations are being accepted as guides.

Cars that are not properly equipped with brakes are a decided menace on the highways. Not only does it obligate the driver in so controlling his speed that it will not be necessary to make sudden stops, but it leaves him helpless in case an emergency arises over which he has no control. The speeding car which has effective brakes can be stopped under normal conditions within a short distance but the auto or the truck without brakes creates highly dangerous situations when they are without brakes or have such badly worn brakes that they will not hold. There are enough highway dangers without having them increased through inadequate equipment.

PHYSICAL CONDITION OF CHILDREN.

When the assertion is made that three-quarters of the school children of the United States are defective, one will wonder whether this is the result of newly discovered evidence or whether the conditions have prevailed each year in the past and is therefore nothing new.

The statement appears to be based upon a survey that has been made of 22,000,000 school children and of that number it was found that 15,000,000 had bad teeth, 2,000,000 to 4,000,000 had bad arches, defective spines or joints, 3,000,000 had poor eyesight, 1,000,000 some degree of deafness, 3,000,000 to 5,000,000 were suffering from malnutrition, 1,000,000 had or have had tuberculosis and smaller numbers have heart trouble or are mentally defective.

It is entirely possible that many of the ills are entirely minor. It is nothing new for children to have bad teeth or to suffer from defective vision or mal nutrition. The existence of such conditions, however, does not mean that they should be neglected. It does not justify the idea that they should be allowed to go unnoticed. Calling them to attention through the survey or by other means only emphasizes the importance of giving attention to them that the troubles may be dealt with while they may be minor ones and that early attention may prevent a needless waste of life.

It will be well remembered what a surprising disclosure came during the early days of the war when such a large proportion of the young men of the country were found to be unfit for military service. That was in keeping with the statistics compiled concerning the school children. If those of school age are permitted to go without adequate attention, when corrections are the most easily made, it can be appreciated that they are bound to present that same degree of physical defectiveness in later years which the war revealed.

A stitch in time saves nine is an old saying that may well be applied to the physical defects of children while the chances of getting the best results are the most promising.

CHANGING GUN ELEVATIONS.

When the navy department asked the budget director to include in his recommendations for the congress that meets next December the sum of $6,500,000 for the purpose of elevating the guns on the battleships of this country's navy, it is simply keeping to the front one question which has been turned down in other congresses.

Each time the subject has been raised it has been disposed of unfavorably, not because of the sum involved but because of the uncertainty as to whether it would be a violation of the naval agreement. It is a matter which is going to be kept before congress until the changes in the ships are approved or it is definitely determined that it is a treaty violation.

There is nothing in the treaty that directly forbids the change, the elevation of the guns being accomplished through turret changes. Through greater elevation the guns will send projectiles to a greater distance, which advantage it appears is already possessed by the navies of Great Britain and Japan. It does not mean larger guns or new guns, but simply less restrictions on the part of the turret construction so that they can be elevated higher when being fired.

Inasmuch as the trouble over the change seems to come from the treaty terms, it would seem to be a desirable thing on the part of the navy department if it would devote its efforts to getting an interpretation of that agreement between now and December that would settle that point. Otherwise it doesn't appear that congress would be in any better position to act upon the proposal when it meets next time than it has been in the past. The same obstacle is sure to be pointed out. The greatest help to the navy change seems now to lie in the knocking out of the claim that it would violate the naval agreement.

THE CONVENTION AT NEW YORK

Much attention will be attracted this week by the national convention of the democrats in New York, where candidates for president and vice president will be named and the party platform adopted. It is certain to be a convention of many uncertainties and one whose length it is impossible to determine in advance.

While there are candidates who claim to have a majority of the delegates the stage is all set for a long contest provided there is a prolonged insistance on the part of the delegates for their respective candidates. As might be expected under the circumstances the choice of the presidential nominee completely overshadows that of the vice presidential. With a half dozen or more names freely mentioned for the first place practically none are heard for second place.

With no prospects of a change in the rules so that a majority can nominate conditions are such that many ballots can be anticipated. Whether it will prove a record-breaking convention in this respect no one can forecast. All that is certain is that there are possibilities. To exceed all others it would be necessary to continue for two weeks and have 60 ballots before the necessary two-thirds of the delegates decided upon one candidate.

The wrestle with the platform planks will keep the resolutions committee busy following today's session and with that settled attention can be concentrated upon the choice of candidates. There is no prospect of the completion of the business of the convention with such speed as was shown by the republicans at Cleveland, nor with the same appeal to the country.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The democratic national convention opens today, the first free for all of the year.

The man on the corner says: Summer is the only season that has respected its schedule.

When June tries to make up for lost time it furnishes days that have been a rarity so far this year.

There is always a certain amount of fuss about legislation but in Rhode Island they have begun adding the fumes to it.

Four bathers drowned in western Massachusetts on Sunday indicates that the season of hot weather and chance taking is with us.

You might not anticipate it but there are already objections being raised to the extreme heat of the present June with its few warm days.

William Jennings Bryan says he will speak in New York only in case of a perilous emergency. Meaning, of course, that such is sure to develop.

Ambassador Warren has found it necessary to say that he is going back to Mexico. All because someone thought it fit to say that he had resigned.

Some New Yorkers are very sensitive. Those who have provided the money for public concerts, have objected to the mayor of the city trying to claim the credit for furnishing the free music.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Washington, D. C., June 23.—All Washington is now talking of the probable outcome of the New York convention. The spectacular entrance of Mr. McAdoo into the city on his way to the convention, and his equally spectacular departure in less than an hour, brought his name and his publicity methods to every lip. Mr. McAdoo knows how to advertise. He was in office as secretary of the treasury when George Creel was publicity man for the Wilson administration, McAdoo included. Newspaper men covering the war news realized more keenly than anyone else, how thorough was the team work done by administration officials and their publicity agent. Mr. McAdoo came to Washington a few days ago, arriving at an hour of the day when crowds easily gather; he was greeted by admirers who promptly raised to their shoulders the tall spare candidate and bore him in triumph through the station. The scene was effective, for the "bearers" wore the working clothes of railroad yard employes, and there was little to remind the looker-on that Mr. McAdoo is a multi-millionaire, and the man who for several years got a retaining fee of $50,000 annually from Doheny of oil investigation fame. The thrills of the McAdoo entrance to the capital was along the lines of "one of the plain people." After waving his hat and his hand to the crowd, Mr. McAdoo entered a big limousine and with Mrs. McAdoo, rushed to the home of Mrs. Wilson's step-mother, the widow of the late President Wilson. The McAdoo's and Mrs. Wilson were never on especially cordial and intimate terms, but with the possibility of "mother and daughter" each occupying the position of first lady in the land, and so continuing the Wilson regime through another administration, any breach is at least, seemingly healed.

Republicans here are expressing loud satisfaction over the Cleveland ticket. "Cleveland & Dawes" cannot be improved upon, they say. The great fear in the minds of leaders, aside from the La Follette possible third party, is that the easy nomination of Mr. Coolidge will mislead the people of the country into thinking his election will follow as a matter of course. "We must guard against over confidence and apathy" said one of the republican spokesmen today. "We must not forget that a unanimous convention does not mean a sure winner. The combination of La Follette insurgents and the democrats would defeat Mr. Coolidge, and that is what each of those two elements will strive to do. Whether La Follette sails under the flag of the republican party or an independent one, his first efforts will be directed to the defeat of the Coolidge-Dawes ticket." Men here are looking to New England to set the pace for a big victory.

That the republican platform is a sound and strong one, is indicated here by the way it was assailed by Senator McKellar, democrat of Tennessee who remarked, "It is spineless, courageless and a mere aggregation of meaningly words." Which may be safely interpreted to mean, "the republicans have this time hit the nail square on the head."

One of the features of the democratic convention will be the Reading Clerk Pat Haltigan, whose record as chief reading clerk of the national house of representatives is unbroken even when the administration changes. Pat is a wonder. His enunciation is perfect, his endurance limitless. He has been reading clerk at democratic conventions and as a feat of endurance went through 44 roll calls at the convention at San Francisco without showing a tired note or bit of huskiness in his great voice.

Whenever a disturbance arose in that convention Pat Haltigan's big voice rolled out by night or by day and quiet was restored.

Washington affairs have been transferred to New York, but the capital is flooded with literature boosting the principal candidates. Carter Glass of Virginia, can no longer be counted in the dark horse class for he is now an out and out candidate with a big five-page pamphlet bearing the title "Carter Glass, the man who can win" blazoned on its cover.

McAdoo has bulletins telling of his achievements; Governor Smith is making a big showing in advertising his candidacy here while Senator Underwood, with copies of his printed platform which features the attack on the Ku Klux Klan, keeps the mail filled with talk and reading matter. Some of these advertisements are as big as booklets.

The Coolidges have settled down to a quiet family life. No more receptions, garden parties or formal entertaining will be done until next December.

The diplomatic corps has thinned out, and embassies and legations are left in charge of minor officials. Many diplomats who have not returned to their own countries for the summer are planning to spend it in New England.

Now a member of the New England congressional delegation is now at the capitol.

While everybody here wonders who will be the nominees at New York, Senator Ashurst, the cowboy senator from Arizona has made it evident that he will not be in the lists. Ashurst has many admiring friends in the party and his name has been mentioned for a possible second place on the ticket. Here is what Ashurst himself has to say about it, and he said it to Washington newspaper men with his customary vigor and gestures: "Any man who puts my name in nomination for that post will be promptly hit over the head with a soft custard pie. If that does not subdue him, then a baseball bat will be used."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Etienne Clementel, who has been given the important post of Minister of Finance in the new French cabinet, is one of France's leading authorities on economic questions. During the war he held many ministerial portefolios at the same time on account of his administrative genius. M. Clementel is a native of Auvergne and still takes an active part in the affairs of his native province. As a young man he entered the service of the Minister of the Colonies and showed such excellent administrative ability that not so many years afterward he became minister himself. In recent years he has been Minister of Post and Telegraphs, Minister of Commerce, Minister of the Merchant Marine, and Minister of Labor and of Agriculture. He has held the chairmanship of the Supreme Economic Council and of the committee on economic questions that sat during the preparation of the Versailles Peace treaty. As president of the International Chamber of Commerce in Paris he has become well known outside of France.

Poverty brings us strang bedfellows and riches bring us queer nightmares.

HE MEANT WELL

"You'd better steer clear of that young Harry Artichoke," warned the pessimistic uncle. "He's always bringing you $5 boxes of candy and orchids and folderols!"

"Why, uncle Philander!" objected the family flapper. "Harry's the most generous soul in the crowd! He's perfectly wonderful the way he thinks of what a girl would like and then goes and gets it!"

"Uh huh," grumped the pessimistic uncle, settling down to business. "The question is, after you marry him and he, with his sensitive perceptions, detects that you are yearning madly for a beefsteak, is he going to have any money left to pay the butcher?"

"Behold,' a girl remarks to herself, 'here is a man who knows what to do with his money—instead of hoarding it in musty old banks he puts it where it will bring joy to those who can appreciate the fine things of life such as cabaret suppers, theatre boxes, balls and American Beauties! How kind and generous he would be with his wife!'

"That's the way they thought about Spartacus White, whose father had made fortunate investments. Spartacus never called on a girl without producing a candy box and it wasn't one he bought at the drug store, either. If the style that year in candy boxes was two lace frills, his boxes always showed four and a ribbon besides.

"When he picked out Hepatica Hemp for his bride about a dozen other girls nearly died from rage and envy and became cynics upon the subject of justice in this old world.

"And Hepatica, five years after her marriage, was making over her trousseau for the third time and wondering whether she could squeeze out a quarter a week as dues so that she could belong to the sewing society or something like that. You see, Spartacus owed so many bills and found so many surprizing new ones tumbling about his ears after he began to support two persons instead of one that he never did get caught up and so just quit trying. Having heard somewhere how easy and natural it was for women to economize he just suggested to Hepatica that it was up to her to help him out and I think she's taking boarders now or something like that.

"On the other hand you don't want to get interested in any young man who squeals audidly if a girl takes a 20-cent soda instead of a 15-center and who tells her, if a sudden rainstorm comes up and she has on new $20 satin pumps, that a brisk walk in the rain-freshened air is the very best health preservative known and that he loves to feel the droplets beating against his face instead of being shut up in a stuffy old cab.

"Delbert Gipps was like that and, of course, he had a hard time getting any girl to venture out with him on the rare occasions when he decided he would spend the price of a movie on some one of the fair creatures. Delbert's idea of being real entertaining was to haul out one of the old envelopes he always saved in his pockets and figure on it all evening to show the girl how, if he compounded interest and put so much in the bank regularly, when he was 75 he would be able to snap his fingers at the rest of the world. He had a chart of expenditures.

"I guess Corina Broome forgot to observe there were no little sections marked 'amusements, charity, travel, books,' because she acted quite as though she had done something when she succeeded in marrying him.

"The poor thing didn't fare any better than Hepatica and although Delbert had money to burn she never was able to get hold of enough to boil coffee over. Delbert was always so engrossed in figuring that he never observed her clothes and she didn't dare risk the explosion after she had once asked for money for a dress.

"What you want to do is find a happy medium and then nail him down right quick."

"They seem to get you coming and going, don't they?" mused the family flapper in sad surprise. "It looks to me as though I'd better take my candy and flowers right now, when the taking's good! Thank you so much for telling me to, dear uncle!"

"Well, I'll be blowed!" said the pessimistic uncle in despair.—Chicago News.

HURLEY COULD NOT FIND THE RIGHT JOB

When E. N. Hurley was a mere lad he helped his mother in the kitchen of their home in Galesburg, Ill. When he attended the public schools, he worked on a farm during vacation time earning $3 a month. When 14, he quit school and worked in the Burlington railroad yards.

When 16 he started out into the world, and got a place on a switch engine at Aurora. Three years later he was the youngest engineer on the Burlington system, earning $35 a month. That was big money for him but when the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers "walked out" he went, but for all time.

Next he was secretary for P. M. Arthur, of the Brotherhood, then deputy collector of customs and afterward he was chief engineer at the Cook County Insane Asylum, at Dunning, Ill.

Going West, he represented a concern making metallic packing for valves. In spare time he invented a pneumatic bell-ringer and other appliances. For each invention his salary was increased $25, until it grew from $100 to $300 a month.

He perfected a pneumatic blow-off cock for throwing dirt out of locomotive boilers. He asked his firm to give him $1 of the $5 profit it would make on each. Not only was this refused but the customary salary increase was denied. He had worked hard, and the refusal was the last straw, so he quit.

He was 32, had little money, but started a factory in a barn. Three months later he turned out a pneumatic boring machine. It was a success. Two years afterward he mortgaged practically everything he had and started the Standard Pneumatic Tube Company, of Chicago, with $50,000 capital, then organized the International Pneumatic Tool Company, of England. At the end of four years he sold out his interests and at 38, was a millionaire.

He retired and became a farmer but six years later started the Hurley Machine Company, made it another success, and today is chairman of the board.

He was chairman of the Federal Trade Commission and during this country's participation in the war was chairman of the United States Shipping Board and president of the Emergency Fleet corporation, and his efficient leadership won him honors from this and other countries.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

Socotra

"Socotra, isolated island off the northeastern point of Africa, where a lighthouse keeper is rumored to have been the victim of cannibals, has always been associated with much pleasanter thoughts than man-eating savages," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"For it is the 'Isle of Frankincense' from which once came most of the pleasant, aromatic gum burned as incense in the churches and temples of both the west and the east. It is even possible that one of the gifts of the Magi to the Infant Jesus came from Socotra, for in the past the island was almost the sole source of this highly prized gum.

"The suggestion that there are cannibals on Socotra is somewhat surprising. The island people became at least superficially civilized ages ago through the influence of gum traders. They were at one time Christians, but since the 15th century have been Mohammedans. They are ruled by a sultan under British protection. Nor is the island small; it is nearly half as large as Crete or Porto Rico.

"Socotra is not often visited by westerners, but this is rather because of the religious jealousy of the sultan than because of any danger from the natives. The latter were described a few years ago by a visitor writing for the National Geographic Society as 'a kindly folk hospitable and quite harmless.'"

Continuing, he wrote: "Hadibo, the capital, or Tamarida, as the Arabs call it, from Tamar, the date fruit tree, is a collection of flat-roofed white houses scattered among the palms. The sultan's 'palace' is a large mud structure with flat towers, and the two prayer houses are suggestive of the graceful Arab mosques only by contrast. The poorer population, chiefly of African descent and much older in the history of the island than its Arab aristocracy, lives in huts of thorn and plaited grass, invariably overrun with luxuriant gourd vines. Surrounded by tiny garden plots, in which tombac, or native tobacco, lentils, melons and yams grow abundantly, they are more picturesque outside than inside.

"There isn't much to be seen in Hadibo. The principal amusement afforded the visitor is that of being seen.

"Nothing could be lovelier than the sight of slender Socotran cattle grazing knee-deep among the grasses and the palm branches that line the banks of the lagoons near Hadibo. Clouds massed above and mountains near behind; long shadows dappling the water, and the sun turning to gold the tawny flanks of the cattle make a picture of pastoral beauty rare to behold in this part of the east.

"Today Socotra exports practically nothing except ghi, a rancid butter, made from goat's milk and highly prized in Zanzibar. The inhabitants number about 5,000, and the bulk of them are African descent, though Bedouins live in the mountain caves, and the ruling class is Arab. The language is distinct in itself, though possessing many Arabic and Mahri words. It has a wondrous wealth of gurgles and impossible noises in the throat. There are no words for horse or dog, because these animals are not found on the island. A fine breed of camels and donkeys, which are the tamed sons of the wild asses roaming in thousands on the interior plains, are beasts of burdens.

The Socotrans are for the most part a pastoral people, living upon their flocks and herds. They have neither inclination nor skill for the industrial arts. The baskets they weave and their earthen pots, fashioned with a bit of coconut shell in lieu of the potter's wheel, are rude imitations of the southern Arab's handiwork. Those who live by the sea catch fish or dive for mother-of-pearl. They have a most ingenious 'telescope' for spying out the wonders that lie at the ocean's bottom. It is simply a kerosene oil can, 'made in America' with a sheet of glass set into one side. Into the opposite side the observer thrusts his head, and with the glass bottom well down in the water he is rowed slowly, back and fourth, mouth and eyes well protected from the salt water, which further serves him as a magnifying lens."

Children make constipation a habit—relieve them with Kellogg's Bran

Children punish themselves terribly by ignoring nature's demands. They bring constipation upon themselves. They invite the many other diseases which can be traced to constipation. Immediate steps should be taken to rid them and keep them free from this disease.

It takes ALL bran to be 100 per cent effective. That's what Kellogg's is—ALL bran. That is why doctors everywhere recommend Kellogg's. That is why Kellogg's Bran carries a money-back guarantee to bring permanent relief, if eaten regularly, in the most chronic cases of constipation. That is why Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, has brought glorious, glowing health to thousands—because it is ALL bran.

No matter how long one has suffered with constipation, Kellogg's Bran will bring permanent relief IF EATEN EVERY DAY—at least two tablespoonfuls—in chronic cases, with every meal.

Kellogg's Bran is delicious. It has a crisp, nut-like flavor that simply delights the taste. It is a wonderful surprise if one has been used to ordinary, unpalatable brans.

There are many ways to serve Kellogg's Bran. Eat it with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Look for the recipes on every package and try it in muffins, bread, griddle cakes, etc.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is made in Battle Creek and is sold by grocers everywhere. It is served by the leading hotels and clubs.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT

By DAVID CORY

Uncle John Hare

"Ding-a-ling, ding-a-ling' went the telephone in the tiny white house in the dear Old Bramble Patch. Lady Love, the little bunny's mother, looked up from her ironing.

"Little Jack Rabbit! Little Jack Rabbit!" she called through the open kitchen door. "Somebody's on the 'phone."

"I wonder who," thought the bunny boy, dropping the hoe with which he had been weeding the garden, and hopping quickly into the bungalow to pick up the receiver.

"Hello, hello! Who can it be?

Answer quickly, little me!"

"Ha ha!" came a friendly laugh over the wire. "Guess who. Hurry up."

"Granddaddy Bullfrog?" inquired the bunny boy.

"No, but somebody with just as long legs!"

"Mr. Kangaroo?" replied the little rabbit.

"Wrong again," came the answer. Dear, dear, dearest me! Wish your photo I could see!"

Shouted the bunny boy, growing more curious every minute.

"I'll tell you before you're a second older," answered the voice. "It's your Uncle John Hare."

"Oh, Uncle John," cried the little rabbit, hopping up and down on his toes and wiggling and twisting his pretty pink nose. "I want to see you."

"You shall in about a minute or two," answered his nice old uncle. "Tell Lady Love I'll be up right away."

"Mother! Mother!" cried the little rabbit boy. "Uncle John Hare is coming!"

"You don't mean it," exclaimed Lady Love. "Well, I declare. I shall be glad to see him. I'll just finish ironing this bit of lace before I put on the kettle. It's lucky I baked an angel cake today. Your Uncle John is very fond of Angel Cake."

Quickly placing the ironing board behind the door, the pretty bunny mother filled the kettle with water and after setting it on the stove, hopped in to the bedroom.

"Dear me, how mussed my hair is!" she sighed. In a few minutes she had taken off her calico dress and had slipped into a pretty yellow one, trimmed with Black-eyed Susan flowers on the hem.

"Hip, hurray! Here he comes!" shouted the bunny boy from the porch.

Sure enough, when Lady Love hopped outside, there stood the Billy Goat Stagecoach just outside the white picket gate. And the nice old gentleman hare was handing the Old Stagecoach driver a lettuce leaf dollar bill.

"You're looking lovely like a rose. The sweetest, prettiest flower that grows."

sang Uncle John Hare, kissing Lady Love. "And as for you, young rabbit, I think you're grown an inch since you visited me in Turnip City."

"How's Mrs. Daisy Duck?" inquired the bunny boy, as he followed Lady Love and Uncle John Hare into the bungalow.

"I'll tell you in the next story," answered the old gentleman hare, with a wink.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Lewis S. Taylor

Word has just been received in this city of the death of Margaret Ferguson, wife of Lewis Stanley Taylor on Friday June 20, at her home, in Worcester. The news of Mrs. Taylor's death came as a great shock to her many friends in this city where she was born and spent her childhood days. She was educated in the Norwich public schools, graduating from the Free Academy. Previous to her marriage she was for several years in the municipal buildings department in Worcester as secretary to the superintendent. She leaves besides her husband, a little son, Roger Lewis Taylor, age one year, an infant daughter, her father Samuel Ferguson, three brothers M. Howard, of Worcester, Robert of Ware, George of Bangor, and one sister, Mrs. Lemuel Tinkham of Springfield. There are other relatives also, John A. Ferguson of this city being a cousin. Mrs. Taylor's death will be received with deep regret by many friends and acquaintances in this city.

FUNERALS.

Mrs. Raymond Cote

The funeral of Emilie Charon, wife of Raymond Cote, was held at her late home at No. 63 River street, Baltic, Monday morning at 9.30 o'clock and at St. Mary's church, Baltic, at 10 o'clock. Rev. William T. O'Brien, pastor, was celebrant of the solemn requiem high mass; Rev. Ludovic Paradis of Voluntown, deacon and Rev. Charles M. Kelly of Willimantic, subdeacon. During the service the Baltic choir rendered several hymns.

Burial was in the family lot in St. Mary's cemetery, Baltic, where the services at the grave were conducted by Fathers O'Brien, Paradis and Kelly. The bearers were Edmund Cote of Norwich, Alcidas and Gedeon Cote of Willimantic, Philias and Delphis Cote of Baltic and Delphis Charon of Warren, R. I.

Included among the relatives and friends from Central Village, Willimantic, Warren, R. I., and a grandson from U. S. ship Colorado was a delegation of members from St. Anne Society, Baltic of which Mrs. Cote was a member. There were many floral tributes.

Shea and Burke had charge of the funeral arrangements.

James C. Shea

Monday morning at 9.45 o'clock the funeral of James C. Shea was held at St. Patrick's church at 10.15 o'clock. Rev. Myles P. Galvin was celebrant of the mass and Prof. Frank L. Farrell presided at the organ, Mrs. Frank L. Farrel sang as a waiting hymn Beautiful Land on High.

The bearers were Patrick Sullivan, Daniel Reagan, John Savage, Simon Fahey, Thomas McKernan, Foster Harrington and burial took place in St. Joseph's cemetery. Rev. M. H. May, rector of St. Patrick's church, conducted a committal service at the grave. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends and there were many beautiful floral forms.

Hourigan Bros., had charge of the funeral arrangements.

ITALIAN CELEBRATION FILLED WHOLE DAY

A mass at St. Patrick's church at 9 o'clock Monday morning, two street parades, a band concert and fireworks late in the evening comprised the programme for M. S. Donatico day celebration by the Italian residents of Norwich. The day's activities began at 7 o'clock in the morning when a number of aerial bombs exploded. At 9 o'clock there was a short street parade to St. Patrick's church, the Italian-American band, Pasquale Puca, director, leading the parade. At the church, mass was celebrated and after the mass the parade moved to the little park on Franklin street where a short concert was given.

Noon was ushered in by the exploding of a number of aerial bombs. About 4.30 in the afternoon the Italian-American band gave a short street parade through Franklin square and Main street. A dozen Japanese novelty bombs were exploded over the little park on Franklin street about 7.30 o'clock in the evening while the crowd was gathering for the band concert which began about 8 o'clock.

Over 1,000 people attended the concert which was excellently given under the able leadership of Mr. Puca. The grounds were very attractively decorated with flags and pennants. Japanese lanterns and electric lights. A special band stand was erected for the band. The concert, which lasted until about 9.30 o'clock, was thoroughly enjoyed by the large crowd. At the close of the concert the band paraded down to the center of the city.

Shortly after 10 o'clock there was a brilliant display of fireworks on Hinckley Hill. Beautiful set pieces, including stars, Niagara Falls, huge pin wheels and many colored lights were seen. There were also a number of beautiful sky rockets and the usual number of deafening bombs. The display was brought to a close with a realistic reproduction of a battle with its flashes of brilliant lights, dense smoke, flame and noise that rent the air continuously for several minutes.

The committee in charge of the arrangements for the celebration comprised the following: Paul Maierba, Mike Barbaros, Paul Vallarelle, Basilo Onato, Paul Pilegrino, Natrio Querion, Joseph Leonardelle and Joseph Colesand.

FIND LIQUOR CONCEALED UNDER THE THRESHOLD

Armed with a search warrant Police Sergeant Thomas Murphy, County Detective Lewis and Officer Patrick Murphy, seized a quantity of liquor in a room at No. 90 Franklin street about 9 o'clock Monday night. Alfonzo Cacicchi, Italian, 40, occupant of the room, was arrested on a charge of violation of the liquor law. In default of bonds he was locked up at police headquarters.

The officers found the liquor concealed under the threshold of the door. The seizure comprised four quart bottles of Gordon dry gin, one full quart bottle of Old Lewis Hunter rye whiskey, a number of empty bottles and one bottle with a small quantity of Old Lewis Hunter rye whiskey, according to the label.

West Main Street Turnout Completed

The new trolley turnout on West Main street at Pierson's barn has been completed and will be of use at county fair time to assist in the handling of cars. It is about 250 feet long and has been named Pierson's by a sign that has been placed on the trolley pole at this point.

13 ORGANIZATIONS IN EASTERN CONNECTICUT CIVIC ASSOCIATION

VALENTINE L. MURPHY
Elected President

Representatives of thirteen civic organizations in eastern Connecticut with a total membership of between 3,000 and 4,000 at a meeting held on Monday afternoon at the Wauregan hotel, organized what is to be known as The Eastern Connecticut Civic association. The new organization, which was sponsored by Norwich Local, No. 309, United Commercial Travelers, has for its object the securing of better highways, wider bridges and the elimination of dangerous highway curves in the eastern part of the state. Valentine L. Murphy of the Willimantic Chamber of Commerce was elected president of the new organization.

The organization meeting was preceded by a luncheon at 4 o'clock, with the following menu:

Soup
Roast Beef Gravy
Baked Potato
Rolls Coffee

While the cigars were being circulated, Herbert R. Branche, chairman of the civic committee of the United Travelers, called the meeting to order. In explaining the purpose of the meeting he said that the commercial travelers, some 200 in number in eastern Connecticut, meet practically every retail merchant and most wholesalers and travel over many miles of highway. The commercial men feel that better highways, wider bridges and safer highway curves are needed. He said that in order to bring about those improvements concerted action is needed. He referred to a recent U. C. T. meeting at which the state highway commissioner spoke of highway improvements and urged them to organize.

Mr. Branche in announcing the registration said that there were 31 in attendance at the meeting, organizations being represented as follows:

Norwich Council, No. 309, U. C. T. 5; Norwich Chamber of Commerce, 3; Norwich Manufacturers' association, 1; Norwich Lions club, 3; Norwich Rotary club, 3; New London Rotary club, 2; Lincoln club, Plainfield, 3; Putnam Rotary club, 2; Colchester Chamber of Commerce, 2; Willimantic Chamber of Commerce, 2; Willimantic Rotary club, 3; New London Chamber of Commerce, 1; Moosup Chamber of Commerce, 2.

Mr. Branche then asked for nominations for secretary of the meeting. Charles W. Pearson was chosen to act in this capacity, his choice being unanimous. Mr. Branche was unanimously chosen as temporary chairman. Secretary Pearson read the call for the meeting after which Chairman Branche called on a number of those present for their opinion as to the advisability of forming a civic organization for eastern Connecticut.

Herbert M. Lerou, president of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce, said there is a great opportunity for such an organization. With combined efforts we can accomplish much, he said. I am heartily in favor of the proposed organization, he said in conceding.

William H. Oat, representing the Norwich Rotary club, spoke briefly in favor of the organization and endorsed Mr. Lerou's remarks.

We will work with you, said John H. Barry of the Norwich Lions club. If we keep at it we can get results.

James G. Hammond, president of the New London Chamber of Commerce, said that he believed that although the old Eastern Connecticut Chamber of Commerce is dead, the spirit is not dead. He promised the support and interest of the New London group in this "splendid work" as he put it. Let us all snap to it, evolve a program and then put our program across, Mr. Hammond concluded.

A. T. VanCleve, president of the Colchester Chamber of Commerce and Harry W. Standish, president of the Willimantic Rotary club, also spoke in favor of the new organization.

We are always back of movements of this kind, said Joseph C. Keefe of the New London Rotary club.

I am in hearty sympathy with the sentiment expressed, said James P. Bath, president of the Willimantic Chamber of Commerce. I believe in better highways and wider bridges, he added. As a suggestion he said he felt that town signs should be erected on the outskirts of the towns so that the motorist would be able to tell in what town he was arriving.

W. C. Barstow of the Lincoln club, Plainfield, said his club will support the new organization. We are interested in a road to shorten the distance for us from Plainfield to Willimantic and Hartford, he added.

Henry W. Davenport of the Putnam Rotary club said his club will be glad to do anything to help. It only needs a little push to put it over, said Mr. Davenport.

We feel this matter is one we are all interested in, said W. Frank Sheldon, of the Moosup Chamber of Commerce. The Moosup Chamber will do its part.

I feel sure the manufacturers will give [illegible] support, said Charles J. [illegible] Norwich Manufacturers' association.

With the U. C. T. fostering this movement we have a wonderful opportunity, was the opinion expressed by John J. O'Rourke, secretary of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce.

A motion that the meeting proceed to organize was then unanimously adopted. Chairman Branche named John J. O'Rourke, James G. Hammond and A. T. VanCleve a committee to retire and bring in a name for the new organization. The committee's choice of The Eastern Connecticut Civic Association as the name of the new organization was unanimously accepted. The next business was the election of officers which resulted as follows:

President: Valentine L. Murphy, Willimantic; vice presidents, James G. Hammond, New London; Herbert M. Lerou, Norwich; W. Frank Sheldon, Colchester; secretary and treasurer, John J. O'Rourke, Norwich; executive committee, Herbert R. Branche, Norwich; Henry W. Davenport, Putnam; A. T. VanCleve, Colchester; Harry W. Standish, Willimantic; James Lathrop, Plainfield; Joseph C. Keefe, New London; John Barry, Norwich.

Upon election as president, Mr. Murphy took the chair and conducted the remainder of the meeting. He called on Arthur L. Peale, Norwich, who said he believed the Mohegan Trail should be revived to get the people coming to this section. He said he is a great believer in parks and that a park should be established in memory of the Mohegan Indians.

Mr. Hammond offered a resolution to the effect that the meeting extend its appreciation to Norwich Council, U. C. T., for taking the initiatory in forming the new organization. The resolution was adopted unanimously and is the first resolution to be written into the history of the association.

Senator H. J. Gibbs, called on by the president, spoke briefly, saying that he felt proud to be connected with the organization. The president was authorized to appoint a resolutions committee of three and he announced his appointments to the committee as follows: Herbert R. Branche, J. J. O'Rourke and James G. Hammond. It was voted to leave the date of the next meeting with the president and executive committee, after which adjournment was taken about 6 o'clock.

Those present at the meeting were as follows:

Norwich Council, No. 309, U. C. T.—Herbert R. Branche, Charles W. Pearson, David Poisky, Adelard Morin, Alexander Jordan.

Norwich Rotary club—George L. Ingalls, William H. Oat.

Norwich Lions club—John T. Barry, F. A. Watson, Hermon J. Gibbs.

New London Chamber of Commerce—James G. Hammond.

Plainfield Lincoln Club—W. L. Barstow, J. H. Lathrop, Charles E. Hopkins.

Putnam Rotary club—J. Otis Fox, H. W. Davenport.

Colchester Chamber of Commerce—A. T. Van Cleve, J. Demlers.

Willimantic Rotary club—Harry W. Standish, C. B. Pomeroy.

Moosup Chamber of Commerce—W. Frank Sheldon, W. H. Haywood.

LIQUOR LAW VIOLATION BRINGS JAIL SENTENCE

Frank Suminski and his wife were before the city court Monday morning on the charge of violation of the liquor law at their home on Boswell avenue near the Mohegan park entrance. They at first pleaded not guilty on several counts and were given fines by Judge A. F. Libby, but they later changed their pleas to guilty and Judge Libby then changed the sentences, giving the husband 10 days in jail and a $200 fine and the wife 30 days in jail and a $200 fine, suspending the woman's sentence for one year.

Eleanor Mosnick testified that she had been moonshine brought to the Suminski house and had bought liquor there herself. Her husband corroborated this testimony and said he had also bought liquor. Sergeant Thomas Murphy gave testimony of finding a case of home brew and a jar, can and jug with liquor in them when the police raided the place. Officer William Sharvan said he was given a drink of liquor at the Suminski house by Joseph O'Neil who was drinking there. The officer said he did not drink the liquor.

Capt. D. J. Twomey told of the complaints he had received about the place and of sending the officers there.

The continued case over an automobile accident in Thamesville a week ago Sunday between Michael Aprile of this city and John Heslop of New London, was brought up and D'Attri was fined $50 and costs on the charge of reckless driving. He took an appeal.

David Carey was fined $10 and costs for intoxication and Dennis Carden $10 and costs for intoxication and $5 for resisting an officer. Carden appeared in court with a swollen jaw, cut upper lip and bandage on the back of his head from the pummelling he received at the hands of Officer William Sharvan after Carden took away the officer's club when the policeman was arresting the two men on the West Side Sunday night.

ROUND TABLE PICNIC HELD AT "FAIR ACRES"

"Fair Acres," the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Smith of Mystic, was the scene of an out-of-doors picnic Saturday, when twenty-four members of Norwich Round Table were their guests in observance of its annual meeting.

The Norwich party went by automobiles, arriving early and remaining throughout the day. The noonday meal, also supper, was served on the large veranda. Each provided his own repast and Mrs. Smith served tea and coffee.

While there, those who attended motored over to Old Mystic and paid a visit to the museum of Charles Q. Eldredge, also visited Deans Mills. This body of water clear as crystal, is the water supply for Mystic and Stonington. The fine land owned by Mr. and Mrs. Smith covers an area of ten acres, on which a peach orchard, apple orchard, strawberry patch bearing lucious berries, at this season and currents, etc., and thrifty vegetable gardens which supply Mr. Smith's customers, he and his son, Raymond, specializing in market gardening. The attractive lawn is lovely in its setting of flowers and shrubbery, the arrangement by Mr. Smith who for many years has been an expert florist, having for about twenty years been engaged in that business in New London and prior to that time, a successful florist in his father's business in Norwich, which for many years was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Smith (Alice Burke).

Before locating at this selected spot two years ago, May 30th, which overlooks the picturesque Mystic river, Mr. Smith (while for a few years resided with his family in his home town, after giving up his business in New London) was the efficient superintendent of Mohegan Park.

The Norwich party, as well as all other visitors, greatly enjoy a visit to the Smith home, where all are welcome and always cordially received by Mr. and Mrs. Smith and their son, Raymond.

WEDDINGS

Hoag-Nuss

A very pretty house wedding occurred in the Old Manse of the Newent Congregational church of Lisbon on Saturday June 21, at 12 noon, when Francis Dow Hoag of Westfield, N. J., and Miss Helen Adele Nuss of Bloomfield, N. J., were united in marriage by Rev. William J. Reynolds, pastor of the Newent church. Mr. Hoag is a nephew of Reverend and Mrs. Reynolds and desired to be married in the historic old manse built by Rev. David Hale, a brother of the patriot Nathan Hale. The old manse has been the scene of many beautiful weddings, but of none more beautiful than that of Saturday.

The bride was gowned in gray canton crepe and wore a corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses.

The attendants were Dewitt Macdonald Hoag and Marjory Hoag, brother and sister of the groom.

The young people are very popular among their many friends and were the recipients of many beautiful and sensible gifts.

Immediately after the ceremony a telegram of congratulations was received from a number of Mr. Hoag's friends, schoolmates and comrades of the U. S. Navy.

Mr. Hoag is the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hoag of Westfield, N. J., and is assistant manager of the New York branch of the Acme Road Machinery Co., with offices at 120 Liberty street, New York City.

Immediately after the wedding luncheon the young people left for a week's trip, motoring through the Berkshires, Green Mountains and the Adirondack Mountains, returning to their home in Bloomfield, N. J.

Dwyer—McCormack.

The marriage of Miss Rose M. McCormack, daughter of James McCormack, 35 Summit street, and James F. Dwyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Dwyer, of 32 Hempstead street, New London, was solemnized at St. Patrick's church Monday morning at 8 o'clock, Rev. M. H. May officiating.

The bride was attended by Miss Marguerite Connell and the best man was John L. Dwyer, a brother of the groom.

The bridal party entered the church to the music of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin, played by Prof. F. L. Farrell, and during the ceremony Mrs. Farrell rendered Ave Maria.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast and reception was held at A. O. H. hall where covers were laid for fifty. The hall was prettily decorated in pink and white.

The bride was attired in a white georgette gown over white satin, trimmed with rosebuds and medallions of point d'esprit lace with coronet veil and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Her only jewelry was a string of pearls, the gift of the groom. The bridesmaid wore an orchid georgette gown over orchid satin with hat to match, and carried pale pink roses.

Following the reception the bridal couple left for New York and Atlantic City and will be at home to their friends at 25 Summit street after July 10th.

Among those present were guests from New London, New York, Pittsburgh, Canada and Bayonne, New Jersey.

Falk-Bailey

The marriage of William Falk of Groton and Miss Cassie W. Bailey took place at the bride's home in Groton on Monday evening, the ceremony being performed by the uncle of the bride, Rev. G. F. Bailey of Norwich Town. The bridal couple left by automobile on a honeymoon trip to New York state and upon their return will reside in Groton where the groom is employed as a draughtsman at the New London Ship and Engine Co.

Rigby-Gauthier

Monday morning at the rectory of St. Mary's Memorial church, George Rigby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Rigby of Malden, Mass., and Miss Mary Eva Gauthier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Gauthier of No. 37 Roosevelt avenue were united in marriage by Rev. F. M. Coholan. The attendants were Annette Surprenaut and Adelard Dagetti.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. After a wedding tour Mr. and Mrs. Rigby will make their home in this city. Mr. Rigby is employed as an electrician. His bride has been in the employ of the U. S. Finishing Co.

Moussie -Eggleston

At the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Curtis Eggleston on the Norwich road, North Stonington, Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock occurred the wedding of Miss Ethel Eggleston and Charles T. Moussie of Pawcatuck. The bride was given away by her father. The bridesmaid was a sister of the bride, Mrs. Marcus H. Teck, and the best man, her brother-in-law, Marcus H. Teck. Miss Evelyn Eggleston, a sister of the bride, acted as ring bearer. The ceremony was performed by Rev. O. D. Fisher, of the North Stonington Congregational church, the double ring service being used. The ceremony was performed in the presence of immediate friends and was followed by a reception and dinner.

The bride was gowned in white canton crepe and carried white Killarney roses and the bridesmaid pink roses. Mr. and Mrs. Moussie left for a wedding trip to New York city and on their return will reside in a newly furnished home. The groom is a well known restaurant proprietor in Pawcatuck and the bride has made her home in North Stonington for the past eight or ten years.

WINDHAM

The pupils who were perfect in attendance for a year at the grammar school were Stella Subisky, Lea Coughl, Anna Subisky, Grace Palmer, Howard Sandstrom, Earle Potter, Arthur Potter.

Nelson Potter and Charlotte Lathorp were graduated from the Windham high school in Willimantic Thursday night. Miss Lathrop will enter Abbott Academy, Andover, Mass., in the fall. Mr. Potter has purchased an interest in the local grocery store.

Those who were graduated from the grammar school were Theresa Bucko, Harold Hopkins, Grace Palmer, Arthur Potter, Howard Sandstrom, Stella Subisky, Mary Spokesfield, Myra Spokesfield and Stella Willworth. All are planning to enter the High school in the fall. Mary Spokesfield was the valedictorian and Stella Subisky the salutatorian. The class presented their teacher, Mrs. Harry Morseley, with a $10 gold piece.

A meeting of the members of the Congregational church is called for Thursday evening to hear the report of the supply committee and to take action on calling a pastor.

Mrs. Albert Bates and Miss Anna Bates returned from Hartford Saturday. Miss Grace Bates remains there in care of a physician.

Rev. Charles Reeves of New London supplied the Congregational church Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Koski and children of Norwich were at Homer Woods Sunday.

Goodwin Waters of Boston was at his parents over the week end.

The Saturday night bridge club met with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Larrabee.

BOLTON

Morgan H. Alvord, who received his degree from Yale university last Wednesday, has returned to his parents at Alvord Acres.

Mr. Alvord was awarded the Warren Memorial high scholarship prize given to that member of the class taking the bachelor of arts course. He has maintained a high scholarship standing during his course at the Hartford high school and his four year course at Yale. Bolton people feel justly proud of him.

Mrs. E. Jane Finley has received word that her grandson and wife, Mr. and Mrs. H. Douglas Fryer are teaching in the George Peabody College for Teachers at Nashville, Tenn. for the summer.

Mrs. Fryer has just received a degree of doctor of philosophy from Columbia university.

Mr. Fryer had previously received a degree of doctor of psychology. He taught in the University of Utah, at Salt Lake City, the past year.

Miss Elizabeth M. Daley and Miss Margaret Daley have returned to their Bolton home after having taught school in Manchester the past year.

Frank L. Loomis passed his 82nd birthday last Friday. Mr. Loomis is very bright and active.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Levey and Mr. Levey's niece, Miss Lever, of Indianapolis, came to Mr. and Mrs. Levey's home in ton last week for the season.

Charles E. Carpenter, who spent the winter in South Manchester, has come to Bolton to spend the summer with his niece, Mrs. L. H. Levey.

Clifford Herring has moved into a part of the Hutchinson house at the Center.

The shower which visited Bolton Saturday morning was greatly needed. Gardens which were very backward are growing very fast.

Blackberry vines are well filled with blossoms giving good promise of a large crop.

Miss Chadwick, a teacher in Atlanta, Georgia, University, attended service at the local church Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Bunce, with whom she is visiting.

Mrs. Charles P. Skinner and daughters, Elizabeth and Ella and Howard Carter are taking an automobile trip to Cape Cod.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lawton and son of Hartford are at the Centre for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Loomis and son, Donald, of Westfield, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Harry Snow and two children of South Manchester, visited Mrs. William H. Loomis Sunday.

LEBANON

A pretty wedding of local interest took place at 4 o'clock Thursday, June 19 at the home of the bride's parents, 33 Center avenue, Norwalk, Conn., when Miss Lena Augusta Fuller, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis O. Fuller, formally of Lebanon, became the bride of Willis M. De Forest, son of Mrs. Gertrude De Forest, of Wilton, Conn. The wedding was a very quiet one only members of the immediate families being present. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. D. Lewis, of City Island, N. Y. The bride carried a bouquet of roses and sweet peas. The bridesmaid was Miss Barbara M. Jones, of New York City, who carried white sweet peas. The best man was Charles D. Fuller, brother of the bride. The house was beautifully decorated with laurel and roses. The happy couple left by auto, for a wedding trip and after their return they will reside in Wilton. The bride has been employed for over four years at the Norwalk Savings Society at Norwalk, Conn., and has many friends, as was shown by the many beautiful gifts received. The Savings Society gave him $100 in gold and the employes in the bank gave her $50. In all she received $175 in money, besides silverware, linen, cut glass and presents.

Ozro D. Fuller of Lebanon, grandfather of the bride, Mrs. Harriet P. Manning and Miss M. A. Pember of North Franklin grandmother and aunt of the bride, were present.

When people get too fresh they are apt to get in a pickle.

FIRPO ACCEPTS RICKARD'S TERMS TO FIGHT WILLS THE LAST OF AUGUST

New York, June 23.—Negotiations for a 15-round match between Luis Angel Firpo, Argentine heavyweight, and Harry Wills, 220-pound negro, which have been pending for the last two months bore fruit today when Tex Rickard, promoter of the match, announced the receipt of a cable from Firpo definitely accepting the promoter's final terms.

The heavyweights have agreed to meet on a percentage basis some time during the latter part of August, the exact time and place to be announced by Rickard after the democratic convention. It is likely, however, that the battle will be taken across the Hudson to New Jersey and staged in Boyle's Thirty Acres. Firpo demands that if he should lose August 20, prompted the promoter to make this point to the "wild men of the Pampas."

Firpo's terms were cabled to Firpo today and his acceptance received after Rickard had agreed to all the latter's demands. The contract Firpo will be would sign the binding him to the match, immediately and mail it to Rickard. The promoter cabled him again today that he would leave Buenos Aires for New York.

Rickard further announced that no definite would be done about matching between the winner of this and Dempsey until after the [illegible] which is interpreted by critics here to mean that Rickard has definitely abandoned his plans to stage a Dempsey in a title match during the present outdoor season.

The Firpo-Wills match will take place at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, the time of preliminaries being set for 2.30 o'clock.

Firpo is Agreeable.

Buenos Aires, June 23.—(By the A. P.)—Luis Angel Firpo declared tonight that he was entirely satisfied with the terms offered by Tex Rickard for a match with Harry Wills, negro heavyweight champion, and that he would be ready to leave for New York within a week in September, if necessary, to meet the negro.

Firpo said that in response to a cable message from the New York promoter this week he cabled a reply stating he was willing to accept and provided his conditions were met up to tonight he had received no further message from Rickard.

HEAVY FINE FOR SAILOR WHO DREW GUN ON PATROLMAN WILLIAM MANICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, June 23.—Judge Prince in the police court this morning, laid the legal stick heavily upon the person of Robert Pope, a sailor at the submarine base, and Walter Benedict, a fellow who says he is in the auto repair business. It was lucky for them that they were able to step up and take their penalty for an outrageous attack upon Officer William Manice instead of being in a hospital or at an undertaker's establishment. The officer had abundant reason for shooting them and he undoubtedly would have done that had he been armed, when the assault was made upon him. As it happened he was not on duty and his revolver was not on his person, so he had to fight his way with his fists and do the best he could at the manly art of self-defense. He did pretty well at that for he landed the man in a cell at the police station and other officers, namely State Policeman John W. Dooley and police Sergeant Murphy took care of the second man. Pope was the aggressor in chief. As he passed along Bank street after midnight Sunday morning he saw a group of four men, the police officers named and Walter T. Murphy and Harry Houtz, standing in conversation on the curbing. Murphy had just cracked a joke and the others were showing appreciation of the fun by laughing. Pope had drink enough under his belt to imagine that the bystanders were what he called "razzing" him so he provoked a fight. "What's the big idea?" he inquired as he jostled up against Mr. Manice. The officer did not pay particular attention to the drunken fellow until the latter forced attention and then the officer told Pope to retreat and to mind his business as no one in the party desired acquaintance or conversation with him. That was the provocation for the row that followed. Pope launched into the officer and the pair wrestled and went to the walk after Manice had passed in a couple of blows. The fight was continued to the street where Benedict took a hand by using a blackjack. In the struggle Officer Manice fell to the curbing and this gave Pope a chance to pull a revolver of .45 caliber. By this time Sergeant Murphy and Harry Houtz took a hand and there as a general row. Pope did not prove a good fighter at short range so he fled to his rooming house at 28 Golden street. By that time Officer Dooley was advised of what was transpiring and he set out to get the sailor, finding him in a room where he had just entered. The gun was on a bureau at the side of Pope's bed, and he and it were taken into custody. Pope showed a badly discolored eye when arraigned in court. He declared that he did not have a revolver on his person though he did have a holster for same by the officers. Pope endeavored to get out of his mess by saying that he kept the revolver in his room though he occupied the room only on Sunday when he remained in town away from the base. He declared that he intended to go to the country for target practice and that he had the gun and the holster for that purpose. The court refused to accept as the truth. Benedict was equally positive that he did not have a jackknife. He said he never owned one and never carried one but he might have purchased it when he was drinking and did not realize what he was doing. He said that sort of thing was common to him when he was in liquor. That story, too, the court did not accept as the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. Benedict was found guilty of a breach of the peace and was fined $5. Pope was found guilty of breach of the peace and carrying a concealed weapon without authority, and was fined $150. Both men paid their fines and escaped.

Ernest Husman had what the police call a "laughing jag" when he appeared in the police court this morning to answer a charge of operating a motor vehicle while he was under the influence and intoxicating liquor. He pleaded guilty and then went on the witness stand and told a story that was sufficient to convict him of the charge alleged. Indeed he was not free from the effects of the liquor he had drank as he told the story of what happened. Husman declared that he drank liquor every day. This morning he had a drink of "real good stuff" and a bottle of home brew, but he was not drunk. Coming over the bridge this morning Husman was following a truck from the submarine base in charge of Martin Hanna when Husman drove his car into the rear of the truck. The car was badly smashed in front of the damage. It was put out of commission. Hanna told the story to the court that he was run down without any warning and that it was apparent that Husman had been drinking. Policeman Graham and a cook from the Connecticut college were of the same opinion and they saw the accident. Husman paid a fine of $100 and lost his job as well as his occupation as driver of a truck.

Annie Cuddy, a woman who has a police record as Annie Cuddy formerly of Montville, was charged with intoxication. She set up a unique story to the effect that she saw two negroes in combat in the street. She sought to find men to separate the combatants, but not being successful she telephoned to the police station. When an officer arrived the battlers had disappeared and Annie as the sole person in the highway. She didn't relate a story that the policeman who responded to her call, would accept to account for her presence and her condition, so she was arrested. Annie admitted that she had "a few" but she claimed she was taking liquor by direction of a doctor, that she took a drink morning and night and that she proposed to do so. "This will cost you ten dollars," said Judge Prince and Annie proceeded to make arrangements to settle. The arrangements were carried out all right. Though this woman has been fined many times for intoxication the fall has rarely if ever had her as a boarder. Thomas Sandiros and Martin F. Wheeler ware each fined for violation of the parking ordinance.

James Fell seems to be accurately named. He was at the pub in landing Saturday evening and picked a row with a stranger who promptly knocked him overboard. Sunday night Jimmy fell again and then he said he was robbed of $14 and a watch. He was arrested then and gave a bond of $25 for appearance in court today. He fell again and didn't appear so that was the last of that $25 for James.

Frank Williams, a bum, rode into town on the train from Boston this morning and was grabbed while he was still on the car. He said he had no money, when that he was unlawfully upon the train and that he was doing as he did to "beat" the railroad company. His frank confession took him to the workhouse to stay about 20 days.

H. D. Marshall, a young sailor from the base is to try to convince the court tomorrow that he did not create a disturbance in the local rooming house Saturday night. Hugo Tony Mirra, the proprietor, told the court today that Marshall appeared there drunk and when Mrs. Mira would not give him a room, something she did not have to rent to him, he abused her like a fishmonger. Some one in the rooms heard what was said and Marshal was promptly given a punch that floored him and he went down the stairway. Officer Hill was called by Mira and Marshall was found at the station under the influence of liquor. He denied everything in court and asked the privilege of bringing in witnesses that will testify that he was not at fault in the row. Tony Mira was charged with a breach of the peace, but he was found not guilty. Marshall exonerated him and said the man who punched him was not in court.

Fred Odgers, Niantic and Michael Mosne, 4 Douglas street, were taken into custody by Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolman Howard Sloan and Michael Dorsey, charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. Mosne was released upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $100 for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning. Odgers was not so fortunate for he could not secure a bondsman and was locked up to await the convening of court.

The police received a telephone message that a fight was in progress in front of the Mosne home and with the arrival of the officers upon the scene Odgers was accused by Mrs. Mosne of having beat her with a stick. She was bleeding from cuts about the head and face and with the apprehension of her husband, whom she also accused of attacking her, Mrs. Mosne was attended by Dr. Thomas Soltz. The police recovered a chair rocker, which bore marks of blood and which it is alleged was used by Odgers in his attack upon Mrs. Mosne.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS REACTIONARY.

New York, June 23.—Stock prices turned reactionary today as speculative activity slowed up pending the selection of the presidential nominee and the adoption of a platform by the democratic national convention. Bear traders succeeded in uncovering a number of weak spots throughout the list as buying support of professional traders was withdrawn or curtailed but, with few exceptions, the recessions were relatively small after two weeks of rising prices.

Persistent selling of Atlantic Refining, which fell nearly ten points to a new 1924 low at 84 1-2 was one of the features of the session. Liquidation in this stock, which had sold as high as 140 early this year, was based on unconfirmed reports that the company was making arrangements for a short term note issue of $15,000,000. Weakness of this issue, combined with another series of gasoline price cuts, brought fresh selling into other oils, but the net losses in these and cases ere held to a point or

CURB MARKET.

New York, June 23.—Stock prices displayed a heavy tone in today's curb market with trading considerably restricted because of the uncertainty regarding the identity of the democratic presidential nominee, and final text of the party platform.

Announcements of further gasoline price cuts brought about some liquidation of the oil shares, but the net losses as a rule were small. Reports of record breaking gasoline consumption last week had a steadying effect on these issues.

Industrials and public utilities showed mixed changes, one of the features being the strength of the Mercery stores issues which advanced nearly 10 points. Dunhill International moved up more than 3 points in active trading, but heaviness was noted in Durant Motors, United Gas and Electric, Gillette Safety Razor and Adirondack Power, which lost one to three points. National Tea established another new high at 193 and then fell back to 190.

Bonds were again active with a point gain in pure oil 6 1-2s as one of the outstanding developments. Czecho-Slovakian Railway 8s were admitted to trading, selling around 96 1-2.

BOND MARKET.

New York, June 23.—Relaxing activity in bond trading today brought few important price changes. Foreign issues led the list in activity and strength, reflecting confidence that the proposed inter-allied conference would lead to greater political accord in Europe. Liberty bonds were firm but in other sections of the list prices were shaded fractionally.

Reports that the New York Central railroad might submit a new exchange offer to holders of Peoria and ... incomes contributed to improvement in these bonds, which touched a new high price for the year at 35. Erie Consolidated and Convertible 4s also were active at rising prices. Profit taking reduced recent gains of other issues.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, June 23.—Predictions of a bullish crop report tomorrow at Winnipeg, together with talk of black rust danger to the domestic crop were largely responsible for an upturn in wheat prices here today. Chicago closing quotations for wheat were strong, 3-8 to 7-8c net higher, July 1.13 3-4 to 1.13 7-8 and September 1.15 1-4 to 1.15 3-8. Corn finished 1 1-8 to 2c 2 1-8c up, oats at 1-4@1-2c gain and provisions varying from 10c decline to a rise of 2@5c.

At first the wheat market underwent a decided setback as a result of weakness at Liverpool, where there was said to be a scarcity of buyers with numerous resellers at a sharp decline. Offerings here, however, were light except of a profit-taking character, and with the corn market showing an upward trend, wheat proved responsive to bullish news from the northwest, especially from Winnipeg. The fact that foreign exchange rates were higher helped to promote the rally here, and so too did 1,452,000 bushels decrease in the United States visible supply total.

Corn showed strength from the outset, and the July delivery touched a new high price record for the season.

Corn showed strength from the outset, and the July delivery touched a new high price record for the season. With receipts running below current requirements, the market moved up briskly, and fears expressed that too much rain was interfering with cultivation over large areas led subsequently to increased firmness in the price of the December delivery. Other market centers were reported to be outbidding Chicago 3 to 5c a bushel in Chicago territory with farmers declining to sell and giving as a reason the backwardness of the new crop.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

Building operations in Norwich continue to increase as is shown by the number of permits issued by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton during the past week. In the past week 11 permits were granted for new building to the total amount of approximately $40,000. These permits include several dwelling houses, a large brick ... and a large two-story lumber shed. Progress has been made on local building projects during the past week. At the Norwich State Hospital the H. Wales Lines Co., has made good progress on the ward buildings being erected there. The foundations are all in and the brick work has been started. The steel for the reinforcing of the building has arrived and is being set in place.

In other sections of the city good progress has been made on projects now in hand while others has just been started. All indications this year point to a banner year in the building trades in Norwich.

The building permits issued by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton during the past week are as follows:

To D. J. Barry to erect a frame garage on Main street for Virgilio Denicco. The garage will have a spruce frame with novelty siding and composition roof and will be 8x16 feet.

To John Bellone to erect a frame house on Division street. The house will have a stone foundation and will be 34x36 feet. The exterior finish will be in clapboards and shingles while the interior will be finished in hard wood and plaster. There will be six rooms and bath.

To Samuel Bellone to erect a frame house on Division street. The house will be built on the same plan as the house which his brother John Bellone is building on the same street.

To Paul Bernacki to build a frame porch on the present house at 75 Fountain street. The porch will be 8x8 feet.

To Jacob Crumb to erect an addition to the present house at 8 Ward street. The addition will be of frame construction, 5x10 feet and will be finished to conform to the present dwelling.

To Alex Leswianski to build a ... house on Golde ... The house will have a concrete foundation and will be of frame construction, 25x36 feet. There will be five rooms and bath to each tenement and ... improvements. The exterior ... finished in clapboards and ... shingles and the interior ... hardwood and plaster.

To Frank Becker to erect a frame garage, 10x18 feet at 35 Rogers avenue. The garage will be of frame construction set on cement piers and will be finished in novelty siding and composition shingles.

To Ben Gwosdoff to erect a four-family house on Fairmount street. The foundation will be of stone and cement with brick underpinning. The building will be 36x50 feet ... stories high in front and ... high in the rear. There will be verandas both front and rear. There will be 30 rooms in the house with all modern improvements.

Archibald Torrance has been given the contract to erect a two-car ... building, 16x38 feet, for the H. ... and A. J. Dawley Co., on the new dock. The building will be an addition to the present lumber sheds of the company. The first story is to be used as a storage place for cement and the second floor will be used as a storage place for finished lumber.

The contract for the erection of a ... building at 146 North Main ... has been awarded to Carroll and Fenton by Anna Malogricco and Stello Costandi. The foundation will be of concrete and the walls will be of brick reinforced with steel columns and girders. The floors will be of concrete. The building will be used as a garage.

Fowler and Rathbun have been awarded the contract to erect a double garage for Mrs. Eugene McCarthy at 245 West Thames street. The garage will be 20x18 feet with cement floor, shingled sides and composition roof.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 16 sales of real estate as compared to 15 sales for the same week in 1923. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $[illegible] and $36,725.

There were six sales of real estate in New London ... the past week as compared to 17 sales for the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $26,593 and $12,[illegible].

The Building Situation

In connection with the enormous volume of building construction that has been the mainstay in the field of commercial activity during the present business decline the National Association of Real Estate Boards in their fourth semiannual survey of the real estate market says: "The largest volume of building construction ever recorded in the history of the country is rapidly providing structures necessary to overcome the enormous shortage prevalent at the end of the war. In November, 68 per cent of the reports indicated a shortage of single family dwellings. This percentage has shrunk to 56. In apartments and business structures, the half way mark has been passed and the percentage of cities reporting a shortage of apartments has fallen from 51 to 41, and business structures from 43 to 30. It is significant that less than one-third of all the cities reporting indicate any shortage of business structures, that only two-fifths report a shortage of apartments, and slightly over half a shortage of single family dwellings."

The record of building permits issued in the leading towns of the state in the past week more than doubles the figures for the corresponding week of 1923, the week's total cost of new construction in the week being $1,483,667, in 412 permits, against 346 permits in the like week of the previous year, when the cost of new building was $702,937, and 253 in 1922, for $645,753 new construction.

NEW LONDON

Alterations will be made to the building in the rear of 245-247 Broad street which has been leased for a five-year period by Ralph L. Strout to the Fleischman Co. of Ohio. The building, which is one story high of frame construction, will be arranged for use as a sales agency and garage.

The permit has been issued to the Dixie-Colonial Filling Station, Inc. for a group of storage tanks on Pequot avenue. The tanks will be supported on concrete foundations. The ... of the project will be about $4,000.

The cement blocks are ready for the ... to be constructed by Sam Santaniello on Shaw street. The building is ... 15x32 feet, to cost about $2,000. The work will be done for the owner by the day.

The Westerly General Contractors are erecting several garages in this city. They have recently constructed a ... for Edward P. Prentis on Summit avenue, and for Percy C. Eggleston at 61 Vauxhall street.

The contract has been awarded to the U. S. Cast Iron Pipe Co., New York, for 100 pieces of 4-inch pipe, 60 pieces of 8-inch pipe, and 10 pieces of 16-inch pipe. The successful bid was for $2,042. The William S. Simpson Co., New York, were awarded the contract for 1,520 feet of 6-inch pipe, 1,150 feet of 12-inch pipe and 1,320 feet of 15-inch pipe, and 110 special sizes. The latter contract calls for the pipe and was awarded on a bid of $1,926.

Applications for Buildin- Permits

Dixie-Colonial Filling Station, storage tanks, Pequot avenue, $4,000.

Sam Santaniello, garage, Shaw street, $2,000.

William H. Davidson, addition, Brewer street $300.

POETRY

ON THE GRASSHOPPER AND CRICKET.

The poetry of earth is never dead
When all the birds are faint with the hot sun,
And hide in cooling trees, a voice will run
From hedge to hedge about the new mown mead;
That is the grasshopper's—he takes the lead
In summer luxury—he has never done
With his delights, for when tired out with fun,
He rests at ease beneath some pleasant weed.
The poetry of earth is ceasing never:
On a lone winter evening, when the frost
Has wrought a silence, from the stove there shrills
The cricket's song, in warmth increasing ever,
And seems to one in drowsiness half lost,
The grasshopper's among the grassy hills.
—John Keats

FOOT LOOSE.

School's quit, Buddy! It hardly seems true.
"Yes, ma'am," an "No, ma'am" is now all through.
Don't haf to study, ner primp, ner think
Not even wash at her germ-proof sink!
Don't haf to answer what waf don't know
Don't haf to tell why our home clock's slow;
Don't haf to sit where th' teacher's eye
Sees every paper-wad waftin' by!

Gee, but I betcha th' Germs will miss
Our teacher preachin': "My dearg, hear this.
Germs scatter pestilence, crime, disease
Boys will go wash their dirty hands, please."

What has me guessin' is what Germs do
When it's vacation—an' me an' you
Aint at th' schoolhouse where they live at—
Who do they pick on at times like that?

If they was foot-loose, could just be free,
I bet I know where they'd like to be Out at our Swimmin' Hole, divin' in
Not there a-poutin' till school begin

Poor old Germs! I'd be tickled to see
How they'd tackle a green apple tree
Quit their reglar job—prisoners bound
Up in a schoolhouse th' whole year 'round.

Wish there was somethin' us kids could say
Sweet to Bacilli while we're away.
Still, I suppose it will please them be
Our bein' foot loose—so's they can rest
—William Herschell, in Indianapolis News.

Hank—What's the deputy constable all riled up about?

Bill—O, some miscreant stole the burglar alarm on the court house.—Boston Globe.

It's funny that the pupil of the eye never learns anything.

Yes, and it's curious that the bridge of the nose is never crossed and the roof of the mouth never repaired.—Chicago Herald.

Alice—No man will ever dare to trifle with my affections. I have five big brothers.

Agnes—They'll trifle with you sooner than they will with mine. I have little brothers.—Chicago Herald.

Village Busybody—No, I certainly ain't goin' to vote this year—not for nobody. Take my advice, Mrs. Simkins—there's things a-goin' on in Washin'ton that you an' me is best as well out of.—Exchange.

Mummy, do only women go to heaven?

No, dear. Men do, too.

But I've never seen pictures of angels with whiskers.

Ah, you see, a man only gets to heaven by a close shave!—London Mail.

Ferdy writes that he is engaged to a Los Angeles girl.

What of it?

I suppose I must go to the wedding. But, dear me, think of going to a wedding in a bathing suit.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A very small boy with a very large gun was standing in a country road.

What are you hunting, bub? asked a passerby.

"How can I tell?" was the reply. "I ain't seen it yet."—Youth's Companion.

"How's this?" asked the lawyer. "You've named six bankers as those will to be pallbearers. Of course it all right, but wouldn't you rather choose some friends with whom you are on better terms?"

"No, Judge, that's all right. Those fellows have carried me so long they might as well finish the job."—Bankers Monthly.

NOTICE
SPECIAL TOWN MEETING
The Legal Voters in Town Meeting of the Town of Norwich are hereby warned to meet in a Special Town Meeting, to be held in the Town Hall, in said Norwich, on
TUESDAY, JUNE 26, 1924
At Seven O'Clock P. M., (Standard Time)
For the purpose of deciding what action they will take upon a certain petition, signed by twenty legal voters of said Town and presented to the Selectmen, requesting the holding of a Special Town Meeting for the following purposes:
1. To decide whether the Town will purchase a tract of land and build a new schoolhouse thereon in that portion of the Town known as Norwich Town (so in the Fourth Voting District in said Town, at a cost not to exceed $250,000 for said land, building and equipment and to appropriate said sum.
2. To decide whether the Town shall build a new school building on the tract of land owned by said Town in the Sixth Voting District (East Norwich, so called) at a cost not to exceed $100,000 for building and equipment and to appropriate said sum.
Also, to authorize the Selectmen to borrow such sums and at such times as may be necessary to pay for said land and for erection of said building or buildings and to give notes or other evidences of indebtedness of said Town therefor.
Also to appropriate the sum of $75.00 for the purpose of installing a hydrant on the Canterbury Turnpike at a point about 400 feet from Peck's Corner, so-called.
Also, to do any other business proper and necessary to be done at said meeting.
Dated at Norwich, Conn., this 18th day of June, 1924.
WILLIAM S. MURRAY,
CHARLES P. BUSHNELL,
PATRICK T. CONNELL,
Selectmen of the Town of Norwich

ROCKVILLE

A quiet home wedding took place June 14, 1924, at 6 p. m., at Woodcrest, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ezio N. G. Barber, when their only daughter, Florence Irene Barber, was united in marriage with Harry D. Lewis of Exeter. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Paul S. Burdick. The bride was dressed in white voile and carried brides roses. She was attended by Miss Mabel Lewis, sister of the groom, and the best man was Wilfred E. Barber, brother of the bride. The couple went immediately to housekeeping at the home of Mr. Lewis in Exeter.
Mrs. Josiah Palmer, who has been ill, is reported as improving.
Paul S. Irish has been confined to his bed for a few days.
Mrs. B. A. Brooks of Waterford, Conn., has returned to her home after spending about two weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Paul S. Burdick.
The foundation has been laid for the new mess hall at the Boy Scout farm near here. The scoutmasters and officers are at the farm this week preparing for the opening of the season for Boy Scouts, which takes place the last of this week.
Herbert Burdick of Seattle, Wash., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Saunders.
Fred Allen, Frank Monroe and friends of Providence were guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Kenyon Sunday.
Mrs. D. Alva Crandall and little daughter have returned home from a visit with Mrs. Crandall's parents at Block Island.

It's a poor mule that won't work both ways.

LAWN MOWERS
For over ten years we have sold the Worcester Lawn Mower. It is a very good machine at a moderate price. We sell more every year. Some of the first we sold are still in use.

TAFTVILLE

Corpus Christi, the feast in honor of the Blessed Sacrament, which falls on the Thursday following Trinity Sunday, was observed Sunday at Sacred Heart church, by a procession immediately after the high mass. All the residences along the route were decorated for the occasion with white birch trees, ferns and early summer flowers, American flags, and yellow and white bunting. The procession was led by the standard bearers with their massed American, French Republic and various society banners, followed by Troop 4, Boy Scouts in uniform with their drums and bugles. All the societies connected with the parish participated in the procession, the Children of Mary wearing white dresses and veils. Little girls who also wore white veils strewed flowers in the path of the procession. The children of Sacred Heart school with their teachers, the Sisters of Charity also took part, the class of 1924 acting as a Guard of Honor. Rev. L. O. Bellerose carried the Blessed Sacrament under a canopy. He was attended by Rev. Henry F. Chagnon, the assistant pastor, and Wilfred Desmarais, a student at St. Mary's Theological Seminary at Baltimore, Md. The canopy bearers were Dennis C. Murphy, Bryan Hanlon, Narcisse Raymond and Philias C. Dion. The acolytes in bright red robes and white surplices carrying candles, preceded the Blessed Sacrament and were in charge of Anthony Murphy, also a student at St. Mary's Theological Seminary. At the residence of Arthur Jeanotte at the summit of Merchants avenue a beautiful altar had been erected and from that point, a return was made to the church, after the ceremony of benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The color bearers and the Boy Scouts stood at attention while the procession entered the church. The Mens' choir in charge of Omer Tellier, Sr., sang appropriate hymns along the line of march.

Miss Mary Murphy, a student at St. Francis hospital training school of Hartford, spent the week-end in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Hexelton and son, Kendall have returned to their home on North B street after a weeks' stay with relatives in Ballouville.

Louis Frechette, Jr., of New Haven, a former resident of the village, spent Sunday with friends in town.

Wendell L. Bowen of North B street has returned from East Providence, where he spent the past week.

The first annual picnic of the Christian Endeavor society was held Saturday afternoon at Mohegan Park, the trip being made in the automobiles of the members.

William H. Whitehead of Norwich avenue spent Saturday in Westerly, returning Sunday accompanied by Thomas Whitehead, Thomas Whitehead, Jr., and Mrs. Mary Smith, who were guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Whitehead.

At a recent meeting of Troop 3 Boy Scouts, it was decided to change the regular weekly meeting night from Tuesday to Monday evening. Many of the boys are planning to visit Camp Tippecan, this season.

Miss Lillian Molleur, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Molleur of Providence street was a member of the graduating class of the State Normal school at Willimantic this month.

Miss Doris Palmer of Bridgeport is the guest of Rev. and Mrs. Edwin G. Crowdis of North Third avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Pingree of Goodyear have been recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pingree of North Third avenue.

EAST SIDE WILL WORK FOR NEW EIGHT-ROOM SCHOOL BUILDING

The East Side section of the city is not to be satisfied with the six-room school building as proposed by the town school board for the citizens to vote upon in a special town meeting in the town hall this (Tuesday) evening, but will express its wish in the meeting for an eight-room school building with a hall and work to have an appropriation for this passed in the special town meeting.

This was the outcome of an open air meeting held at 7.30 Monday evening on the grand stand on the Duwell ball grounds with an attendance of over 200 that discussed school conditions and heard brief remarks from two members of the school committee, President Walter F. Lester and Robert McNeely.

Alderman Henry Gebrath, who said he had been requested to act as chairman, called the meeting to order and asked President Lester to tell what it was proposed to do.

President Lester responded by stating that he believed we had for a long time been living in a fool's paradise regarding matters educational. He realized, he said, that it was with much temerity that the school board in 1921, of which he was not then a member, had proposed the Elizabeth Street school but he thought that since we had it, it had spurred us on to better school facilities. The board has tried to make a true diagnosis of the situation and in one school in the north end it has found such crowded conditions that there is a regular sea of desks, so closely are they placed. It is justice to all that all should have equal facilities, but that is not now. We have a lot of unmodern buildings. The board has looked the situation over and tried to utilize such facilities as were still capable of use. But on the East Side and at Norwich Town the facilities were found to be impossible.

Mr. Lester said he hoped the people would attend the special town meeting and do all they can to help in the education of the children. We have an adequate site here and the sum of $100,000 is asked for a new building.

Mr. Lester said he knew that many thought it would be a fine thing if the East Side could have all the grades in its building, but if they did this he feared they would prejudice the efficiency of the educational system of the whole town. Other sections would want the same and if the finishing grades were to be added to all the schools that do not now have them, this would mean an addition of 23 new teachers at an average salary of $1,300, a total of about $30,000, which would be the interest at 5 per cent. on $600,000. If only half the schools had finishing grades added, this would still mean $15,000 in salaries which is 5 per cent. on $300,000.

Speaking in praise of the enterprise shown by the Duwell club, he said he would make a suggestion on his own responsibility, not having come from the board in any way, and that was that he thought it might be entirely possible to provide in the new school building some sort of auditorium where club meetings might be held, an auditorium that would seat about 200.

Questions Asked.

Mr. Lester invited questions before he had to leave to keep another engagement. Several were fired at him in short order.

"Is it absolutely necessary to send our children to Long Society school?"

"I hope not," answered Mr. Lester. He went on to show the size of the four rooms at the East Side school, which has a registration of 196, and said that according to standard requirements of cubic feet of air space per scholar one room that is accommodating 48 children is only large enough for ten. "We won't send them to Long Society unless we have to," said Mr. Lester.

"What's the reason you can't shift the fifth grade into the kindergarten room and hire the Baptist chapel for the kindergarten as was done two years ago?"

"Why are we not entitled to an eighth grade on the East Side as well as on the West Side?"

In reply to a question about the enumeration at Norwich Town, Mr. Lester said that was 325 and in response to another question said the board had options on three sites at Norwich Town and they had to go some distance from the Green as the necessary amount of land could not be obtained there.

He was applauded as he left the meeting to keep his other engagement.

Mr. McNeely of the school board spoke briefly before he, too, left to keep another business engagement. He said that the state board of education is telling Norwich that it has the worst school buildings in the state. We want all the boys and girls to have equal opportunities with others but we can't have it without increasing expenses. The school board put into the call for the special meeting what it thought would meet the situation, but if you, said Mr. McNeely, want something else more the board will be glad to carry it out.

Participants in a general discussion of what ought to be done, after the two school board members had left, included Deputy Sheriff George H. Stanton, Postmaster Casper K. Bailey, G. Warren Davis, Frank M. Green, Walter Spalding and James M. Young.

Deputy Sheriff Stanton started it by moving that it was the sense of the meeting to go to the town hall and vote for a six room building. Mr. Green amended it to make it a building suitable for eight grades with a hall."

Mr. Davis spoke against a proposed plan for Norwich Town for a 16 room school building to which school children should be transported. He believed that the school should be where the children are. He said the consolidation plan had been urged on the ground of economy and efficiency but he failed to see where the schools were any more efficient because of consolidation. He assured Postmaster Bailey that he was with him in the "hopeless minority" in which Mr. Lester had classed the postmaster when Mr. Bailey said he had rather send his boy to the schools as they were than as they are today.

Postmaster Bailey addressed the meeting and said he was interested in both Norwich Town and the East Side, but he thought the chances of getting an 8 room building on the East Side were pretty slim. Norwich Town had been pretty well canvassed, he said. He hoped to see the school building where the children are but he has sympathy for the school boards whose only reward for the work they do is a lot of [illegible].

Speaking of the financial side, he said that there was $200,000 of bonds for the West Side school that wouldn't be paid off until 1948. Not a brick in the building was paid for yet, except the bonds and the building isn't built yet. There are court house bonds for $317,000, due in 1925, that have to be refunded and the city is headed to its fullest capacity. There is only one way to raise money, he said and that is by taxation. Rents have risen to an unbearable figure and if you build a house you are worse off.

James M. Young raised a laugh when he said that we want to be on an equality. We don't want to do it out of the others want to have Prince Arrows and want us to ride in [illegible] we're not built that way. [illegible] afraid of getting to the Rock at our doorbrew for us to go into debt for anything and [illegible] the people that are making the money. The East Side is growing. One man tonight has told us [illegible] children. Everybody [illegible] children. Let's go before the town [illegible] and get fair treatment.

Mr. Davis suggested that when the school building committee is named it should have one East Side representative on it.

After the motion for an eight-room building had been passed, it was voted to have the chairman name a committee of three to prepare a resolution for the special town meeting, and Mr. Gebrath named Frank M. Green, James M. Young and William Shanley. The meeting adjourned a few minutes before 9 o'clock.

CAPACITY KNOWLEDGE WAS SPEAKER'S TOPIC

Our Capacity for Knowledge was the subject Rev. Charles H. Ricketts presented at the noon meeting of the Richmond Radiator plant, Monday, under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

The following is an outline of the thought presented: In many places of the Bible this passage appears "teach me Thy statutes." The fact that it is repeated five times in the 119th psalm shows that in the writer's opinion it is of great value. In these words we are brought face to face with a great fundamental idea and that idea is knowledge. Now knowledge is something more than acquaintance with facts; it is an understanding of the phenomena of life in general. All men have the capacity to learn existing of course in varying degrees. With some this desire to know and capacity to learn is very weak, with others it is very strong. The objects that people desire to know and have the capacity to understand are as numerous as the people themselves. Certainly no one was ever born, not an absolute idiot, who did not have some capacity to learn.

This subject was presented to the writer's mind by the though that is quite in evidence at the commencement season. It may be compressed into this one sentence: An enlargement of this human capacity to know. Upon this fact our whole educational system is founded from kindergarten to university. We see signs of this capacity in the creeping child. Put a rubber ball into the little one's hands and at once he becomes interested. He looks at it, he tastes it, and at length he throws it. Who taught the child that a ball is something to be thrown? Whatever you may call it—it is a capacity that ought to be trained, and real education is the drawing out of these human capabilities for thought and action.

Emphasis was put upon the following points:

1. There is a capacity to learn about ourselves. To know ourselves as physical, mental and moral beings.

2. There is a capacity to learn about others. While we are individuals, we do not live in unrelated isolation. We are grouped together in units composing the social order as families, communities, nations. We are capable of knowing this and the duties it involves.

3. There is a capacity to learn about God. Realizing that man has this capacity the Bible frequently says, "teach me Thy statutes." And as we learn the laws of God we shall see how they apply to our bodies, our minds and our souls. The spiritual life is the totality of what God wants His people to be.

NATHAN A. GIBBS IS ELECTED VICE PRESIDENT

At the New England Bankers' Convention held at Poland Springs, Me., Friday and Saturday, Nathan A. Gibbs, cashier of the Thames National Bank of this city, was elected vice president for Connecticut in the National Bank Division in the American Bankers' Association.

Albert G. Faulkner Graduated.

A member of the graduating class of Williamsport, Penn. High School last week was Albert Gifford Faulkner, only son of Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Faulkner (Ella May Utley), and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Albert T. Utley, of McKinley avenue, Norwich, and Mott avenue, Neptune Park.

The class-book commented on the good nature and popularity of young Mr. Faulkner, who, it was stated, had won the nickname of "Smiles" because of these characteristics.

The exquisite scenery, excellent roads and fine weather were all features of the outing.

Mr. and Mrs. Gremley entertained Norwich Town to meet Dr. and Mrs. Lamb, also conveyed Dr. and Mrs. Lamb to their home on Monroe [illegible] accompanied by Mrs. Burrows, sister of Dr. Lamb.

The Drop-In class of the First Congregational Sunday school will meet with Mrs. G. F. Bailey at the parsonage on Wednesday at 3 o'clock standard time.

At the First Congregational church the Rev. G. F. Bailey preached from the text Eph. 3.18, using for his theme "Rooted in Love." During the sermon the preacher made special reference to the missionaries on the foreign field who have gone out from the First church and called attention to the fact that the root culture in missionary knowledge and interest had borne fruit in the present day. An allusion was also made to one of the younger members of the parish who is soon to be commissioned for work under the American Board.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION OPENED WITH ENTHUSIASM

Party Officials Steered the Convention Away From Dangerous Passages—Adjournment was Taken after Three Hours, Leaving the Committees to Work Out Details of Organization—In His Keynote Speech Senator Harrison Pleaded For Harmony and Reconcecration to Fundamental Principles of Democracy.

New York, June 24.—Forgetful for the moment of its bitter rivalries over candidates and policies, the democratic national convention began its sessions in Madison Square Garden today with a militant demonstration of party enthusiasm.

Meeting only to go through the formalities of effecting a preliminary organization the delegates indulged in a two hour minute old-time democratic demonstration in honor of Woodrow Wilson and cheered to the echo a keynote speech in which Senator Pat Harrison pleaded for party harmony and a reconstruction to the fundamental principles of democracy.

Then after three hours of oratory and vote-making, the convention adjourned until tomorrow, leaving its committees to work out details of its program while the managers for the rival candidates for the presidency continued their preparations behind the scenes.

Not a single voice was raised in opposition or debate at any stage in the proceedings. Picking their words and phrases carefully, party officials steered the convention away from all dangerous passages that might have led to bitterness and left it to the committees to later sessions to develop the writing of new platforms in party history, there was a subtle touch of rollicking mood abroad among the delegates that augurs, perhaps, of wild times to come. The seats filled slowly, the galleries, remote in the vast hall, never were entirely occupied. There were whole banks of empty seats behind the clustering thousands of flags along the gallery rails that make the hall a riot of red and white and blue.

At the various headquarters the struggle for tickets went on even after the convention itself was in session and the air of half the country was pulsating with radio waves that bore the sounds of its doings to fastidious listeners in.

TWO-THIRDS RULE IS GOOD FOR DARK HORSE

New York, June 24.—Inability of any of the "present contenders" to win the democratic presidential nomination was declared inevitable because of the two-thirds vote rule of the convention, in a statement issued tonight by Frank Hague, New Jersey national committeeman and manager of the campaign launched by the delegation from that state in behalf of Governor George Silzer.

"The fact is that the national alignment has been such as to preclude the possibility of one of the present contenders being able to land the nomination," the statement said. "Out of the present confusion must come a man who does not possess any of the weaknesses of the present leaders and who embodies all of their strong points. George Silzer is such a man.

"The very weakness of the other candidates—and all of them are really great Americans—only emphasize the strength of New Jersey's governor. He is one of the east, he understands and is of the progressivism of the west. He has never known defeat and if the democratic party wants to win it can win with Silzer."

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES AT THE SMITH HEADQUARTERS

New York, June 24.—Politics found a substitute today in social diversions so far as the outward appearance of activities about the headquarters of Alfred E. Smith for president revealed. Governor Smith himself went swimming at a nearby beach and Franklin D. Roosevelt, his campaign manager, went to his residence from the convention meeting to prepare for the reception there tonight for the upstate delegates.

Outside headquarters, however, New York delegates pledged to the Smith candidacy were busily engaged caring for his cause into state delegations with th ereault that the Smith supporters professed optimism.

Mr. Roosevelt declared the New York governor was gaining strength from "unexpected sources" and incoming reports from the outside workers "were highly encouraging."

WHO DELIVERED DEMOCRATIC KEYNOTE SPEECH

FIVE MEN MISSING AFTER EXPLOSION ON STEAMER

New York, June 24.—Five men were reported missing and eight others were seriously injured today by an explosion of naptha on board the British freighter Exmoor Castle at her Brooklyn dock.

The vessel's cargo included 100,000 gallons of high test airplane gasoline 100,000 gallons of naptha and a large quantity of motor oil. The blaze spread so rapidly that firemen battled other explosions, and the freighter was towed into the East river and ordered sunk.

As the tugs caught hold of the vessel the hatches were ordered battened down, ending the last slim chance for life of the five men trapped in the hold. Charles Kelley, an inspector for the Standard Oil company, was among the missing.

The vessel belching heavy black smoke and flame from its port holes, was convoyed toward Erie Basin but a decision to beach her there was abandoned because of the proximity to the United States arsenal on Governor's Island.

Later the efforts of the fire fighters began to have an effort and it became apparent that the blaze could be confined to the after hold where it started. Then orders were given to head the burning ship toward Gravesend Bay and beach her out of the path of shipping. The fireboats William J. Gaynor and New Yorkers remained on the side of the burning ship and literally flooded her holds with water.

Three distinct explosions occurred before it was decided to cut the ship loose from her moorings.

The fire department's rescue squad wearing gas masks, made frantic efforts to find the men unaccounted for.

Rhode Island Senate Deadlock Continues

Democratic Members Have Voted to Prolong Recess Until This Afternoon.

Providence, R. I., June 24.—A move by Governor Flynn today to end the deadlock in the Rhode Island senate met with a temporary setback, the house of representatives after hearing his recommendation for the appointment of committees by the house and the senate to confer with him, adjourned until Friday without acting on it.

Governor Flynn, in an address to the house said that he hoped through the conference which he requested to effect a "complete and permanent solution" of the present difficulties. He urged a popular referendum on the matter of calling a constitutional convention to bring about chanres in the senate constitution which would abridge the present powers of the senate amounting in his opinion to minority control of state affairs.

Representative James F. Lavender, republican, of Bristol, moved that the house appoint a conference committee but Speaker Joslin ruled that a previous motion to adjourn made by Representative Samuel H. Davis, republican, of Westerly, had precedence. The motion to adjourn was carried by a vote of 43 to 27.

The democratic minority of the senate in the absence of the republican majority members, all but one of whom are at Rutland, Massachusetts, met for a few minutes this afternoon and voted to continue until tomorrow afternoon the recess declared last Friday.

QUANTITIES OF MILK REJECTED BY INSPECTORS

Hartford, June 24—Inspectors of the state dairy and food commission have rejected considerable quantities of milk brought ot pasteurizing plants in the state during the recent warm weather because of failure to comply with cooling regulations. Milk must be cooled to a temperature of 55 degees, fahrenheit or below, within one hour after milking, and maintained at a temperature not exceeding 60 degrees until delivery. The hot spell, coming after a cold season, found many farmers and dairy men unprepared to meet the regulations and the milk was rejected.

It is absolutely necessary that this regulation be complied with, Commissioner Thomas Holt said today. The most numerous instances of failure to comply with the cooling regulations have been among the farmers bringing milk to pasteurizing plants, the commissioner said.

AN ALLEGED BURGLAR HELD IN $5,000 BONDS

Westport, Conn., June 24—Walter Meyers, age about 25 years, of Riverside avenue, was arrested here tonight by State Police Sergeant Frank Virelli, of Bridgeport barracks, on a warrant charging him with burglary and is being detained in bond of $5,000 at Bridgeport.

Although specifically charged with burglarizing the summer home of Mrs. Rose A. Lynch, on Eaton road several months ago, state police said tonight they have reason to believe that Meyers has knowledge of a series of over 30 burglaries and thefts committed here within the past year.

State police claim to have recovered several hundred dollars worth of stolen goods, pillaged from residnces and summer homes here within the past year.

State police intimated that other arrests in the case are imminent.

WASHINGTON ORDERS STEAMER RELEASED

Boston, June 24—The Panaman steamship Taboga, which was captured last week by the coast guard cutter Acushnet and towed into this port Saturday, was released today on orders from Washington. The coast guard cutter Mackinac late today escorted the Taboga three miles to sea and turned her loose.

Although coast guardsmen had been in search for the Taboga for months until the vessel became known up and down the coast as the "phantom rum runner," last week's seizure, made 15 miles off shore near Block Island, was not in connection with a rum running charge. Federal officials said the Acushnet had orders direct from Washington to bring the Taboga in. It was explained that the vessel had changed from American to Panaman registry without authority.

NAVY SEAPLANE FORCED DOWN BY FUEL TANK

Washington, June 24—The new navy seaplane CS-2, which established several new world's records on an endurance flight here last Sunday was forced down after keeping the air for 13 hours and 26 minutes because of inability to supply gasoline to the engine from the fuel tanks, the navy department announced tonight.

The Wright engine "functioned perfectly." It was stated, the difficulties having to do with the complicated fuel supply system, which was installed for experimental purposes. It is expected that minor changes will be made and in a few days the CS-2 will take the air for another duration test.

Officers at the air station announced the ship will return to Lakehurst sometime between three and seven in the morning, depending upon weather conditions.

40,000 Clothing Workers to Strike

Give as Cause "Unbearable Conditions" in New York City and Vicinity.

New York, June 24.—Forty thousand workers on men and children's clothing in New York city and vicinity have voted to strike tomorrow it was announced today by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America. The strike was ordered, it was said, after all means had been taken to wipe out "unbearable conditions."

The strike decision was due to two main causes, according to a statement issued by Sidney Hillman, general president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America. He charged many of the manufacturers in the city with having "utilized the business depressing for breaking down the standards of the workers and reducing wages."

He also charged that a number of employes had attempted to restore the "social" shop, which, according to Mr. Hillman, is in effect the old sweat shop.

"The union demands are for a complete union shop" the statement said, "against wage reduction and for the introduction of minimum scales of wages."

WITNEESSES SUSTAIN STATEMENTS OF MEANS

New York, June 24—Two other witnesses in the trial of Gaston B. Means, former department of justice agent and his secretary, Elmer W. Jarnecke, accused of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, today corroborated the assertion of Means that the late Jess Smith had been directed by President Harding to make an inquiry into prohibition enforcement and to employ Means in the work.

Henry Stern of Buffalo, an attorney, who said he served as legal aide to Senator Wheeler of Montana in the recent investigation of the attorney general's office, testified that a letter to Smith, signed by President Harding and asking Smith to take charge of the investigation, was included in papers sent to the senate committee by Means.

Clark Grier of Augusta, Ga., former agent of the department of justice, testified that he also had seen the letter. Grier said that when he called on President Harding in quest of a position in the department of justice, the president told him to see Means, who was working for him (the president). Grier did so, he said, and was employed to watch bootleggers from the Bahama Islands.

Stern said that among the papers he examined were receipts indicating that Smith had paid to means a sum aggregating between $160,000 and $170,000.

THREE AMERICANS ELIMINATED IN WIMBLEDON TENNIS

Wimbledon, England, June 24.—(By the A. P.)—Miss Helen Wills of California, the American tennis champion came back to form today in her match against one of her compatriots, Miss Lillian Scharman. Without extending herself, but playing a keen game, she won easily, 6-1, 6-0.

Three of the six American women lost their matches in the first round of the ladies' singles in the Wimbledon classic today, but in addition to Miss Wills, Mrs. Mallory and Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup came through successfully.

Suzanne Longlen, the world's champion, kept up her customary record of defeating her opponent in love sets.

Miss Edith Sigourney, Miss Scharman and Miss Eleanora Sears were the Americans eliminated.

The tennis supremacy of the men across the Atlantic is not yet endangered. The American Olympic team, R. Norris Williams, Vincent Richards, Francis T. Hunter and Watson M. Washburn, went into the third round of the men's singles with only Washburn encountering difficulty in putting away his opponent, Colonel H. G. Mays, of England, in a five set match.

FEELING FINE AFTER DAWN TO DUSK FLIGHT

San Francisco, June 24—Lieutenant Russell I. Maughan, dawn-to-dust and coast to coast aviator, declared today that with a good night's sleep behind him he was feeling fine after his record breaking trip yesterday.

His flight which began at Mitchel Field, N. Y., at daybreak and ended at Crissy field here just after twilight, establishing the new record of 21 hrs 47 min. and 45 seconds, left the army filer with no ill effects. Although he accomplished the feat alone, handicapped by an air sickness he got up today saying he felt fine.

Lieutenant Maughan said that he expects to fly back, making the trip by easy stages and stopping perhaps in Washington for a time. Among many telegrams of congratulations received by the aviator was one from President Coolidge.

STEEL BARK NEREUS SEIZED UNDER LIBEL

Boston, June 24—The various trip of a group of under-graduates of eastern colleges' was delayed today when a United States deputy marshal seized the steel bark Nereus at her berth here under a libel filed in federal court. The petitioners claimed that supplies valud at $605 were put aboard the ship and are unpaid for.

Last winter a master mariner saved the Nereus from conversion to a coal barge by buying her for a cruise. Several members of the Harvard radio club were to conduct wireless experiments while other students, with the aid of professional talent, worked ship.

M'ADOO HOLDING ALOOF FROM THE DEM. CONVENTION HALL

Remained in His Hotel Suite During Opening Session—Tells Newspaper Men That He Feels Very Confident of Outcome—Refused to be Drawn Out on the Keynote Speech—Callers Included William Jennings Bryan and Senator Wheeler of Minnesota.

New York, June 24—Remaining away from Madison Square Garden as he intends to do throughout the democratic convention, William G. McAdoo continued conferences today in his hotel suite with various party leaders and his political lieutenants. Callers included William Jennings Bryan, Senator Wheeler of Montana and Governor Morrison of North Carolina.

Late in the day, at his first conference with newspapermen since Saturday, Mr. McAdoo declared that he and his associates felt "very confident of the outcome here—certainly the progress we are making as reported by our friends could not be more encouraging."

Disclaiming any intention of attempting to control the platform Mr. McAdoo said he had discussed with Mr. Bryan "some phases of the platform," including the Bryan "peace" plank. He declined to express an opinion as to its merit.

He also refused to be drawn out on the keynote speech of Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi. He explained he had not heard or read it.

McAdoo headquarters were again swarming today with delegates. The Georgia delegation arriving in a body to extend greetings. Many of Mr. McAdoo's visitors assured him they would stick to him to the last.

DAVIS ADHERENTS ARE MAINTAINING SILENCE

New York, June 24.—Adherents of John W. Davis for the democratic presidential nomination persisted tonight in their policy of silence, so far as withholding for publication claims of gains in strength for their man. Privately, however, they made confident statements coupled with the "don't-quote-me" injunction.

Several state governors wandered into Davis headquarters to exchange greetings. They were said to have manifested a great deal of flattering interest in what they learned about the West Virginian candidate's status. Among other things, the visitors were told the Davis leaders had sensed a reaction from the gossip circulated in the last day or two casting doubt on the availability of Mr. Davis because of his business connection. The Davis leaders construed the signs they noted as indicating an actual gain in the Davis-for-second-choice program they are fostering.

HAS SOLDIER CANDIDATE FOR VICE PRESIDENT

New York, June 24.—A soldier candidate for the democratic vice presidential nomination was put forward tonight by W. A. Comstock, national committeeman from Michigan, and Alfred Lucking, a Michigan delegate, in a statement declaring that Major General Robert Lee Bullard would receive support from Michigan in the event the presidential nomination went to a western man.

"It is fitting that we recognize the magnificent valor and accomplishment of the hero of the second battle of the Marne, which turned the tide of conflict and marked the beginning of the end of the war," the statement said.

UNDERWOOD'S MANAGERS TAKING THINGS EASY

New York, June 24.—Senator Underwood's campaign managers appeared tonight to be resting on their oars awaiting convention floor developments before working out further details of their campaign strategy. They declared encouragement had continued over the reception given informally to Mr. Underwood's effort to have the convention on record in the platform in a specific denunciation of Ku Klux Klan [illegible] and they were confident that a strong anti-Klan [illegible] would be placed in the resolutions committee report.

WILLIMANTIC

Judge Frank D. Haines presided over a special short calendar session of the Windham County superior court, held in this city, Tuesday. The first case was that of W. & H. Walker, Inc., vs. Robert Stanley and Edward J. Tryon of this city. A motion to default against the defendant Tryon, was granted. It was alleged by the Walker concern which is of Pittsfield, Mass., and does business in Hartford, that Stanley entered into business relations with them to sell their drug and toilet articles, giving them a guarantee for a payment on the merchandise. The guarantee was endorsed by Tryon and when payment of the toilet articles was not forthcoming both the guarantor and the endorser were named as defendants in the suit for $1,000 damages. By a compromise the amount of settlement in the case was fixed at $514.83.

The court, decided for the plaintiff to recover $8,572.07 with the limitation of time for settlement in four months or October 20, in the case of Charles E. Leonard vs. John L. Leonard, et al, default for failure to answer in a foreclosure suit.

In the case of Herbert L. Switzer vs. Peter Turansky, et al, the court directed that the decision of the supreme court for the defendant, of one dollar and costs, be carried out. At the previous trial of the case in superior court the defendants had been awarded $20 and costs.

The court granted a motion to separate defenses and moved for more a specific statement in the case of Gussie Weisler vs. Arthur Twomela and Beeda Twomela. The same procedure was ordered in the case of Katie A. Kempton vs. Charles Kempton in which a more specific statement was asked as to the certain acts of alleged cruelty.

In the case of The Danielson & Plainfield Gas and Electric Company vs. The People's Light & Power Company, judgment on the pleadings was asked but not carried out. Attorney H. S. Russell of Putnam was appointed trustee in place of Joseph W. Temple.

In succession four uncontested divorce cases were heard and disposed of. Olive H. Thatcher of Putnam was granted a decree of divorce on the grounds of desertion from her husband Warren A. Thatcher. A divorce decree was granted Leroy H. Richardson of Killingly from his wife, Luna M. Richardson. The couple had been married three years.

Bertha M. Knibbs of Putnam was granted a divorce when she charged that her husband, Charles H. Knibbs had deserted her in 1920 and that he had not been seen by her since that time.

Ethelyn Lenore Tetreault of West Thompson was granted a divorce from her husband, Dewey Joseph Tetreault of Putnam on the grounds of intolerable cruelty and she was given the custody of their infant child, Patricia and also allowed alimony of $15 a week until further orders from the court.

Court then recessed until next September.

Prior to the opening of the short calendar session court was ordered by Judge Haines to proceed in criminal matters. State's Attorney Charles E. Searls brought up the case of John Desrosier of this city who was tried in the Windham county superior court some months ago and convicted of breaking and entering. A sentence of one year in jail was imposed and then suspended, placing the accused on probation for that term. Desrosier has since been arrested and convicted of stealing an automobile in Hartford and at present is serving time at Cheshire Reformatory. Upon request of the State's Attorney the court ordered that suspension of the sentence be revoked. Upon his release from Cheshire, Desrosier will be brought to the county jail at Brooklyn, to serve his sentence of one year, which had been suspended.

A recess was called during the short calendar session for the purpose of holding a memorial service in the memory of the late Judge Milton A. Shumway, who died October 30, 1923. Resolutions on the death of Judge Shumway were prepared by Attorney William A. King of the resolutions committee and were read by State's Attorney Charles E. Searls. They were unanimously adopted by members of the bar. Tributes to the memory of the deceased then followed, reference being made by Attorney Searls that the late judge was the next oldest member of the bar in the county. Attorney Searls is the oldest. The life and unselfish work of Judge Shumway as a member of the bar were then dwelt upon by the speaker. A letter from Judge George E. Hinman was read and Judge Haines spoke from the bench. Other attorneys who spoke included A. G. Bill, C. L. Torry, Harry Back, J. F. Carpenter, and clerk of the court, Edgar M. Warner.

The forces of the proponents of a real Fourth of July celebration in Willimantic this year were materially reinforced, Tuesday, when the Willimantic Rotary Club voted to join hands and stand back of the movement at the regular luncheon and meeting held on Tuesday noon. In addition to pledging its moral support, the Rotary club voted a donation of $25 to help defray the expenses of the affair. The Rotary committee included Frank H. Foss, James P. Mustard and James B. Fullerton.

To make preparations for a joint outing of the Norwich, New London, Putnam and local clubs to be held the latter part of July or early in August the following committee was appointed: Richard E. Dodge, John F. Ahern, James P. Bath, Charles B. Pomeroy and Charles W. Hill.

A report of the meeting of the Eastern Connecticut Civic Association-Delegate Charles B. Pomeroy. The session held in Norwich was given by club rejoiced in the selection of two of its members as executives, Valentine L. Murphy being elected president of the association and Harry W. Standish, club president, as a member of the executive committee of the organizations.

Initiation work was then carried out, the new members being, Dr. R. Bullard Jones, Albert B. Smith, Fred L. Avery and G. Everett Harrington. The address of welcome to the new arrivals was given by Valentine Murphy of the educational committee. A letter of congratulation will be sent the Palmer, Mass., club by Secretary Hill, on the occasion of the charter meeting of that club, on June 26. An interesting talk on business men's clubs was then given by Dr. Crathern, who was introduced by George H. Shafer. Dr. Crathern based his talk on the excellent effect these clubs were having in the business and social world. Louis A. Kingsbury, the million dollar kid, has as his guest, Harold Kingsbury and Dick Dodge, the professor, entertained Frank P. Wheeler. Announcement was made by President Standish that the club trophy for the best all-round athlete at Windham High school had been awarded to Dudley H. Burr, a product of Baltic. Adjournment was taken at 1.35 o'clock.

At St. Mary's R. C. Church Tuesday morning at eight o'clock Miss Marie Louise Fredette and Frank J. Martin, Jr., were married by Rev. H. C. Belec who also sang the nuptial mass. The couple were attended by Joseph Varriur and Frank J. Martin, Sr., fathers of the bride and groom respectively. The bride wore a white crepe de chine gown with a veil and carried white roses. CHAPLIN

The South Chaplin school, Mrs Myrtle Lock, teacher, gave an entertainment at the church vestry Saturday evening. The evening was warm and many were at the open windows outside. The exercises included songs, recitations and an act in Indian costume by the children. The last part of the program was made up of monologues, a play and songs representing colored minstrels that brought out frequent applause. Talent from outside assisted in the last part of the program. Ice cream and cake were on sale at the close. The proceeds were over $50.

Children's day was observed at the Congregational church Sunday under the direction of Supt. Clifton J. Church. The program included many recitations, songs and acts by the children, who had been trained by Miss Edith Knott, teacher of the primary department. Their parts were all taken in a pleasing way. Six girls from Miss Florence I. Hunt's class gave a motion song that was a pleasing feature of the program. A chorus of twenty voices sang special songs during the evening. Rev. J. H. Knott gave a short address. A large congregation enjoyed the well rendered program.

FAMILY WELFARE DEPARTMENT MAKES URGENT PLEA

This is a two-fold and very earnest request, which is made by the Family Welfare Department of the United Workers. In the first place it is for clothes of all kinds for women and children. At this time of the year, when winter clothing is laid aside, there is always a great demand for lighter weight articles, both dresses and undergarments. Now hand in hand with this request the Family Welfare Department feels obliged to add another one they might not be able to make if they did not know that they were appealing to friends. It is true they want clothes and many of them for our needy poor and you cannot send too many if they are only of the right sort. The Family Welfare Department have often asked that the article given might be clean and well mended and this is important.

They are going to ask now that the garments sent may not be either moth eaten, or, say, twenty or thirty years out of date. This is not because our needy friends are proud and refuse to use anything that is not up to the last notch in style-not at all. But take for instance an old fashioned basque, can you imagine any thing more useless for a working woman or a school girl with its short boned waist and skin tight sleeves. Many such have been sent to the department, and it is always impossible to make them over or put them to any available use.

Now for another matter in connection with runmage sales. It would be of real value to the Family Welfare Worker if she might have the privilege of looking over the articles left from one of these sales, and selecting the things that she knows she can make use of and not for instance shoes too narrow or with higher heels than can be safely worn. Will not the next person in charge of a runmage sale be kind enough to call up Miss Corcoran and tell her when she may come and look at the left over things? Miss Corcoran will be very glad to avail herself of this opportunity and will come at the appointed time. No. 3 Washington steet, telephone 879-3.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

PALACE THEATRE

Last showing today of the Tiger Rose, David Belasco's famous play which was so successful for two years in New York and which played in every city of importance in the country, is now in film form at the Palace theatre. It is said the screen version is going to enjoy even greater popularity than the play. It is a Warner Brothers classic of the screen, directed by Sidney Franklin.

Added attractions The Spat Family in their latest and funniest two reel comedy The Darkest Hour. Pathe News and Palace supreme orchestra.

Starting tomorrow, Friday and Saturday, Mystic China! Elaborate, colorful settings! Pretentious costumery! Excitement! Drama! Romance! All these and more in Thundergate, a First National picture which comes to the Palace theatre for a three day showing.

The story deals with an American, who, through the duplicity of the girl to whom he is engaged, abetted by her lover, sinks to degradation in China. Through circumstances he is forced to masquerade as a Chinese over-lord and then meets romance in the shape of a white girl, who had been reared as Chinese.

The girl is brought to him as a slave-wife. He learns she is white and then a conflict begins to save her from the Chinese and at the same time expose the duplicity of his former associates.

Thundergate is described as a swiftly moving drama replete with thrills. Owen Moore, one of the screen's most popular players, enacts the leading role. Virginia Brown Faire plays the part of the slave wife. Other film celebrities in the cast are Sylvia Breamer, Tully Marshall, Robert McKin, Richard Cummings and Ynez Seabury.

Coming Sunday, Richard Barthelmess in Twenty One.

AT THE BREED

If you fear death—and who doesn't?—go to the Breed theatre and see the wonderful attraction, which offers Strongheart, the wonder dog, in a play called The Love Master. There is a scene in it that will make you believe that if you can get a dog as wonderful as Strongheart, who will be so loyal to you as he is to the David of the screen play, death can never come near you.

It is a daring scene Director Laurence Trimble has asked Strongheart to play, and, all honor to this canine actor, he makes it seem convincing. Briefly, while humans are waiting for Strongheart's master to die, with the end expected momentarily, Strongheart sees something, invisible to the audience, enter the room. His whole attitude shows that it is something that threatens his master, and, while the watchers see life ebbing out of the master's eyes, giving way to death Strongheart begins his battle waged with an unseen presence, and he wins.

It sounds like motion picture hokum—a brief recital of this scene, but it is impossible to watch it and not believe that death is a tangible thing that a dog's loyalty and bravery can drive away. Perhaps you will laugh at this idea, but in the theatre this scene will get to you so that you will sink back in your seat with a sigh of satisfaction when this wonder dog sits down on his haunches and traces with his eyes the flight of an unseen spectre over the horizon.

BROADWAY THEATRE

The last of this week will again see the popular B. F. Keith vaudeville at the Broadway theatre.

The feature act is Johnny Elliot and Girls.

Johnny Elliot conducts a dancing studio and this dancing studio has five pupils. They are Violet Panol Urilda Ulivieri, Ann Nita, Eileen Shannon, all are well known Broadway beauties. The peculiar part of this studio is that the principals do not come there to learn how to dance Johnny Elliot and Girls present a Musical Comedy Extravaganza called The Dancing Studio. It is a mass of song and dance and fun, prettily presented and considered by many to be one of the most beautiful acts of this kind in vaudeville.

Other acts include The Zylos in a musical offering, Nick and Gladys Vega in The Italian Golfer and Mason and Zedora in Look Out.

The Guilty One, a Paramount picture, featuring Agnes Ayres, comes to the Broadway theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Joseph Henaberry directed the production. Edward Burns plays opposite Miss Ayres in the leading man's role. Cyril Ring, Crauford Kent, Clarence Burton and Stanley Taylor play in support.

A new Kinogram weekly will finish this program.

World's Biggest Ginger Ale Plant

The Cliquot Club Company was established at Millis, Mass., because nowhere else could be found the water of such purity as is necessary in making a beverage of such high quality. Springs have been offered to Cliequot Club all over America, but none of them measured up to the standard. Thus the world's biggest plant devoted to ginger ale making grew up in a quiet, hilltop village in Massachusetts. Rigorous selection of purest ingredients and strict watchfulness of their chemical formula made a ginger ale of appetizing purity. Origination and improvement of method enabled Cliequot Club to build up a capacity of hundreds of thousands of bottles per day. The foresight of these pure-food pioneers is seen in the fact that annually many carloads of Cliequot Club go into every state in the Union,—and that relatively as much Cliequot Club is drunk in San Francisco as in New York City.

Woodstock to Pomfret, Sunday, and took away fifty gallons of alleged al- cohol. When the officers were about to seize the liquor Harrington told them that they had no right to take it as it did not belong to him. Har- rington named a Putnam man as the owner of the liquor. The officers, however, took their find away and are holding it pending further devel- opments in the case. As yet no ar- rests have been made.

As far as can be learned there will be no special observance of Fourth of July in Putnam. It is expected that Independence day will be a quiet affair. On account of local conditions no great amount of money will be spent for explosives and fireworks. The edict of the mayor is soon to go forth relative to the observance of the noisy holiday from sunset on the 3rd to sunrise on the 5th and the laws will be strictly enforced.

On account of the cold spring vege- tables and fruit have been set back a week or more. The first native strawberries are just appearing in market and it will be something to brag about if any local gardener has early peas from his garden by the Fourth of July.

Mrs. Principe Mitchell of New York is at the Day Kimball hospital with a compound fracture of the right leg, a badly bruised arm and other minor injuries, sustained when she was struck by a motorcycle driven by Mi- chael Harper of Putnam about 6.30 Monday evening on select Pomfret street in the town of Pomfret.

Mrs. Mitchell is a guest at the Ben Grosvenor Inn for the summer and was out for a walk. According to Harper there were other cars in the road when the accident happened and he saw Mrs. Mitchell too late to avoid hitting her. Dr. Overlock, who lives not far from the scene of the acci- dent, gave Mrs. Mitchell first aid and she was removed at once to the hos- pital.

NO MERCY WILL BE SHOWN KIDNAPPERS OF DEPUTY

Rome, June 24.—(By The A. P.)—Premier Mussolini, speaking in the senate today on the case of the miss- ing and presumably murdered deputy, Matteotti, declared there was no need for him to repeat his "extreme regret and horror at the crime" against the deputy. He said the Fas- cisti had been among the first to ex- press their horror at the crime and he asserted that justice would be meted out irrespective of whether the guilty parties were high officials or not.

The premier said that he was sure the senate would associate itself with "the proud protest of the magistra- ture" against certain insinuations from abroad. He warned the newspapes against conducting an unofficial trial while the court trials were proceed-.

MYSTIC

In a recent issue of "The Santa Fe Magazine", published at Chicago, Ill., in the interest of the 80,000 employes of The Santa Fe Railway System, ap- pears the following item relative to the late David Leeds Gallup, who had many friends here and where he was always a welcome summer visitor:

"The Directors of The Atchison, To- peka and Santa Fe Railway Company desire to place on record an expression of their own personal loss as well as that of the company in the death of its Comptroller, David Leeds Gallup.

His whole life as a railroad man, covering a period of forty-four years, was spent in the service of lines now operated by the company. As auditor of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, as special agent for the tak- ing over of the Gulf Lines and as treasurer of the Chicago, Santa Fe and California Railway Company, he bore a responsible part in each great extension of the Santa Fe System. As cashier in the Chicago office, as as- sistant to the chairman of the board and finally as Comptroller of the com- pany, he lived for many years to wit- ness the fruits of his labors; work- ing actively at his post until the age of eighty-one and passing quietly into rest on Saturday evening, February 9, 1924, leaving no unfinished business on his desk.

Whatever he did was done thor- oughly. Prior to his entrance into rail- road work, he had had long experience in insurance business and was a mas- ter of all matters of accounting. Qui- et, courageous and responsible, he knew how to inspire those under him with his own ideals of loyalty and ef- ficiency. Both in his official work and in his personal relations he was a man of singular kindliness. He had an in- stinct which led him to understand those with whom he talked and to in- terest himself in their concerns. This gave him a kind of courtesy and charm which few could equal. His life was gentle, and the elements so mixed in him, that nature might stand up and say to all the world, 'This was a man.'

Burnt. presented under the direction of the Those who participated took their parts well and reflected much cred- it upon those who had trained them.

The composition of Nonina Colechia, Our Own Town, showed careful prep- aration and was extremely interesting because of its local interest. The Class Prophecy by Dorothy Gray was pro- ductive of considerable amusement and was well carried out. The com- position, Our Flag, by Elsie McGaugh- ey, was excellent. The folk dance, Chinese Love Song, was very skillful- ly presented and received hearty ap- plause.

There were twenty-four in the class there being fifteen girls and nine boys. The honor students with their stand- ing were as follows:

Nonina Colechia, 92; Elsie McGaugh- ey, 91; Dorothy Gray, 89; Sarah Wil- kins, 89; Ernest Gildersleeve, 88; Ad- elaide Lamphere, 87; Mercedes Bur- rows, 86; Norris Prentice, 85.

IMPROVED TROLLEY SERVICE.

After many years of effort, during which time it has been endeavoring to get the right to put in a turnout in West Main street, the Connecticut Company has at last obtained the means of bettering its service in that part of the city, especially during ball games, horse racing, circuses or other events at the fairgrounds have to offer accommodations than a single track line with no turnout placed where it would permit of improved service. The construction of a turnout east of Mt. Pleasant street will permit of better service in both directions and a more satisfactory handling of crowds which always have to be moved as quickly as possible.

Following the building of this turnout it is to be hoped that it will be followed at no distant day by the extension of the West Side line to Maplewood cemetery or beyond, in order that the many who desire transportation to that point and that part of the town may be accommodated.

The number of burials at Maplewood increasing each year. This means that more and more interest is centered there and each day more and more are disposed to visit the cemetery. To do so now either requires an auto or a walk from the end of the present carline. When it is found that the extension of the road to the cemetery would result in increased patronage there is much to justify it. It is a section of the town that is open to important development aside from those going to and from the cemetery.

The demand for the extension to Maplewood cemetery is not a new one. Appeals in that direction have been made without success, the last of which came before the service is obtained no one is willing to question, but the desirability of it is unquestioned and apparently all that is necessary is for the Connecticut Company to be convinced that there would be an adequate return for the money invested. That, in these days, is not so easy to prove.

GETTING TOGETHER.

There were indications near the close of the premiership of M. Poincare in France that a better understanding between that country and Great Britain, concerning the reparations question, was likely. This was after the Dawes report had been made and it had been generally approved in both countries.

What might have been the outcome of the conference between Premiers Herriot and MacDonald there is no knowing, but there was hope for settlements. That being premised on good results were anticipated from the scheduled meeting between Premiers MacDonald and Herriot and it doesn't appear that there may be cause for disappointment.

These national leaders have met and exchanged views and the report is that the meeting disclosed a "general agreement between the French and British points of view and on the part of the two prime ministers a common determination to meet the difficulties which beset their countries and, indeed, the whole world, by continuous cooperation."

Their understanding has reached the point where they believe there should be a conference among the allies for the purpose of determining the method of procedure, a fact in itself which indicates that views must be running along the same channel or no such step would be considered.

One of the great handicaps to a settlement of the European difficulties has been the inability of France and Great Britain to agree. There was a time during the great war when they came to realize that a common leadership was necessary. Apparently they have reached that conclusion in regard to the reparations adjustment. There is nothing to be gained by a further waste of time. The Dawes plan has made a most favorable impression. It provides a means of settlement that applies to Germany as well as to the allies and it is timely that the latter should be disposed to make the most of it.

DAWN TO DUSK FLIGHT.

Crossing the country between dawn and dusk is an achievement made possible through the bringing of the flying machine to the present stage of perfection. It has been regarded as impossible. Two attempts have been made to accomplish the feat by Lieutenant Maughan only to be halted through trouble with his machine. The third attempt was helped through avoiding some the difficulties encountered on previous occasions.

Such an endurance test, both for man and the machine, indicates the point to which aviation has been brought in 1924. A quarter of a century ago the thought of flying in a heavier than air machine was a joke. Today it is so real that distance is measured in hours and what used to require days is being accomplished between the rising and setting of the sun.

This is one of the accomplishments that have featured the development of aviation. Each year has witnessed greater perfection in the construction of machines and more proficiency in handling them. No small credit is due to Lieutenant Maughan for the successful completion of this undertaking. It is impossible to overlook his persistency and there cannot be ignored the skill displayed in the handling of his machine, as the various conditions were met.

There has never been any other thought on his part than that the flight could be made. He had confidence in his machine and in himself and he has demonstrated what he has so consistently claimed.

This proves once more that with the aid of the airplanes the Atlantic is much nearer the Pacific than has been previously figured, and it shows that the government has the machines and the men with which to break down that barrier of distance. As in the past it is to be realized that the coast to coast flight between dawn and dusk marks only another milestone in the progress of aerial navigation. Where it will stop no one dares even to guess.

EASTERN CONN. CIVIC ASSOCIATION.

This end of Connecticut has reason to look forward with keen anticipation to the activities of the newly organized Eastern Connecticut Civic association. Where various communities are banded together for a common purpose there is provided the machinery for getting results.

The object of this association is to secure better highways, wider bridges and the elimination of dangerous curves and in these days of so much motor vehicle traffic it is certainly a worthy one. Good roads have long been sought. The advocacy of such has made much territory accessible and brought it in close touch with the rest of the state, and where good roads were desirable some years ago there is now a demand for better highways. The good road movement has simply led to the demand for more and better highways, and in this end of Connecticut that is a wonderful opportunity for bringing about the betterment of highways, those that will open up sections which suffer from the lack of good roads and those which will shorten the distances between the larger and smaller communities. The day is at hand when transportation by way of the highways is of commanding importance.

When the association seeks wider bridges it aims at greater safety in passing and the overcoming of the chance of going overboard, but in this connection it may as well seek sufficiently wide and open underpasses of which this part of the state has not a few that are as dangerous as narrow bridges.

The unsafe curves are invariably spotted by the state engineers and removed when there is new construction, but much attention can be devoted to the clearing of obstructions which make curves more dangerous.

This association may well do a bit of good work in urging the proper posting of roads throughout the various towns that those who drive may where to go as well as where not to reach their destination. Signboards with distances are greatly needed.

The Eastern Connecticut civic association has a large field for service but there is no question but what, with full cooperation, excellent results will be obtained.

ACCIDENTAL DROWNINGS.

Four drownings in one day was distressing news for Norwich. The direct attention as nothing else can to the danger that surrounds bathing, even at points where safety is supposed to prevail, and serve warning that too much care cannot be exercised when there is little knowledge of the art of the swimming or when there is a possibility of suddenly getting beyond one's depth.

When it is realized that there were 8,000 persons drowned last year in this country, and that one-sixth of the accidental deaths among children are caused by drownings, there is disclosed good and sufficient reason for impressing upon young people the hazard that is involved and the need of avoiding the danger that may seem hidden but so positively exists.

Those who are old enough to swim are old enough to be given such instructions that they will understand all the dangers and how to guard against them," is the way one adviser puts it. Too often is it the case that those who go for a swim let the anticipated pleasure eclipse the danger that beckons them on. The most effective way of saving the many lives that are subjected to known perils while bathing is through preventive measures. Life is sweeter than taking chances. Respect for danger means prevention.

June is doing its part in providing heat for the democratic convention, and from all indications it is not going to be needed.

Even if you cannot participate in the democratic convention you can have your opinion as to whom the nominee should be.

In appreciation of the help which he is planning to give them, possibly the democrats will put LaFollette on the ticket in second place.

Referee Holcomb refuses a review of state's action in revoking licenses of eclectics, all of which means that steps to protect the state against fraudulently obtained medical licenses are upheld.

If some of the government engineers have their way the Thames will have to be abandoned for commercial purposes. It would be some time, however, before the lack of dredging operations would prevent the annual college regatta.

SUBURBAN JOYS

The girl with the straight bob looked around determinedly as she entered the only grocery store in suburb and sought out the fatherly old grocer. "Just you think up every thing you keep in tins or glass that will be good for Sunday night suppers and send us a selection," she ordered.

"But, Miss Nell," remonstrated the grocer as she turned to leave, "hadn't you better see what we have and make a selection? Your mother always chooses just what she wants to use."

"I know," responded the girl defiantly, "but mother has gone to the city to stay overnight and while I have the chance to do the marketing I am going to do it my way. Mother is such an economical buyer and has just the right things but she is used to a city home and can't get used to living in the suburbs. She still thinks we can run down to the delicatessen store if unexpected guests come in, and you know, Mr. Jones, there isn't any food store in this suburb but yours and you close on Sundays.

"Know what happened to us last Sunday?" she continued. "First Belle West took a notion to bring her beau out and mother asked them to stay for tea. But Belle said they just couldn't, as she had to be home early. And then didn't the Twinrieds come motoring by near tea time and drop in? I knew that mother had let the larder get pretty bare and signaled her not to ask them to stay but she can't be so inhospitable.

"The Twindlers didn't hesitate a minute about what they'd do with mother's invitation. And then that tactless Grace Twindler added: 'It seems a shame to have that back seat in our car empty and if we stay we can take Belle and Mr. Guggins back to town with us.'

"I could see nemesis descending and tried to save the situation by saying as quickly as possible: 'Oh, but we wanted Belle to stay and she just wouldn't.'

"Yes she will: I'll fix it for you," Grace volunteered. "We won't stay unless she does and I bet all she refused for was that the Sunday evening trains are so poor from here. With our car to go back in she hasn't an excuse."

"It was fairly sickening the way Belle turned round and went back on her given word and decided to stay. I could have slaughtered her as I visioned the poor little steak that mother was keeping in reserve in the icebox for father and me to have for breakfast.

"Mother and I went to the kitchen to see what else we could get together and even she was a bit worried when she saw how little we had in reserve. Even our last can of salmon was gone, because we'd opened it for the cat.

"We got out all the bread and jam we could find and I sacrificed our breakfast steak on the altar of friendship. But you never saw a steak shrink the way that did when it was cooked, and I decided then and there we would have cans and cans of reserve food in the house as long as the family persists in living out of range of delicatessen shops and other first aids to the visited."

"I'll see to those cans and pick a nice selection," said the sympathetic grocer as Nell stopped for breath. "But how did you come out with your Sunday supper?"

"Oh, I called 'em in before the steak was ready and got them pretty well filled up on bread and jam first but even at that there was just one way to make that steak look adequate to serve seven. I broiled all the bacon in the house and spread it round to make the platter looked better covered and then served it, flanked on one side by father's big magnifying glass and on the other side by a carving knife in place of a carver. They just couldn't do a thing but treat it all as a joke after that.

"But, somehow, it didn't seem so funny to father and me next morning when all we had for breakfast was a limited supply of crackers and milk! Send up enough cans, Mr. Jones," she added in parting. "Father will approve, if mother doesn't."—Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Thoughts Across the Sea.

Mr. Editor: Some years ago a play was produced called "Hands Across the Sea." The title is an attractive one, but we do not need to employ metaphor when we speak of thoughts across the sea. How many thoughts must pass from one country to another; as numerous as the white-crested waves, forever restless, on the surface of the heaving ocean.

One is tempted to wonder if the inhabitants of the new world ever give a thought to the places after which their own "home towns" are named.

Do the dwellers in the new Norwich ever give a thought to the tranquil old town in England?

Let us depict the old Norwich, in case there may be at least, some New Englanders who would like to wander, in imagination, through its quiet old streets, and muse on its ancient buildings, its wonderful churches, and on the men and women, once living there, who have helped to make history.

In the midst of the fertile and agricultural county of Norfolk, stands its capital, Norwich— a cathedral city and a garrison town. Rising from a mass of foliage the castle, now used as a museum, dominates it.

Let us pass through the silent "close" with its velvet sward and branching trees and we shall come to the cathedral; the stone of Norwich cathedral was laid by Bishop Herbert de Lozinga in 1096, and it was dedicated in 1101. It is certainly one of our most beautiful cathedrals. Its cloisters are especially lovely.

Norwich is sometimes called the city of churches. It possesses forty-three, most of them dating from the fifteenth century.

Norwich grammar school—originally a chapel—has sheltered within its walls such pupils as Lord Nelson, Coke, George Borrow and Rajah Brooke.

The Guildhall dates from 1308. In one of its rooms, the mayor's council chamber, the furniture is of the time of Henry VIII.

Just one hundred years ago, Norwich saw the birth of Elizabeth Fry. Through the quiet streets of the city and in the flower-filled lanes of Earlham, walked the noble Quakeress and Norwich entertained no angel unawares.

The latest Englishwoman to bring honor to her native town is Nurse Cavell, to whom a monument has been erected.

Norwich is noted for being a musical city. The once celebrated singer, Jenny Lind, visited it often, and a hospital is named after her.

Everything in the county of Norfolk is redolent of the past. Some of the surrounding villages are extremely picturesque, and the old inns and farmhouses are hundreds of years old.

Norfolk shows many traces of the Norman conquest. There is much resemblance between Normandy of today and Norfolk. The Normans and Norfolk peasant are much alike in character. Many of the county families bear old Norman surnames. Most of the churches are of Norman architecture.

In spite of modern ideas, and the changes brought about by time, one feels the influence of the past, more than the present, in Norwich.

Imagine yourself standing on the river bank, on a Sunday evening in summer, there. All is still and hushed save for the soft movement of the water between the green banks, and the sweet, haunting music of the silver chimes. The meadows are bespangled with wild flowers of every hue. The tapering spires of the churches, centuries old, are silhouetted against the pale blue sky.

The dream city of Norwich indeed holds one with the spell of its glorious past.

There always has been a feeling of kinship between England and America, more so now, since the war.

Those whose circumstances will not permit them to visit America, except in thought can only dream of its marvelous scenery and charming modern towns and keep a warm corner in their hearts for those who live in sister cities.

BANTING FROM THE FARM

All that Dr. F. G Banting had was an idea. He was not versed in science, he possessed little funds, and had no great reputation or influential friends.

He was born on his father's homestead near Alliston, Ontario, Canada, and helped on the farm while attending Alliston public schools. And he was just a serious minded hardworking pupil, not brilliant, but persistant," observers say.

When 20 years old, he entered the University of Toronto, and when the World War started he enlisted in the ambulance corps, but was sent back to complete his course because of the need for physicians. Graduated in 1917, he went overseas as battalion doctor with the rank of captain.

After the war he started to practice medicine in London, Ontario, and to bolster his income he became demonstrator in the medical school of the Western University.

While reading an article on diabetes, in November, 1920, he conceived his idea of injecting an extract of the degenerated pancreas, as a remedy. He studied the subject six months, but his limited knowledge of science and lack of equipment for testing handicapped him.

He closed his offices, raised what funds he could, went to the University of Toronto and asked for facilities while he tried out his idea. Scientists of the world had been trying for 22 years to find a remedy for diabetes and Banting was not known to Prof. J. J. R. Macleod, to whom he applied, but his earnestness won.

In an attic room, so hot at times that he had to strip to sprinters' dress, he and C. H. Best, his assistant, worked day and night, and his unscientific methods made progress difficult. Before the summer was over Banting had proved that his idea was right, and the entire resources of the university were mobilized under him until success came in the fall of 1921.

Doctor Banting and Professor Macleod were awarded the Nobel prize. Doctor Banting also has been given an annuity of $7,500 a year by the Canadian Government, which, in addition, has established a chair of Research in the University of Toronto, and this he will occupy at a salary of $6,000 a year.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. Herbert E. Bolton, who has been elected president of the University of Texas, was connected with that institution, as professor of history from 1901 to 1909. Dr. Bolton is fifty-four years old and a native of Wisconsin. His education was received principally at the University of Wisconsin and the University of Pennsylvania. After completing his studies he served for several years as a school principal at various points in Wisconsin. Then he became professor of history and economics in the Milwaukee State Normal School, from which institution he was called to the University of Texas, and thence to Leland Stanford University as professor of American history. Since 1911 he has been professor of American history and director of the Bancroft Library at the University of California. Dr. Bolton is considered a leading authority on the history of the southwest, Texas, and California, and is the author of numerous works on southwestern history.

LITTLE JACK RABBIT
By DAVID CORY

Hares and Rabbits

The Hollyhocks are smiling
Along the garden wall.
It isn't often Uncle John
Finds time to make a call.

For it's miles to Turnip City,
A million rabbit hops,
And the Stagecoach so obliging
It makes two dozen stops.

"Yes, it's a long ride," said Uncle John Hare, as he finished his fourth cup of Turnip Tea and the fifth piece of Angel Cake. "But it gives one an appetite. That's something to be thankful for, and he winked at the little rabbit who sat opposite, never having taken his eyes off the nice old gentleman hare.

"What are you looking at?" asked Uncle John Hare.

"What are you looking at?" asked Uncle John Hare, all of a sudden, "is my tie crooked?"

"No, of course not," answered the bunny boy.

"Well, what are you staring at?" asked the old gentleman hare anxiously. "Anything wrong with me? Have I a black smudge on my nose?"

"You have on the tip of each ear," answered the bunny boy, hesitatingly.

"Of course I have," replied his nice old uncle, relieved at learning what had troubled his small nephew. "All hares have black tips on their ears."

"Mother hasn't. Neither have I," answered the bunny boy, doubtfully.

"Of course not," laughed Uncle John. "You two are rabbits. Only HARES HAVE THESE BLACK MARKS."

"Dear, dear me," sighed the little rabbit. I learn something every day. I wonder if I'll live long enough to be wise?"

"You must be more observing," went on Uncle John hare. "Your feet and mine are very different."

"Yes, yours are bigger," admitted Little Jack Rabbit.

"Ha, ha," laughed Uncle John Hare, with a smile at Lady Love. "I see that I must teach you something about hares. Look at my feet. See how my toes spread apart. Every winter the hair grows out long between them. It's a great help in hopping over the snow,—keeps me from breaking in. Why, I don't need snowshoes."

"Neither does Mrs. Grouse," replied the bunny boy. "The skin grows out long between her toes in the winter time."

"Yes, she can walk over the snow better than I can," answered Uncle John Hare. "But how can I run when Danny Fox chases me. It's lucky I have such long hind legs. I never hide. I just dodge behind trees and bushes in the Shady Forest."

"I most always hide," said the bunny boy. "There are lots of hollow logs and holes in the ground."

"Yes, little rabbits can't hop as fast as hares," said Lady Love. "Our little bungalow is the safest place I know of." And in the next story I'll tell you what happened after that.

DO YOU KNOW

Theodore Roosevelt was the youngest of presidents, being but 42 when he took office.

Few presidents of the United States have remained active in politics after leaving the White House.

The average age of presidents of the United States at the time they assume office is fifty-two years eleven months.

Almost all presidents renominated, after serving four years, have made their second campaign from the White House.

Three presidents of the United States—Van Buren, Cleveland and Roosevelt—found the governorship of New York a stepping-stone to the White House.

Thomas Jefferson and John Quincy Adams were the only presidents who were elected by the House of Representatives, neither having had a majority of electoral votes.

William T. Scott was the only negro ever nominated for president of the United States by a regularly constituted delegate convention. In 1896 Scott was the nominee of the Liberal party.

All presidents of the United States have belonged to the Protestant religion, except Jefferson and Lincoln, who were not identified with any particular religion, being termed as liberals.

Only one man became vice president of the United States under 40 years of age, and he was 36 when he was inaugurated. He was John C. Breckinridge, who served under the Democratic banner with James Buchanan from 1857 to 1861.

Five presidents of the United States were past sixty years old when they took office—John Adams was sixty-one, William Henry Harrison was sixty-eight, Andrew Jackson was sixty-one, Zachary Taylor was sixty-four, and James Buchanan was sixty-five.

Since assuming the presidency Mr. Coolidge has done less traveling than any of his predecessors. The most travelled president was William H. Taft. He journeyed 114,-656 miles during his term as president. Mr. Harding journeyed only 22,200, including the trip of his body from San Francisco, but his Alaskan trip was the longest single journey by a Chief Executive.

New York has been the home state of no fewer than ten vice presidents. Aaron Burr, George Clinton, Daniel D. Tompkins, Martin Van Buren, Millard Fillmore, William A. Wheeler, Chester A. Arthur, Levi P. Morton, Theodore Roosevelt and James S. Sherman. Four of these became presidents later—Van Buren by election, Fillmore and Arthur to fill accidental vacancies and Roosevelt to fill a vacancy and also by election.

WILL ALWAYS BOOST TANLAC, SAYS LEARY

Hartford Man Is Grateful To Medicine For Restoring His Health.

Among the many well-known Connecticut people who have contributed to the long list of Tanlac endorsements is George A. Leary, 309 Trumbull Street, Hartford, manager and buyer China & Lamp Dept., for a leading department store of that city.

"I am now enjoying the best of health," says Mr. Leary, "and I consider myself indebted to Tanlac for it. I can honestly recommend the medicine to anyone who is in need of a real tonic.

"Before taking Tanlac I had indigestion so bad that I actually dreaded to eat. At night my nerves would get all upset and excited so I couldn't sleep and it seemed like I would go out of my head.

"Tanlac has corrected my stomach and nerve troubles and built me up until I am feeling fine in every way. Put me down as one who will always boost Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills for constipation; made and recommended by the manufacturers of Tanlac.

Stories That Recall Others

Self Appointed, But Active.

There was a lawn with a bank on the street which had been recently turfed and seeded down. The ambitious owner of the property was anxious to see the grass grow, and every morning he would go out and look at it. One morning he was horrified to see a man walking on the bank. He rushed out and said angrily: "Here, you, get off that bank! Can't you see the grass is growing?"

"I'm a policeman, I am," said the little fellow.

Ali, the Pastry Sheik.

A restaurant owner recently placed a sign in the window to advertise his pies. In listing the ice cream and pie combination he had "ali mode" in glaring letters.

One of the patrons looked at the sign a long time and then said: "Well I see we now have a sheik in the restaurant."

What Every WOMAN Knows

Daily cleaning can be a back-breaking, nerve-frazzling chore.

But the non-electric Vacuette will lighten your work wonderfully—make it easier and lots quicker. For the Vacuette has no motor—no trailing cords—no plugs or connections.

As it glides over your floors it develops full vacuum suction. And there's also a fast revolving brush. Every bit of dirt is taken up.

Our representative will gladly show you the Vacuette in your own home. See how it makes your rugs and carpets sparkle. See how light it is—how easy to carry—how simple to handle. Remarkably inexpensive, too. Time payments if desired. Phone today or USE THE COUPON.

POETRY

VACATIONS.

"What shall you do this summer?"
"Nothing," I stanchly said;
"Neither books nor Chautauqua nor Concord
Shall claim my tired head.

"I shall lie at length in the sunlight
And count the pine-tree plumes,
And fill my senses with silence
And the odor of clover blooms.

"I shall stand and stare, like the cattle
At the rim of the earth and sky,
Or sit in the lengthening shadows
And see the sweet days die.

"I shall watch the leaping squirrels
And the patient, creeping ants,
And learn the ways of wee wood folk
In their unmolested haunts.

"And perchance in the hush that follows
The struggle to be wise,
Some truth which was coy beforetime
May take me by surprise."
—Henrietta R. Eliot, in Boston Transcript.

THE GAME.

Back in the Nineties, when I was young,
Ere set these wrinkles had scored my brow,
I played at Pit till I strained a lung,
And at Tiddle-dey-winks had many a row.
Where are the tables we'd then endow
With the magic music of Ping and Pong
Up in the attic, the cobwebbed row—
Hark to the voices that cry, "Mah Jongg."

Out in the dustheap the cards are flung,
Nobody bothers with bridge, just now
Hosts advance with the cry of "Pung"
Armies counter with shouts of "Chow"
To Chinese dragons must Nordics bow
And jump to the sound of a mongo gong;
Each lady talks like a lobby-gow—
Hark to the voices that cry, "Mah Jongg."

Red lips part to an Orient tongue,
Dumbbells master the tiles, somehow
Heathen syllables, sweetly sung,
Sound as soft as a lover's vow.
All the Doubles the rules allow
Are claimed in a rhythmic but stern sing-song.
East Winds, Characters, Bamboos—wow!
Hark to the voices that cry, "Mah Jongg!"

(L'ENVOI)

Princess mine! Can it be that thou
Too hast joined with the Hip Sing Tong?
Fare thee hastily O faithless frau!
Hark to the voices—that chime, Mah Jongg!

In China the price for the nets runs from $1 to $2 a gross and for making them factory workers are paid 7 cents a day.

The tusks of the elephant are merely projections of the incisors of the upper jaw and are never shed, although they are sometimes broken off. In other words, the tusks are part of the elephant's teeth. However, the milk teeth, which precede the tusks, come out at an early age. The tusks of the elephant supply the ivory which is so highly esteemed the world over for ornamental purposes. Among the Indian or Asiatic elephants only the male has the tusks, but they are found on both the male and female of the African species.

WILL BEGIN WORK ON LAUREL HILL AVENUE

By Thursday Street Commissioner John C. Donovan expects to begin the construction of the new concrete road on Laurel Hill avenue from just below Walnut street to the city line. The trolley company has already pulled up the trolley track in the section of highway that is to be built and the Laurel Hill line is now running only to Walnut street.

For a time automobilists can expect to have some rough riding while the work is under way, but it can scarcely be worse than they have had here for some time and it can be borne with a measure of patience in the knowledge better times are ahead.

The street commissioner is having a flood of applications for jobs in the department, the majority indicating that they would like something like driving a truck or an equally "light" job. With the programme of work that is ahead for the department, a "soft" job will be about as easy to get as a ticket to the Democratic national convention.

Attending Democratic Convention

Raymond J. Jodoin of Baltic, a delegate from the Second congressional district, is in New York attending the democratic convention.

VOTE $100,000 SCHOOL FOR EAST SIDE-NORWICH TOWN TURNED DOWN

After turning down an appropriation of $250,000 for a new school building in Norwich Town, the special town meeting in the town hall Tuesday evening voted an appropriation of $100,000 to provide for the erection of a new school building on the East Side. The special town meeting was called in response to a proposal made by the town school board at a recent board meeting that two appropriations aggregating $350,000 be asked for to provide for the construction of the new school buildings. That there was considerable interest in the meeting was evidenced from the fact that over 400 men and women were present, crowding the hall to the doors.

The meeting was called to order at 7 o'clock, standard time, by First Selectman William S. Murray and Town Counsel Henry H. Pettis was asked to preside over the meeting. In the absence of Town Clerk Charles S. Holbrook, the assistant town clerk, Miss Mary G. Ward, read the call for the meeting. Besides the two school appropriations there was one other matter in the call. That was an appropriation of $75 for the purpose of installing a hydrant on the Canterbury turnpike, at a point about 400 feet from Peck's Corner. This matter was disposed of first.

Chairman Pettis explained the appropriation asked for by stating that the last town meeting voted $100 to install the hydrant but that it was later found that this tmount was not sufficient. Therefore $75 more was asked for and the appropriation was included in the call for the special meeting. Dr. Clarence I. Spear offered a resolution appropriating the additional $75 and the resolution was voted.

Norwich Town School.

The next matter taken up was the Norwich Town school appropriation. Walter F. Lester, chairman of the town school board, offered a resolution appropriating a sum not to exceed $250,000 for the purchase of a tract of land and the construction of a new school building in Norwich Town. Mr. Lester moved the resolution be adopted and it was seconded.

Mr. Lester in supporting the resolution, spoke of the old time district system that was in vogue here some years ago and said that at that time the school system was not co-ordinated. Since consolidation of the school districts a great deal has been accomplished.

Mr. Lester said that several months ago the school board instructed the school superintendent to make a survey of the school conditions in the town. He said there was no question as to where the shoe pinched the most—in the Norwich Town section and on the East Side. The board has five or six proposed drafts from architects as to the construction of the schools in Norwich Town and the East Side. In Norwich Town it would be necessary to secure a new site as the present site would not be large enough for the new building. He said it was proposed to erect a 16 room building in Norwich Town with a kindergarten and audience room to seat 400 to 500 people. On the East Side it was proposed to erect a six room building with an auditorium and kindergarten in addition.

Speaks on Crowded Conditions.

Supt. Edward J. Graham said he would like to speak on the crowded conditions in the schools. With the aid of a large blackboard he explained how it was proposed to have four central schools to which the other schools would be "feeders." That is, the other schools would send their pupils to the central schools after they had reached the fifth or sixth grades. Supt. Graham said that last fall there were 282 more pupils registered than ever before. There were 23 teachers who had over 40 pupils each during the year there were four or five teachers who had over 50 pupils.

On East Main street it was proposed to have six grades and a kindergarten. Mr. Graham said that by having the four school centers the work could be organized into departmental teaching. In each central school there would be manual training and domestic science.

During the last school year Mr. Graham said that at the Norwich Town school it had been found necessary to do away with the kindergarten to make room for the first and second grades. At the East Main street school next year there will be no room for the fifth grade. The sixth grade has been sent to the Hobart Avenue and Broadway schools, but those schools will not be able to accommodate that grade any more owing to the crowded conditions. It is still a proposition as to what we are going to do with the fifth grade, Mr. Graham said. With reference to the new school on Elizabeth street, Mr. Graham said another room will have to be put into use for grade work next year and that it won't be three years before every room in the Elizabeth street school will be occupied.

Wants Addition Built.

James Murphy of Norwich Town was the next speaker. After speaking at length on the movement leading up to the building of the present Norwich Town school, which he considered a modern school building, Mr. Murphy went on to say that he understood that the movement for the new school was "brought about by three or four newcomers." Mr. Murphy said that everyone wants to give the child all the educational opportunities he can. This school (the Norwich Town school) stands on one of the most beautiful spots in Norwich, he said. We are told that we are going further up to build a school, which, in my opinion, is not healthy. The question is, Do we want a school in this district? If we do, why not build onto the present school? The roof could be raised, as we intended, for a hall or for classes. There is room in back for an addition. Mr. Murphy said that if the school board could show where there is real need for a new school, and show there is not room to build onto the present building he would vote with the board.

Supports Board Resolution.

Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, a Norwich Town resident, offered a strong plea for the adoption of the resolution. He said he is interested in Norwich as a community and in Norwich Town, East Side, Taftville, Greeneville, Laurel Hill districts and the rest as sections of the community. We are here tonight to take an advanced step for the community, he said. It is not for Norwich Town Plone. It is not for the East Side alone, but for the whole community and these two points are but a start. We are up to the question of ways and means and where to begin.

Rev. Mr. Abbott said he would like to say a word for the school board. It is evident they have given this whole matter a great deal of thought. They have done more than take care of present duties. They are looking out for tomorrow.

The buildings in Norwich, in the matter of education, are an atrocity, Rev. Mr. Abbott said that to house the children in the present buildings, crowd them into spaces that take up all the air is a "charge upon us." We are here with a vision of advanced educational possibilities in sight.

Even if you add teachers to the present buildings your problem remains the same. If you centralize you are giving education a chance to be administered adequately. In closing Rev. Mr. Abbott expressed the hope that the appropriation would pass.

Doesn't Want Transportation.

G. Warren Davis asked what the West Side school enrollment was before the Elizabeth street school was built.

Supt. Graham said that in 1916 Mt. Pleasant street school had a registration of 356; High street, 243; West Thames street, 141; Pearl street, 416; and East Great Plain, 35.

Mr. Davis said he couldn't see the necessity of putting up a 16 room building in Norwich Town with an auditorium to seat 600 people. He strongly opposed the transportation of the school from one school to another. He said this transportation would cost $1,200 a year. The transportation of school children is, or should go out of date, said Mr. Davis. I believe the school belongs where the children are.

Charles L. Stewart asked for information on the matter of adding to the present buildings.

Supt. Graham said the buildings in Norwich Town and Yantic are wooden buildings. He said he didn't know how the present buildings could be added without having poor light. You would have a wooden building, which is dangerous. I don't believe in endangering the lives of the children, he added.

Hegry A. Tirrell, principal of the Norwich Free Academy, spoke briefly in favor of the new building. He said that in any community in Connecticut, the size of ours, the grammar schools in those communities are superior to ours, on the whole. He said it is more economical in the long run to build a new building than to add to an old building, and that he is in sympathy with the improvement of the school buildings in Norwich.

John B. Stanton, long a teacher in the Norwich schools, and principal of the Elizabeth street school, said he was in favor of the new building. I know every school building in Norwich and know the accommodations offered. Our buildings are not what they ought to be, said Mr. Stanton. He added that he was willing that his taxes be increased for a new building. He did not favor adding to the old building.

Frederick Vergason inquired as to the site for the proposed new building.

Superintendent Graham told of the several sites that the board had under consideration.

Speaking from the taxpayer's standpoint J. J. Desmond said: There are a great many blessings we would like to have but some we must forego on account of inability to pay for them. What is necessary we ought to have. Mr. Desmond said he had been assured that there is ample space for enlarging the present Norwich Town building. He said there could be a brick addition. That would not involve an expense of $250,000. He said there should be solid consideration of the matter before the tax burden is increased.

Vote by Count.

As there was no one else to be heard the meeting proceeded to vote on the resolution by a yes and no vote. After the vote had been taken Chairman Pettis said "Well, the 'noes' veiled the loudest. However, if the chair's opinion is doubted I will call for a vote, passing from left to right in front of the desk. The vote was doubted by someone in the hall.

Chairman Pettis appointed Morris Bergstresser and Charles Tracy tellers and the voting started at 8.25 (standard time). It took ten minutes for the 405 voters to register their vote with the tellers. The chair then announced the result as follows:

Total votes cast 405
Against the resolution.... 232
For the resolution 173

The chair declared the resolution lost.

For East Side School.

Then the matter of the $100,000 appropriation for a new school on the East Side was taken up. Mr. Lester offered and moved the adoption of a resolution authorizing the appropriation of $100,000 for the East Side school building. As no one wished to speak on the resolution it went to vote immediately. The resolution was adopted by a yes and no vote.

Frank Greene offered a resolution authorizing the town school board to supervise the erection of the new building and it was adopted unanimously.

William J. Fitzgerald moved that the meeting go on record as favoring the construction of the new building by local men.

Chairman Pettis said that the motion could be voted but that it would have no binding effect as the meeting had already voted to leave the supervision of the construction of the building with the school committee. The motion was carried.

A resolution was then adopted authorizing the selectmen to borrow such sums and at such times as necessary to pay for the erection of the new $100,000 building voted for the East Side.

The meeting adjourned about 8.45 o'clock, standard time.

TO CARRY KLAN FIGHT TO FLOOR OF CONVENTION

New York, June 24.—Warning that the Ku Klux Klan fight will be taken to the floor of the democratic national convention unless the platform committee names it as such in the party platform it is drawn, was given to the committee early today by spokesmen for two states.

Representative Harry B. Hawes, of Missouri, and Julius Aitchele, of Colorado, declared this question could be settled in no other way. Both urged that the committee obviate the necessity for a long and tedious fight in the convention.

Scarcely had the speakers concluded before notice was given by the committeemen from Massachusetts, Ohio, Minnesota and Wisconsin that they would urge adoption of a plank naming the klan.

SHAPING UP FINALS IN WEST END CELEBRATION

The West End celebration general committee held a meeting Tuesday night to complete final arrangements for their Fourth of July celebration.

The parade committee, the first to report, stated that there were to be many floats and also that there were many entries for decorated cars. They added that there is a need for more horribles as this is to be the feature section of the parade. Accordingly the committee will appoint six more members to aid in securing more applicants.

Mr. Slosberg announced that all entries for the athletic events should be in very soon. There will be prizes for all of these events.

The program for the evening which had been unsettled was voted to be as follows:

Six o'clock, basket lunch followed by community singing and a band concert.

The people of the West Side hope that other people of the city will bring their basket lunches and join in this entertainment.

The grand stands will be the proper place to observe the fireworks and enjoy the evening's most delightful program, which will include a prominent speaker, who will talk on the significance of Fourth of July.

POLICE HAVE SUSPECT IN DIAMOND ROBBERY

Under suspicion of being the red-headed man who was one of the trio who engineered a diamond robbery of $9,000 worth of the precious stones at the Main street store of John and George H. Bliss Co., here on Nov. 24, 1920, Maurice Handelman, 29, of Worcester was brought here from Portland, Me., Tuesday afternoon by Officer Charles Smith who went after him Monday night.

Handelman has red hair and has been positively identified by Manager [illegible] and E. Wilson of the jewelry store as one of the [illegible] who were in the store on the day of the robbery. It was the red haired man who was supposed to have slipped down to the safe and extracted from it the wallet of unset diamonds, while his confederates engaged the manager in conversation about the purchase of other jewelry.

In the warrant drawn for Handelman's arrest, it is stated that 135 cut and polished diamonds of the value of $9,000 were stolen. Handelman, who has several aliases, including George R. Hommand and Robert R. Ricker, has done time in Providence and Pennsylvania and was identified by Mr. Wilson in Providence. He denies that he was in the Wilson diamond theft.

JOY RIDERS TOOK D. T. SHEA'S AUTOMOBILE

While D. T. Shea of the firm of Shea & Burke was attending the special town meeting Tuesday night some one drove off his seven passenger Hudson sedan, registration O-251, from the place where he had parked it in front of the Central Baptist church on Union square. It was found about 2 o'clock this (Wednesday) morning abandoned on West Main street near Pierson's barn.

When Mr. Shea discovered his loss after the meeting was over, he reported to the police and Capt. D. J. Twomey shortly received a report that the car had been seen on the way to Willimantic with two men and a woman in the front seat. The police patrol with Sergeant T. Murphy and officer P. Shahan was hustled off on the road to Willimantic and the police of that city drove down to meet the Norwich patrol but neither saw anything of the Shea car.

The car was undamaged when found.

Given Miscellaneous Shower.

A miscellaneous shower was given Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Adam Geigenmiller, Baltic, on Mrs. Maude Cox in honor of her coming marriage to Arnold Massey, both of Baltic. A mock wedding was the great event of the evening. There were about thirty guests present. Refreshments were served by Mrs. A Geigenmiller, Mrs. E. Robinson and Mrs. L. Firth. Guests were present from Baltic and New Bedford. Mrs. Cox received many beautiful gifts from her many friends. The arrangements were in charge of Mrs. A. Geigenmiller and Mrs. E. Robinson.

EAST ENDS TAKE UNDISPUTED LEAD IN TWILIGHT LEAGUE FROM HARDIGS

The baseball audience at the Duvall athletic field was treated to the best game of the Twilight league last evening, when the East Ends took the fast Hardig nine into camp by the score of 8 to 3. The two teams were tied for first place in the league previous to their contest, both having won two games. The victory places the East End team in an excellent position to come out at the top when the season finishes. Mills was the pitcher for the winners; although he was wobbly at times he pitched good ball and was aided by two fast double plays when the going was the roughest. Among the sensational features was a one-handed catch made by Felix, who did not know that the ball was in his glove until so informed. This catch made up for the rest of Felix's listless playing.

The Hardig nine started off with a vengeance, getting two tallies in the first frame. Fitzgerald singled, C. Heebner doubled, Fitzgerald scoring. F. Tombari singled and C. Heebner scored. Felix flied out to right field and ended the inning. Not to be outdone the East End team got four counters in their half of the same frame. B. Pedace singled, Belair doubled, Reilly singled and Pedace scored. J. Pedace singled as well as B. Pedace and Belair and Reilly scored. J. Pedace scored on Risley's single to center. Risley was thrown out at second on Bourne's easy roller. A fast double play was pulled off in the second when Rankin got on by virtue of an error, and went to second on Peterson's single. Fitzgerald grounded out to Reilly who threw to Hayworth, who in turn threw to Belair to get Rankin at the plate.

In the third, the East Side scored three times on two passes and four singles. Cries came from the bleachers to take Rankin out, but he weathered the storm and from then on pitched excellent ball. At this time a robed figure with a thin mask appeared upon the field, delaying the game. He walked slowly to the pitcher's box and handed Umpire Fuller a pasteboard roll tied up with ribbon. Immediately a huge crowd swept over the field thinking that perhaps the K. K. K. was again in action. Upon opening the roll, it appeared to be a challenge from the "Masked Marbles" for a game on Friday evening the 27th. It was addressed to the East End team so it was delivered to their manager and the game was continued.

Airtight ball was played the last four innings, each side tallying once. The Hardig team put up a great fight but was unable to solve Mills when it is meant runs. Reilly was big man with the stick getting three hits out of four times at bat. The score:

Echoes From the Grand Stand.

(By Matt.)

Charlie Risley played his first game at third for the East Ends and he did well and will be a fixture there hereafter.

Some classy ball player, Joe Belair.

He is easily the premier catcher of the league.

It was easily the best game so far in the league as both sides played ball all the time. The Hardigs are a fast bunch of young lads.

Felix DeBarros, the old Bon Ton star turned in the feature play of the game in the fifth inning, making a beautiful one-hand stop of "Razzo" Pedace's red hot liner.

Mills, as usual, retired the side on strikes in the last inning.

Rankin made several red hot stops in the box and Kamos at short also turned in some pretty stops.

Whacko Riley made four hits in four trips to the plate and covered first in a classy manner. "Some ball player, that baby."

The East Ends made a pretty double play in the second. "Whacko" Riley made a pretty stop, touched first and threw to Ellsworth on second, who threw to Belair, cutting off a run at the plate and completing a pretty double play.

FAVORITES WIN EASILY IN COLLEGE TENNIS PLAY

Philadelphia, June 24.—Most of the favorites won comparatively easy victories today in the third round of the national intercollegiate tennis tournament at the Merion Cricket club. At the completion of the round the east was represented by five men, the Pacific coast two and the University of Texas one. Of the eight survivors—A. W. Jones, Yale; W. W. Ingraham, Harvard; Fritz Mercur, Lehigh; F. P. Anderson and Jerry Lang, Columbia; L. N. White, Texas; Phil Bettens, California, and Wallace Scott were needed players.

The elimination of J. A. Wright, McGill University, Montreal and Irving Weinstein, captain of the University of California team featured today's play in the singles division. The Canadian Youth was defeated by Mercur 10, 8, 6-2. Weinstein succumbed to Anderson 6-2, 6-3. Lang put out Karl Pfaffman, of Harvard. In other third round matches Jones defeated E. W. Wilson, of Chicago; White beat F. P. Osgood, Dartmouth, and Ingraham defeated A. L. Hopkins, of Yale. All were straight set victories. Scott and Bettens won their third round matches yesterday.

Some hard battles were fought in the doubles championship, the first and second rounds of which were completed.

BROWNS DRAG TIGERS OUT OF FIRST BY TWO DEFEATS

St. Louis, June 24.—With George Sisler back on first base, the St. Louis Americans got the jump on the Detroit Tigers today, taking both games of the double header opening the series here today. The scores were 7-5, 5-1. The defeats dropped Cobb's men from first to third place in the American league.

Sisler took the field amid a great ovation from the fans. He was suspended Sunday with two other Brown players as the result of a brief argument with Umpire Holmes over balls and strikes decision, in which a pop bottle shower was directed at the umpire. Bill Jacobson, center fielder drove out his eighth and ninth home runs in the first game, getting four hits out of four times at bat.

Rigney hit a homer in the eighth in the first game. Scores:

GIANTS CONTINUE THEIR STREAK AGAINST DODGERS

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 24—The Giant winning streak collided today with that of Dazzy Vance, leading hurler of the major leagues, and McGraw's team won their tenth straight game, 6 to 3, and drove the Brooklyn speed king from the box. Osborne, who relieved him, checked the Giants. Bentley pitched steadily. The score:

How It's Done In the Majors

By Frank Frisch

Baseball Player Extraordinary

First half of first inning. One out. Runners on first and third. A dangerous left hand hitter is at the bat. The right field fence is short.

Would it be good baseball to walk this batter and take a chance on the next one, who is a right-hand hitter of hitting into a double play?

In a baseball park where a high fly is almost sure to carry over the right field fence, it is good baseball, in the early stages of the game, to pass the dangerous left-hand hitter, under the above conditions. Even if your plan fails, and the right-hand hitter is not put out, there is always a chance to overcome a lead made by your opponents so early in the game.

FIVE AMERICAN GOLFERS QUALIFY FOR THE BRITISH OPEN TOURNEY

Hoylake, England, June 24.—(By the A. P.)—Eighty-seven golfers have qualified for play in the British open championship, among them five of the eight Americans who crossed the ocean in quest of the title.

The Americans who succeeded in winning their way into the band of the elect are Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, MacDonald Smith, Jim Barnes and Gil Nicholls. One American crossed the sea but fell among the thorns, bunkers and high grass and lost an opportunity to compete for the honor was Al Espinosa, who played with a sprained ankle. Of the two others Arthur Clarkson was compelled to scratch because of ptomaine poisoning, and John Farrell was unable to start owing to an infected hand. Douglas Grant, who resides in England, with a score of 161 missed by three strokes the chance to continue play.

Most of the great names in British golf will be in the list of those battling this year for the championship—J. H. Taylor, George Duncan, Abe Mitchell, James Ray, Cyril Tolley, Roger Wethered, Alex Herd and Arthur Havers, the present champion. Among those of world-fame who failed was Harry Vardon, who had 159 strokes, one above the limit for the 36 holes.

Leading all the 270 odd amateurs and professionals who sought to qualify yesterday and today over the Hoylake and Formby courses was the British professional J. H. Taylor, who was winning golf trophies when the present champion, Havers, was but a babe. To his leading card of 70 yesterday over the Hoylake course, Taylor today added a 72 at Formby—an aggregate of 142 strokes. Close behind him was Havers with 146. All but few of the others who qualified had cards ranging between 150 and 158.

Those above the last figures will be merely spectators when the championship rounds begin Thursday morning over the famous links of the Royal Liverpool club.

To those in search of thrills—from the play of a man struggling with all his might to squeeze into the select circle of qualifiers after a distressful start, and succeeding in his aim—Hagen was this man. Beginning at Hoylake yesterday with an 83 it was necessary that today over the Formby course he must keep very close to even fours—not an easy task for any man, what with the tricky west winds multiplying the hazards of the course which are never easy even when calm prevails.

Hagen began only moderately well, and was three over fours at the fifth. Things really were looking black to Hagen's gallery, but they did not seem to ruffle the temperament of the former champion both of America and Great Britain. At the seventh—a five shot hole—Hagen began to burn up the course. He sank a fifty yard mashie here for an eagle three, and his card thenceforward contained only three and fours until he got a five at the eighteenth. This gave him a card of 73—just one stroke over the average of four per hole and made his aggregate for the 36 holes 156, which everyone realized would be good enough to qualify.

Sarazen had nothing to worry about when he began the second round today. He had made a 75 yesterday. Nor did Macdonald Smith, whose first day's score of 72 had put him among the leaders. Sarazen, playing consistently but only moderately well, got a 76 for an aggregate of 151.
